MAY VETO ALIEN ACT.

Johnson Feels the Wilson Spell.

President Wants Governor to Negative Measure Offensive to Orientals.

Japanese Protest Is Submitted in Its Final and Detailed Form.

Chinda Makes Clear that the Mikado Will Not Brook Any Discrimination.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As a result of a formal protest from Japan, President Wilson will make a direct appeal to Gov. Johnson of California to veto the Webb alien land bill recently enacted by the California Legislature.

This decision was reached today at a conference at the White House between the President and Mr. Bryan, Secretary of State. The President instructed Mr. Bryan to send a message to Gov. Johnson setting forth the grounds upon which the Japanese protest is based and asking that he veto the bill. The appeal to Gov. Johnson is expected to prove futile, as he takes the position that the people of his State demand the legislation and that it is within the power of the State government to enact the law. Positive information has been received here that Gov. Johnson will refuse to yield to the view of the President and the Secretary of State and will sign the measure before the 60-day period expires next week.

THE JAP PROTEST.

The Japanese protest has been submitted in final and detailed form. The Japanese government takes the position that the Webb bill is a violation of the rights guaranteed to the Japanese under the treaty of 1911 and

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] NEW RICHMOND (Wis.) May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As the fishing season has not officially opened and the hunting season has closed, resort hotel keepers here must use their wits to keep patrons from returning to their homes. A novel entertainment was put on at the half-mile race track when one hotel keeper matched a cow in a race against a pacing mare owned by a rival hotel man. The cow was led by a running horse and entered into the contest with such spirit that she won handily to the mortification of the owner of the pacer and the delight of a big crowd.

BERLIN, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] As a peacemaker Emperor William chose to celebrate the 25th anniversary of his accession to the throne and the feature of the opening of the festivities today was an exhibition of arts of peace at Moabit, attended by his Imperial Majesty and every member of the family now in the capital with the exception of Princess Victoria Louise.

The Kaiser was particularly gratified by a number of messages and addresses of congratulation and handsome gifts sent by Germans in America.

The Kaiser himself indicated the lines which he desired the celebration to take, which think a graceful compliment to President Wheeler of the California University, who nominated him for the Nobel peace prize.

Wilson and Bryan to Check the Huerta Move to Favor France.

President Will Insist the de Facto Government Protect Americans.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The United States is to make an emphatic reply to President Huerta of Mexico, who has refused to treat upon official matters with the American Ambassador.

The report of Mr. Wilson, the American representative in Mexico City, is to be considered by the President and his Cabinet. The Department of State is looking up precedents bearing on the situation.

This government will insist, as it always has insisted in similar cases, that while its representatives can have no diplomatic relations with the Huerta administration, implying recognition by the United States as the legitimate government of Mexico, they are entitled to deal with that administration as the responsible party in local possession to the extent of demanding the fullest protection for American life and property within the territory controlled by the Huertistas. This matter is of less concern to President Wilson and his advisers than the report made by "observer" that Huerta is negotiating a loan with French bankers, the conditions of which are that Frenchmen shall be placed in charge of the customhouses [illegible].

A high official suggested today that such action, if permitted, would recall the days of Maximilian in Mexico. While it is true that in the case of Venezuela ten years ago, the United States assented to a proposition to have Belgian officials in certain contingencies placed in charge of the customhouses at La Guayra and Puerto Cabello, the proximity of Mexico to this country, makes it inadvisable for French citizens to collect Mexican customs revenues.

So far as Huerta is concerned, he thinks he has a precedent for such a policy in the collection of the customs revenues of Santo Domingo by Americans.

IRRITATION.

The several incidents which have occurred recently in connection with the Mexican situation have tended to create considerable irritation in Washington. President Wilson and Secretary Bryan will avoid intervention if possible.

President Huerta undoubtedly is aware of the view of the administration in this respect. Therefore he feels he can go to almost any length without provoking military action by this government. But there is a question of personal responsibility which Huerta cannot afford to overlook. It is his authority which is in force in the Mexican capital and its vicinity. The United States is justified by international law in revoking that authority for the protection of its citizens and their interests.

If that authority should fail to provide the protection demanded the United States has the right to act as it may see fit, even to the extent of declaring that Huerta will be held personally responsible for any outrages perpetrated on Americans. This was done by the last administration in connection with the Nicaraguan situation.

WHERE WILSON STANDS.

The fact that Ambassador Wilson is friendly to the proposal to recognize the Huerta government has given rise to suspicion in some circles that he is responsible for the attitude adopted by the President in Mexico City. Mr. Wilson's friends here repudiate such a suggestion, claiming he is acting solely in the interests of his own country.

The matter of a successor to Mr. Wilson has been considered on several occasions by the President and Secretary Bryan, but it is understood a decision has been postponed for the present. The appointment of a new Ambassador would raise the question as to whom his letters of credence should be addressed.

As Mr. Wilson is merely to carry out instructions and to do all in his power to protect Americans and their interests, the administration does not feel that any damage is being done to its policies by his stay in Mexico City.

AMERICAN PROTESTS.

Protests against lack of protection to American property were made to Secretary Bryan today by Representative Hamilton of Michigan in behalf of large ranch interests. A protest by the ranch owners, dated May 6, said:

"We have been without protection the last two years; our men have been held for ransom; our horses have been stolen; our cattle stolen, and driven off in large numbers; there is no law and no respect for American life and property.

"The Potomas Land and Cattle Company, our neighbor to the north, paid $5000 to get its foreman released last fall, and had to pay a heavy ransom again last Saturday, May 3, to get its book-keeper released. If the United States government is not going to protect American citizens in

In fact, the possession of her picture will be the ambition of countless millions.

Why? Well, because Kenyon Cox has used Miss James as the model for the figure of head of "Plenty," the goddess appearing on one of the new bills which Uncle Sam will soon issue.

"I am so sorry people have found out I posed for the figures because all my friends will remind me of it to the end of my days, I suppose," said Miss James.

Illinois Official, Who Blames Low Wages for the Misconduct of Girls, Denies He Committed Any Wrong — Young Woman Who Was in His Party of Four Corroborates Him.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lieut.-Gov. O'Hara took the witness stand today before the Illinois Senate Committee appointed to investigate his personal conduct attacked in a woman's affidavit. He denied every allegation in the affidavit and statements made outside of it concerning his conduct.

Frank O'Hara, brother of the Lieutenant-Governor, Frank J. Jacobson, and Harry D. Gibbons corroborated Mr. O'Hara's recital of his movements on January 17, 18 and 19, when the affidavit said he had come to Chicago with two women and Thomas Vredenburg and had registered at the Hotel Sherman.

The Lieutenant-Governor stated that Mrs. O'Hara had been told of the attack about to be made on him and that she had urged him to fight his accusers without regard to any embarrassment it might cause her or of the outcome of the battle. Following was his testimony in substance.

That he did not know Vredenburg or Miss Robinson were on the train from Springfield to Chicago until he got aboard.

That Miss Robinson hailed Vredenburg as the two men were on their way through a coach to the diner.

That he left Vredenburg, the Robinson woman and a second woman named by Miss Robinson as Mabel Davidson Inbusch, daughter of former Gov. James O. Davidson of Wisconsin, at the Hotel La Salle.

That he met them later at the La Salle and had dinner with them at the urgent invitation of Vredenburg, from whom O'Hara rented his Springfield house.

That he never at any time stayed at the Hotel Sherman, that he did not register there or have any relations that were not proper with either of the women at any time or place.

THE THRONE OF ALBANIA OFFERED TO ROOSEVELT.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] The World today prints this under London date:

"The World is in a position to offer Theodore Roosevelt the throne of Albania. Negotiations have already been carried to the point that the colonel has only to signify his willingness to accept and the crown is his.

"If Roosevelt desires the kingship of Albania we will put him ahead of all others who have been named. I myself would certainly vote for him.

"Roosevelt is one of the most extraordinary men in the world today, being by nature on a higher plane than mere princes."

This was the emphatic statement made today by Ismail Kemal, provisional President of Albania and leader of the delegation of Albanian people authorized to find for them a ruler acceptable to the ambassadorial conference of the powers. Kemal accompanied his words with dramatic gestures as if placing Roosevelt firmly on the throne.

MAKING MISCHIEF.

Niagara of Bills at Sacramento.

Nearly Two Hundred Measures Rushed Through in Final Frenzy.

Four Big Administration Acts, However, Held Up by Rough Sledding.

Heney's Water Embargo Grab Dealt Stunning Blow by State Senate.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The real rush of the closing hours of the fortieth session of the Legislature started at 9 o'clock this morning. It wasn't exactly a "feast of reason" but it was a flood of legislation. The Legislature will practically finish its work by 12 o'clock tomorrow night, and at noon Monday, every detail of the session will have been cleaned up. Two hundred bills were passed in both houses today, including many a startling freak measure.

Dishonest and unscrupulous tricksters in the real estate business in California will be practically eliminated when the new State realty license law goes into effect, October 1, of this year. The bill, known on the files as Senate Bill No. 1289, has been passed by both houses of the Legislature by a big majority and was transmitted to the Governor, who will sign it the coming week. The bill was introduced in the Legislature under the auspices of the California State Realty Federation, a mutual association of real estate men embracing all parts of California.

The new law provides that any person who makes a business of buying, selling, or exchanging real estate as a broker, or agent, for a commission or compensation, must obtain a license and register with the Secretary of State and display a sign bearing the words, "registered real estate broker," at some specific business address. Registration and the first year's license fee is $10. The realty license must be renewed annually at $5 per year per person. The law does not license firms, or corporations.

Revocation of the license is provided for on proof of any dishonest dealing before a court of competent jurisdiction, and the person so deprived is prohibited from again engaging in the real estate business.

The license fees are to be turned into a special State advertising fund, to be expended under the direction of a State advertising commission of five members appointed by the Governor, who will serve without compensation and whose duty will be to supervise the expenditure of the fund in exploiting the manifold advantages of California throughout the United States. It is expected that systematic advertising, possibly through the creation and maintenance of such an advertising fund year after year, will be of untold value in diverting an increasing number of homeseekers and investors to California lands and investments. Thus while the legitimate real estate men of California wish to protect the incoming homeseeker through the control of legitimate operators through the license law and its provisions, their license fees are to be used to the general advantage of all of the people of California. Between $75,000 and $90,000 annually is expected to be available under the State realty license law from fees for this purpose. The Assembly amendment to the bill, exempting lawyers from its provisions, also carried.

REFUSE TO RECONSIDER.

Senator Juilliard's motion to reconsider the vote by which Assembly Bill No. 1198 was passed by the Senate last week, was denied by the upper house today by a vote of 23 to 6. The bill is intended to change the present method of taxing corporations.

The proposed reconsideration of the Senate bill, permitting grocers to sell certain staple drugs under a license of $2 a year was also denied.

GRAZING IN NATIONAL PARK.

Senator Larkins introduced a resolution in the upper house today urging California Representatives in Congress to use all reasonable efforts to procure permission to use national parks for pasturage of live stock suffering on account of the scarcity of the usual feed following a dry season. Copies of the resolution were ordered sent by the secretary to Washington.

ANTI-VICE LEGISLATION.

The Senate today concurred in the Assembly amendments to the Grant anti-vice bill, changing the minimum punishment for the crime from five years to three years, and including as an offender the proprietor of the house.

Mexico City Applauds His Stand for Recognition.

Ambassador Wilson Is Invited to Leave for Home.

Dictatorship and Renewal of Street Fight Feared.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] President Huerta today decided to force the issue with the United States, and declared that unless President Wilson recognized the present government of Mexico, that Mexico would have no further use for American ambassadors, and that Henry Lane Wilson, the American diplomatic representative here, might just as well go home.

This practical ultimatum to the government of the United States was promulgated by President Huerta in conversation with several members of his Cabinet today. Whether it was reduced to writing and dispatched to Washington could not be learned. However, news of Huerta's stand quickly spread and this evening the Mexican press, and people generally, echoed their approval.

AMBITIOUS TO BE DICTATOR.

That Huerta is in desperate straits was not denied today by those who were in a position to know the "inside" affairs of the government. The demand by Gen. Zapata for the surrender of Morelos, and the news that both Gen. Carranza's army and a body of Zapatistas are marching toward the city, has caused a sensation here. This evening, the newspapers hinted that Huerta's move would be his declaration of a dictatorship, and the overthrow of the Mexican Congress.

American Ranch Owners Declare There Is No Law in Mexico and Ask for Protection.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Protests against lack of protection to American property were made to Secretary Bryan today by Representative Hamilton of Michigan, in behalf of large ranch interests. A protest by the ranch owners, dated May 6, says:

"We have been without protection the last two years; our men have been held for ransom; our horses and cattle have been stolen and driven off in large numbers; there is no law and no respect for American life and property.

"We have been held up continuously by the Mexicans for every piece of work we have wanted to do on our ranches, and had to pay them thousands of dollars in gold to be allowed the privilege even of branding our cattle. Apparently this government absolutely has forsaken its citizens in Mexico. There is no law, no order in Mexico. We are not asking for intervention, but for protection."

HOLD JORDAN MADE A PROFIT.

Board of Control Declares He Bartered in Records.

Committee Charges Him With Misfeasance.

Secretary of State Protests He Has Done No Wrong.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, May 10.—The State Board of Control, which instituted an investigation into the affairs of Secretary of State Jordan's office before the legislative committee took up its work, submitted its report today to Gov. Johnson.

Substantially the findings of the Board of Control are similar to those of the legislative committee, except that the board openly charges Jordan with profiting directly through the sale of records by Mrs. Brewer. On this point the report says:

"The manner in which the profits of this bureau were distributed leaves no doubt of the purpose for which it was organized. The profits went into the hands of Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan under the guise of 'loans' from Mrs. Brewer, his clerk.

"Taking the testimony of Mr. Jordan, of Mrs. Brewer and of Robert V. Jordan, it is shown that in many instances the identical checks paid by insurance companies and other concerns were turned over to Frank C. Jordan and cashed by him. In many other instances Mrs. Brewer deposited the checks in her bank and immediately drew a personal check in favor of the Secretary of State for the amount received by her for the copies of the automobile registration records.

"Mr. Jordan testified that the 'loans' made to him by Mrs. Brewer amounted in many instances to $300 and $400 a month. He contended, however, that he had repaid all of these 'loans' with the exception of $325 which he still owes to this clerk.

"The fact that Mr. Jordan never repaid any of the so-called 'loans' is further demonstrated by an examination of Mrs. Brewer's bank account, which shows that her entire savings came from her salary of $1500 a year paid by the State.

"The opinion of the board, based on the evidence, is that every dollar of the profit secured from the traffic in public records found its way into the pocket of Mr. Jordan and was used by him for his personal benefit."

The report is signed by John Francis Neylan, chairman of the board, and by W. H. Humphrey and C. L. Seavey.

"I'VE DONE NO WRONG," JJORDAN PROTESTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, May 10.—After reading the report of the Legislative Committee, charging him with misfeasance, Secretary Jordan gave out the following statement this evening:

"My friends may rest assured that I will be ready to meet any legal steps that may be taken in this matter, and I do not fear the outcome. The testimony does not warrant the conclusions of the committee and statements made in the report are not warranted by the records.

"I know that I have done nothing wrong. I know that the State has not been deprived of a dollar to which it was entitled. What I have permitted was permitted by my predecessor for seven years and is permitted practically and rightfully in every public office in the State. The State, instead of losing a dollar through any act of mine, has through me benefited to the extent of at least $10,000 through work done by assistance I have secured for which the State paid not a cent."

CHARGED WITH MISFEASANCE.

Jordan is unanimously charged with misfeasance in office by the joint legislative committee which recently investigated the payment of fees into his department, and in its report to the Legislature this morning the committee recommended that the case be turned over to the Attorney-General.

The collection of money for copies of automobile registrations furnished to insurance companies and others during the time Jordan has been at the head of the department is the basis of the finding against him.

According to the report, the investigation brought out the fact that at least $7700 was collected in this manner during the first sixteen months of Jordan's incumbency, and that none of it was turned into the State treasury, where it should properly have gone.

The report was signed by Senators Leslie R. Hewitt, chairman; William Kehoe and Edwin E. Grant, and Assemblymen J. W. Gulberson, W. F. Chandler and H. A. Peairs, comprising the full membership of the special committee appointed nearly a month ago to undertake the inquiry.

Every detail of the business of supplying automobile registrations is set forth in the committee report, which declares that Mrs. Anita A. Brewer stenographer in Secretary Jordan's office, sold carbon copies of daily reports she made on behalf of the Secretary of State to the State Controller and that the practice was carried on "with the knowledge and consent of Frank C. Jordan, who in some instances solicited certain persons or corporations to purchase said reports."

The information furnished in this way, the report says, was valuable to those who were willing to pay for it, only when obtained on the day that the applications for motor licenses were filed and it is charged that the original records were taken by Mrs. Brewer into the probate office of Secretary Jordan on the day that they were filed in order that the public might not see them.

Continuing, the report says:

"The said practice of so keeping such applications away from the public caused all persons desiring such report to apply to Anita A. Brewer to furnish the same and as a result of the said practice of withholding said applications from the public a large business in that line was established and large sums collected for work so done. The said business was so conducted and the work performed under such circumstances that the funds obtained therefrom became the property of the State of California and should have been paid into the treasury of the State by the said Secretary of State, but that no part of said sum has been so paid into the said treasury.

"Your committee has been unable to ascertain the exact amount collected and unpaid into said treasury for the reason that according to the testimony all entries, records, books, papers and documents of every kind relating thereto were destroyed before your committee commenced its investigation and practically all attempts to elicit information from Anita A. Brewer relative to the same collected were met with the response 'I can't remember,' and from Frank C. Jordan that he did not know.

"Not knowing all the persons who paid such amounts, your committee was unable to get a complete account of the moneys so collected, but a sufficient number of persons were found who produced receipts for payments made to show that more than $5700 was so collected in less than 16 months, and said Anita Brewer testified that other parties besides those produced has paid various sums of money, the amount of which she could not give but would not say they would not aggregate $1000 in all."

After reciting that similar conditions were found to exist in the branch office of the registration bureau in Los Angeles, conducted by Jordan's son, Frank M. Jordan, where approximately $2100 was collected in a similar manner. The report continues:

"Your committee, therefore, feels justified in reporting that at least $7700 has been so collected in the office of the Secretary of State through his employees and agents and that the same has not been turned into the treasury of the State. We recommend that the Attorney-General be requested to take such steps as he deems proper for the collection of said sums of money or such portion as may be found to be due to the State of California.

"We further find that in failing to account for the aforesaid moneys and pay them into the State treasury, said Secretary has failed to perform obligations to the people of California and in permitting public records to be withheld from public inspection has been guilty of malfeasance in office.

"Your committee further recommends that the attention of the Attorney-General of California be called to the testimony given by Anita A. Brewer before the committee to the end that said Attorney-General may take such action with reference to said moneys as he may deem proper."

No action was taken on the report in either house. It was ordered printed in the journals of the Senate and Assembly and will be considered tomorrow.

Later the Board of Control will also made an investigation into the affairs of Secretary Jordan's office, will report its findings to the governor.

One Woman Killed and Three Men Wounded by Mexican Bullets Flying Across Border.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) May 11.—One Mexican woman was killed and three Mexican men were wounded at Hidalgo, on the American side of the Rio Grande. Missiles also struck the United States immigration station at Mission, but injured no one. Twenty-one Federals crossed the river, where they were taken into custody by Sergt. Burgess and four men of troop M, Fourth United States Cavalry. The remainder fled in the direction of Matomoras, fifty-two miles away.

When the constitutionalists began to advance upon Reynosa, the 2500 inhabitants of the place saw the Huerta troops were outnumbered and fled to the American side.

Matamoras, opposite Brownsville, also is fearing a rebel advance and hundreds left their homes tonight and came here. The Matamoras garrison numbers less than 300 men. Reports from Reynosa say an attack on Matamoras is contemplated not later than Monday.

It is reported the rebels also burned Rio Bravo, twelve miles east of Reynosa. Its 500 inhabitants sought safety on United States soil.

asks that the Federal government take proper steps to prevent the State of California from violating these rights. The Japanese Ambassador has made plain that his government regards the present question as one involving the national honor of the Japanese and he has also taken the position that his government will not permit any discrimination by the Federal government or any State government against the Japanese on account of their race.

The protest does not suggest an appeal to the Federal courts, this question being left to the determination of the State Department. The protest is a strong and firm presentation of the Japanese views, but is in no sense unfriendly or threatening.

The protest contains no demand for the right of naturalization of Japanese in this country. Although this question has been agitated recently by Japanese at home and in this country, the Japanese government has not yet made any move toward requesting the right of naturalization for its subjects in this country.

The attitude of the Japanese in the present controversy indicates that the question of naturalization may be brought up as soon as the present controversy has been settled.

NATURALIZATION.

Under the present laws Japanese are ineligible for citizenship in this country. If the Japanese government decides to demand the right of naturalization for its subjects here, the present administration would be placed in an exceedingly embarrassing position. It would either have to recognize the Japanese demand, which would bring on a serious diplomatic controversy with the Japanese, or President Wilson would have to recommend to Congress the revision of the present law so as to permit the naturalization of Japanese. This would raise a storm of disapproval from labor unions and organizations whose objects are to restrict oriental immigration.

JUDICIAL APPEAL.

Acting upon the belief that Gov. Johnson will sign the alien land law, President Wilson has already directed that preliminary inquiry be made for an appeal to the Federal courts to prevent the State of California from violating the treaty rights of the Japanese. Mr. John Bassett Moore, the counsellor of the State Department, and Mr. McReynolds, the Attorney-General, have begun a study of the proper mode of precedure.

As the Webb bill, if approved by the Governor, does not become operative for a period of ninety days, no legal action can be instituted before the end of that period. A test case may be brought in the United States court at San Francisco by a Japanese resident whose rights will be effected by the new law and the United States could intervene as a friend of the court or a Federal action may be instituted directly by the Department of Justice.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All the "original fifty-seven varieties" of co-ed choruses were seen in the "Mischief Makers," the 1913 senior extravaganza last night in the Greek Theater. Clock choruses, Chinese choruses, Egyptian choruses, just plain choruses and different choruses, dressed in fantastic costumes and dancing real raggy steps gave the "Mischief Makers" the banner when it comes to hilarious college productions.

Roy Silent of Los Angeles and Victor Collins of South Pasadena were head mirth producers of the piece and they figured (entirely surrounded by co-eds) in numerous gloom-lifting stunts. As Julian Romeosky, Silent was not only mistaken for a freshman and thoroughly hazed, but he fell heir to the Egyptian chorus and invents the "mummy rag"—a rag that drives the grizzly and Texas to suicide. Victor Collins, portraying Diogenes in his everlasting search for the honest man, cut capers that entitle him to a pension from the honest old Greek.

A pretty miss from Los Angeles led the Chinese chorus. Miss Florence Eyle, whose clever steps won her the position, dance at the head of five bloused and pantaloned maidens of the Flowery Kingdom. Ethel Caroll of Gardena made her debut as the premiere danseuse of the Egyptian dancing girls in the third act. She is a trained dancer and has been doing fancy steps for several years. All the participants in this group have had previous experience in stage dancing, and many difficult steps were introduced. They are in many cases historical, being copied after the dances of the Pharoahs.

The "Mischief Makers" is the work of V. C. Gaines of Fresno. The extravaganza is entirely a production of the senior class and mark the opening of the annual senior week. The music for the dances and songs was composed by S. F. Bryan, a student from Berkeley. W. W. Beatty of San Francisco, as chairman of the Extravaganza Committee, directed the progress of the play.

PORTERHOUSE FOR DIME; THE MEAT WAR IS ON.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There are rumors in London of an impending meat war between America and Australia arising out of the American meat trust's invasion of North Australia by the settlement of hundreds of Texas cattle breeders, for whom a million square miles of territory has been acquired.

A huge slaughter-house and freezing-plant is being erected at Brisbane by the Americans.

The Australians propose to retaliate by extending their operations to the Pacific Coast. Refrigerators will be built at San Francisco and the Australians have ordered four cold storage steamers to be built on the Tyne.

BRYAN TELLS CHINDA VIEWS OF WILSON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Secretary Bryan formulated tonight a message to Gov. Johnson of California setting forth the representations of the Japanese government and the views of the administration here as to what was considered discriminatory in the Webb anti-alien bill, passed by the California Legislature and now awaiting action by the Governor.

Mr. Bryan conferred with President Wilson for an hour discussing details of the formal protest filed by Ambassador Chinda. It was decided the Secretary should frame a communication to Gov. Johnson, but the nature of it was not disclosed. Mr. Bryan said the message would not be sent tonight. He probably will confer with the President tomorrow before dispatching it.

Secretary Bryan conferred with the Japanese Ambassador immediately after the conference with the President but it is believd he merely advised him of the intended course of action. Formal reply to the Japanese protest probably will not be made by the State Department until some answer is received from Gov. Johnson as to his action on the bill.

The report that spread in official circles tonight was that Secretary Bryan would urge the California Governor to refer the bill back to the Legislature for modifications that would meet the Japanese objections. There is a well-founded belief that if Gov. Johnson rfused either to veto the bill or recommend modifications, California friends of the Federal administration would attempt to invoke the referendum, with the idea of nullifying the law until an election could be held, the interval being used to reach an understanding diplomatically with Japan, or perhaps to frame a new treaty covering disputed points.

TOKIO POLITICIANS VENT THEIR WRATH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Baron Juichi Soyedam, delegated by the Japanese-American Association of Japan to come to the United States to investigate conditions which have resulted in the passage of an anti-alien land bill in California, sailed today for San Francisco, according to a Tokio cablegram to the Japanese-American of this city. A great crowd assembled at the railroad station to bid him farewell. It included several Cabinet members and the Mayor of Tokio.

The Liberal party has issued a long statement denouncing the California land law and bitterly attacking the officials of the Japanese foreign office because of their alleged inability to meet the California situation. The pronunciamento asserts that the time has arrived when the masses of the people must take charge of the direction of the empire's foreign policy.

PRESS CONDEMNS CALIFORNIA.

Japanese Society Finds Only One in Every Sixteen Newspapers Defends Anti-Alien Land Act.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] The Japanese Society has made a four-day test of the sentiment of the country on the alien land act by carefully studying about 1900 editorials in 800 papers in this country, with the following results:

Editorials in about 100 papers were of little interest in point of direct comment.

Editorials in 120 papers discuss the situation seriously, but so judicially that the papers cannot be classified.

Two hundred and seven newspapers condemn California, commend the President's course and declare that the nation cannot allow discrimination against the Japanese.

Twenty-five newspapers support California.

New Jap Consul Arrives.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] Sabure Kurusu, newly-appointed Japanese Consul at New York, has arrived here from Honolulu on his way East. He was unwilling to give any view upon the question of anti-alien legislation. "My transfer from Honolulu has nothing to do with the topic," he stated.

Pretty Oakland Society Hiker Breaks Seventy-mile Walking Record by Over Two Hours.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Celia Marguerite Zwillinger, the pretty Oakland society maid who yesterday clipped two hours and fifteen minutes off the record made by Eleanora Sears, for a walk from Burlingame to Gilroy, wants to walk in competition with Miss Sears for the championship. She made this statement early today at Gilroy, where she finished her seventy-mile hike in good condition and in the light of electric lamps carried on the automobile in which her family followed the course.

Miss Zwillinger's actual walking time for the distance was 17 hours and 25 minutes, against 19 hours and 40 minutes it took Miss Sears to go the distance.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Representative H. Olin Young, Republican, of Ishpeming, Mich., announced to the House today his intention of resigning his seat. Veteran Railway Men Enjoy Anniversary Banquet.

Pensioners of the Espee Talk Over Old Times.

Wives and Daughters Also at the Festal Board.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two hundred gray-haired veterans of the Southern Pacific Railroad, whose years of service entitled them to retirement and a pension, gathered in the Palace Hotel today for the fourth annual reunion and luncheon of the pensioners. The wives and daughters of many of the old railroad men graced the occasion, which was further distinguished by the presence of William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific company and J. C. Stubbs, formerly director of traffic of the Harriman lines and now retired on the largest pension ever paid to a railroad man. The luncheon was served in the ballroom of the Palace and was followed by an elaborate programme. This included addresses of welcome and congratulations by President Sproule and J. C. Stubbs, both of whom expressed keen pleasure at being able to greet the veterans, who have distinguished themselves by long years of service with the company. Vice-President E. O. McCormick also was scheduled to speak, but unexpected business necessitated his return to Portland.

AN ANNIVERSARY.

Following the custom adopted four years ago, the luncheon was served on the anniversary of the driving of the last spike connecting the Union Pacific and Central Pacific roads. Several persons who participated in that memorable incident were present, including E. Black Ryan and Patrick Ryan, both of whom stood beside Senator Leland Stanford when the golden spike was driven forty-one years ago.

The aged veterans present were Alfred Brown, who was superintendent of construction of buildings and bridges of the Central Pacific and Southern Pacific during the first thirty-five years of the roads' existence, and John Higgins, one of the men who personally laid the last mile of track on the Union Pacific.

A. B. McDonald, formerly of the engineer's department of the company and now chairman of the Pension Relief Committee, presided at the luncheon, and was assisted by A. F. Lyon, secretary of the board of pensions. A feature of the luncheon was the singing by a quartette composed entirely of pensioners, all of whom had passed the three-score-and-ten mark. These are L. A. Cavalier, C. Anderson, F. W. Crossett and W. Campbell. Campbell, who still possesses a splendid voice, also rendered a solo.

A piano solo by Mrs. Lillian W. Atwood and a vocal solo by Mrs. Grace Hunt, completed the musical end of the programme, while Miss Helen Gilmer gave a reading of Bret Harte's "What the Engines Said."

ILLUSTRATED LECTURES.

The illustrated lectures by C. B. Hall formed an interesting feature of the gathering. These were on "The Greatest Achievement," and "Other Notable Achievements." The former commented the building of the Central Pacific Railroad and the latter on the connections of the lines between New Orleans, San Francisco and Portland. The talks were illustrated with pictures taken at the driving of the Central Pacific between 1863 and 1869. Turrill also showed several views of the Panama Exposition.

PENSIONS PAID.

Secretary Haas announced that the pension roll of the Southern Pacific system had been paid and that more than $30,000 has been paid out in pensions since May, 1912.

RED BANK (N. J.) May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] The funeral of Mrs. Alsie Reasoner Ralph, wife of the artist, Lester Ralph, and daughter-in-law of the late Julian Ralph, took place today from the residence of Mr. Ralph's sister.

Mrs. Ralph, who arrived from Europe last winter in ill health, died in Florida April 29.

Although only 36, Mrs. Ralph had a notable career as a journalist and as a more notable career as a correspondent. She was a correspondent during the Cuban revolution and during the Spanish-American War. Later she went to Europe and reported the coronation of Queen Wilhelmina at the Hague. REORGANIZERS MEET IN CHICAGO

Will Pave the Way for Republican Success.

National Convention in the Autumn Suggested.

Wisconsin Counts La Follette as a "Sympathizer."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reorganization of the Republican party at a national convention, to be held next fall, probably in Chicago, will be demanded by Progressive Republican leaders who assembled in the city today. They are here to formulate a demand for the calling of the convention to submit to the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee when it meets in Washington May 24, and to determine what the convention shall do when it gathers.

Senators Cummins and Kenyon of Iowa, Borah of Idaho, Grunau of South Dakota, Norris of Nebraska, Hiram Johnson of California, former Gov. Folk of Missouri, and a score of other Senators and leaders of minor factions are expected tomorrow. Senator Cummins of Iowa is the leader of the movement, which received the holding of the conference. It is participated in largely by men who supported Roosevelt, Senator Cummins in the Republican National Convention of last year and who stood with Taft against Roosevelt and Wilson. While they are the only ones attending the conference it is understood that other Progressive Senators, generally considered as "stand patters," are looking upon the movement with favor and will back the demand for the calling of a national convention.

BASIS OF ACTION.

"In order to agree upon a basis of action," declared Senator Cummins, "the Executive Committee of the National Republican Committee will meet in Washington May 24. We will present a request to that committee that it call a national convention of the Republicans of the nation the way for Republican victory in 1916.

"The time and place for the holding of the convention has not been decided yet. I believe the general sentiment favors holding the convention at some time this year, preferably in the fall, and Chicago will probably be a favorite as the convention city."

How will the delegates to the convention be elected?" was asked.

"In the usual way," was the reply. "In States where the primary follows the holding of a primary election delegates to a national convention we will endeavor to have delegates called. In other States where there are no primary laws they will be selected as they have been in the past. The calling of the convention by the National Committee will give it official sanction.

"What do you expect to accomplish by the convention."

"We expect to correct the abuses complained of the party which was the defeat of last year and generally responsible for the split which caused that defeat. Among other things we want to change the basis of representation in the conventions. We want delegates from States in which there are no Republican voters the influence which they exert in a Republican national convention and place the power in the hands of men to whom it belongs—those who vote the Republican ticket.

"We want to knock out the Republican National Committee which caused trouble last June—which forced the party to violate primary laws. There are other things which we desire which will be discussed at the conference."

RESOLUTION TO DESERTERS.

Cummins said that no invitation had been extended to Progressives who deserted the party in 1912, but that to make it plain that no such invitation plans were being made those who had never left the party would be invited to participate in the national convention.

"I suppose that will be as it was at the Lord's Supper," he said. "Only those who hold the faith are going to be on board."

Asked if the Senators who are not members of the conference look upon Roosevelt as the man to speak for them, but I do not speak for them; in fact, most of the Senators in Washington recently have taken this conference. I am not able to say that many of them will be present for holding the conference.

Senator La Follette supporting Roosevelt? I am not able to speak for him, but I do not think so."

LA FOLLETTE'S ABSENCE.

When Cummins was asked if La Follette's absence in the fact that Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin had declined him to Chicago to take part in the conference, Lenroot is a Republican leaders in Wisconsin from the conference. Lenroot had made plans for attendance, the supposition that the conference might not be endangered in its purposes.

"Not at all," was the reply. "He was taken ill suddenly and had to go to her."

NOT COMING.

Cummins announced that the Senators are held a public meeting be made setting forth the purposes of the conference and what is to be accomplish. The conference will be over by Monday noon, Cummins has to speak Monday.

"The conference will not be disturbed by any of the conference."

KILLED WHALES IN SCHOOLS.

Alaskans Say Slaughter Is Such That It May Ruin Salmon Industry.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] TACOMA, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thirty-five sperm whales valued at $14,000 each, with total value of $490,000, were killed in one day recently off the west coast of Prince of Wales Island, by three steamers of the United States Whaling Company, according to Oscar Tisch, who returned today. Forty-five whales valued at $630,000 were killed the first five weeks of the whaling season.

Alaskans say indiscriminate slaughter of whales will run the mammal out of the North Pacific and that as a result the salmon industry will be destroyed. Herring now driven in countless millions close to shore by whales, will stay out in deep water and salmon, which live on herring, will stay out in deep water with them except in certain places where they come to spawn.

Whales are getting scarcer and herring schools stay farther out as a result. Sperm whales in such numbers are usually found only in the Arctic Ocean.

RAPS LORIMER AND DUKET CURE.

MEDICAL JOURNAD SAYS PUBLIC SHOULD BEWARE.

Declares It Is Only Another Instance of a Remedy Being Foisted on the People by a Man of No Scientific Standing and Advises Everyone to Go Slow.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. Peter B. Duket, whose "cure" for tuberculosis has been widely advertised by his backers, is the subject of a review in the current number of the journal of the American Medical Association, published in Chicago. The article is not flattering. The journal rebukes the newspapers which spread news of the "discovery" before its merits had been investigated in any way. The article contains the following:

"About the time Friedmann's press agents were getting in their finest work and when any news item—no matter how bizarre—regarding a consumption cure made good newspaper "copy," the Chicago newspapers came out with sensational articles regarding a locally-exploited "cure" for the white plague.

FINANCED BY LORIMER.

"Dr. Peter B. Duket of Chicago, had produced, we were told, a 'serum' that would cure tuberculosis. It is probable the Chicago newspapers would not have 'fallen for' this canard if it had not been given an artificial news value by the fact that the 'cure' was financed by William Lorimer, who for a time occupied a seat in the United States Senate.

"Here is another alleged cure for tuberculosis being foisted on the public by a man who has no scientific standing and who has little or no scientific training. Nor is this all. Duket has succeeded in enlisting the help of men whose motives we need not question and whose influence is immeasurably greater than his own.

"Thus the potentialities for harm are enormously increased. At some early date we hope to be able to give our readers further details regarding the results of the 'cure' itself. In the meantime every physician, in the interest of his tuberculosis patients, would do well to give them such facts as we have presented regarding this latest cure.

Negro Bank Messenger Taken from Los Angeles to New York Writes Verse but Judge Is Adamant.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.] NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] When Robert J. Lawrence, a negro bank messenger indicted for the theft of $1400 from the General Chemical Company was arraigned in Judge Swan's part of General Sessions yesterday by Edmund Leigh, one of Dist.-Atty. Whitman's detectives, Judge Swan read a poem of the prisoner's. The verse was written by Lawrence while on his way from Los Angeles, Cal., where Leigh found him. His poetic appeal follows:

If you want a red nose and dim, bleary eyes,
If you wish to be one whom all men despise,
If you wish to be ragged and weary and sad,
If you wish in a word, to go to the bad.
Go wrong.

If you wish that your life a failure may be,
If you wish to be penniless, out at the knee,
If you wish to be homeless, broken, forlorn,
If you wish to see pointed the finger of scorn,
Go wrong.

If you wish that your manhood be shorn of its strength,
That your days may be shortened to one-half their length,
If you like the gay music of curse or of wail,
If you long for the shelter of poor-house or jail,
Go wrong.

If your tastes don't agree with the "ifs" as above,
If you'd rather have life full of brightness and love,
If you care not to venture where misery looms,
Or learn that the gateway to hell is the Tombs,
Go straight.

"It is too bad," said Judge Swan, "but you should have thought of this earlier."

Lawrence was remanded until Monday.

Californian's Pathetic Plea to Find Law Graduate, Who Disappeared from Woodmere a Few Weeks Ago.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James R. Williams, No. 908 Twenty-first street, Sacramento, Cal., writes that his son, Leonard L. Williams, a graduate of the law department of the University of Indiana, disappeared from Woodmere a few weeks ago and no trace could be found. He is described as 28 years old, quiet, five feet eight inches tall, weighing about 150; dark hair and eyes. He is a master mason by trade. The letter concludes:

"If living, care for him until I come. If dead, tell me where he is buried."

Killing Goose That Lays Golden Eggs, He Says.

Railroad President Warns Against Modern Trend.

Sees Danger in Prevailing Anti-Corporation Drift.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] URBANA (Ill.) May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Too much radical legislation from the railroad managers' standpoint and a gradual drifting of the nation into a revolutionary state of affairs because of anti-corporation sentiment were emphasized yesterday by B. A. Worthington, president of the Chicago and Alton Railroad Company, as being undesirable features of present popular trend. He fears that our people are killing the goose that laid the golden egg and asserted that they themselves do not appreciate the extreme gravity of the situation.

Mr. Worthington, among many others, talked at the dedicatory exercises incident to the opening of the three new engineering buildings, and his is not the only voice raised in protest.

William B. McKinley, president of the Illinois traction system, referred to "unfair legislation," brought about by "destructive criticism," maintaining that such legislation means inadequate operation of railways and a resulting loss to investors. President Worthington's speech, however, was of a more sensational turn, as he did not mince words when he virtually laid the blame of fast-declining securities to rabid talk and radical lawmaking.

President Worthington's address was delivered at the railway conference this morning and caused considerable comment.

"The truth of the matter is," he said, "the public has not yet been brought face to face with the really serious condition of affairs that actually exists, nor to a realization of the dominant fact that the public, regardless of the actual investment of not a single dollar in American railroad properties, collectively holds the controlling interest in these railroads and accordingly enjoys the greatest dividend returns."

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

Mr. Worthington said there is no objection to government control of the railroads provided the control is properly exercised. He also declared that when railroad lines were constructed the builders placed absolute confidence in the fairness of the functions.

American people and he feared this confidence was misplaced.

"When we stop to consider the precarious situation of the railroads, the very values which underlie our government bonds themselves, the endowment values upon which have been constructed public institutions without number, the foundation and the buttress of our national strength and our national greatness, serious doubt arises," he said. "But the question is how much more radical legislation will be required to convince the people that the situation is fast becoming insufferable? In plain words, how much longer are the people going to stand for this revolutionary state of affairs? Are they so blinded by prejudice that they cannot or rather will not see the error of their way until it will be too late? Passing years will prove convincingly whether prudence indeed has been consulted in our present legislative is a disease the thought of which holds terrors for most people, yet all cases are not necessarily fatal. Bright's disease follows neglect of the early stages of kidney disease and failure to take a good efficient remedy and correct kidney trouble in its incipiency.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy

has proved most effective in the condition which makes possible the insidious advances of disease of the kidneys when taken in time. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy has brought welcome relief and a return of health to sufferers for over 36 years, as thousands testify. Many would not risk experiment with any other remedy; they know Warner's to be the best obtainable. It is pleasant to take. 50c and $1.00 sizes sold everywhere by druggists. "I was taken with Bright's disease of the kidneys. I went to a doctor. He analyzed my urine and said I could not live. I began taking Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy and Warner's Safe Nervine. In four months I was cured."—H. B. Sparks, Hydesville, Cal.

Have You As Many Teeth As You Need? Answer Me Personally

You said: If I could get these unsightly vacancies in my jaw filled with teeth that would feel and look like my own once did, O how I would enjoy chewing a good, thick steak instead of compelling my stomach to do the work intended for teeth. And you said (as you looked into your mirror:) I want teeth that will return my mouth to its once youthful appearance. I don't want my mouth to be older than the balance of my face. I want a pleasing, attractive expression about my mouth, so my friends will think me good to look at. Furthermore, I want them comfortable and durable, and the work must be done gently and without pain.

All right, listen to what I say: "I'll agree to every one of your demands and replace either one or twenty-eight (a full set) teeth equal in every respect to nature's best. And now to price—can't you afford to take the time to come and get my estimate, together with expert advice, free, as to the best method of putting your teeth in first-class condition? Get busy.

"I am 72 and have used Duffy's 23 years. When I first took it my doctor said I would die from consumption but advised lots of eggs and milk, with a half wineglass of Duffy's in each glass and to eat as much as possible. In ten months my cold disappeared and I gained steadily, and today I weigh 125. My memory is so good I can remember the battle between the Monitor and Merrimac, in 1862. NIGHTINGALE GETS EAGLE.

It Takes Taxpayer Two Years to Recover Unjust Fee.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, May 10.—After a year's effort and much legislative procedure, one Thomas Nightingale is about to receive $10 which he unwisely paid into the State treasury two years ago. After the passage of the water law in 1911, Nightingale sent in an application for water, accompanied by the prescribed fee of $10, but found after some months that the fee was not necessary. Half the officials in the capitol went to his aid when he attempted to get his "eagle" back, but found the treasury doors firmly barred and no means specified in the statute books for its return. A bill by Senator Birdsall, appropriating the ten, was passed by the Assembly and sent to the Governor today.

FROST IN MICHIGAN.

But the Greater Part of the Prospective Fruit Crop Seems to Have Escaped It.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. JOSEPH (Mich.) May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The great bulk of the prospective fruit crop of this section of Michigan has passed unscathed through the siege of extremely low temperatures which prevailed for forty-eight hours. Reports tonight from the fruit belt indicate that while some growers suffered losses Friday night the majority are confident that the damage is not great. Growers on the edge of the lake say their orchards escaped the frosts, but back from the shore in a strip including Bainbridge, Pipestone and Somus townships, heavier damage was reported. North and south of here the yield of fruit will not be hurt.

Farmers tonight are guarding their orchards with smudge pots, frost being predicted. Warmer weather for Sunday, however, will relieve the situation greatly. It is generally conceded that last night's freeze destroyed a large percentage of early strawberries. This fruit was just in blossom and entirely exposed to cold.

DESERTED ON WEDDING DAY.

Heiress Gets Divorce by Default from Army Officer Who Left Her Three Hours After Marriage.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW LORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] Three hours after Lieut. Harry N. Cahoon, U.S.A., a young Texan, was wed to Miss Muriel Bellamore in a Fifth-avenue church, October 16, 1911, the army man and a Mrs. Beatrice McGregor, a newly-made grass widow, were cutting up high jinks in the Hotel Victoria. So oblivious was Cahoon to his freshly-sworn vows under the fascinating spell of the Widow McGregor that he forgot to spend his wedding night at home, according to a decree making Mrs. Cahoon free, filed in the Supreme Court today.

Miss Bellamore had left Twickenham, an English school, and was in New York only a few months when she met the dashing Cahoon, then attached to the Thirteenth United States Infantry, stationed at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex. She is a daughter of the millionaire head of the Bellamore Armoured Car and Equipment Company.

After Cahoon managed to get to his bride's home next morning, where the explanation that "The army fellows—you know what devils they are," had kidnaped him and kept him from his bride was accepted. That noon Cahoon departed for Havana, Cuba, to inspect a business proposition.

A month later she sailed to join him. Hardly had she set foot on Cuban soil than she learned Cahoon and an American girl had occupied a villa outside the city and were known as husband and wife, and his bride hastened home. Cahoon did not defend his wife's suit and she obtained her decree by default.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With hundreds of men and women clamoring for vegetables, eggs, poultry and other products they were unable to get in sufficient quantities, the first free market opened this morning on the Plaza.

Hundreds of housewives were disappointed in not being able to purchase products of the farm, as there were few wagons on the ground. Only one of the farmers who signed the agreement to bring their produce to the free market was at hand and the demand was far in excess of the supply. Eggs were in particular demand and all the vegetables offered were readily sold.

Artichokes sold for 5 cents a dozen, celery for 7 1-2 cents a bunch, oranges 30 cents per dozen and rhubarb, new potatoes and various other things sold for prices below the retail market prices. The first day of the free market was an unqualified success, but Commissioner Filcher, the father of the scheme, declared that he was pleased and felt sure that the market would grow.

It is estimated that more than 500 people visited the market with the purpose of buying, and there were only nine wagons with produce for sale during the entire day and not more than five wagons at one time.

STOCKTON, May 10. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] With the steam plant of the Oro Electric Corporation in operation, power is being supplied today to several hundred farms in San Joaquin county, located in districts where the company has been authorized to operate by the order of the State Railroad Commission.

The current is supplied over 300 miles of distributing system, built within the past few weeks, and the steam plant will supplement the service until the Oro's plant at Belden, on the Feather River, is completed.

The electrical current furnished over the Oro lines is used principally for the operation of pumping plants. The light precipitation of last winter made artificial irrigation necessary on many small farms in the county.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KLAMATH FALLS (Or.) May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A recall petition has been filed against County Judge W. S. Worden, carrying over 600 signatures of voters. Frank Ira White is named by the petition filed to run against Worden. The latter was asked to resign within five days, but refused.

The petition charges Judge Worden has been inefficient, has accepted employment from large corporations, is plunging the county needlessly into debt by his road-building policy, and was extravagant in building the new Courthouse.

Judge Worden states that he is ready to have the people pass on the recall petition, and will abide by the verdict. He says he feels he has kept his promises and served the county well.

"I shall fight the recall to the last ditch, and will make an honorable campaign," he concluded.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

In no business undertaking is care and discerning judgment more necessary than in the selection of an advertising medium.

Ineffective advertising not only involves an utter waste of money, but the time lost in waiting for results that do not materialize is often fatal to the success of business ventures.

Men and women who fill their wants and exploit their business through the classified columns of newspapers, soon learn by experience to concentrate their advertising in the medium that brings them the quickest and most satisfactory results.

This reason—the profitableness of its "Liner" advertisements to its patrons—is alone responsible for The Times regularly printing more than twice as many separate "Want Ads," as its nearest local newspaper competitor.

No matter what your want may be, it can be economically and speedily filled by reading and using Times "Liners."

The following tabulation shows the total number of separate classified or "Liner" advertisements printed in April in each of the six Los Angeles newspapers:

First—THE TIMES	[illegible]
Second, Newspaper	[illegible]
Third, Newspaper	[illegible]
Fourth, Newspaper	[illegible]
Fifth, Newspaper	[illegible]
Sixth, Newspaper	[illegible]

The Times' gain in April, 1913, of 2424 separate "Want Ads" over the same month of last year is truly remarkable when considered in connection with the fact that for more than eight years The Times has regularly printed more "Liner" advertisements than any other newspaper in the world.

Do not let sophistry or false reasoning, brag or bluster induce you to patronize unproductive mediums. Follow the crowd and read and use Times "Liners."

The Times' daily average circulation for the first three months of 1913 was 67,845 copies, and its Sunday only average circulation for the same period was 94,184 copies. The purchasing power of the people in Los Angeles and the Pacific Southwest is represented in these figures.

AFTER SPOOKS "HIGHER UP."

Clairvoyant Trust Paid Tribute, It Is Charged.

Politicians and Policemen Are Under Suspicion.

Safe-Blowers' Trust Driven Out of Windy City.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Maclay Hoyne, State Attorney, tonight made a second move against the "spook trust" of clairvoyants, which he says has been swindling women out of an estimated $10,000 a year in Chicago.

Twenty or more warrants were issued at the instigation of Hoyne by a judge of the Municipal Court, and an extra force of detectives was detailed to aid in the arrest of the accused men.

These are said to include several of the "men higher up," who are thought to have been receiving a portion of the gains of the clairvoyants as "protection" money. Several clairvoyants accused in new warrants are also named in the twelve cases are also named in the new warrants.

In the last effort to stay out of the county Jail Frank Ryan, alias, "Prof. Ryan," is said to have given Hoyne the information upon which his latest move was based.

Ryan was closeted with Hoyne until late in the afternoon in the State's attorney office. Then Hoyne sent a hurry call to Chief McWeeney, asking that additional men be sent to his office. All the available men in the office already had been sent from the criminal court building to serve the warrants.

The greatest secrecy was thrown about the move. Hoyne refused to tell the number of warrants issued or even to say what judge was issuing them. He intimated, however, that some judge was being held in reserve to issue additional warrants during the evening.

"I can't say how many arrests will be made," said Hoyne. "It all depends upon what I get from the first men arrested. I think that I have the evidence to get some of the 'men higher up' in this clairvoyant trust, and I am going after them.

"I have not enough detectives on my force to serve the papers already prepared, therefore, I have had to ask additional men. There may be more warrants issued before morning."

Hoyne indicated that the story told by Ryan involves a large number of men, but that, as State's Attorney, he wishes additional evidence before arresting certain suspected policemen and politicians.

"If we get this information," said Hoyne, "the jail will have a few extra visitors before morning."

Charges that safe blowers and other criminals have operated extensively in Chicago under police protection were made yesterday by Hoyne. He even went so far as to name a Chicago saloon-keeper and politician as the head of the 'safe blowers' trust."

The safe blowers, the prosecutor charged, were imported from New York City under similar circumstances as the clairvoyants and wire tappers were induced to center their operations here under promise of ample police protection.

Hoyne pointed out the large average of safe blowings which occurred under former administrations as numbering six and seven a night and compared the figures with the past six weeks. During the latter period Hoyne said all the safe blowers have been driven out of Chicago and a similar fate awaits the pickpockets.

"In regard to the safe blowers, I defy anybody to find in any part of the city a safe blowing within the last six weeks. The police records are open for public inspection and anyone who desires may examine them. The truth is the safe blowers learned that they could not have any further protection and they have left Chicago for other parts.

"I know the man who protected them. I have his name and know all his connections. It was through him and his associates that the safe blowers were brought to Chicago. During their long stay here they operated under protection."

Hoyne declined to discuss the reason for the elimination in safe blowings in Chicago but intimated that attempts on the part of a certain person to obtain from himself protection for this class of criminals had been refused.

"I will drive the pickpockets out of Chicago in three days," Prosecutor Hoyne said. "I also intend to find out why these games have been permitted to operate unmolested and why the police insist on booking them on charges of picking pockets when they know very well that the charge should be vagrancy.

"The police have been instructed on this point time and again, but they still persist in making the charge that of picking pockets, when they did not see the crime committed.

"The charge should be vagrancy. The police know very well why this is done, and they will have to explain to Mayor Harrison and myself."

EMPEROR GIVES CONSENT TO ROYAL LOVE MATCH.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 10. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] Notwithstanding the match is not favored by Emperor William, society in the German capital is preparing for the marriage in September of former King Manuel of Portugal and Princess Augusta Victoria, eldest daughter of Prince William of Hohenzollern.

The wedding was set today for September, but the day was not announced. The ceremony will be observed in the ancient castle at Sigmaringen.

Dom Manuel and the Princess are second cousins, being related through the Princess' grandmother, who is a Portuguese. The Princess in part traces her ancestry to Stephanie Beauharnais, the niece of Empress Josephine's first husband, whom Napoleon adopted into the royal family and who were distantly related to the Murats. Curiously enough, she is also descended from Mary Tudor, Duchess of Suffolk, the younger sister of Henry VII., a descent which, though very common among the English nobility, is shared by no other royal house.

It was announced today that the Kaiser, realizing he can make no headway against the stubborn old Prince William, has accepted the situation and will make the best of it. The marriage will not bring the former into close relationship with Emperor William as he and Prince William belong to different Hohenzollern families.

LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR, NO DANDRUFF--25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Hair coming out?—If dry, brittle, thin or your scalp itches and is full of dandruff—Use "Danderine."

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of Dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance! an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

UNION AGENT STIRS UP FUSS.

Discharge of a Machinist Precipitates Strike.

Manufacturer Asks Court to Enjoin Laborites.

Other Plants at Rochester Are Now Involved.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following a recent discharge of a workman named Allen, a strike of the machinists in the employ of the Luftweiler Motor Pump Company has been called by Business Agent Clarence E. Dowd. Allen was discharged, the union men say, because of his efforts in behalf of unionism. Dowd, who is business agent of the union, was one of the men acquitted of charges of conspiracy in connection with the McNamara dynamiting campaign. The strike involves 100 men.

President Samuel Luitweiler is asking for an injunction against Dowd and the union and will sue for damages. He expects to settle the matter in a few days.

In addition to the Luitweiler strike, several hundred mill men from the Rochester shops are striking for an increase in wages, as are 200 employees at the Vacuum Oil plant and forty iron molders in the big Symington Wheel Works in Gates.

Gas Worker Attacked by Picket, Feed Line Burned Out and Strikers Protest to Johnson.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.)) May 10.—A protest was made to Gov. Johnson by the local Strike Committee against the employment of students of the University of California by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company has suffered a number of interruptions in the system in and around Sacramento. A big feed line, known as Bay Line No. 3, burned out last night near Ben Ali and arc lights failed to twinkle in many parts of town.

The first row between the strikers and those who are manning the local plants for the company occurred at the gas works. A picket approached one of the employees at the gas works, who was leaving his work for the day. Words followed between them and the striker punched the gas worker. A call for the police was made by the watchman, but when the patrol arrived the crowd had dispersed.

I CURE PILES
FISTULA and ALL RECTAL DISEASES
WITHOUT the OPERATION
BY MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to all others. I cure without surgery and my patients are never confined in bed and never lose a moment's time from their business.

With my method I absorb pile tumors by medication, applied (or driven in) by a mild electric current. The piles are absorbed in a few treatments, leaving the rectum in a healthy, normal condition. There is no danger, no bad after effects and no pain or soreness.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatment administered by me in my office.

If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble, I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS.

WELL KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 18 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specializing in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily commending the Man and his methods.

After suffering for years with the worst form of hemorrhoids, YOU HAVE CURED ME COMPLETELY, and during the treatment I did not turn aside from my usual work. I therefore commend you and your method to all sufferers from rectal disorders. Very gratefully yours,

GETTING GRAY? USE SAGE TEA TO RESTORE NATURAL COLOR OF HAIR

Says Sage and Sulphur Darkens Hair Beautifully and Ends Dandruff.

Hair that loses its color and luster, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair, says a well-known local pharmacist. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful and even today this simple preparation has no equal. Millions of women and men too, who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive use only Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Nowadays we are not bothered with the task of gathering the sage leaves and the mussy mixing at home. Simply ask at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of the ready to use preparation called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Customers like this best because it darkens so naturally; so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it had been applied. Besides, it contains ingredients which take off dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. No, it isn't a dye or even like it. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color.

What delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair they say it brings back the gloss and luster and gives it an appearance of abundance. Agent, Sun Drug Company.

MADAM! IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT TAKE DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS."

Waste-clogged bowels, torpid liver and decaying food in stomach cause the sick headache, gas, backache, sallowness, biliousness and indigestion.

All women get bilious, headachy and constipated — simply because they don't exercise enough. They don't eat coarse food, or enough fruit and green vegetables. Those are nature's ways of keeping the liver and thirty feet of bowels active; but very few women employ them. The next best way is delightful, fruity Syrup of Figs.

Nearly all ills of women can be overcome with Syrup of Figs alone. There is no need to have sick headache, backache, dizziness, stomach sour and full of gases, bilious spells, sallowness, coated tongue, bad breath, bad complexion, nervousness and depression. The surest and safest remedy is one or two teaspoonfuls of delicious Syrup of Figs. Try this tonight — you'll feel splendid in the morning when the sour bile, clogged up waste and poisonous matter have been gently, but thoroughly moved on and out of your system, without nausea, griping or weakness. Your head will be clear, complexion rosy, breath sweet, stomach regulated; no more constipation, gases, pains and aches.

It is simply a matter of keeping your stomach, liver and bowels clean and regular. Then you will always be well—always look and feel your best.

But get the genuine—the old reliable. Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse, with contempt, the so-called Fig Syrups sometimes substituted to fool you. The true, genuine, bears the name California Fig Syrup Company; look for this on the label.

Lux Orientalis.

LIGHT FROM THE EAST ON THE LIVING ISSUES.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10. — [Special Dispatch.] Following editorial comments on topics of the hour are printed in eastern newspapers:

CURRENCY REFORM.
NATIONAL, NOT LOCAL, ISSUE.

[New York Tribune, May 9:] Business in this country is not merely local or regional, but national in its scope, and there is need of banking upon the same scale. If reserves are to be employed most economically and effectively, centralization of them is needed. A national and merely regional market for the rediscount of commercial paper is also required. This is a nation and not a mere agglomeration of regions, and it is to be hoped that the Democratic party will have the intelligence and courage to recognize the fact in its banking legislation.

PROPOSING NATIONAL SUICIDE.
IMPRACTICAL ALTRUISM.

[Washington Post, May 9:] The suggestion of Alton B. Parker, that the people of the United States adopt a policy of disarmament and trust to the good nature of the world not to provoke war unconsciously satirizes most of the proposals of the peace societies. Mr. Parker plainly meant to be serious. He did not mean to insult the intelligence of the American people. He merely found himself in the position of many other advocates, who, stumbling about for a way to abolish the primeval instinct of war, urge their own nation to sacrifice on the altar of altruism.

KILLING THE ANTI-TRUST LAW.
PRIVILEGE IN CRIME.

[New York World, May 9:] The deadliest blow yet aimed at the anti-trust law is the attempt by Congress in a bill now in the hands of the President to exempt more than one-half of the people from its penalties. If this measure meets Executive approval there will be no anti-trust law so far as organizations, conspiracies and crimes on the part of the farmers and workingmen are concerned. With the law practically repealed as to them, what assurance is there that it will not be nullified altogether.

BUILDING UP CHINA.
SETBACK FOR UNCLE SAM.

[New York Herald, May 9:] That President Yuan is taking firm hold of China's industrial problem is shown by its selection of foreign expert advisers. The appointment of Dr. Hirai as adviser to the board of communications is an especially good one. As vice-president of the Imperial Railways of Japan, Dr. Hirai has been executive head of the entire railway system of his country.

French, German, Russian and Japanese advisers have been appointed to positions. This is, of course, due to the fact that European and Japanese financiers, with the active support of their respective governments, came to China's aid with the much-needed reorganization loan that put her on her feet and gives the republic a chance.

For reasons familiar to us all, there are no Americans on this list. The United States will play little, if any, part, in China's rehabilitation or in the subsequent industrial development of this great field. "American advance" is a retreat. But, of course, we can still follow Secretary Redfield's advice and "try Bombay."

"CHUCK" CONNORS IS DEAD.

Bowery Character Known as "Mayor of Chinatown," in New York, Succumbs to Heart Disease.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 10.—"Chuck" Connors, aged 61, known as the "Mayor of Chinatown," died of heart disease in the Hudson-street Hospital today.

Slant-eyed veterans of Chinatown's warring tongs, the Four Brothers, the Slip Song Tong, and the On Leong Tong, declared a truce when the news of his death became known and they will march shoulder to shoulder in a parade to honor his memory.

CHINA CONGRATULATED ON CARNEGIE'S MOTION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, May 10. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] Statistics of the fourth International Peace Congress which was held here, show the attendance to have been the largest ever recorded and popular interest in the affair was far greater than has been shown before. An interesting feature of the programme was the every speaker assigned time, [illegible] with but two exceptions. One of these was Secretary of State Bryan, who was sent to California by President Wilson and could not make his mission in time to keep his [illegible] engagement. The most [illegible] action taken by the club was the expulsion of Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of a magazine, to which Col. Roosevelt is a contributing editor, because of the warlike tone of some of its editorial articles.

A delegation from the Navy League was refused place on the programme but had a hearing during an open discussion on disarmament. The attendance of six diplomats from Latin American countries is counted as a good effect as a profession of sentiment in these countries against the often recurring revolutions.

The Peace Congress cabled congratulations to the new Chinese republic and received an acknowledgment from President Yuan. This message was sent at the suggestion of Andrew Carnegie.

Missouri Supreme Court Stands Ouster and Gives Indiana Corporation Chance to Show Good Faith.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JEFFERSON CITY (Mo.), May 10.—The Missouri Supreme Court today granted a rehearing of the [illegible] against the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, suspended the ouster and appointed John Montgomery of this city commissioner to take testimony as to the good faith of the company in severing its connection with the trusts.

The court's action brings relief to the village of Sugar Creek, near Kansas City, whose existence was threatened by the ouster. The closing of that refinery would take away the employment of practically the entire population of the village.

Talk on Teeth

Good Teeth and Digestion

Keep your digestive apparatus in good working order and you can defy old age. Indigestion is the cause of most of the ills of mankind and womankind.

What causes indigestion?

Poor teeth, or no teeth, in nearly every case. "Stomach trouble" is generally traceable to "teeth trouble."

What's the remedy?

A perfect set of teeth.

OUR REX METHOD OF ALVEOLAR TEETH, AS PERFECTED BY DR. RANKINE

When these teeth are in place it is a difficult matter for anyone, even the one who is wearing them, to tell which are nature's teeth and which "Alveolar."

In shape, size, color, looks and action they are a perfect substitute for teeth which grew in the mouth and as firm as a rock.

We don't say, "Now, be careful when you eat," but, "Use these teeth just as you would if they grew in your jaws."

Let us tell you what we can do and refer you to the people who have had this work done for them. That's the fair plan, isn't it?

An examination of your mouth and teeth won't cost you a cent. It won't obligate you to spend a cent unless you are satisfied that we can do as we promise.

You will be the judge of all these things when you come.

You can refer to me.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28, 1912.

DR. C. M. RANKINE,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir:—It gives me much pleasure in writing you that the work you did for me over five years ago is perfectly satisfactory, and is all that you claimed for your Alveolar process. I consider it the best thing possible next to the original teeth. I shall take pleasure in so stating to any one you may refer to me. Yours truly,

EAGLES MEET NEXT TUESDA

Tenth Annual Convent[ion] Will Open at Venice.

Two Southern Members A[re] After Official Places.

An Elaborate Program[me] Has Been Arranged.

FRESNO, May 10.—The tenth a[n]nual California State Convention [of] the Fraternal Order of Eagles, [wh]ich convenes in Venice next Tuesday [for] a four-day session, will be called [to] order by Judge Herbert F. Briggs [of] this city, State Aerie President, and W. J. Brennen of Pittsburgh, Past Grand Worthy President, will be [an] interesting onlooker.

Fresno is after the 1914 convention and will have as rivals Sacramento, Ft. Bragg and Eureka. The convention will probably go to one of the last mentioned cities as Ft. Bragg and Eureka have been in the field before for the State convention. San Francisco, of course, will get the 1915 convention and then Fresno will vie with the other cities for the convention the following year.

Politics in the order as the present [time] are becoming sharpened and [ex]citing to the political sheet. Judge Briggs will be succeeded as State President by Warren M. John of San Luis Obispo, State Vice-President; J. [illegible]augh of Vallejo, State Chaplain, will be elected Vice-President, but it is rumored that many "dark horses" may jump into the race before the [con]vention.

The big fight will be centered about the position of State Chaplain and at the present time Fred Gunther of Bakersfield, Charles Salter of Los Angeles, J. C. Holland of Fruitvale and Fred Warren of Stockton are the candidates. They will have the support of their own aeries and are all [con]fident of securing as much strength as possible from the other aeries.

Ole Fehlmann of San Francisco, State Secretary, will have F. K. McCarver of Venice as an opponent and it is reported that McCarver will be given almost a solid southern vote, while Fehlmann will be supported by the northern delegates. Walter Rose of Sacramento, State Treasurer, has no opponent at the present time.

One hundred and eleven aeries will be represented at the convention and it is estimated about 400 delegates will be in attendance, not including the visitors.

An elaborate programme has been arranged in Venice and the delegates will be welcomed at a public meeting Tuesday at which the Mayor of Venice will preside. The key to the city will be turned over to President Briggs and the delegates, for the week. Social functions have been planned for every evening, and the business session will be held in the mornings and afternoons.

The National President and the State President will go to Venice together.

The following delegates will represent Fresno: Harry Dennison, President; Frank Curtis, Past President;

MAKE-BELIEVE marriage between Ernest E. Pain and Miss Beatrice E. Tayror eighteen days ago in an amateur theatrical performance in London, became a reality yesterday afternoon when they "unseasonably" wedded at the home of Prof. W. J. Kennard, No. 616 Thirty-fifth place, the young couple having arrived the previous night from the English metropolis after a journey of 7000 miles. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George [illegible], rector of St. John's Episcopal church.

Pain obtained a marriage license from [illegible] the day that the young lady arrived in New Orleans. He had all other details so as to be ready after the arrival of the party to the nuptial contract. Miss Pain did not expect his lady [illegible] until yesterday, or arrange-

EAGLES MEET NEXT TUESDAY.

Tenth Annual Convention Will Open at Venice.

Two Southern Members Are After Official Places.

An Elaborate Programme Has Been Arranged.

FRESNO, May 10.—The tenth annual California State Convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which meets in Venice next Tuesday for a three days' session, will be called to order by Judge Herbert F. Briggs of Fresno, State Aerie President, and T. J. Drennan of Pittsburgh, Pa., Grand Worthy President, will be an honored onlooker.

Fresno is after the 1914 convention and will have as rivals Sacramento, Long Beach and Eureka. The convention will probably go to one of the three coast cities as Ft. Bragg and Redding have been in the field before the annual convention. San Francisco, of course, will get the 1915 convention and then Fresno will vie with the other cities for the convention in the following year.

Politics in the order at the present time is becoming sharpened and according to the political sheet, Judge Briggs will be succeeded as State President by Warren M. Johns of San Diego; State Vice-President; J. Ross Walker, State Chaplain, of Vallejo, State Chaplain and at present time Fred Gunther of Fresno; Charles Salter of Los Angeles, Holland of Fruitvale and Hunt of Stockton are the candidates. They will have the support of their own aeries and are all claiming as much strength as each from the other aeries.

Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, will have F. K. McCarver of Venice as an opponent and it is said that McCarver will be supported by a solid southern vote, which will be supported by Walter Bacon of Sacramento, State Treasurer, who is present at the present time. Several and eleven aeries will be represented at the convention and it is estimated about 400 delegates will be in attendance, not including visitors.

An elaborate programme has been arranged in Venice and the delegates will be entertained at a public meeting at which the Mayor of Venice will preside. The key to the city will be turned over to President Briggs and the delegates, for the several sessions have been arranged for every evening and the business will be held in the forenoons and afternoons.

Grand President and the Grand Worthy President will go to Venice together.

The following delegates will represent the Fresno aerie: Harry Dennison, President; Frank Curtis, Past President; George Machen, William Kelly, George Beall, Robert Ferrill, Jack Brattin and Frank Shuck.

The other officers of the State aerie are: J. J. Herning of Eureka, Conductor; Frank Darby of Santa Maria, Inside Guard; Sam P. McManus of Napa, Outside Guard; J. C. Holland of Fruitvale, Charles Eacreighton of San Francisco and Charles E. Salter of Los Angeles, Grand Trustees.

Police Judge H. F. Briggs,

Of Fresno, State president of Fraternal Order of Eagles. The tenth annual convention of the order will be held in Venice this week.

SLAYING JUSTIFIED.

DUCOR, May 10.—Hugh Dixon, charged with manslaughter for the shooting of S. J. White, his business partner, following a quarrel in the Ducor feed mill last week, was released at the end of a preliminary hearing held this afternoon. Judge Hall of Porterville sat in the case, as Justice Mitchell of Ducor was a material witness. Seth Gregory, the manager of the mill in which the fatal shooting took place, testified that White attempted repeatedly to stab Dixon with a pocket knife, and that only after Dixon had retreated half the length of the mill he finally drew his gun and fired with fatal effect. Dr. O. C. Higgins stated that Dixon had seven knife cuts on his breast, two of them serious.

RANCHER HURT.

TERRA BELLA, May 9.—Carl Yaney, an employee of the L. F. Rancher ranch near here, was seriously hurt this morning in the explosion of a gasoline engine he was attempting to start. Yaney was thrown several feet through the air, alighting on his head. There is a probability that his skull is fractured. The flywheel of the engine fell within a few feet of Yaney and narrowly escaped crushing him. Yaney was taken to a hospital in Porterville for treatment.

TRAITORS AT HEART.

BY ANNA BOCK.

[Paper written for the State Federation of Woman's Clubs at Fresno. The author, a college woman of Los Angeles, was not permitted to read it.]

It is my sincere belief that there is nothing could wield a greater power for good in these United States than women's clubs. I am just as sincere in my belief that women's clubs are not wielding such influence for good. Women's clubs have gone mad on the uplift question.

The contagion has become so acute that unless some remedy is found—some serum to counteract the madness—there will have to be million-dollar appropriations for psychopathic hospitals.

People are too sentimental and too sympathetic these days. That is, they think they are, but I think that if a lot of people did a little analysing of self they would find they were not only deluding the general public but themselves.

All you women know there is an American Peace Society with branches in all the States.

Now every woman who has read much of history knows that while men have red blood in their veins there will always be war somewhere. I wish I could go into detail and tell you of the reasons why, but time will not permit. I would like to recommend to you, however, Homer Lea's "Valor of Ignorance." (Please take down the title.) You will find it a book beautifully written and well worth the perusal, a book that you need not be afraid or ashamed to hand to your sons and your daughters. It is not like the books, the problem play or novel usually discussed at clubs and that leave such a dark-brown taste in the mouth. This book will, perhaps, awake in you a feeling of patriotism, a thing so lacking in this great country of ours.

This book will show you where California will stand one day. Indeed our dear California is even now on the verge of calamity, and where is her defense?

Well, about the peace business. Remember, dear women, whatever I say; do not mistake; no one desires everlasting peace for the whole world more than I.

Sometime back I received from the Southern California Peace Society a circular letter. One-third of the sheet was taken up by the names of the D.D's., L.L.D's., W.C.T.U's., C.W.'s and D.F.'s., forming the advisory council. The other two-thirds held the letter.

"Dear friend," it began, "will you write to your United States Senators and Congressmen from your district and urge them to vote against the militia pay bill and bill providing for military drill in the public schools of the United States?" Such is the method that is being used by a certain set of people to help to bring about their rule today.

Women, what do you think of such a proposition? Is it not outrageous? What right has any D.D., L.L.D., school superintendent or clubwoman to deny your son or say boy a military training? The very people who are the prime movers in denying the boys of our country this great privilege are the ones who are trying to create prejudice by saying that West Point and Annapolis are only for rich men's sons. They are the people who desire to do away with the army and navy; they are the people who wish to disarm the police. Why?

I have been told that when Gen. Wood made a visit to Los Angeles some months since this question of military drill in the school was brought up, but sat down upon by those in authority. The initiative is worked overtime to bring about measures that have not the one-thousandth part of the weight of this one. What right, I ask again, had they to do this? I have not had the opportunity to ask many, but I have told several kids of the proposition and asked if they would like such drill, and they all replied, "You bet." Why, women, do you know, every opportunity I get I go down to some beach and shoot at clay pigeons. Wouldn't I like to have this drill that is offered the school-boys of our land! Think again, women, the United States offers her boys military drill including rifle practice, furnishing all ammunition and rifles and, on top of it all, offers prizes to those who distinguish themselves. Is it not great? Why do you women not look into this and see that the boy, your boys and all boys, get what belongs to them? There is nothing in the world that does more for boys than a military training, and especially would it do vast good in these days when home discipline is so wanting. Tell me, is it not better to have a straight, broad-shouldered lot of men than an anaemic, stoop-shouldered lot of pimps?

Women, there are an awful lot of movements going on in this country today that are wrong. Could you go beneath the surface you would not be deceived, but the mantle of humanitarianism is cleverly thrown about them and you lose sight of their real meaning. This depriving the youth of our land of a training that will make them strong, manly, brave, courageous and patriotic is unjust to the future men of our race.

Go home, will you, and tell your husbands and your sons that they may investigate and protest and foil these mock sentimentalists?

Make-Believe to Really-So

SEVEN THOUSAND MILES TO MAKE IT COME TRUE.

Mrs. Beatrice E. Patis,

Who arrived in Porterville until yesterday. She came 7000 miles to cause a long-cherished marriage really come true in this city.

A LONG-CHERISHED marriage between Miss Beatrice E. Patis and Miss Mary Tarver, eighteen years ago, as amateur theatrical performance of "School," a comedy by T. W. Robertson, in which Patis took the part of Lord Beaufoy and Miss Taylor the role of Bella. In the play the Lord and Bella are married. The bride and groom said yesterday that their attachment dated from the mock marriage.

Patis had planned a wedding journey through Southern California, but the bride, wearied from two weeks of travel, asked to have the honeymoon trip limited to a sight-seeing excursion through Los Angeles.

The temporary address of Mr. and Mrs. Patis is No. 108 North Burlington street. Patis is a bookkeeper. He came to this city in March, 1912, from England.

CLOSING OF CONTRACTS MAKES EXTENSION SURE.

Completion of Pacific Electric's Most Important Improvement of Year Uncertain on Account of Slow Delivery of Bridge Material—Rich Citrus District.

Early work on the Upland-San Bernardino extension of the Pacific Electric, the most important improvement to be made this year by that road, was assured yesterday when Phil Swing of San Bernardino, chairman of the committee that has been securing the right of way, reported the definite closing of all contracts.

Immediately following the receipt of Swing's report, President Shoup of the Pacific Electric announced that the grading and other contracts will be let within a few days. Bids for much of this work have been received and if necessary, the grading contract could be let at once.

In connection with the Upland-San Bernardino extension which will cost $1,424,000 for construction and equipment, Shoup announced yesterday that improvements will be made between this city and Upland that will bring the total close to $2,000,000. Between this city and Upland are several stretches of single track that will be replaced with double track, while the necessity for augmented power to operate cars over the long line from here to San Bernardino will be met by installing an additional power station at some point not as yet designated.

The new line will pass through Etiwanda, Cucamonga, Rialto and Rosena, one of the finest citrus belts in the Southland. At San Bernardino it will connect with the Arrowhead Springs, Redlands, Patton, Urbita Springs, and Colton lines. As $488,000 is being expended to carry the Colton lines to Riverside, it will not be long before all this district will be connected with this city.

Though neither Shoup nor any other Pacific Electric official will confirm it, the rumor is gaining credence that the line operated by the Pacific Electric between Riverside and Bloomington will shortly be extended to connection with the Upland-San Bernardino line. This would give duplicated routing between here and Riverside on the electric lines.

Though the Upland-San Bernardino extension is but twenty-one miles in length, the fact that it runs through a country of washes and depressions, calls for much heavy bridge work, which makes the construction expensive. Much of this bridge material has been ordered, but the steel mills are not quoting any delivery dates, which makes the date of probable completion of the line uncertain.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

Negro Taken by Officers at Fresno Believed to Be Guilty of a Brutal Murder.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FRESNO, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Tallying in every detail with the description furnished by the San Diego authorities, James William Calvin, colored, alias Anderson Cotton, was arrested in this city shortly afternoon today by Detective Charles Farnam on suspicion as the murderer of John Cowan, whose death occurred in San Diego, April 12.

According to the story in the hands of the police here Cowan was waylaid while on his way to a bank in San Diego and skull crushed. His assailant, who made away with a large sum of money being carried by the victim, was suspected of being Anderson Cotton, a negro who had been in trouble before in the southern city.

Having served a fifty-day sentence on a minor charge in San Diego the police of that city had an excellent description and photograph of the negro by which he was recognized by Police Detective Farnam. Calvin has tattoo marks on his neck and a scar on his lower lip tallying with the description and admits having been in San Diego, though denying all knowledge of the murder.

Cowan, the victim, whose body was found in San Diego Bay, is said to have come to that city from Colorado Springs but a few days previous to his death. Calvin is being held by the could be placed aboard. It was ex-from the San Diego police.

SUCCOR A VETERAN.

VISALIA, May 10.—A touching incident in connection with the closing session of the State convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy, which was held here today, was the discovery by members of the organization that Walter Williamson, an aged apple vender, who is in abject poverty, is a veteran of the southern army. Members of the State organization arranged for his immediate relief and for a monthly pension from the State funds. Williamson, who has been stricken with blindness, was honorably discharged from Co. A, Sixty-second North Carolina Volunteer Infantry. He was in a regiment which saw much of the heaviest service of the war. A substantial purse was made up for presentation to the old man, who wept like a child when a handful of gold and silver was poured into his lap.

ADDITIONAL TRACK.

Authority has been asked of the State Railroad Commission by the Santa Fe for permission to construct an additional yard track across Avery street.

FARMING IN SAN JOAQUIN.

Santa Fe to Organize Scientific Agricultural Department for Colonization of the Great Rich Valley.

To promote scientific farming and encourage colonization, particularly along its lines in the San Joaquin Valley, the Santa Fe will shortly organize an agricultural department for the Coast lines, with headquarters at Fresno. According to word received yesterday by Assistant Passenger Traffic Manager Byrne from General Colonization Agent Seagraves, two men both familiar with agricultural conditions in the San Joaquin Valley, are under consideration for the post of agriculturist.

Though the work will eventually be extended to the company's lines south of the Tehachepi, for the present, says Byrne, the San Joaquin Valley country will be given the preference. This is because the valley has many fertile acres that are but awaiting the coming of colonists to make them fruitful, whereas south of the range the nearness of a large city has resulted in rapid colonization.

The Santa Fe agriculture department will not only teach colonizers the how and why of planting, the essentials of irrigating and harvesting, but will also, in co-operation with the colonization department, act as advisor to prospective purchasers of land.

ESCONDIDO.

ESCONDIDO, May 10.—Four of the city churches, assisted by the Parent-Teacher Association and the Woman's Club, have joined in the adoption of a resolution asking Charles E. Page, the new owner of the Emmett Theater, to close the theater on Sundays. The movement for the closing was started at the opening of the revival meetings being conducted by Rev. Patterson. Saturday night dances are also included in the resolution.

Landseekers Arriving at Perris Irrigated Farms in Fertile Perris Valley.

Vast Throngs Pay Visit to Perris Irrigated Farms

A special trainload of people attended the Sunday excursion to Perris Valley to view Perris Irrigated Farms. The occasion marked the opening of the new irrigation system in connection with Pumping Plant No. 2. The big tandem engine was in operation, throwing an enormous volume of water.

The entire area of the new lands being opened, as well as the recently installed steel pipe irrigation system, was subjected to the most rigid examination. The inspection was convincing, and the satisfaction of the visitors most enthusiastically voiced.

The opening of this second large area, and the great expense involved in the installation of the irrigation system with its large pumping plants directs public attention more forcibly than ever to the rapidly-increasing value of these irrigated farms, the cream of fertile Perris Valley.

The soil was shown to be deep and of rich quality. Its fertility was attested by growing crops of alfalfa. One field, close to these lands and for which a recent offer of $450 per acre was refused, showed an extraordinarily heavy crop ready to cut. Other important products noted were deciduous fruit orchards and general field crops, all of which claimed the unstinted praise of the visitors.

Perris Irrigated Farms are within 2¼ hours' ride of Los Angeles. They are near Riverside, in the heart of Perris Valley and close to the growing city of Perris. They have their own railroad freight station. The round trip may be made from Los Angeles in one day.

Farms of 20 acres or more are obtainable under Water Plant No. 2, carrying water direct to every parcel sold. The price, including water right, is only $150 an acre. Four years' time is permitted, enabling the farmer to finish paying for his land from the proceeds of his crops. The lands are selling fast and the present price is guaranteed for no stated time.

An interesting booklet, telling all about these rich, Nile-garden lands and the water that is there, detailing personal experiences of men who have succeeded there, will be sent free on application. As the early buyers will get the best selections, immediate application for information about excursions should be made to EMIL FIRTH, land owner and developer, 346 Broadway, Los Angeles. Phones: Home 60167, Main 2543.

A special mother's programme will be given at the Presbyterian Church in the morning, when the young people will participate in readings, recitations and songs appropriate to the theme. At Pilgrim Congregational Church there will be special services at Sunday-school in honor of the day, with a programme of orchestral music. The decorations will be white carnations.

Mayor Vandegrift and the City Council are going after the Southern Pacific, Salt Lake and Santa Fe Railroads, the tracks of which corporations run through this city, to compel the companies to fix all of the railroad crossings within the city limits which are in bad condition. None of the railway crossings are kept in good condition and on grade, it is claimed, as is provided in the city ordinance, and the city authorities intend to see that attention is given to fixing the crossings or know the reason why. The railroads have been duly notified and warned by the Mayor and Council and unless something is done to remedy conditions soon, it is the intention of the Council to proceed to take steps to compel the railway corporations to get busy.

GLENDORA.

GLENDORA, May 10.—J. H. Chambers has sold his fine ten-acre tract set to nine-year-old Valencia orange trees to Mr. and Mrs. H. Kisling, Alhambra. Stated price, $20,000. The sale was negotiated by Mrs. A. S. Huhn of the Glendora Realty Company. The new owners plan to erect a handsome residence and extensively improve the premises with a view of making it their permanent home. Mr. and Mrs. Kisling moved to Alhambra less than one year ago, after residing in Glendora for two years, during which they bought and sold two citrus fruit groves. Convinced after a searching investigation that the Glendora district was good, they did not hesitate about returning to Glendora when once they had decided to re-engage in the citrus fruit culture.

Contractors and builders report that there is no evidence of enforced idleness in their line of work. Steady employment is given with the new dwelling houses constantly under way, the repair work to be done and outbuildings, such as barns and garages, to be erected.

Buildings now in course of construction include a pretty Swiss chalet of six rooms for Miss Agee on her lot fronting Pennsylvania avenue. And also a modern six-room cottage in course of construction for D. C. Cartwright on his lots fronting Vermont avenue.

HIS CASE WAS HOPELESS

Could Hardly Eat. Gradually Grew Worse. Relieved by Peruna

Mr. A. M. Ikerd.

Mr. A. M. Ikerd, Box 31, West Burlington, Ia., writes: "I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief, and finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago, and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me; said I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was offensive and I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse.

"Finally I concluded to try Peruna, and I found relief and a cure for that dreadful disease, catarrh. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and I now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle of it in my house all the time."

Persons who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

PHILANTHROPIST PASSES.

Leander Trowbridge Chamberlain, Noted Citizen of the Empire State, Dies in Altadena.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PASADENA, May 10. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] Rev. Leander Trowbridge Chamberlain, a retired clergyman, author and public man, well known in New York, died late this afternoon at the home of a niece, Mrs. E. C. Hayward, in Altadena. He was 75 years old and had been here for six months. He had been in poor health since his arrival. The body is now at the mortuary of Turner & Stevens in this city, but it will be sent to Philadelphia, where his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Frances Lee, a daughter of Charles Edward Lee, the historian, lived, for burial.

Chamberlain was born in West Brookfield, Mass., and was graduated from Yale, entered the Presbyterian ministry, but was chiefly known for the philanthropic and public work that he had engaged in since his retirement from active pastoral work.

He was president of the Evengelical Alliance and in recent years was greatly interested in international arbitration. He wrote several works on that and other public questions. He also took a great interest in the Panama Canal and was considered an authority on some phases of Panamanian affairs.

Mrs. Chamberlain died twenty years ago. He leaves no relatives besides Mrs. Hayward.

ARTESIA.

ARTESIA, May 10.—With the blare of the brass band and the shouting of the popcorn and peanut vender, "The County Fair" will open in Artesia Hall at 7 o'clock Saturday night. The population of Artesia is nearly two-thirds from Iowa and this "country fair" is to be a close imitation of that event in their "old home State." The snake charmer and the fortune telling gypsy will be there and Constable Freeman has consented to the operation of one lone "shell game." For it's all for the benefit of the Parent-Teacher Association and its principal object, after reviving old memories, is to separate the public from some of its ready change.

ARTESIA.

ARTESIA, May 10.—This town is now erecting one of the most beautiful fountains in Southern California, and it will be dedicated with due ceremonies within a few weeks. The fountain is situated at the entrance to Electric Park and just adjoining the depot grounds of the Pacific Electric Railway. It is of Grecian style of architecture and is composed of five stone columns, supporting a pergola roof. In the center is a sanitary drinking-device. Here the dusty and weary can rest and refresh themselves, partaking of the pure artesian water from which is derived the name Artesia, "The Land of Flowing Wells" The fountain is being erected by the Citizens' Association.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

SMART SET HAS A NEW FOIBLE.

Crown City Society Folk Enjoy Moving Pictures.

May See Themselves as Others See Them.

Dealers Are Arranging for an Automobile Show.

PASADENA, May 11.—Society of Oak Knoll, Pasadena's millionaire suburb, is agog over a new form of entertainment that is now there all the rage. It is the giving of moving picture parties. Just as the moving picture theater has come to be the most popular form of entertainment to the multitudes, so the projecting of moving pictures on the sides of the houses from the gardens in the cool of the evening has come to be popular with the Crown City's four hundred.

Following up the interest evinced in the moving picture by J. H. Henry of No. 1199 Oak Knoll avenue, that district, who last winter had the top floor of his palatial home equipped as a theater and a full-sized moving picture apparatus installed for the use of his children and their friends, Mrs. J. N. Burnes of No. 1289 South El Molino avenue, there, last week gave a moving picture party on her lawn. One of the white walls of the house afforded an excellent screen on which to show the pictures, and the guests, about fifty in number, sat under a flower-covered pergola in the yard and enjoyed the entertainment to the accompaniment of music and refreshments.

The pictures in themselves were unusual. Not only were there dramas and scientific views, but pictures of the very homes of the guests and of themselves walking about Oak Knoll, and many other sights in Pasadena, familiar to all were shown, and they took on a new interest when seen as "movies." Myron Hunt, the architect who designed many of the Oak Knoll houses, supplied some of the films.

The party was one of the most enjoyable, as well as exclusive, of the winter and so much enthusiasm has been expressed over it that it is not unlikely a few months more will see moving pictures parties quite common here.

BABY SHOW IS PLANNED.

Fireworks, horse-racing and babies will be the programme for the Fourth of July in Pasadena. The Komical Knights of the Karnival, who are arranging the celebration, and who for several weeks have been casting about for something novel and entertaining with which to fill in a gap that remained in the schedule of events for the afternoon entertainment at Tournament Park, yesterday came to the conclusion that babies are the most interesting things next to those they had already provided for, and so babies, they say, it shall be.

In fact, the baby feature of the celebration promises to elicit more interest than any of the others, a fact from which the Committee on Arrangements deduces its conviction that sane Fourths have come to stay.

Later, a list of rules to govern the exhibition of the babies will be formulated. Ample provision will be made to accommodate an unlimited number of them in the exposition booth, and competent judges will be named to pass on their respective merits. Every comfort is to be afforded the "dear little dumpling darlings" and handsome prizes will be awarded the two or three whose beauty is most loudly proclaimed.

BIG SHOW IS PLANNED.

The committee that is arranging the first Pasadena automobile show, which is to be held in a large tent on the tennis court at the Hotel Maryland next Friday and Saturday, the latter day in conjunction with the first Pasadena spring carnival, yesterday announced that it had materially enlarged its plans and that it hopes to make the show one of the foremost events of the year.

Hundreds of cars will be on exhibition; but this will not be all. The decorations alone are to be worth a visit to the place, they say. Thousands of roses will be used, and many other flowers as well. There will be a large orchestra, which will furnish music afternoons and evenings, and no admittance is to be charged.

Another announcement in connection with the coming carnival was made yesterday by Roy Knabenshue, who has been busy repairing his large airship, which was smashed in the sudden landing he made a short time ago when he took the air craft out of its hangar for a trial trip. He said yesterday that he has no doubt he will be able to make a flight next Saturday. It will be made under the auspices of the Board of Trade, as one of the attractions of the day. Knabenshue says that he has remedied the defects in the dirigible balloon so that there will be little chance of an accident when he again makes an ascent.

BUSCH LEAVES AS PLANNED.

Adolphus Busch and party left yesterday morning on the Santa Fe for St. Louis, from which city they are soon to go on to Germany for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Busch rode to the station in a victoria and after bidding good-by to an army of servants and attendants who are to stay behind, despite the fact that they take about a dozen with them, and after Lieut. Edward Scharrer, Busch's son-in-law, had seen that the pile of cages in which the family pets, which also go, were safely stowed away in the baggage car, the party entered the two private cars provided for their comfort and were whisked away.

Busch expressed his delight over a pleasant winter passed in Pasadena, but said also that he longs to return to his country home in Germany.

The Pasadena Music and Art Association has just completed arrangements whereby Pasadena is assured a third series of philharmonic concerts next winter. The giving of these concerts is one way in which the association is endeavoring to raise funds with which to erect a music and art building in the city. It is estimated that such a structure will cost $100,000. Thirty thousand dollars is already on hand.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Allin of No. 150 Morton avenue yesterday announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jessie Gelliffa Allin, a teacher at the Lincoln school, to George Carleton Pedley, also of this city. The announcement was made at a charming May Day party at which each guest received a basket containing a card.

THIRTY YEARS' SERVICE.

New Bandmaster at Soldiers' Home Has Served His Country Faithfully from Boybood.

SOLDIERS' HOME, May 10.—William Ostermann, Chief Musician, U.S.A. (retired,) is appointed band master of the Pacific branch, vice Greissinger, whose resignation will take effect on May 15.

Lieut. Ostermann was born in Newport, Ky., in 1871 and, though now only 42 years old is retired with full pay, after thirty years' service in the United States army. His age considered, that length of service would seem impossible were it not understood that service in the regular army counts double in periods of war. Thus, serving continually from January 20, 1887 to August 6, 1912, would total but twenty-five and a half years of actual service, but as four and a half years of Ostermann's service had been divided between service in Cuba during the Spanish-American War and with the provisional army in the Philippine insurrection, the technical total of service was thirty years.

William Osterman,

New leader of the Soldiers' Home band, who enjoys the distinction of having retired from the army after thirty years of service at the age of forty-two.

Ostermann was appointed bandmaster of the famous Fourteenth United States Cavalry band in 1901, which he developed to a degree which earned for him encomiums from the press throughout the United States While stationed at Ft. Walla Walla the Fourteenth Cavalry band entered into competition at Tacoma with seven military bands and, under leadership of Lieut. Ostermann, carried off the first prize.

Ostermann comes of a military as well as a musical family. His father, a member of the band at this home, was retired with pay, some years ago, from the regular army with rank of Principal Musician, but one grade below that of his son. One brother was lost in the Cuban campaign, and two brothers are still in the service. One is First Lieutenant in the Thirteenth United States Infantry and another First Lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps.

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT.

Fullerton Men Form Company to Take Over the Assets of a Home Builders' Concern.

FULLERTON, May 10.—A new company has been formed to take over the assets of the National Home and Town Builders of Los Angeles. The new concern will act as a sort of a holding company for the bond holders of the old National Home and Town Builders.

Residents of Orange and Los Angeles counties hold about $60,000 worth of bonds in the old original company, which it is claimed by stockholders has been badly managed since it took over property and cash of the old Orange County Investment Company. The directors of the new company have closed the office on South Hill street in Los Angeles, and have reduced the expenses to practically nothing, and will try to save a large part of the property now in the name of he new concern. The company has 120 well-located lots in San Bernardino and also owns valuable property in Orange and San Pedro, but there is an indebtedness against the lots of many thousand dollars.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The trustees of the Fullerton Union High School have decided to take advantage of the opportunity to establish post-graduate courses here. The courses offered are equivalent to those in the first two years of the university or college courses, and full credit will be given by the university for the work done here, provided it is of the quality to warrant such credit.

Announcement has been made of the appointment of L. H. Van Hoorebeke as cashier of the La Habra Valley Bank at Brea, to succeed A. J. Olsen, who has resigned. Until his appointment, Mr. Van Hoorebeke was connected with the First National Bank of Covina. He has located with his family at Brea.

PALOS VERDES RANCH IS SOLD

Doheny Writes Check for Million and a Half.

Property Extends from San Pedro to Redondo.

Long Beach Aviator Has Remarkably Close Call.

LONG BEACH, May 10.—The largest real estate deal in which Long Beach men have figured has been closed with the transfer of [illegible] for $1,500,000 issued by R. G. Dun of Los Angeles to the Palos Verdes Land Company. Mr. Doheny thus coming into possession of the Palos Verdes ranch of 15,000 acres which extends from San Pedro to Redondo. The deal was concluded last night at a meeting in Los Angeles. Llewellyn Bixby returned to Long Beach with the bit of paper representing a great fortune in his pocket.

A year ago W. L. Hollingsworth took an option on the ranch property but did not conclude the deal. Local realty men consider the purchase price to be a reasonable one.

The big ranch was purchased by Jotham Bixby, Sr., and his brother in 1866, shortly after their return of the rancho Los Cerritos of 4,000 on part of which Long Beach is situated. The Palos Verdes company, with the exception of secretary, E. N. Grant is a new family incorporation, the members of the company being the widow of Llewellyn Bixby, the children of Llewellyn Bixby's sisters, Mrs. Arthur Smith of Berkeley, and Mrs. Theodore Chamberlin of Concord, Mass.

AVIATORS ESCAPE.

The big Gorst hydroaeroplane in which Frank Champion has been making flights in front of the city for the past three days lies in the inner harbor a battered wreck of canvas and rods, while over it are congratulating himself over his narrow escape this afternoon who during a flight from in front of the bathhouse, his plane skimmed over the water and then as it reached the end of the pier and Champion [illegible] upwards, his engines went dead, and the plane drifted about in the water until the launch Eagle reached the aviator, and then it turned over and weighted down by the motor sunk until only the tip of the rudder was visible. It will probably be a total loss. It is supposed that in some way while skimming over the water the engines flooded.

Champion, this morning went out to take his family for an outing. The family is small comprising only Mr. Champion and three-year-old son, but both had unlimited faith in the birdman and went willing as passengers. Champion ascended from the surf near the San Gabriel jetties and after a twenty-minutes flight over the water in front of the city, during which he was joined by a new company, shall be descant in front of the bath-houses, the glided ashore on the crest of a wave and everything is planned to be ready for the opening day, June 7. A road gang has been employed for some time on the Banning-Idyllwild road, and the road is now in fine condition. Auto parties can now make the round trip of the scenic mountain road on which "no scene is less."

The census of San Jacinto's first county fair, held last fall, warranted the affair an annual event. At this week's meeting of the directors it was decided to hold the meeting Tuesday evening to determine whether the second fair will be held this year with the surprised herself and the wonderful display of orchard, field and garden products and many citizens are agitating a similar fair and carnival each year, as it furnishes an excellent way to bring the resources of the section before the public.

HEAD BLOWN OFF.

SANTA ANA, May 10. — William L. Card committed suicide Friday afternoon by tying a string to the trigger of a rifle and shooting his head off. Card was about 76 years old and was found fifteen feet from the body. He had been grieved greatly over the death of his wife, which occurred five years ago. He made his home with his son, Frank Card, and family on Modjeska Canyon, where they have a ranch. The location is a short distance between Silverado and Coal Canyon.

WOMAN DRINKS DEADLY POTION

Mrs. Thomas B. Boring of San Bernardino Dead.

Husband Also Slew Himself Several Years Ago.

County Division Movement Has Reached Its Finish.

SAN BERNARDINO, May 10.—After she had been dead at least twenty-four hours, the body of Mrs. Thomas Boring was found in her home on I street, the circumstances surrounding the case indicating that it may be suicide. A peculiar fact in connection with the case is that the woman's husband came to his death several years ago by the suicide route, he having been a well known character about the city for years. He chose a lonely spot in Bear Valley for ending his existence.

Beside the woman's bed was an empty glass which leads to the belief that she drank some deadly poison and then lay down to her last rest. She was living alone, being found after there was no evidence of her about the place for twenty-four hours. The contents of the glass will be investigated, or rather the small amount of liquid left in it.

LOOKS LIKE CORPSE.

The indications are that the county division bill fostered by residents of Needles is effectually killed at present. A strong effort has been put forth by President W. M. Parker of the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce to defeat the bill and he seems to have succeeded, though it is possible it may yet get through the senate at Sacramento. The proponents of the divisionists to trade the bill for an appropriation for a mountain road is the final blow, and did not go down with either the legislature or the San Bernardino people.

NEWS BRIEFS.

A large delegation of local citizens went to Victorville to join in the big "get-together" meeting of the Mojave River Valley people, and to cement the good will of the business men of San Bernardino. Mayor J. S. Hunt, President W. M. Parker of the Chamber of Commerce, and a number others made up the party who will return tonight.

The total amount of taxes collected for the fiscal year by County Collector A. Desmond is $1,040,748, leaving a delinquent list of but $65,000, the best in some years in spite of the fact that conditions might have been conducive to a much larger list than usual.

The creditors of the old San Bernardino Valley Gas Company have been called to meet Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce to take up the question of whether the plan of the Railroad Commission by which they will receive 45 cents on the dollar in a new company, shall be accepted. On the decision of this meeting will depend whether the decision of the commission shall be appealed to the courts.

Death of Oasler, for many years a prominent mining man and merchant at Oasis, on the desert, dropped dead in his store this week. He had been ailing but had kept to his business and had finished pitching a game of baseball. He sat down to his desk and a moment was gone. He was well known in Los Angeles in business circles.

SAN JACINTO BRIEFS.

SAN JACINTO, May 10.—J. E. [illegible], a recent arrival from Chicago, has purchased the J. A. Smith improved home place in the Fruitvale district, consideration $400 per acre. The land is set to different deciduous fruits and alfalfa and is improved with good house and other buildings. The water right goes with the property. Mr. and Mrs. Seth and family will remove to Los Angeles.

[illegible] Dubie of Pomona has secured the [illegible]-acre ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Frogley on Central avenue, giving in exchange an orange grove in Pomona, valued at $8000. The new owners will take possession of the San Jacinto property next month.

[illegible] M. Howard has purchased the livery from J. E. Dubara, and the business is now under the new management. Mr. Dunham had conducted the business for eighteen years. Mr. Howard is a recent arrival in San Jacinto from Montana.

[illegible] will jointly observe Memorial Day services at the cemetery and at the Union High School building.

Postmaster G. B. Hannahs, manager of Idyllwild, is busy with preparations for the opening of that popular mountain resort. Many auto loads of merchandise have been sent to the grade during the past week and everything is planned to be in readiness for the opening day, June 7. A road gang has been employed for some time on the Banning-Idyllwild road, and the road is now in fine condition. Auto parties can now make the round trip of the scenic mountain road on which "no scene is less."

Champion this morning decided to take his family for an outing. The family is small comprising only Mrs. Champion and three-year-old Hazel, both had unlimited faith in the airman and went willing as passengers. Champion ascended from the sand near the San Gabriel jetties and after a twenty-minute flight over the water in front of the city, made a recent in front of the bath-houses and sided ashore on the crest of a breaker. It was the first trip with Mrs. Champion and her baby and both enjoyed it immensely, though Mrs. Champion admitted that her nerves in making the trip surprised herself and she did not know whether she cared to go up again or not. The baby was somewhat frightened at the start when the spray dashed in her face as the plane skimmed over the water, but soon got in the air was content. The flight was made for a motion picture concern which takes weekly events all over the country.

GETTYSBURG ELIGIBLE.

W. R. Thomas, department commander of the G.A.R. of California and Nevada, who is in the city on official visit, said today that there are in California 315 veterans of both federal and Confederate armies who participated in the battle of Gettysburg and who are entitled to make a trip to the battleground under the recent legislative appropriation. Thomas says that the measure to defray expenses of $15,000 made by the state will not meet the requirements and it is probable that the governor will be appointed by Gov. Johnson to contract with the railways to carry all the men for this amount.

LEMONS DESTROYED.

PORTERVILLE, May 10.—A. G. Schuiz, Horticultural Commissioner of this county, ordered the seizure and destruction this morning of nine consignments of lemons from various wholesalers when samples of the fruit were found infested with yellow scale. Orb of the inspected crates of fruit showed evidence of having been attacked by red spider. Schuiz's action was followed by a strenuous protest from one Southern California dealer whose fruit was seized, and who declared that fruit of exactly the same quality had been admitted to half a score of other Central California towns. Schuiz, however, states that all lemons brought into Tulare county must be and always have been inspected before being exposed for sale. He asserts that this variety of fruit is potentially extremely dangerous, a single rind, infested with scale and carelessly thrown away, being sufficient to carry infection which would spread to orange groves and lemon orchards of this district.

ESCONDIDO, May 10.—Miss Margaret Juny, daughter of Rev. F. A. WINS FOURTH TRACK MEET.

Chaffey Union High Does Things to the County Y. M. C. A. and Thereby Gains Season's Honors.

ONTARIO, May 10.—Chaffey High of Ontario easily won the fourth annual track and field meet of the county Young Men's Christian Association, held on the campus of the local school today.

The final score gave Chaffey 37, Rialto 19, Chino 4 and the remainder of the points to unattached entries. With two exceptions all former records were broken and the handsome cup presented by the First National Bank of Ontario, having been won for three successive years by Chaffey in the relay race, remains the property of the local school.

A new record was set in the high jump when Benson of Chaffey cleared the highest stick at 5ft. 4in. Benson also won the pole vault and set a new record, making 9ft. 8in. The 440 yard dash was won by Nealy of Rialto who made it in 57 3-5s. Dahlem of Chaffey set a new record in the broad jump, making 19ft. 5¾in.

This afternoon the children of the grammar schools of the county indulged in track and field events. Several novel features were introduced at this year's meet, chief among them being a May pole winding contest.

The members of the various parent-teacher organizations of Ontario are to hold a mothers' congress Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the San Antonio-avenue school. All questions pertaining to lines of work in the different associations will be discussed and plans for another year carefully considered. Good music will be a feature of the programme.

The fate of Jesus Puente, arested at Cucamonga on a charge of breaking into the Williams-Lucas mercantile store there, may rest on the ability of experts to prove that his finger prints are the same as those left on the shattered glass door of the store on the morning of April 17. When the burglary was discovered it was evident that the thief had cut himself severely on the broken glass. A few days ago Puente was arrested and it was found that his hands had been badly cut. Furthermore, some of the stolen articles are said to have been found in his house. Samples of the man's finger prints, together with those left on the door have been sent to Washington for investigation by experts.

The District Sunday-school Institute of this section will hold its annual session at Bethel Congregational Church, this city, on Friday, May 16. A number of well-known speakers will address the delegates. This district comprises the Sunday-schools of Ontario, Upland, Chino, Cucamonga and Etiwanda.

FRAUDULENT MONEY ORDERS.

Fourteen Bogus Ones Cashed by Riverside Bank.

Miscreant Operated in Other Cities Profitably.

Noted Actor Is Charged With Chronic Inebriety.

RIVERSIDE, May 10.—Fourteen postoffice money orders, aggregating $1400, presented by one James A. Baker and cashed by the National Bank of Riverside, have proved to be fraudulent, according to information secured today from the office of Dist.-Atty. Evans.

Baker obtained the order blanks from the postoffice at Summerland, in Santa Barbara county, which is in charge of his sister, Miss Nettie B. Snow. Sheriff Wilson has interviewed Miss Snow and learned that Baker had access to the money order blanks. She expressed the fear that she might be held responsible for the money secured on the orders.

It is learned that Baker operated in a similar manner at Long Beach and Santa Monica before coming here. It was in this way he probably secured the $800 cash he recently deposited in the bank which later cashed the orders. Baker was introduced by a local physician, who had met him here a year ago. Shortly after making the deposit, he had the forged orders cashed, and in a day or two drew out the original sum of $800.

The spurious character of the orders was not discovered until they had reached the department at Washington, Baker thus having ample time in which to make good his escape.

DEFENDANT IS NOTED.

An unusually distinguished defendant appeared in the Superior Courtroom today in the person of Maurice B. Curtis, creator of the role of "Samuel o' Posen," which part he played for thirty-two years of the forty-four which cover his career on the American stage.

Curtis's wife caused his appearance in court on a charge of chronic inebriety. While admitting that he was addicted to drink, the ex-star laid the recent unpleasantness to ptomaine poisoning, caused by eating macaroni. It being learned that he had secured City Attorney Irving to handle his case, the hearing was continued to Monday.

Curtis came to Riverside with his wife about four months ago, the reputation of the city as a dry town leading him to buy a small ranch on Indiana avenue. The fight against appetite proved a losing one, however, and now the wife insists that he be given a NEW CORPORATION treatment, alleging that he is beyond her control.

PORTUGUESE CELEBRATION.

San Joaquin Lodges Convene at Tulare for the Annual Feast of the Pentecost.

TULARE, May 10. — Portuguese lodges of the I.D.E.S. from Hanford, Visalia and Fresno, as well as the local organization, are celebrating today the annual feast of the Pentecost, which has a special significance to these people. The celebration will continue Sunday and Monday, with all manner of field sports, barbecues, Portuguese games and all to conclude Monday evening with dancing at the pavilion.

Significance of this feast is intimately connected with national history of the Portuguese people. According to their records, during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, in 1336, the whole country was stricken with famine. Bread was not to be had at any price. The Queen turned to God in her distress. Kneeling on the banks of the Tagus River she prayed to the Holy Ghost for deliverance. Hardly had the prayer been completed when there appeared in the mouth of the river a fleet of English vessels, driven thither by adverse winds. They were loaded with wheat and other grains. The cargoes were secured and the hungry people fed. This was on the evening of Pentecost, a day which remains especially significant to the nation.

Sunday a special Pentecostal high mass will be sung at St. Aloysius Church, Rev. Fr. J. H. Miller and Rev. Fr. F. X. Mitchell officiating. The celebrants will march to the service, bearing at the head the crown, surmounted with the white dove, symbolic of the Holy Ghost. The celebration is in charge of the "Flor de Infancia" lodge of Tulare.

TROPICO.

TROPICO, May 10.—April was a record breaker as far as building permits in this city is concerned. During the month just closed twenty permits were granted, these having a total valuation of $33,155, being almost $10,000 higher than any previous month. The fact that fourteen of these permits are for modern bungalows costing from $1000 to $2500, shows that the population of Tropico is growing at no mean rate.

Last night there was a pitch battle between the boy scouts of this city and the Glendale scouts. It seems that early in the evening the Glendale scouts gathered at the home of F. C. Latter, their leader, in order that they might take an examination and also sleep out in blankets. A supper of "doggies," beans, salad and coffee was enjoyed and after an evening around the camp fire the young brigadiers rolled in their blankets in the ravine and proceeded to journey to the land of nod. Shortly after 10 o'clock they were awakened by someone walking near by. Upon investigation it was found that the Tropico scouts had stolen a march on them and had also taken their company banners and flags. The intruders were pursued and a lively battle ensued, which resulted in the return of the banners, torn and battle-scarred into the hands of the rightful owners.

Residents are making elaborate preparations for the reception of the "Boosters Day Trip" of Sawtelle, which expects to land at Tropico next Tuesday. They will bring with them the Sawtelle Municipal Band of twenty-five pieces and will come in fifty autos. After leaving this place the procession will journey to Glendale, Eagle Rock, Pasadena and Monrovia.

UPLAND BRIEFS.

UPLAND, May 10.—The annual election of officers of the Upland Woman's Club was held at the club rooms yesterday afternoon, and the ladies chosen were: President, Mrs. Fletcher H. Manker; vice-president, Mrs. P. H. McQuillen; recording secretary, Mrs. George Barlow; corresponding secretary, Mrs. George A. Cable; auditor, Mrs. William C. Cline; treasurer, Mrs. H. C. Kennedy; director, two years, Mrs. Charles Allens director, two years, Mrs. Jodd F. Sawyer.

While driving his automobile near Cucamonga yesterday, A. F. Deul of Pasadena lost control of the machine, which dashed into a barbed wire fence, cutting his throat in such manner as to require some fourteen stitches to close the wound. Dr. Weber of Cucamonga dressed the man's injuries, after which he was removed to his home at Pasadena. The medical men say the escape from death of the injured man was almost a miracle.

The marriage of Miss Hannah M. Clark to Benjamin L. Colborn, both well known young people of Upland, occurred Friday. Rev. R. C. Stone, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated, and there were present only relatives of the contracting parties and a very few intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Colborn left on the limited last evening for the former home of the groom in Nebraska, where they expect to make their home on a farm, with the parents of the groom.

The City Trustees are confronted with a serious problem in the matter of oil which leaks from standing automobiles on the Second-avenue pavement, recently placed here. In some places the new paving is seriously injured, if not ruined, already, and an ordinance requiring that all machines be left standing on side streets is now under serious consideration. The Mayor has appointed F. H. Manker, the present Fire Chief, to fill also the office of City Building Inspector. The appointment seems to give quite general satisfaction.

Jesus Puente, a Mexican well known near Cucamonga, has been arrested, charged with grand larceny, the crime being breaking and entering of the Williams-Lucas Company store at Cucamonga, some weeks ago. It is said the finger prints of the Mexican, which have been secured, will be used as evidence against him. The thief cut his hands badly in breaking the glass of the door, to secure entrance to the store.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

German Lutheran Congregation of Covina Will Move into New House of Worship Today.

COVINA, May 10.—The German Lutheran Society has just completed a new church edifice, and it will be dedicated Sunday afternoon. The exercises will begin at 2:30 o'clock at the Woman's Clubhouse, which will be in the nature of a farewell service, as the Lutherans have been holding services for several years in this building. The congregation will then march to the new church at Third and Dexter streets.

Rev. Paul Scherf, the pastor, will be assisted in the services by Rev. August Hansen of Pasadena, and Rev. T. W. Theiss of Los Angeles. In the evening, at 7:30, the service will be conducted in the English language, but the afternoon service will be in German.

Business men have taken hold of the "Boy Scouts of America" movement, and will push the organization to become a factor in the affairs of the valley. Charles E. Tredway, of the High School faculty, has been chosen scout commissioner, which is of the rank of "general." Scout masters appointed are V. R Ross, George S. Phillips, W. M. Warren and Prof. Healy. The local council, is composed of J. L. Mathews, president; Prof. Healy, vice-president; H. M. Roberts, treasurer. The honor court will be composed of E. P. Warner, W. B. Broadwell, George S. Phillips, W. P. Nye and W. B. Gammell.

LOOKS LIKE LOVE-MAKING.

Pasadena and Her Southern Neighbor Are Contemplating a Union of Interests—Short News Stories.

SOUTH PASADENA, May 10.—Trustees W. N. Carter and H. Hawgood and Engineers Olmstead and Gillelan, the men who did the engineering work for the proposed interceity outfall sewer, held a conference with Pasadena City Commissioners this week in regard to the prospect of this city taking over that part of the Pasadena water system serving South Pasadena, and other matters of even greater importance.

The conference is taken as a big step in relation to the possible consolidation of the cities of Pasadena and South Pasadena or, at least, in the formation of a municipal pact which will unite them through their utility interests.

This city has two particularly pressing problems. One is better water service for better fire protection, and the other is sewage disposal. This city has been one of the most active cities in securing the plans for an outfall sewer system to the sea. Such a system would be possible only in case all the cities and communities of the San Gabriel Valley unite, for its cost would run up into the millions, and the problem of finding a place where the outfall would reach tide water without a contest from some beach settlement, is not a small one. In addition the water running to waste in such an outfall sewer system is really needed for irrigation.

The matter of garbage disposal was also taken up. Some plan may be worked out whereby the Pasadena incinerator will be used to dispose of the South Pasadena refuse, Pasadena being paid for this service so much per ton destroyed. This plan would probably work out to the mutual satisfaction of both cities.

(Seal) T. L. CHAPIN,
Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

A. L. Dennis, being duly sworn, declares that he is and has been for twelve years Superintendent of Circulation of the Los Angeles Times; that the above detailed statement of circulation for the month of March, 1913, is correct, and shows the circulation of The Times for each day of the month named.

L. DENNIS.

Superintendent of Circulation, The Times.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 3rd day of April, 1913.
(Seal) T. L. CHAPIN,
Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of publishing premiums, prize offers and coupons in connection with its circulation. Neither does it misbrand or overrate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply the demand.

The Times' entire circulation is practically cash, and it is more reliable and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper in the state.

Switchman Killed.

W. B. Wilson, a switchman in the employ of the Pacific Electric Railroad, was run over and killed yesterday at Sherman when he fell from a car on which he was riding and was crushed by the wheels of the car following. The young man was acting as conductor while the cars were being shifted about in the yards. He was standing on the first of a two-car train and fell between the cars.

Griffith Park Trolley.

That the Pacific Electric will build into Griffith Park as soon as the observatory and zoological gardens are completed was assured yesterday by President Shoup of that road. No definite route for the new line has been selected, but it will probably start from some place along Sunset boulevard and enter the park from the south. The lack of car service is the one thing that has made comparatively inaccessible the city's largest park.

Bethlehem Free Labor Bureau.

Bethlehem Institution is making preparations to care for a larger number of unemployed men than usual from now until after the San Francisco Exposition. Last year over 2700 men were given employment through this free labor bureau and it is anticipated that the number will be at least double this during each year until after the close of the exposition. He suffered a severe spell of sickness after his fall and physicians said that he had been internally injured. For some time after the accident he attended school, but his health failed rapidly. The funeral will be held this afternoon at Glendora.

Fishermen Will Appeal.

The fishermen of San Pedro and vicinity have organized to test the validity of the law just passed by the State Legislature prohibiting net fishing within three miles of the Catalina coast, by an appeal to the United States Court. Their petition against the passage of the law, which was completed too late for presentation to the Legislature, they claim contains the signatures of over 3000 fishermen and business men. They also claim that the law practically limits them to within ten miles of Catalina, as their nets will inevitably float within the three-mile limit if they go closer.

School Ma'ams on Cruise.

The following teachers and their friends will sail from San Francisco on the new Japanese liner "Chiyo Maru," July 1, on a two-months' tour to Honolulu, Japan, Korea, Manchuria, China, and the Philippines, returning September 4: Miss Mamie Clark, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wilbur Hawkins, C. P. King, Miss George A. Diehl, J. H. Quinn, Miss Alice Morrison, Miss Hazel Webber, Miss Dorothy Zuhl, Miss Helen L. Harwood, Miss Irene Gardner, Miss Beatrice Hawkins, R. C. Forsepp, Miss Bertha Larson, Miss Dorothy Newman, W. N. Thompson, Miss Alice Watkins, and Miss Elizabeth Murray Coffin.

Special precautions will be taken to prevent a recurrence of the unforeseen results of the trip of a party of school teachers who left on a similar tour in 1910, when twenty-four engagements were made during the voyage.

Death of Edwin Wankowski.

Robert Wankowski, who has been seriously ill with Bright's disease for over three months, passed away yesterday noon at the home of Gen. and Mrs. Wankowski, No. 614 South Oxford avenue. Wankowski, although only a young man, has been a resident of Los Angeles for thirty years. For several years he was away from this city but returned four years ago, since which time he has been in the employ of The Times. The funeral services will be held at the chapel of the Sterling Boothe Company, Twelfth and Flower streets, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be at Rosedale.

RIGHT OF WAY SECURED.

New Glendale Suburb Will Be Opened Up by the Construction of Pacific Electric Branch Line.

GLENDALE, May 10.—Messrs. Tupper and Robinson stated today that practically all of the right of way for a new electric car line to traverse the eastern portion of Tropico and this city has been secured and that actual work on the construction work on the road will be started within a short time. The line will branch from the main Pacific Electric line at San Fernando road, Tropico, and will skirt the east hills at that place, cutting through several large acreage pieces and entering this city on the Child's tract line at Ninth street. It will follow this line north to Broadway and will follow the Broadway line to Glendale avenue.

At the present time a franchise is being advertised in this city to run for fifty years, the line to be either single or double. The right of way, which will cost the residents of this community approximately $40,000, will be donated to the railway company. This line will open up valuable territory which has up to this time being lying dormant, simply waiting for a line.

There is much dissatisfaction being felt and expressed by the residents of the east side of this city in the proposed removal of the Glendale postoffice from the eastern to the western section of the city. Ever since the office was located here, twenty years ago, it has been located in the eastern business section of the city, which is almost in the geographical center of the town. Although it changed locations severa ltimes it still remained in the east side. The lease at the present location of the office expires July 1, and as the present quarters are inadequate, another rooms was advertised for, and the rooms on Brand boulevard being the best offer, it was accepted. The conditions of the lease call for the installation of more than $2000 worth of fixtures, which expense must be born by the property owner.

Mrs. Dora H. Glazier of No. 900 Lomita avenue, entertained recently complimentary to Harry Duffield, the "grand old man," actor of the Burbank Theater, Los Angeles, the affair being Mr. Duffield's sixty-third birthday anniversary. Many spring blossoms were beautifully arranged in the various rooms. Dancing was enjoyed and an elaborate supper was served at midnight, at which a large birthday cake, bearing sixty-three candles was a feature.

La Casse May Forfeit Cash Bail; Woman "Moves."

William La Casse and Mrs. Paul Engstrum, Jr., each a principal in a sensational court action and the former now out on bail, could not be found last night, after a rumor had been circulated that they had fled to Mexico. For three days it has been suggested that the two were planning to go to Mexico.

Information had come to Paul Engstrum, Jr., who is now suing his beautiful wife for divorce in which La Casse is named as co-respondent, that the two were planning to flee together, according to an admission by him last night.

Those who knew the couple, remarked their presence on the streets together for several days. The gossip was that they were to be married as soon as the Engstrum divorce is granted, if it is granted. Visits to the various shops were also reported, in which it is reported the couple invested in numerous articles necessary for traveling.

The rumors became so insistent that last night the word went forth that the couple had gone. William La Casse, recited the gossip, had jumped his cash bail of $3500 which had been given in court for his freedom to answer to the charge of contributing to the delinquency of Evelyn Quick, the 15-year-old motion-picture actress.

The charge had been reduced to contributing charge after a hearing in court, at which La Casse's bail had been reduced from $5000 to $2500. It was reported that the Studebaker interests here had given the bail money for La Casse, who was their sales manager.

The name of William La Casse, charmer of women, and dashing rounder, was first coupled with that of Mrs. Paul Engstrum, Jr., after a sensational morning raid on La Casse's rooms in the Raphael Apartments, No. 1022 South Hill street. Private detectives and officers from Central Station smashed in the door to the auto salesman's rooms, and found Mrs. Engstrum and La Casse. They were taken to Central Station, but no charge was placed against them.

Immediately Engstrum began action for divorce against his wife, whom he had married after a spectacular romance in Oakland. He gave the name of La Casse as co-respondent in making the charge. At that time La Casse moved quickly from his apartment into quarters that he never made public.

Less than a week later La Casse was arrested on a statutory charge, preferred in behalf of Evelyn Quick, after which it developed that he was a charmer of women, living a gay night life, in which the various drinking cafes were frequently honored by him and his friends.

According to Engstrum, La Casse and Mrs. Engstrum were guilty of registering under assumed names at the Alco Hotel, Tenth and Main streets. The proprietor of the place denied that he had any such guests last night. Mrs. Engstrum occupied her apartment at the Raphael, No. 936 South Figueroa street, and gave as her forwarding address the Alco Hotel, several days ago.

DRIVE GREAT PIPE LINE THROUGH TO LOWER DAM

Aqueduct Now Completed to City End of San Fernando Reservoir.

Tomorrow Will See Work Commenced on Mighty Siphon of Riveted Steel to Connect Owens River With the Water Mains of Los Angeles Consumers Through the Franklin Canyon—Amphitheater Under Way.

UNDER FORCED draft construction, so to speak, the great Los Angeles pipe line from the aqueduct mouth to the lower San Fernando dam was completed last night. Work on the riveted steel siphon from the lower dam through Franklin canyon will be begun tomorrow. Camps have been built, steam shovels put in place and 4000 tons of 72-inch and 62-inch pipe strewn along the line. The crossing under the Espee tracks and one small flume will be built simultaneously with this.

One shovel will work south from Fernando dam and the other will work toward this city from the middle of San Fernando Valley. Following in their wake a big force of men will connect the pipe sections to form the great riveted siphon which will constitute the final link between Owens River Valley and the city's water mains.

At the south portal of the aqueduct, five miles north of San Fernando, Chief Engineer Mulholland has put men at work to create a great amphitheater by building a runway along the ridge of a hill. Here will assemble the thousands who will celebrate the aqueduct's completion June ASSURED INSURANCE.

Police and Firemen's Benefit Fund Starts with Substantial Sum to Care for Disabled.

The Police and Firemen's Emergency Fund Association yesterday submitted its final report on the cash realized from the two benefit performances given to create an emergency fund for disabled or incapacitated members of the police and fire departments. The sale of tickets for the two performances brought $17,330.10. The programmes issued for the occasion netted $2959.20 and sundry contributions totaled $25.65, making a total income of $21,343.95.

The income was not all profits, money having been expended in advertising the events in supplies for use at the Auditorium and at the Stadium. The total sum of these expenditures amounted to $1769.35. The city has subscribed $1000 to the fund and this is to be paid out of the next apportionment, creating a total fund of $20,574.60. The association which planned the relief was yesterday organized on a permanent basis and the officers elected were Max Meyberg, F. W. Blanchard, J. O. Koepfli, Perry Weidner and C. S. Walton.

The plan for the disposal of the fund is to turn it over to one of the local trust companies to be used in the purchase of mortgages, the income, as well as the principal when that is necessary, to be at the call of the Chief of Police and the Chief of the fire department.

The Pudding's Proof.

MUNICIPAL BLESSING OR COSTLY FAILURE?

Experts Withhola Judgment on Free City Curb Markets.

Plans on Foot to Wipe Out the Large Cost if Farmers Can Be Induced to Bring Truck In — They Say They Haven't Time to Fool With Little Business — Big Produce Firms Deny They're Inimical.

ABOUT 10,000 persons congregated yesterday at the three market places established a week ago by the Municipal Market Department with the idea of making possible a closer relationship between the producer and consumer. Many of them were purchasers from the huckster wagons, some of whom represented the farmer element that the department is striving to interest, while other vendors were men who bought their truck at the big market places at Sixth and Alameda and Ninth and San Pedro streets to resell it here.

While it was the fourth day of city market vending the experiment has not yet been carried far enough to determine its merits or whether or not the theory of eliminating middlemen can be successfully put in practice in this city. The department is costing the city about $400 a month and under the plan of operation is producing no income, but the members of the City Council committee are considering two methods of making the venture self-supporting. In the meantime they believe they have made a start toward helping people buy fruit and vegetables more conveniently and more economically than is otherwise possible.

The department was created by the City Council on the 19th ult. and Councilmen Reed, Langdon and Whitfen were appointed a committee in charge. Frank R. O'Brien has been employed as superintendent with offices in the Temple Block.

Three market places were opened a week ago yesterday as follows: Hollywood, at Cahuenga and Salem avenues, East Side at Manitou avenue and Daly street and Boyle Heights at Fourth and Breed streets. It is proposed to establish one in the Southwest, one at Highland Park and possibly one or two others, if the success of the three first ventures warrant branching out.

BELIEVES IN IT.

Superintendent O'Brien believes public market places will be a success in this city. He said yesterday that farmers are beginning to bring in produce more freely and that patrons are buying fruit and vegetables much more cheaply than at retail stores, from peddlers or even at the big market places which conduct a wholesale and retail business on a mammoth scale.

One of the handicaps thus far has been the failure of the farmers to bring in sufficient produce to supply the demand. On the opening day the supply was exhausted early in the morning at all the market places. Since then the amount of produce offered for sale has been considerably augmented by wagonloads of truck purchased at the Sixth and Alameda markets by local vendors and sold at retail to patrons of the city markets.

One reason advanced for the failure of the farmers to bring in more produce is that they have not time to spare to sell at retail, but prefer to sell their entire stock at a lower price and get back home in time to attend to ranch affairs. As an additional source of supply the Council committee is endeavoring to have fruit and vegetables shipped in to the curb market in carload lots from outside points. Chairman Reed has been in Coachella Valley for the past two days asking the growers there to pool their interests and make shipments on a large scale.

He is also figuring on taking advantage of low prices in certain commodities for the mutual benefit of producer and consumer. When onions are glutting the market in one locality and are bringing a fairly high price in this city he believes he can have them shipped here to the city markets and similarly with other products as the occasion arises.

If this plan is put into effect successfully the department can be made self-sustaining by charging just enough profit on the products handled to pay the running expenses. Another plan which is considered as a possible method of avoiding a deficit would be to charge vendors for space, as is the custom in the other market places of the city. The business isn't big enough yet to warrant such a move, the sales at each curb amounting to only $500 to $750 a day.

Aqueduct Memorial Fountain.

ENDURING MONUMENT TO A TITAN'S FEAT.

AN ELABORATE drawing in colors, representing the result of the work of the Aqueduct Memorial Committee and its plan for a memorial fountain, was unveiled at a luncheon given by the Los Angeles Ad Club at Christopher's yesterday noon. In explaining the details of the proposed memorial, Chairman Martin Neuner of the committee and Architect George Howard, Jr., said it was the purpose of the committee to embody features that will fittingly commemorate the greatest achievement of modern times, and that will be distinctly representative of Los Angeles.

The proposed monument, the estimated cost of which will be $500,000, is beautiful and unique and a masterpiece of architectural art. An excellent picture of the fountain, superimposed monument and statue and the surrounding gardens is published on the cover page of today's Los Angeles Times Illustrated Weekly. The cornerstone will be laid at Agricultural Park on June 19, the second day of the aqueduct celebration.

Charles A. Elder, chairman of the meeting; Mayor Alexander, Paul Shoup, Secretary Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce and others spoke in complimentary terms of the committee's design and predicted no trouble in financing the scheme. On behalf of the Pacific Electric President Shoup promised to rebuild and lower the railroad tracks in accordance with the plan to harmonize the fountain, surrounding gardens and all approaches.

Members of the committee have visited twenty-two cities studying artistic designs in monuments, fountains and buildings of various kinds, and Chairman Neuner says they are now convinced the Los Angeles memorial will eclipse and outshine anything of the kind in the world.

Unlike most monuments, he said, which recall dead heroes, scenes of carnage or massacre and which emphasize regret and sadness, the Los Angeles memorial will portray achievement and advancement and cheerfulness will be its predominating note.

The replica shown yesterday justifies the pride which the committee takes in its work. The details have been carefully worked out and improved from time to time by artists and architects who have worked with Architect Howard and the committee, and now the plans are completed and ready for use in erecting a world masterpiece towering 300 feet high.

The picture only partly reveals the full scope and conception of the entire scheme. Inside and out the scheme for beauty and education has been elaborately carried out and the lighting effect will give it a different but no less beauty at night.

The building at its base will be 300 feet square. The hall will be 110 feet square, outside measurement, and will be thirty feet high inside. The balcony around the inside will be fifteen feet wide and supported entirely on cantilevers, no posts or other supports being used. There will be four grand stairways and eight easy exits with four comfort stations.

The main platform will be eight feet above the surrounding country, the column will be over ninety feet in circumference and the column prop-

Kick-back.

BLIND CITIZEN "READS" RECALL.

HE WHO SWEARS HE DID IT IS CHARGED WITH PERJURY.

"Technical Error" Is Defense of Petition Circulator Who Sought to Invoke Recall Against Arcadia Officials—Political Row Still Brews in Lucky's Town.

The double back action recall which gripped the pretty little city of Arcadia by the throat about five weeks ago sustained what may be termed a "kick-back" yesterday when C. A. Billings, one of the zealous petition circulators, was charged with perjury in a complaint issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ralph Graham.

One ludicrous feature of the allegations against Billings is that the charge is based on the affidavit of A. W. Thorne, a blind man who is supposed to have carefully read the recall petition and signed it with his own hand.

Now comes Mrs. Thorne with an affidavit to the effect that her husband never saw the petition—which he could not well do being sightless—and also swears that she signed the petition herself. Billings will be arranged in the Justice Court tomorrow at which time he may be ready with an explanation of the present mix-up.

"I haven't had time to go thoroughly into all the details," said Dep. Dist.-Atty. Graham, "but I based my complaint upon the word of reputable citizens who apparently have plenty of proof to substantiate their statements."

Back of the complaint is the political row which shook the city to

INCANDESCENT CITY A MIRACLE OF THE NIGHT.

Contracts Let and Plans on Foot to Double the Glowing Miles of Ornamental Lights in Los Angeles. Great White Way to Beach Started by Little Bairdstown, Who's Voted Her Share of Cost First of All.

MYRIADS OF brilliant lights—the steady glow from long rows of street lamps, blazing electric signs, the glaring, demon eyes of hundreds of swiftly-moving motor cars, gleaming windows—are making Los Angeles the effulgent incandescent city of the twentieth century. Following the first command of the Creator, "Let there be light," the city plans a great enlargement of its great white zone.

Contracts have been awarded whereby the present times of lighted way in the city itself will be extended five miles and petitions are in process of circulation that will result in approximately fifteen miles more of incandescence.

The first to take action in the movement for "A Great Light Way" from the mountains to the sea, Bairdstown, through its Improvement Association, has secured funds, adopted plans and is about to establish along its part of Huntington boulevard a series of massive, ornate copper light posts.

Nearly all of the boulevard lies within Los Angeles, Pasadena, South Pasadena and Bairdstown. A plan to dot the highway along its entire length to make a brilliantly-lighted road for ideal automobiling at night was proposed early last fall and received with enthusiasm but the project as a whole is apparently no nearer consummation than to win the approbation of all who know of it.

Now, Bairdstown, smallest of the municipalities interested, has taken the lead and shown the way and her citizens are waiting expectantly for Los Angeles, Pasadena and the other cities interested to do their share and complete the plan.

The Bairdstown Improvement Association appointed a committee composed of George W. Baird, H. Conger Bowers, John Norton and L. Baird to arrange for the lights and the consent of the people to spend the necessary amount of money was obtained at an election last October. The committee has since been working on plans and designs. Its work was finished last week and bids advertised for.

About $15,000 to $20,000 will be expended on the Huntington boulevard lights and overhead lights for other streets in the town. The design adopted is similar to the light fixtures on Orange Grove avenue in Pasadena but is not quite so heavy. The fixtures will be substantial and of attractive design with one large light at the top of a copper post and smaller ones grouped below.

They will be set at intervals of 150 feet on each side of the boulevard and will make that part of the road for a distance of a mile and a quar-

and San Pedro streets, where $100,000 worth of truck is sold almost every morning before breakfast, the big produce dealers say they have not the slightest hostile feeling toward the proposition to establish city market places. They do resent, however, allegations that they have sought to block the enterprise by waylaying farmers and buying their produce before it could be taken to the free curb markets, and say that such statements are false and unwarranted.

Nearly $3,000,000 is invested in the two market places and the annual business exceeds $30,000,000. Most of it is on a wholesale basis, about 2000 wagons being loaded there by hucksters every day in addition to the fruit and vegetables shipped out of the city by freight and express.

Members of the firm of Klein-Simpson Company, Rivers Bros. Company, Myers & Darlington, Richardson, Holmes & Lamb and other leading concerns said yesterday that they see no menace to their business in the establishment of city markets and that they are not at all opposed to them, provided the advocates of the city curbs will cease misrepresenting them by making false accusations.

They say they have profited thus far by the city markets because they have sold truck to vendors who in turn retailed it at the city market places. In connection with the charges that farmers have been unduly influenced by produce dealers against the city project O'Brien said yesterday he had heard such statements but so far as he knew none of them could be substantiated. The evidence appears to be vague and of the hearsay kind, according to information obtainable at municipal market headquarters yesterday.

SEEK THE CONVENTION.

Los Angeles Native Sons Delegation Hot After State Grand Parlor Meeting Next Year.

Determined to bring the Grand Parlor meeting of the Native Sons of the Golden West to Los Angeles in 1914, about twenty-five local members of the order left Los Angeles last evening over the Santa Fe for Stockton from which place they will proceed to Oroville, the convention community this year.

Arriving in Stockton they will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce of that place for a day and will be taken for a trip up the river. The remainder of the week, beginning with Monday, will be passed in Oroville where many matters of interest to the Native Sons will be discussed and where a programme of sightseeing among the mines and the nearby camps has also been planned.

At the head of the local delegation is Junior Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger, who has occupied offices in the Grand Parlor for a number of years and is one of the prominent men of the Native Sons. All of the local parlors have delegates at the convention and a strong fight will be made to bring the next meeting to this city.

Enduring Monument.

er, 220 feet high. The top will be thirty-two feet square. The column will be hollow and will have a spiral staircase or elevator.

The statue of Miss Los Angeles at the top of the column will be thirty-five feet high. The jar she is holding will be three feet in diameter and water will pour from it constantly. The entire structure will be of reinforced concrete and covered with white terra cotta with trimmings.

The column will be divided into twenty flutings about four feet across each, and fifteen inches deep. About nine inches from the back of each fluting opalescent glass will be set. The water flowing down the front will be made to scintillate with colored lights in the background. The sunshine in the daytime playing upon the running water will lend life and action to the column.

The water later disappears and comes out in the four large electric fountains whose bowls are twelve feet across, small streams shooting up twenty feet in the air. The overflow from these bowls flows under a bridge on the platform into a cascade. The cascade will have tiled floors in pattern and colors, the figures suggesting frogs, fish, etc. Every miniature fall will have the same effect of opalescent glass and light.

Cascades will run in vases twenty feet in diameter in which are submerged statuary of a juvenile character. At the sides of the electrical fountain are statuary groups depicting education from the kindergarten to the most advanced. Along the rims of each basin sanitary drinking fountains will be provided.

Directly back of these groups panels will be set on the buttress at the four corners of the building. These panels will be six feet wide and twelve feet high and will be made of honey-combed terra cotta in heavy relief to depict the individual history of Los Angeles from its very earliest to its present date. The main pictures on the four sides of the building will be twelve feet high and about 100 feet long at each side and depict a panorama of the scenery of the head waters of the Owens River at Mt. Whitney down to Los Angeles.

The groups at the corners on top of the building will be thirty feet high and depict progress in commerce, travel agriculture and the arts.

The base of the column will be in the center of the hall. Surrounding the column a great glass aquarium is proposed, in the base of which will be submarine gardens. This aquarium will be the full height of the room and extend back of the statue three feet on every side. It is to be filled with bright-colored fish of many hues.

There will be no visible lights anywhere about the monument, inside or outside, except standard electroliers which are intended only to light the surrounding walks. On top of the hall of fame at each corner, a large terra cotta urn will contain a searchlight to play on the column from top to bottom. In the same manner Miss Los Angeles is to be lighted by great searchlights in the corners of the top of the column.

The panorama pictures around the sides of the monument will be lighted from overhead by invisible lights which will throw a flood of soft warm light, imitating the moonlight across the mountains, which will be in strong relief. The electrical fountains of colored water and the cascades in the columns will be treated in the same manner, the light shining through the opalescent glass. These will throw a reflected light on all the statuary in and about the fountains and cascades. The statuary on top of the building will be shielded from reflection in the corners of each upper figure or group and each figure will be lighted individually by a hidden spotlight.

BRIDE ENDS LIFE.

SAN DIEGO (Cal.) May 10.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Despondent and tired of life, Mrs. Gertrude Russell, wife of Walter Russell, a prominent business man of this city, and a resident of five weeks, committed suicide some time this morning by hanging. When her husband returned to his home at noon he found the house locked, but succeeded in opening a window. A search of the premises failed to reveal the body, which was finally found in a closet. She had tied a rope around her neck and the body was suspended from a hook in the ceiling. Her method of committing the deed was almost identical with that employed by E. W. Lawrence, a hotel proprietor, yesterday. An inquest will be held by the Coroner tomorrow morning.

MONEY IS URGENTLY NEEDED FOR THE SECOND CAMPAIGN

The following statement was issued yesterday by the Executive Committee of the Municipal Conference:

To the Citizens of Los Angeles: The Municipal Conference of 1913 has just concluded a remarkable campaign. The conference indorsed twenty candidates for nomination. Eighteen of these were nominated, two of them being elected outright. Only two of our candidates failed to qualify. We believe it will be conceded that the conference has been a pronounced success, and that the movement it represents is of great value and importance.

Our accounts to date show that the cost to the Municipal Conference of the primary campaign was $16,750. We lack $5000 of having a sum sufficient to pay our debts. This amount must be made up immediately.

We have another campaign to make at once. It will cost as much as the primary campaign, if not considerably more. We must have money, and we must have it quickly. Unless we can finance the campaign there is a possibility of the election of a Socialist Council. What are the business men and citizens of Los Angeles generally going to do about it? Money must be forthcoming. We need it.

Send all checks to F. W. Braun, treasurer, at headquarters, second floor Morosco Theater Building.

WORLD MOVES HITHERWARD

Around-the-Globe Shipping Coming and Going.

Los Angeles to Be Port of First Magnitude.

Great Companies Arranging to Run Direct.

The future of Los Angeles as a seaport of the first importance, as a way station on the greatest of ocean lanes, that around the globe, was heralded by the announcement of five of the world's greatest shipping companies within the past thirty days that they will offer service to this port immediately following the completion of the Panama Canal. A Japanese company, the Atlantic and Pacific Steamship Company, is to offer coast-to-coast service, while the Lamport and Holt Company will offer service with the ports of South America and no less than five additional companies are looming above the horizon as possible contenders for trade that will pass over our threshold.

First came the announcement of the Hamburg-American line, great rival of German shipping concerns, of proposed service around the world via this port. The Fabre line followed with similar announcement; London dispatches told us that Sir Henry Philippson, managing director of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, the premier steamship line of the world, not only proposed service to this port, but had ordered two $2,500,000 liners from the Clyde for this service. And now the Nippon Yusen Kaisha or Japanese Mail Steamship Company and the Toyo Kisen and Oriental Steam Navigation Company have announced to their local agent that they will meet the service to be offered by the three other concerns.

Thus in one month five companies controlling 1091 vessels, with a combined tonnage that runs well over the 3,000,000 mark, and reaching annually over 400 ports, have in effect, put this port on the world's trade map.

"If no others come, these five companies assure this harbor of the roseiest of futures, a place on the premier trade line, that around the world," declared D. P. Robertson, among the well informed of local shipping men yesterday.

Vessels outbound from London, Hamburg, Marseilles and Cherbourg, will touch this port or their agents' ports to Honolulu, Nagasaki, Hongkong, Manila, Calcutta, Colombo, Bombay, Aden and Port Said. To this will come cargoes from all the ports of the world; the tri-color of France, the Union Jack of old England, the sun-rayed flag of the Mikado's kingdom will flaunt jauntily from the taffrail of vessels entering this harbor.

GREAT POSSIBILITIES.

But the service of perhaps the greatest potential possibilities, that probably means most in dollars and cents to the producers of the Southwest, is that to be offered by the Lamport and Holt line and the Atlantic and Pacific Steamship Company, with sailings to South American ports.

Our exports to South America last year amounted to over $130,000,000 while our imports to $215,000,000, nearly all monopolized by the eastern seaboard," said President Kinney of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, speaking of the proposed work of the chamber's Foreign Trade Committee. "Closer trade relations will mean both increased exports and imports in the next few years, and why should not the Southwest get a slice of the pie? It will if we utilize the opportunities to be made for us by the opening of the Panama Canal and the coming of many lines into this port."

The Lamport and Holt line, with fifteen vessels of 400,000 tons, gross, is the premier South American line. Its service from Southampton and New York to all South American ports of the first importance is well established and has done perhaps more than any other one line to secure the bulk of South American trade for the British. The Atlantic and Pacific Steamship Company, American-owned, is a newcomer to the South American fields, but W. R. Grace and Company, who have a reputation for doing things

Those who know, read the signs right, the time is not far off when sell, and wheat from the fields of Argentina, coffee, sugar, cocoa and rubber from the wide expanses of Brazil, and hundreds of other products from South American ports will be laid down at our docks in exchange for products of a land whose fertility, whose possibilities are but dimly surmised even by us.

The opening of the port of Panama will also bring vessels outbound to Australia and homebound from the same land. These will carry the products of the latter to Europe to the Antipodes in exchange for the mutton and other products of that far-distant land. It is not beyond the range of possibilities that some of these things may be diverted to us over lines plying along the Mexican coast.

Along our water front great warehouses will probably spring up in this city, for the carving of the waterway across the slender waist of the continents is to be the magic wand that will unlock many treasure chests and make even Pandora's much-touted box look like a mere example of nothing doing.

Two weeks ago, the Chamber of Commerce's Foreign Trade Committee was organized as a direct result of the visit of an emissary of the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Department of Commerce. At his behest there is in preparation a pamphlet setting forth our products, the soil and of the busy factories, also something of our attractions. It is to be the opening wedge, it is hoped to not only cement relations with our neighbors to the south, but also trade relations that will put money in our ABUNDANT FAITH.

South Spring street property sold Wednesday for $2000 a front foot. Business has plenty of confidence in the future administration of Los Angeles.

KNEW HIS BUSINESS.

Before his last sickness the late J. P. Morgan tendered his resources and influence to President Wilson in case they could be used for the nation. We are commanded to say nothing but good of the dead. It may be permissible therefore to remark that Mr. Morgan was a great diplomat.

BETTER SERVICE.

The fact that the Pacific Electric is to double-track its Annandale line on Avenue 64 should serve to call additional attention to two of the most beautiful localities around Los Angeles. San Rafael Heights, on the one side of the Arroyo, and Mineral Park and Oak Hill on the other are like the spreading wings of Paradise.

HAVE ENOUGH.

The insurgents want to come back to the Republican party. They're tired enough of watching the vulgar display of a long line of Democrats at the pie counter. Finding that they can neither rule nor ruin the Republican party they are now willing to be good. Theirs is the hunger strike which failed.

OF DOUBTFUL SINCERITY.

Banker Clover appeared before Congress to regret slugging Representative Sims. He says that his provocation was great and that he did not know he was affronting the House. This is like the man who said that he was sorry he had done what he had, and if he had done anything else he was sorry about, he was glad of it.

THE CANAL IN OCTOBER.

Col. Goethals is working his force overtime with twelve-hour shifts on the Panama Canal. There are nine mammoth steam shovels working on the Culebra cut and it is predicted now that within four months, or at least within five months, ships will be passing through the canal.

In consequence of the procrastinating and inefficient action of the present city administration in failing to push work at San Pedro, Los Angeles must submit to the humiliation and loss of having the largest ships pass by her doors on their way to San Francisco or Seattle or Vancouver. This will be remembered in time, but "while the grass grows the horse starves."

HOW THEY VOTED.

If the Underwood tariff bill shall pass the Senate it will put the sugar-beet raisers, the wool growers and the citrus orchardists of California out of business.

Kahn, Knowland, Curry, Hayes, Bell and Stephens, Republicans and Progressives, voted against the bill. Raker, Church and Kettner, Democrats, voted for it. Nolan of San Francisco voted for it and so did Kent, the Republican-Progressive. Democratic-Independent, one leg on both sides of the fence, self-balanced, self-admiring, self-sufficient statesman of the North.

Maybe the sheep and sugar men and lemon growers of California will hereafter vote for the re-election of Congressmen who betrayed their interests. You can't tell.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

"What's in a name?" the poet asks. Much is in a name. In a name, for instance, are letters. A letter is composed of lines. A line is length and length is—what? Sometimes in the name Mitchell there are two letters "l," but some Mitchells spell their names with one letter "l"—the reason why no one can tell. It is so because it is so. Now President Wilson selected for the high office of collector of the port of New York a man who spells his name Mitchel with one "l." But the President sent the nomination to the Senate with two "l's" to the man's name. As a result the nomination had to be held up one whole day to have the name properly spelled. But who committed the mistake of spelling John Purroy Mitchel's name with two "l's"? Did the President himself err? Or is it a mere clerical error? Or is the misspelling of this man's name only another evidence of Democratic carelessness?

FOREIGN MANUFACTURERS' OPPORTUNITY.

British advertising agents are calling the attention of British manufacturers to the opportunity afforded for flooding the American market with foreign-made goods just as soon as the Democrats pass their tariff-for-revenue-only bills.

Manufacturers are urged to embrace this opportunity by entering upon a campaign of advertising which will "enlighten" the American consumer as to the saving that can be affected by purchasing the foreign product. This is the foreign manufacturer's golden opportunity. Of course, the American manufacturer should put the responsibility for this, not upon his English rival, who is engaged in legitimate business warfare, but upon the Democratic party for opening the door to cheaper-made foreign goods.

For many years there were charges that British gold was being used to create free-trade sentiment in this country, but it was not until the guardians of the American policy of protection fell to wrangling among themselves that the temple gates were carried by storm and, says the Camden Post-Telegram, protection was butchered to make a Democratic holiday.

SACREDNESS OF TREATIES.

A disposition has been manifested of late by persons uninformed as to the law, or not regardful of it—and most of the Sacramento solons are as ignorant of the law as a police-court shyster, and as regardless of it as Holy Hiram himself—to sneer at and make light of treaties with foreign nations, and to regard them as Flora McFlimsey did her promise to marry:

"A sort of engagement, you see,
That is binding on you, but not binding on me."

These wiseacres prate just as South Carolinians and Virginians did before the Civil War—about the "sovereign right" of a State to walk roughshod over its obligations and relations to the general government. They either do not read, or do not heed, that provision of the Federal Constitution which declares that all treaties made under the authority of the United States shall be the supreme law of the land, anything in the Constitution or the laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

A treaty is even more binding than a law of Congress, for the latter deals only with our own people in our own land, while the treaty includes our relations with foreign governments—the relations of one sovereign nation with another sovereign nation.

A treaty, as defined by Vattel, is "a pact made with a view to the public welfare by the superior power, either for perpetuity or for a considerable time." It is defined by Woolsey and by Hall as "unconstrained acts of independent powers, placing them under an obligation to do something which is not wrong." As defined by Webster, it is "an agreement, league, or contract between two or more nations or sovereigns, formally signed by commissioners properly authorized and solemnly ratified by the several sovereigns or the supreme power of each State. Chancellor Kent, in his Commentaries, Volume 1, Page 74, says: "A treaty is in its essence not merely a rule prescribed by sovereigns for the conduct of their subjects, but is also a contract, differing only from ordinary contracts in that it is an agreement between independent states instead of private parties, and, as such it is as obligatory upon the contracting states as private contracts are upon individuals."

The Supreme Court of the United States, in many decisions, ending with U. S. vs. Rauscher (119 U. S., 407,) reiterates the doctrine announced in an early decision (Foster vs. Neilson, 2 Peters 252,) as follows: "In the United States a treaty is not regarded as being merely a contract between sovereign powers and governed by the law of nations. Under the provision of the Federal Constitution making it the supreme law of the land, as far as the treaty operates by its own force, it is equivalent to an act of Congress and the courts will take judicial notice of its provisions."

In Geofroy vs. Riggs (133 U. S., 258,) the Supreme Court of the United States said: "Provisions of a State Constitution, the common law, or the laws of a State, which are in conflict with the provisions of treaties so made must yield to the treaties in so far as they conflict, or as long as the treaties are in force."

Treaties may be abrogated by the expiration of the time for which they were entered into, or by the mutual consent of the parties. Treaties usually contain a clause providing for their abrogation on notice.

In the Chinese exclusion case (130 U. S., 581,) the Supreme Court of the United States held that where a treaty is abrogated, whatever of a permanent character has been executed or vested under it is not affected, but the abrogation operates prospectively only. The rights which become so vested that the expiration or abrogation of the treaty will not destroy or impair them are such as are connected with and lie in property capable of sale and transfer or other disposition, not such as are personal and untransferable in their character. So "where real estate has been purchased or secured under a treaty, the right to the estate is not extinguished by the abrogation of the treaty."

It is to be regretted that Gov. Johnson or some of the jack-legged attorneys who enacted the Webb bill, or some of the editorial writers who have clamored about the necessity of forcing land-owning Japanese to sell their holdings and leave the country, did not have industry and fairness enough to look up the law, and so avoid making California ridiculous in the eyes of the nation and of the world.

If the matter is taken to the United States Supreme Court it is altogether probable that the supreme judicial body will follow its own repeated rulings and declare the Webb law to be unconstitutional and a gross and shameless violation of our treaty with Japan. Under our treaty we agree to accord to Japan the rights and privileges of "the most favored nation." She cannot demand the right of naturalization for her subjects at present, for that is a matter of domestic concern purely, and no nation has a right to claim naturalization for its subjects by another nation.

But so long as Englishmen, and Frenchmen, and Germans, and Europeans of every nation are suffered to buy and occupy land in the United States, such privilege may not be denied to Japanese without a violation of treaty obligations.

The government may conclude that to take the case to the United States Supreme Court will unnecessarily prolong the life of the Webb bill. It may take another and a shorter course. If Congress should enact a law providing for the naturalization of Japanese—making them "eligible to citizenship"—that would be a short cut out of the present complication. The passage of such a law may not be unlikely. The people of the East are not afflicted with the Japanese phobia; they care nothing about conditions which although they prevail in California do not exist anywhere east of the Rockies; they do not want an unnecessary conflict with Japan, and they would tolerate, if indeed they did not welcome, so simple and inexpensive a solution of the pending problem as that of making Japanese eligible to citizenship. That is precisely what California does not want.

The entire anti-alien land law business, from start to finish, was a piece of unnecessary demagoguery about nothing. There was no considerable demand for land emanating from Japanese. More Japs were leaving here every year than were coming. The Japanese are either unskilled laborers, traders or domestic servants. They are generally peaceful and law-abiding. There are no beggars among them, and few criminals.

Those who are here are needed for work that white men usually do not care to undertake. Unless the reserved common sense of Gov. Johnson shall induce him to withhold his assent to the Boynton bill, the anti-Japanese statesmen may find themselves in the condition of the dog that dropped his bone into the water to leap after the shadow of it. Instead of excluding Japs from land-holding, they may cause Congress to open the door to their naturalization. Holy Hiram and his Legislature have already queered the Panama exposition so far as the Japanese exhibit is concerned.

MOTHER'S DAY.

In all animal and bird life is there anything more beautiful and more touching than the exhibition of the mother instinct? The hen that gathers her chickens under her wings; the partridge that stumbles, as if wounded, along the woodland path, luring the hunter away from the place where her young are nested, until she is a safe distance from her home, when she rises with a whir and disappears before he can get his gun to his shoulder; the hunted doe, that will run no faster than her fawn can travel; the gentle cow, that will never lower her horns for a charge unless you molest the calf; the docile mare, that will be handy with her heels and show her teeth if her colt seems to be in danger from man or beast; the very tiger in the jungle, that will not appease her hunger until she has first suckled her cub—through all animated nature the power and the beauty of motherhood is manifested unto men.

And with the human what pen of poet or voice of orator shall depict the intensity and unselfishness and constant care and watchfulness of mother love and its beneficent results to the world? Without our mother's love and training we might all have been savages and cave dwellers. The heroes who have climbed the red path to immortality; the statesmen who have conducted their country safely past dangerous rocks and over stormy seas; the poets and authors who have guided pens of fire; the scientists who have wrested from nature the secrets that have advanced the knowledge and the happiness of mankind—how much have all these been indebted to their mothers?

What would have become of you in infancy if it had not been for your mother? The whooping cough might have whooped you into another world, the measles might have made you miserable, the scarlet fever might have tortured you to death. By the midnight lamp she watched you; to your hot lips she brought the cooling draught; she sang you to sleep with sweet lullabies; she taught your little lips how to pray. You were her baby and she was your God.

Is there a man worthy of the name who does not recall with gratitude even the spankings that his mother gave him? Who cannot remember the nursery rhyme—

"Who ran to catch me when I fell,
And kissed the hurt to make it well?
My mother."

God help and pity the orphans. They may receive the tender ministrations of benevolent women, but alas they are not their mothers!

This is mothers' day in America. This of all days in the year is the most sacred. Mothers of America, The Times greets and honors you and in the name of stalwart manhood and beautiful womanhood it gives you the assurance of a love and gratitude that shall not fail "'till the sea gives up its dead."

TARIFF POSSIBILITIES.

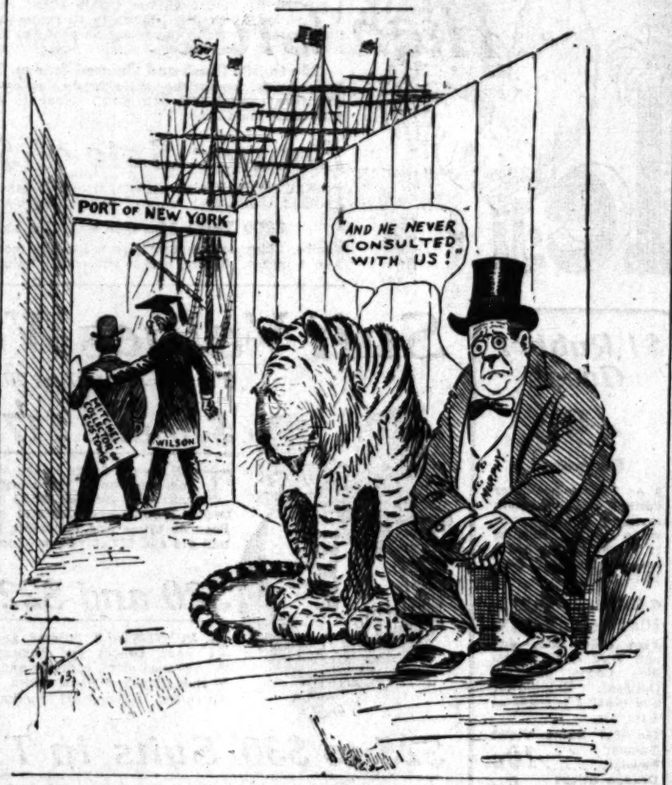
There is a narrow Democratic majority of four in the Senate. Two Senators from Louisiana, two from Oregon, and four from other Western States are in more or less open insurrection against placing sugar and wool on the free list. They have remonstrated with President Wilson thus far in vain. He stands firm for the Wilson-Underwood tariff as it left the House. These Senators have told the President that if the bill carrying free wool, free sugar and free lumber shall become a law, Republicans will certainly carry enough States at the next election to defeat at least four Democratic Senators and give a control of the Senate to Republicans.

The President does not agree with them. He claims that free wool, sugar and lumber will strengthen the Democracy at the next election in the country generally and even in the northwestern and intermountain States.

The programme of Senator Lane of Oregon is to place woolen manufactures as well as wool on the free list and thus to a certain extent neutralize or offset the injury to western industries that will be inflicted by the Wilson-Underwood bill as it stands.

The academic autocrat at the White House is as firm as schoolmasters usually are when dealing with recalcitrant pupils. He has the appointing power, and Senators whose Democratic constituents are clamoring for Federal offices may cause the administration Senators to yield. Unless they do yield, or unless the President yields, there is a possibility of a long and bitter contest with no tariff revision at all as the outcome.

Maimed or Tamed?



A FOOLISH PROPOSITION.

The latest antic of the Anglo-maniacs who gape with delight when Sir Edward Grey gives them a smile and "tremble with fear at his frown," is a proposition to allow the vessels of all nations engaged in domestic trade to pass through the Panama Canal without paying toll.

The larger part of the traffic passing through the canal, outside of that carried in American-owned ships, will be between European nations and their Pacific colonies. Under the arrangement proposed, the commerce of England with British Columbia, with Australia, with Hongkong and with all the east coast of Hindustan, from Calcutta to Ceylon, would pass through the canal free of tolls.

France would pay no tolls on ships flying between Havre and her colonies at Tonquin, Tahiti, New Caledonia, the Marquesas, French India, Cochin China, Cambodia and Annam. The Netherlands would pay nothing for ships trading to Java and Sumatra, and Portuguese vessels sailing between Lisbon and Macao would pass free through the canal. There would not be under such circumstances revenue from the canal sufficient to pay the cost of its upkeep.

The well-rounded asininity in a business sense of this last "diplomatic" proposition could scarcely be excelled, unless the United States should throw the canal open free to the ships of all nations except the United States, and present the captain of each vessel going through the canal with a cask of brandy, a thousand cigars, a chromo, a souvenir bulldog and an engrossed certificate that the United States is the sport of nations.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

Oh, well, I don't care if they fuss with the tariff and knock all the schedules sky-high, fifty ways; I'll tend to my knitting and just keep on hitting my trusty old garden for what it can raise. That moldy old question won't spoil my digestion or cause me to lose half a minute of sleep; with pigs to be tended and sheds to be mended, oh, why should I worry or argue or weep? I see many neighbors neglecting their labors to prove that the tariff is noxious and rank; and while they are fussing and pawing and cussing I carry a package of bones to the bank. I see many alecks, old grass-nourished relics, debating the duties on sheepskins and salt, and while they are spieling your uncle is wheeling a barrow of boodle to put in the vault. I see many fellows exhausting their bellows, explaining free trade as a thing that is fine, and while they are yawping I keep on a-hopping and pickle the marks and the kroners in brine. Oh, cut out the fooling and mooning and drooling o'er tariffs and duties and schedules and sich, and labor like thunder and salt down the plunder where moths won't corrupt it, and soon you'll be rich.

A Refined Looking Domestic.

[Popular:] One day Miss Helen Taft was met by two tourists as she left the White House grounds. With that charming and inexplicable gift for garrulity which tourists develop, they stopped her, and not knowing that she was the President's daughter, asked her a lot of questions about the White House. Miss Taft submitted, and pointed out all the various interesting things about the grounds, where the apartments of the President and his family were situated, and other intimate details.

"You seem to know a lot about it, my dear," said one of the women.

"Oh," replied Miss Taft laughingly, "you see I am one of the assistants to the chief cook."

As she walked away, she heard one of the tourists declare:

"Quite refined looking for a domestic."

No Family Resemblance.

[Washington Star:] "Does your son look like you?"

"No," replied Farmer Corntossel, "and he never will. No power on earth could persuade Clyde Corntossel to wear whiskers and old clothes."

QUITE CHARMING.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

This perennial question of womanly charm, how it does keep cropping up! Our dear Barrie tells us that, having it, we need nothing else; having it not, nothing else is much good to us.

Now you know, a remark of that kind sounds dreadfully personal. Hearing it for the first time, almost any average sort of woman would wonder anxiously just where she stands.

Cosmo Hamilton says that American women make a business of being charming. I don't wonder. It is almost more important than manicure and hairdressing. But it seems to be the sort of business that one can fall in quite as completely as grocery or real estate if one is not equipped with the natural qualifications.

Oh, I wonder if I'm charming! Just suppose I have been gaily tripping through life with comfortable self-complacence all these years without it. I know one girl of 36 who has only just discovered face powder. For thirty-six years she has worn a natural gloss on her skin, to say nothing of a shining tinker-bell on her nose, and now she is wondering reproachfully why someone told her face powder was wicked in her youth.

That's how I feel about charm. If this is such a very essential attribute in the female of the species why wasn't I told about it when I was still young enough to learn? Now I have arrived at that delicate age when girls of 20 ask me to be an old dear and chaperone them on a mountain trip, while dames of 40 still call me "my dear child." The loveliest age of all, I had comfortably decided, until I remembered the charm question. Now I'm not so sure. Suppose I lack that essential charm. . . .

Don't men have to be charming, too? Charm is rather desirable in a man. But not essential. Another gross injustice to woman. Almost any old decent attribute will stand a man in good stead—a bank account, an automobile, well-cut clothes, and sometimes even a shave or a hair-cut will do the trick. But with us—having not charm, nothing else will suffice!

"Isn't Mrs. S. a charming little woman?" said that nice, handsome eligible golfer at the country club recently. Very well, thought I, from now on Mrs. S. becomes my particular study.

She has a shy, confiding manner and she specializes in buttonholes. I wonder if that buttonhole is an essential? I'm afraid it is. Anxiously I have watched that pretty little finger of hers wander upward toward the top buttonhole in the male coat and poke its pretty way through. There it stays confidingly and assists to emphasize her naive remarks with gentle little tugs and wiggles. She removes it with the utmost reluctance and prettily strokes his coat with a dainty little parting pat.

Is this charm? Then there is that attractive Mrs. H. She always calls them naughty boys and presupposes them capable of infinite wickedness. Her shoulders shudder so gracefully and her eyes twinkle in such a very captivating manner while she does it. Oh, I know I could never learn to do it like that.

But then Marjorie is charming, too. And Marjorie calls them a lot of dear old sillies, says they are good boys and she is very fond of them if they only won't hang round so and fuss. Marjorie can beat them at tennis, outswim them at Catalina, drive an automobile with fearless unconcern, and run like the wind.

Mrs. F. is a charming hostess. The sort of hostess whose parties are honestly jolly affairs. Gloriously rare. What is the secret? One can meet exactly the same set of people at two different houses, yet one is a successful party and the other isn't. The people all seem quite delightful on one occasion and a lot of imbeciles on another. The "charming" hostess is the key to the situation, but how does she do it? Ask her and she will laugh and say she doesn't do anything. But she does. She somehow manages to put you in your very best temper the moment you see her.

Ah, perhaps that's the whole secret. This elusive charm, what is it?

I believe it is the art of making the other person pleased with himself. It is the art of ignoring or smoothing over the critical manner, the art of liking everyone for the best that is in them and forgetting the rest. It doesn't really matter whether you capture and wiggle their buttonhole or whether you call them naughty or good boys, just so long as you give them the sense of being quite nice anyway—desirable acquaintances.

The hostess who fusses and looks anxious and wonders if everyone is going to like everyone else and remembers how trying Mrs. G. can be with her long-winded stories and how vulgar Miss C. can be with her outrageous slang, promptly spoils the party. But the hostess who recognizes that each and every one of her guests is exceedingly agreeable in some one direction, anyway, and conveys the impression that she has invited him or her because she really wanted them, and comfortably presupposes nice behavior on the part of her guests and a happy appreciation of anything she has provided, is the hostess whose party is bound to be jolly.

Charm is a gentle understanding of human nature, a kindly disposition that sees virtues easily and faults hardly at all, a recognition that a friend is more delightful than a foe any day, and a firm belief in the ultimate goodness of things. That is why charm is more important in a woman than a man at present. It is an old established tradition that woman must please and men must be pleased. But times are changing. Soon we shall be having the charming suffragette putting forth the charming demand for a single code of charm for both sexes.

The Powders Did It.

[Portland Oregonian:] Mike came to the doctor about 9 o'clock with the information that their month-old baby would not sleep a wink. The doctor gave Mike sleeping powders for the baby. The next day he met Mike on the street.

"Well, how did the powders work?" asked the doctor.

"Them powders, Doc," answered Mike, "sure did the trick."

"Made the baby sleep, did they?"

"No, that they didn't Doc. We gave the darlint a dose, just as you told me, but it wouldn't sleep at all at all; so we just took a dose o' thim powders ourselves, we did, and went right off to sleep, and never heard the darlint cry one bit any more."

More Effective than Champagne.

[Washington Herald:] "Now, I want you to provide a little of this cheese."

"What, this cheap cheese at a fine banquet? Why, everybody knows that this cheese isn't fit to eat."

"Exactly. I want every guest to have something to blame for his headache the morning after."

An even more striking eviden[illegible] the potential wealth which has [illegible] brought down from the mountai[illegible] liquid form will be the Dry Ca[illegible] reservoir, a few miles above the [illegible] city, which will contain on [illegible] day of the celebration nearly h[illegible] billion gallons of water. Aqu[illegible] water will arrive at Dry Canyo[illegible] the 25th inst., and will be div[illegible] into the reservoir on that day. [illegible] will require two weeks of con[illegible] flow of the full capacity of the aq[illegible] duct to fill the huge basin, which [illegible] a capacity of 1325 acre-feet or [illegible] 142,675 gallons.

The cascade will start with a sh[illegible] drop of twenty-five feet when [illegible] water comes rushing from the mo[illegible] of the tunnel. It will descend [illegible] a granite spiral stairway, splash[illegible] and sparkling to a gentler fall do[illegible] a concrete spillway.

From the cascade the water will [illegible] arried through a concrete-li[illegible] open canal across the railroad tra[illegible] to the upper reservoir site and fr[illegible] there is another open canal to [illegible] upper end of the lower reservoir a[illegible] This line has now been completed a[illegible] connected.

The conduits from the portal to [illegible] lower reservoir fall far short of g[illegible] ing an adequate impression of the a[illegible] of the aqueduct line. The wa[illegible] rushes down the canals at a spe[illegible] four times as great as in the aqueduct proper, therefore the canals need [illegible] be only one-fourth as large as t[illegible] main conduits to take care of the f[illegible] aqueduct capacity.

From the upper end of the low[illegible] reservoir the water is to be brou[illegible] through a permanent covered [illegible] conduit which has been bu[illegible] but above the surface to a point ne[illegible] the lower dam. This line has al[illegible] been completed and is ready to co[illegible] nect with the steel siphon by a gat[illegible] way which will be constructed th[illegible] summer. There will be three ope[illegible] ings at this point. The water can [illegible] drawn directly from the conduit in[illegible] the Los Angeles pipe line or indirect[illegible] through the reservoir, or it can [illegible] diverted back into the conduit fro[illegible] the reservoir if necessary.

Water will be ready for deliver[illegible] into Franklin canyon by October [illegible] if the city needs more water a[illegible] that time, any quantity can be diver[illegible] d into the Los Angeles river to swe[illegible] the supply.

IRRIGATION DISTRICTS.

While the engineers are just start[illegible] on the last lap of their pipe lin[illegible] journey from the mountains to thi[illegible] city, the people who live on the fertil[illegible] lands which will blossom anew un[illegible] der the influence of the water, ar[illegible] making substantial progress with their [illegible] plans to form irrigation districts so [illegible] that they will lose no time in taking [illegible] advantage of the city's surplus sup[illegible] ply.

The San Fernando Valley committee [illegible] are meeting with no opposition [illegible] to the plan of forming a great dis[illegible] trict to include nearly 100,000 acres [illegible] south of this city. They say it is [illegible] merely a matter of detail now and as [illegible] soon as the legal phases of the mat[illegible] ter have been carefully gone over a permanent organization will be form[illegible] ed. Under the provisions of the en[illegible] abling act framed by City Attorney [illegible] Mead and about to be enacted they [illegible] will have plain sailing.

A petition to the Supervisors will [illegible] be the first step and this will be fol[illegible] lowed by a bond election to provide [illegible] funds to build a distributing system. [illegible] Under the landowners who seek to [illegible] use the water nor aqueduct officials [illegible] see any hitch over the question of [illegible] rates, for all concerned have too much [illegible] at stake to quibble. The landowners [illegible] need the water and the city needs the [illegible] income from the sale to pay the in[illegible] terest on the bonds and ultimately [illegible] retire the principal.

Charles F. O'Brien, one of a com[illegible] mittee to arrange the preliminary [illegible] steps toward forming a big district [illegible] between this city and the sea, said [illegible] last night that landowners through [illegible] the entire region which it is proposed [illegible] to include are unanimously in favo[illegible] r of the plan and most of them advo[illegible] cate annexation to this city within [illegible] the next five years.

[illegible] some inequality in service is [illegible] observed it is probable that one big [illegible] district will be formed to include all [illegible] land from Hollywood to Santa [illegible] Monica along the coast to Venice and [illegible] take in the area between the coast [illegible] and this city. This district will [illegible] follow the same plan as is being used [illegible] in the San Fernando Valley com[illegible] munities and the landowners believe [illegible] they will have a permanent organiza[illegible] tion and be ready for business as soon [illegible] as Los Angeles is prepared to deliver [illegible] water.

SUPPORTING HIS FAMILY.

But He Is Enforcibly Working for County While Doing It—Offi[illegible] Takes Pity.

The duties of Deputy District Attorney Jones to protect a sick woman [illegible] and her child from the hardships in[illegible] cident to a long imprisonment of her [illegible] husband led to a unique disposition of [illegible] the case of Richard Zeiger yesterday. [illegible] Zeiger was charged with receiving [illegible] stolen goods. Deputy District Attor[illegible] ney Alexander states the evidence [illegible] was strong against him. The man [illegible] pleaded guilty. A sentence of two [illegible] years was the expected outcome. Jones [illegible] saw the possibilities of the situation. He hastened [illegible] to see Judge Monroe and laid the matter [illegible] before him.

[illegible] mination was made that Zeiger [illegible] should work under the bailiff for non[illegible] support of his wife and child. [illegible] Zeiger went to San [illegible] Quentin, as a felony charge the coun[illegible] ty would have to support the [illegible] innocent and unfortunate family. Ar[illegible] rangement was then made with Zeig[illegible] er whereby he pleaded [illegible] guilty to a charge of receiving stolen [illegible] goods. This was taken before Judge [illegible] Monroe and a suspended sentence [illegible] was imposed.

The defendant was then taken before Judge Monroe on the non-support charge and given a year in which [illegible] to work for the county. He will [illegible] receive $1.50 a day for his services, [illegible] which will be paid Mrs. Zeiger. Thus [illegible] the case was settled and a family [illegible] provided for.

Judge Monroe received the commendation of [illegible] the court for his zeal in arranging [illegible] the matter.

From Pastor Anderson.

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I wish to state to the public that certain statements made in a story appearing in The Times of May 10, concerning the influence of a series of sermons recently preached by me to the congregation at the Forty-fifth-street Christian Church, that said statements are a misrepresentation of the facts.

The series of sermons referred to on the subject: "Is Our Industrial System Christian or Unchristian?" was, indeed, a modern, practical, searching series of sermons, applying the principles of Christ to the conditions and problems of our day. They were listened to throughout by unusually large and enthusiastic crowds. And instead of driving any one from the church, they have greatly increased the church's power and influence in the city.

Yes, the flag was taken down—not by the minister, but by the ladies of the church and when cleaned, was placed back in its usual place of prominence on the building.

The church has doubled in membership and trebled in size of audiences since I took charge of the work one year ago. The congregation is united and is very enthusiastic on the elaborate preparation being made at this time for the big tent meeting to be held on the corner of Forty-fifth and Central, beginning May 18. At the earnest request of the entire church I will do the preaching in this great revival campaign. Only one week ago the official board gave me a handsome raise in salary by unanimous vote.

In reading the story in The Times this morning, I recalled the passage of scripture, "An enemy hath done this."

Yours for live churches, practical Christianity, and a redeemed society.

SCOTT ANDERSON.

CONTRACT IS VIOLATED.

Supreme Court Affirms Superior Judge's Decision in Regard to Land Sale in Kansas.

The Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the Superior Court of Los Angeles in favor of the plaintiff in the action brought by Levi McCormick against Annora Marcy, to recover damages arising from a breach of contract in the conveyance of land.

The defendant executed a deed purporting to convey to the plaintiff a section of land in Kansas for $3500. In the covenant in the deed, it was set out that the woman was the owner of the land and that the property would be defended against any and that she was not the owner of the all comers. It afterward appeared land. Her immediate grantee had previously conveyed it to John Eck, Maude E. Maxwell, and Eva Bryan, whose deed was recorded prior to the deed of Marcy. That transaction took place in Indiana.

its very foundations. Mayor Unruh, executor of the estate of the late E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, who was publically commended by a Superior Court judge for his wise and devoted management of the property, has been the target for certain interests for a long time. But the disgruntled ones found difficulty in getting sufficient signatures to the petitions which would enable the community to hold an election.

According to the information furnished the District Attorney's office, it was this dearth of voting material that supposedly led some of the solicitors to add the names of the lame, the halt and the blind.

The recall election comes tomorrow. The Trustees and Mayor still are in the harness working hard to build up the prosperous little city of Arcadia which nestles amid surrounding groves and gardens.

There have been two attempts to recall Mayor Unruh, both unsuccessful. The anti-saloon element also tried to use the tomahawk on Trustee A. D. Bowman's scalplock, but also failed. Bowman says he is a temperance man, but that he did not favor confiscation of the property of saloon-keepers without giving them a fair deal. The saloons were later closed, but some of the residents declared that Bowman was not sufficiently pronounced on prohibitionist views.

Prior to the recent call for an election an effort was made to disfranchise about forty men on the alleged ground that they were "colonized" by the Baldwin estate interests. Two men out of forty were found to be ineligible to vote.

There have been many rumors that the advocates of the recall might get a setback, but not until yesterday was the mine exploded. Billings is said to bear an excellent reputation and his friends state that if he has committed any infraction of the laws the matter is merely a technical one.

The warrant was entrusted to Constable Hayes, but as there was no session of court Saturday afternoon, arrangement was made to have the accused appear in Justice Forbes's court tomorrow.

Elizabeth says: "I am troubled with a constant headache which also affects my eyes. My breath is awful, as I have a severe case of catarrh of the head and throat."

Answer: I receive daily hundreds of letters from people who have suffered as you do and who have been cured with the following prescription: Make a wash by mixing one-half teaspoonful of Vilans powder, which you can purchase from any druggist in 2 oz. packages, and add to this one pint of warm water, use this in the nostrils daily to thoroughly cleanse them. A catarrh balm should be used with this. This is made by mixing one teaspoonful of Vilans powder with one ounce of lard or vaseline and apply well up into the nostrils twice a day. If this is used daily your catarrh will soon vanish. It should, however, be used occasionally to prevent a return of the disease.

"C. G." writes: "If you know of anything that will cure dandruff, itching scalp and premature baldness, please let me know what it is."

Answer: For several years I have prescribed plain yellow minyol as superior to anything known for the treatment of diseased scalp. Get it in four-ounce jars with full directions. It quickly overcomes all diseases of hair and scalp and gives new vigor and intense natural color to the hair. Try it fairly and you will advocate its use for your friends.

"Mildred" writes: "I am constantly embarrassed because of the fact of my extreme thinness. I have absolutely no color in my face or lips and I am dull and lifeless most of the time. Please advise me what to do."

Answer: If you are so thin and pale and your lips and cheeks colorless it is because your blood is deficient in red corpuscles. This can be easily overcome by the use of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets, which can be had from any druggist in sealed cartons with full directions for taking. When the blood is enriched by the use of these tablets your weight will increase, the color will come back into your face and lips, and it will improve your general system so that you will become strong and healthy.

"Edna" writes: "I suffer with rheumatism all the time and I shall be very glad if you can tell me something to relieve me."

Answer: I can give you a prescription which will not only relieve, but will cure your rheumatism. This is my favorite remedy and from the number of letters received from people who have used it proves its value in curing rheumatism. The following is made by mixing well, taking a teaspoonful at meal times and again before retiring: Comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; syrup sarsaparilla comp., 5 oz.; iodide of potassium, 2 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half ounce; sodium salicylate, 4 drams.

"Morris" asks: "I have suffered with a chronic cough for almost a year, and catch a fresh cold every few weeks. Nothing the doctor gives me helps, so I write to you."

Answer: You need a thorough laxative cough syrup, one that not only relieves but purify drives it from the system. The following regularly used will cure any curable cough or cold promptly: Obtain a 2½ oz. bottle of essence mentho-laxene, mix it with a home-made sugar syrup or honey as per directions on bottle.

"Anxious B." writes: "I have in recent years been threatened with appendicitis, but would never consent to an operation. Indigestion, constipation and sedentary habits cause me much suffering. Kindly prescribe for dyspepsia something which you think will cure me and prevent appendicitis."

Answer: The most scientific and satisfying treatment for your trouble is tablets tri-opeptine; packed pink, white and blue in sealed cartons with full directions. All stomach disorders can be conquered by regular treatment.

"Nervous M." writes: "Loss of sleep, nervousness, loss of appetite and overwork has made almost a complete wreck of me. I have to work, but can scarcely drag one foot after the other. Please advise."

Answer: The condition you prescribe is prevalent especially with brain workers. Use the following: Compound syrup of hypophosphites, 5 ozs.; tincture cadomene, 1 oz. Mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful before meals.

Farmer's Wife asks: "Will you please tell me how to overcome obesity?"

Answer: Obesity is burdensome. Excessive fat on the human body is unnatural and frequently results seriously. The best and safest method to reduce is to take regularly 5-grain arbolene tablets. They are put up in sealed tubes with directions for home use, and any well-stocked druggist can supply them.

"Sara, C." writes: "I am constipated and have a greasy skin. Suffer from headache, indigestion and some kidney trouble. I wish you to recommend a remedy."

Answer: The best remedy to relieve and cure chronic constipation is called three-grain sulpherb tablets made from sulphur, cream of tartar and herb medicines. Taken regularly the blood is purified, the bowels and liver stimulated into healthy action and a cure established. They are packed in sealed tubes with full directions. These tablets are splendid for children as they do not gripe or sicken.

"Mamma"—I know of nothing better for bed-wetting than: 1 dram of tincture cubeba, 2 drams of tincture rhus aromatic and 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort. Mix. The dose is 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before meals.—[Advertisement.

OFFICIAL COUNT KILLS RED RAGGERS' HOPES.

AFTER two days of struggle with the election tally sheets of the municipal primary election of last Tuesday, the City Council at a session yesterday forenoon announced the results of the official canvass. The general results remain unchanged. In various instances the figures were changed to a small degree, but official declaration of returns dashed the hope of the Socialists that they might be able to cause a contest, with the possibility of getting Harriman's name on the nomination list for the general election.

John W. Shenk leads as nominee for Mayor, with 35,653 votes to his credit. Henry H. Rose follows, with 21,188 votes. The Harriman vote—official figures—is 20,675. H. Clay Needham, Prohibitionist, received 711 votes, and J. O. Becker, Socialist-Laborite, received 200 votes.

For City Attorney, Albert Lee Stephens has a vote of 33,417, and Charles O. Morgan, 19,295. The vote for Cryer—Earl's choice—is 18,370.

John S. Myers, with 47,604 votes, and Walter Mallard, with 47,648 votes, are declared elected City Auditor and City Assessor, respectively, and the City Clerk is instructed to issue to each of these men their certificates of election.

The eighteen high men on the list of candidates for City Council, making them the nominees to go on the ballot at the general election in June, are as follows: Frederick J. Whiffen, 32,609; Fred C. Wheeler, 22,802; Frederick C. Langdon, 22,477; John W. Snowden, 22,467; H. Z. Osborne, 22,274; J. S. Conwell, 20,757; Haines W. Reed, 20,561; H. F. Vollmer, 20,093; Frank E. Wolfe, 19,416; Ralph Criswell, 18,695; Martin F. Betkouski, 18,652; Charles McKenzie, 18,241; Thomas W. Williams, 17,916; Frances N. Noel, 17,554; Alexander MacKelgan, 17,316; W. J. Bryant, 16,744.

The fourteen nominees for the Board of Education run in the order of their vote as follows: John J. Steadman, 38,062; James M. Guinn, 37,059; Mrs. R. L. Craig, 36,287; H. W. Frank, 34,448; Joseph Scott, 33,937; J. H. Bean, 32,457; Frank I. Wheat, 30,857; Reynold E. Blight, 27,460; W. Scott Lewis, 21,781; Emma J. Wolfe, 21,451; Mrs. Hester T. Griffith, 21,252; Emery B. Hunt, 20,568; G. Gordon Whitnall, 17,524; Ella L. Merriam, 14,476.

The total vote cast at the primary election was 80,201, but of this there were 816 votes cast at precincts outside the city, for members of the Board of Education only, making a total of 79,385 votes within the city.

WHERE IS ROBBINS?

Police of Three Cities Asked to Locate Man Who Was First Thought to Have Been Drowned.

The police of San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles have been asked to assist in the now State-wide search for Henry Robbins, No. 534 Patton street, this city, who disappeared March 9. He told his wife he was going to Venice to bathe in the ocean and would return at noon. When he did not come it was at first feared that he had gone beyond his depth and been drowned. The failure of the body to come ashore causes the authorities to believe, however, that some other explanation of the disappearance must be sought. His family, consisting of a wife and five children, fear that he has met with some serious accident.

Robbins is 49 years old, five feet, eight inches in height, fair complexion, light hair slightly streaked with gray, light mustache, blue eyes, weight about 165 pounds, all front teeth crowned with gold. He was a foreman for the Barber-Asphalt Company.

PLAYGROUND BENEFIT CONCERT.

That the Normal School playground may be at the disposal of the children of that part of the city during the summer vacation, it is necessary to have four trained attendants in charge. The city has agreed to furnish two of them and the Parent-Teacher Association the other two. To raise the money to cover this expense a concert will be given in the Normal School auditorium on Thursday evening next and the patronage of the public is solicited. A fine programme of vocal and instrumental music has been arranged and an excellent entertainment is assured.

TRAMPS WORLD TO WIN PRIZE.

Edmonton Hiker Sells Papers in Every Country.

Rich in Experience; Also in Real Money.

"Yes, kiddo, I've jockeyed a camel from Cairo to the tombs of the Mamelukes; crossed shives with a Mohammedan fanatic in the subterranean sepulchers of an Egyptian pyramid; did time in bleak Siberia, and exchanged cards with the ministers plenipotentiary of every nation on earth—"

Eighty-eight thousand, eight hundred and ninety miles he had traveled when he reached Los Angeles and said this. He unfolds a romantic story of adventure which rivals the exploits of Jules Verne—Pittsie Ryan, a newsboy worth $25,000 in his own name and with surety of increasing this to $55,000 by 1916—all won by "hiking" around the globe. Ryan is here for a week or ten days, and sells The Times on the street.

His remarkable story is fully authenticated.

Up on the Saskatchewan River, Canada, 180 miles north of Calgary, once the door to the Klonkike, is a little city—as cities go—called Edmonton, a banking town, fur-trading center and meteorological station with a population of some 60,000 souls.

Pittsie Ryan, the newsboy with the wanderlust, put Edmonton on the map. He's spread its name and fame in every corner of the globe from the loftiest summit of the Dolomites to Manchuria.

And he's walked the 88,890 miles covered in doing it.

And he intends to walk 61,102 miles more and maybe put beyond all future reach the long-distance record for pedestrianism.

HAS BELTED GLOBE.

Once he's circled the earth, from Seattle to Seattle, through Japan, China, Australia, India, Europe and the Americas. Again, he is on his way around.

At the half-way post—once around the world—Pittsie Ryan stoped long enough to collect the $25,000 prize offered by the business and professional men of Edmonton. With a second prize, $30,000, posted, Pittsie Ryan resumed his long jaunt.

FITS ANY COAT.

Pittsie's a lithe, wiry young Hercules with assertive self-possession, the gift of a dozen tongues—picked up in his rambles—a knowledge of the geography and topography of the world that would put any university professor to the blush, a gentlemanly manner that belies his slanginess of tongue, and an education, academic and practical, that fits him to evening clothes or khaki, ambassadorial reception hall or mountain trail.

"Well, we'll make a quick jump from Edmonton to Seattle and start there with the yarn," Pittsie began. "I'll hand you the dope straight and you can either stack up against it or cast it to the discard—an' I'll skip the hows, whys and wherefores by which I managed to get scoffins—eats—and my nightly flop. I ate three squares regular when in civilisation, slept between clean sheets and catered to my hobby of bathing. Of course on the trail or desert I flopped in my blanket and ate anything from cactus to milkweed.

"Stowing away in Seattle, I left the shadows of Mt. Rainier and the door to the Yukon for Shanghai, the chief Chinese emporium open to European commerce. I ditched the liner outside of the three-mile limit, swam a mile to a heathen's junk and frightened the poor gink into believing I was a sea-god who had crossed the ocean on a wish-quilt. He landed me at the Bund and I made my way into the Putung, the industrial section. I didn't stick around Shanghai long, just time enough to paddle in the Hwang-pu and grab the monakers—the autographs—of 'our leadin' citizens.' They found me loafing around the imperial arsenal and I was pinched for the first of twenty times on a charge of being a spy. Hauled before the Mixed Court, I vindicated myself. I wish I'd stuck around for the big noise Sun Yat Sen made; but the revolution hadn't been whispered of then.

"I forgot to mention that I'd stopped in Japan on the way over, but that doesn't matter. Nothing happened there. From Shanghai I beat it into Siberia, afoot, ahorse, awheel and so on. Yes, it was some hike. It's a cold land and I don't see why this historic guy, Yermak Timofeyeff ever bothered about leading his cossacks into the capital of the Tartar Khan. Russia can have it, for mine. I got out just as soon as I could.

"I hiked it into India to the Ganges. And I know her as I know my Kipling—from the Anamalli Hills to Irawadi. I picked up a little of the Punjabi lingo, saw the devil and fetish worshippers howl before fire and incense, and have been in all the big burgs from Calcutta to Lahore.

"Then I went to Turkey, the Ottoman Empire, from Calcutta to the island of Kurdistan, in the region of the lower Euphrates and Tigris. I again bucked up against the spy stuff and if it hadn't been for the British and American consulates I'd have finished my travels six foot under ground, with a nice little government inscription over my floral decorations. The interior trade—raisins, silk, opium and so on—is mainly in the hands of the Armenians and Greeks and I thought it would be a good chance for a live wire to make a million. But if you have ever parleyed with an Asiatic—Islam spare you—you'll wonder where the Hebrews ever got the reputation for close bargainers. I took it quick into the Balkan States.

"Yes, I've been all over 'em, from Montenegro to Athens; it sure surprises me the way those beskirted mountain men have slipped it to the Turks. To see 'em at work and at play, you'd think little old Rhode Island's solitary regiment of militia could have wiped 'em off the map. But my chapeau's off to 'em now and I'm sorry I didn't tarry for the melee. Scoffins and the comfortable flops were too scarce and I wandered up through Russia, where something happened.

"I wanted to get the Czar's autograph and I lay around the palace at St. Petersburg until my chance came. He was in a carriage and I started through the guards toward him when a lancer stuck his prodder through my belt and off I went to—Siberia! And there I did my six months before foreign intervention got me out and I was passported out of the country. Back to France I went, then to New York and finally on to Edmonton, where I collected.

"I placed my dough in $25,000 worth of land and now I'm off on my second jaunt. It's fed me so far from Edmonton to Winnipeg, Quebec, Boston, through the East, down to Texas, Mexico, South America and up to Los Angeles. And here I am until the spirit moves me."

TROLLEY ON THE SANTA FE.

Electrization of Certain Portions of Lines in Middle West Under Advisement Following Meeting.

Electrization of certains portions of the Santa Fe, particularly those portions where hydro-electric power is available at low price, may result from a meeting last week of mechanical department officials of the road with representatives of Kansas and Colorado commercial organizations in La Junta. At this meeting, the commercial organization broached the subject of harnessing the Arkansas River for the development of electrical energy for the operation of trains, and furthermore, offered to enter into contracts for the purchase of such electrical power as the Santa Fe may not need. The plan was taken under advisement by the Santa Fe officials.

Within the past two or three years various roads have begun the electrical operation of trains in mountainous regions where hydro-electric power is available. In fact, this step is looked upon as the most significant railroad development of the last decade and it is freely predicted that another decade will see half the railroad mileage of the country under electric operation.

In the northwest, the government has just granted permission to the Great Falls Power Company to construct a transmission line across public lands to carry power for the electrification of 440 miles of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, between Harlowton, Mont., and Avery, Idaho. Great Northern engineers are also working along the Chelan River in Washington in an effort to locate a site for a hydro-electric power plant, the object being to extend the Great Northern's electrified zone through the Cascades.

In the light of these developments, says railroad men, it is not beyond the range of probabilities that a few years will see the electric operation of railroad trains in this State, using power developed by either the railroad companies or private interests.

SIX WEEKS OF UNMIXED JOY

"Times" Camp to Open Season at Catalina Island.

Bigger and Better This Year Than Ever Before.

Everything's Free to Boys Who Take the Trip.

Better than Christmas, which is a big some! Every boy who went last year or the year before liked it to the limit and is going again.

This could not possibly refer to anything else except the Times Camp at Catalina, which opens the last June or the first of July. Nothing else could make summer loom larger on the calendar than the Christmas holidays to the California boy.

Bring vacation in with a glad shout and is the biggest event of the day that are free from the school-room. There is no age limit to the privileges. A boy couldn't be so big or so little that he wouldn't be welcome if he met the conditions, and the terms are so easy that a healthy boy with any get up and go to him could win four days at delightful Avalon and all of his expenses from Los Angeles and return with twelve hours of hustling.

This is not a newsboys' party by any means. In fact, the little street urchins never enter the contest. They are too busy making a living at home. The idea of the Times Camp is comparatively new, but it has proved to be a mighty democratic institution. Bankers' sons, a lawyer's boy and the right bower of teacher, rancher, broker and mechanic all meet under the canvas of the mess camp at Catalina for the big feed three times a day, al lawim together, hunt mountain goats together, join one of the Times' Camp baseball nines, sing together in the music tent and fish together from the Catalina rocks with equal joy.

Probably there never was another vacation arranged for boys offering such a variety of amusements and The Times furnishes everything free. Money will not buy any boy extra favors. Everything is free to all who come and that is the end of it. Of course, if the boys want to bring spending money, they can do so and the manager, the matron, the cook or either of the two additional male assistants will act as bankers for the boys, giving them a regular deposit slip and letting them draw their money when they want it. Last year a sunny little gentleman, whose face might easily be guessed, deposited 10 cents and drew 50 cents during the four days he was there, besides which he insisted on receiving his original deposit with 3 cents for interest when he left. According to his faith it was done unto him. You see, these bankers haven't the heart to refuse a client favor or credit. They like to see business boom and it generally does.

EVERYTHING FREE.

The Times arranges for plenty of horse shoes for the exciting and healthy game of quoits and has developed some real live champions in the last two years. It provides indoor baseballs for the very little boys and the big $1.25 National Leaguers for the larger fellows. It supplies every boy who wants to row in the pretty and safe little bay with a boat every day that he is there if he wants it. The whole raft of fine row boats are at the disposal of the camp from the opening day until the close.

Every boy is at liberty to catch all the fish and the mountain goats that come his way. Now a fish is naturally a sucker and often gets the hook, but a mountain goat recognises that a small boy is no fit companion for him and not many of them have ever become playmates with the youngsters of the Times Camp. Last season, however, the boys caught a young kid and kept him for the season through. The last time of that goat was worse than the first.

Visitors often come to the Times Camp and they are always welcomed. They frequently enter the games with the boys and they retire with all of the stains if none of the honors of battle warfare. The management likes to stone to its guests by treating them to one of the best picnic spreads it is possible for Mr. Jackson, the veteran cook of the camp, to provide.

It is known that Mr. Jackson is a turkey of the old school who knows everything about cooking worth knowing, even if he never took a course at Mrs. Hacner-Ginger. When a man or boy puts his feet under Mr. Jackson's table, he is certain that he is going to get his. The last two summers Mr. Jackson has had the pleasure of feeding over 2000 boys and one of them has ever complained about the menu or has been sick on account of the food. Of course, they eat too much, but a scramble over the hills or a dip into the ocean settles that trouble.

SIX WEEKS OF JOY.

The camp can provide for about two boys every month and will run through July and August and into September. It it isn't large enough to take care of them as fast as they apply its capacity will be increased to occur on May 20, after which application will be made for incorporation. Today all the candidates will be entertained at a barbecue and there will be all kinds of races, horse-racing, stagecoach race, wild steer riding and a huge time generally. There is a complete women's ticket in the field, a Democratic ticket and a Progressive ticket and a live campaign is on. Circulars announcing the decrees. The Universal Film Company, which is promoting the [illegible], is anticipating the attendance of at least 1500 people today at the [illegible].

SOUTHERN PACIFIC ATTORNEY CHAFES AT ORDERS.

Ex-Judge Returns from Los Olivos in Private Car of Chief Surgeon Accompanied by Wife and Son Reads Legal Papers in Spite of Advice—Breakdown.

Ex-Judge J. W. McKinley arrived here at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Los Olivos in the private car of Chief Surgeon Ainsworth of the Southern Pacific and was taken immediately to his home at No. 2[illegible] West Adams street. According to Drs. Ainsworth and Bryant, who accompanied McKinley from Los Olivos here, he is considerably improved in health, but not out of danger.

In spite of manifest weakness and against the advice of his physicians the ex-judge insisted on reading certain legal documents on the journey here and fretted because of the physicians' orders to maintain absolute physical and mental quiet for some weeks to come.

Mrs. McKinley and their son, Wilfred, who was called from Santa Fe by the illness of his father, were aboard the special car when it arrived here. Wilfred McKinley is a member of this year's graduating class at the University of California and it was to attend the commencement exercises that the ex-judge and Mrs. McKinley left here Wednesday in their automobile.

Pressure of legal business and matters connected with the Southern Pacific-Union Pacific dissolution has lately necessitated constant night work on the part of the ex-judge. In fact, both Drs. Ainsworth and Bryant several weeks ago ordered McKinley to take a rest and it was at their suggestion that the automobile trip north was undertaken.

SIX WEEKS OF JOY.

The Times can provide for about 200 boys every month and will run from July and August and into September. If it isn't large enough to accommodate them all as fast as they apply its capacity will be increased from time to time. It looks now as if two camps will have to be established. Announcements will have to be made soon announcing the dates when boys have already qualified. The Times camp was one of the big events of 1912. He already has written to his credit. It takes a boy for a month or until he is ordered stopped to enjoy the first days at the camp, but figure for yourself that the first few days to his credit are all going after them.

Other boys have the same chance. Herbert Hoover, is one of the first boys to be qualified. The Times was at Pomona last week and the boys there clamoring for applications and blanks. He also visited Riverside and Redlands and the youngsters wild for a chance at the vacation plan.

Everybody is in on this and many fathers and parents are coming down for the summer will be one big treat. This is the Times yesterday Mr. Whitman, at Globe. "I received your circular to get it, for I was a boy once and had the time of couldn't have been anything that I enjoy this year I have several boy friends I can interest. Send me your terms."

That's the kind of letter than the camp managers are getting from boys all around. The more the merrier, so if any boy reads this, who wants to get in while the getting is good and who has not received his instructions let him write in for them at once.

Parents may be sure their boys will have good care. Each boy is assigned to a separate bed in tents that have wood floors and that are large and airy. A matron is always there to take care of the little fellows and a mature man and ofter three of them to look out for the older boys. The site of the camp is ideal and every boy who comes is guaranteed the time of his life. Send in six subscriptions and the trip is yours, absolutely free of cost to you.

Fumed Oak Furniture
In Arts and Crafts Designs

IT IS our unbiased opinion that for every practical purpose the fumed oak furniture in the beautiful Arts and Crafts designs—such as we show on our floors—is the most desirable moderately priced furniture that is built today.

We know of no other type of furniture in which a given sum will buy so much comfort—so much service—and so much simple beauty.

We refer to the productions of the celebrated shops of Stickley Bros. Co.—which we feature because of their superiority of construction and simplicity of design.

There is practically no wear-out to this furniture—the construction is of solid oak—and the integrity of the workmen is conspicuous in every piece. The cushions are of specially tanned Mexican goat skin, which will wear as long as the staunch oak itself.

And it is inexpensive—for as little as $6.00 you can buy a big inviting arm rocker—or for $10.00 you can buy one with loose leather cushion, or you may pay on up to $50 or $60 for the more elegant pieces.

If you have a furniture need for your living room, dining room or den, it will surely pay you to come and see our display. We believe it is the most carefully selected stock of fumed oak furniture in Los Angeles—and we know you cannot surpass the values. We invite comparison.

These fumed oak pieces are shown in the rich nut brown finish which it is almost impossible to mar—but where so desired, we can fume your selections to order—to match the woodwork of your home.

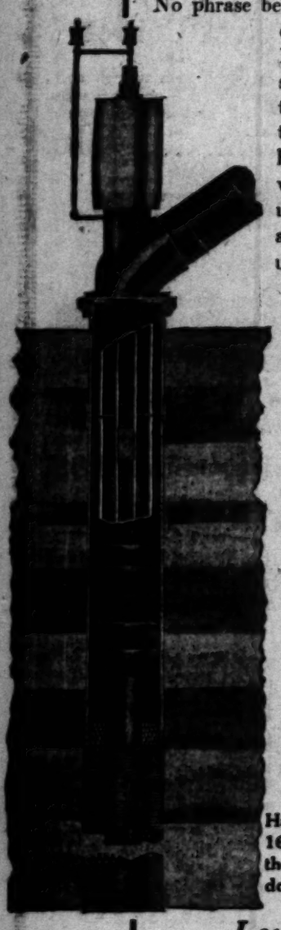
---the pump of the century



No phrase better expresses the all-around efficiency and durability of the Layne-Bowler pump. It has stood every test in every section of the most trying irrigation country in the world and has proved all and more than was claimed for it. It is the unanimous choice of irrigators and engineers, the ne plus ultra of pumping machinery.

Layne-Bowler

Pumps can be submerged in a well below the lowest dry season low water mark, making it impossible for the water to fall below the suction limit of the pump.

The Layne Pump is always primed, therefore can be started at a moment's notice.

The Layne Pump and pit make a neat installation, doing away with the unsightly dug pits.

The Layne Pump requires much less attention than any other pump. You do not need an engineer to operate it, as all it requires is the filling of the oil cup at the surface.

Have you our new Catalog, No. 16? It's free for the asking and there may be something in it you don't know about irrigation.

Public Service: City Hall, Courts

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Playground Commission announced yesterday that it has made application to the Board of Education for the use of nine public school grounds for playgrounds during vacation, and will also conduct a playground on the grounds of the State Normal School. Arrangements are being made for the establishment of the summer vacation camp in San Gabriel Canyon.

The Playground Commission will ask the City Council Tuesday to make an appropriation for Independence Day celebrations at the various public playgrounds, and will provide programmes of interest to both old and young.

The City Council yesterday set 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon as the time for hearing protests on light, power and gas rates for the next fiscal year. Protests have been filed on each of these rates, one being from San Pedro on the gas rate.

Health Commissioner Powers yesterday asked the City Council to prohibit the promiscuous distribution of patent medicine samples at residences.

Funny feminine finance is charged by Mrs. Margaret Rose, a dressmaker, against Mrs. Frances L. Mooers, a wealthy widow, in a suit on trial in the Superior Court.

LOOK AHEAD TO VACATION TIME.

PLAYGROUND COMMISSION PLANS FOR THE YOUNGSTERS.

Arranging for Nine Summer Recreatiin Centers on School Grounds and Camp in San Gabriel Canyon for Boys and Girls—Independence Day Celebrations Galore.

Great times are in store for the kiddies of Los Angeles during the forthcoming vacation period. The Playground Commission is devoting much time to perfecting plans for the various recreation centers and the vacation camp in the San Gabriel Canyon. The system devised is far more comprehensive than anything of the kind heretofore undertaken. All the playground workers met in conference yesterday to discuss details and become generally familiar with the plans worked out by Superintendent C. B. Raitt and approved by the commission.

Application has been made to the Board of Education for the use of nine public school grounds as playgrounds for the vacation period. Each of these will be in charge of an experienced field man.

The list of proposed summer playgrounds, in addition to the regular ones, includes these school grounds: San Pedro street, near Washington; Thirtieth street, between Grand avenue and Main street; Thirty-seventh street and Budlong avenue; Colegrove; Fifth street, San Pedro; East First street, Boyle Heights; Twentieth street and Central avenue; Main and Fifty-second streets. A playground will also be maintained on the State Normal School grounds for the benefit of youngsters who have their homes in the downtown apartment-houses.

In addition to these recreation centers, the Playground Commission will again maintain its summer vacation camp for boys and girls in the San Gabriel Canyon, about a mile below Follows's Camp. The commission has just issued leaflets giving particulars of this camp, and it is expected that the applications will be far in excess of those of last year.

The idea is to provide outings at as low a cost as can be figured, and boys and girls will be taken at different periods, in charge of well-qualified superintendents. The entire cost of a two-weeks' outing will be only $7.50, or one week for $4.75. This covers transportation, food and housing. The age limit for boys is 12 to 18 years, and for girls, 14 years and over.

The first group of boys will leave Los Angeles for the summer vacation camp on July 5 and will return July 19; the second group will leave on July 19 and return August 1. The first group of girls will leave the city on August 2, returning on August 15; the second group will leave on August 16, returning on August 29.

CELEBRATIONS.

PLANNED FOR PLAYGROUNDS.

The Playground Commission will go before the City Council next Tuesday and ask for an appropriation for expenses for a series of public Independence Day celebrations at the playgrounds throughout the city.

It is proposed to make these old-fashioned affairs that will appeal to old and young. The plans provide for bands at each of the playgrounds, speakers, soloists, plenty of sports, probably daylight fireworks, and moving pictures at night, showing patriotic and historic scenes.

At a meeting held Friday to discuss details, plans that range all the way from a Punch and Judy show to a parade of all nations were proposed, and the commission is certain that the variety offered will appeal to everyone, from grandpa to the littlest tot.

Flagstaff for City Hall.

The City Hall is to have a new flagstaff ready for use by Memorial Day. The present staff stands out at an angle from the tower in such a manner that the winds continually whip the flag about it, and this is so distressing that patriotic organizations have made complaint to the Mayor about it. The Mayor has appealed to the Board of Public Works and the board has decided to place a new staff horizontally from the tower length over the sidewalk space in so that the flag shall hang full front of the City Hall, and be visible for a long distance up and down Broadway.

Eternal Weed Question.

The city has hundreds of unimproved lots that are full of weeds; the city has a full-fledged ordinance providing the method whereby such lots may be cleaned and the expense charged to the property; the Board of Public Works has evolved a system and estimates of cost for carrying on such work; private citizens and various improvement and civic organizations are appealing to the city officials for the carrying on of this work—but the situation remains just as it has for a year or more, and the weeds grow and grow. The City Council has not provided the money necessary to pay for the work, although it is claimed that this would be really a revolving fund, as eventually the money would come back from the assessments made against the property.

The Board of Public Works has just prepared another statement to the Council, in which it declares that it is willing to undertake the task of lot-cleaning if the necessary funds are provided to secure the men and equipment, for which approval of the Council was asked long ago. The expense fund is exhausted, and the Council, doubtless, will carry the subject along till the next fiscal year.

Would Prohibit Sample.

Health Commissioner Powers asked the City Council yesterday to amend an ordinance so as to prohibit the indiscriminate distribution of drugs, in samples of patent medicines, at residences, where our children or others may get such drugs and become poisoned thereby. The subject was referred to the Legislation Committee.

Hearing on Utility Rates.

The City Council has set Tuesday at 2 o'clock, p.m., as the time for hearing protests against the rates on gas, light and power, fixed by the Board of Public Utilities, and now before the Council for its approval. Two protests have been filed against the light and power rates, one of these being by C. E. Warner, former president of the Aqueduct Investigation Board, who demands that in connection with this hearing an investigation be made as to the amount of money spent by the power companies in the recent campaign against the power bonds, and to determine whether such amount is included in the reckoning of expenses on which the rates to be charged patrons is based. The protest on gas rates is from Rev. P. H. Hickman, rector of St. Peter's Church, San Pedro, who asks for a gas rate for the harbor district the same as that set for the city proper. The present rate there is $1.20 per 1000 cubic feet.

City Hall Brevities.

The Board of Public Works has given its approval to the application of the Los Angeles Ice and Cold Storage Company for permission to construct a concrete tunnel across Mesquite street, 228 feet north of Seventh street. The land on each side of the street at that point is owned by the concern making the application for the tunnel permit.

Christopher M. Gordon of the Harbor Commission has an interesting and timely article of six pages, fully illustrated, in the May issue of National Waterways, on the subject of "The Seaport of Los Angeles."

George Sims, formerly assistant superintendent of the South Park playgrounds, Chicago, has come to Los Angeles to engage in playground work and has been placed in charge of the recreation center at St. Johns street.

All teachers at the public playgrounds and the playground commissions, will have their annual outing next Saturday, Sunday and Monday, in camp, at either Topanga Canyon or Terminal Island. Thirty-five persons will participate in this outing.

PAYS PART, BUT BORROWS BACK.

DRESSMAKER SUES A WEALTHY WIDOW FOR SERVICES.

Asserts She Was Engaged to Tour Europe as Companion and Was Promised Five Thousand Dollars. Is Paid Four-fifths, Three-quarters of Which She Lends Her.

The European trip made by Mrs. Margaret R. Rose at the solicitation of Mrs. Frances L. Mooers, a wealthy widow, the failure of Mrs. Mooers to fully pay for Mrs. Rose's services and the widow's letters bearing on her wayward son, are interesting details of a suit on trial before Judge Childs in the Superior Court for $5000 damages.

Mrs. Rose is a fashionable dressmaker on South Broadway. Her work pleased Mrs. Mooers, and when the latter decided to go abroad in 1903, she offered to take Mrs. Rose and pay her either $5000 for her services or build her a home. Mrs. Rose accepted the proposition, and the trip was made. It was a jaunt about Europe with Mrs. Rose, as she alleges, constantly caring for Mrs. Mooers.

The fly in the ointment was a son of Mrs. Mooers. Letters which will be produced in evidence written by Mrs. Mooers show the anxiety she felt. If he would only let liquor alone, she wrote, all would be well. Again she referred to a Los Angeles girl who followed her son to New York, although he has a wife. This girl was obnoxious to the mother.

The son's waywardness, it appears, and the habit he had of falling into the hands of the police when intoxicated, was a heavy load for the mother to carry. Wealth is a good friend, she wrote, but it does not bring a blessing. On her return she paid Mrs. Rose $4000. She then bought 250 shares of the Citrus Cove Ranch Company, defaulted payment, according to the complaint, and obtained $2000 from Mrs. Rose, to complete the purchase of the stock. The suit is brought for failure to refund this amount and the sum owing for Mrs. Rose's services abroad.

COMPLICATED DEAL.

PRIZE FIGHTER INTERESTED.

The Del Mar Tract, in which, it is alleged, Ad Wolgast, prize fighter, and L. G. Pake hold an interest, forms the subject of a suit filed by B. W. Fergus against the Venice Amusement Company and James W. Lawrence, Jr., trustee. Fergus seeks to have Lawrence deed the tract to the Venice Amusement Company and asks that the resolution adopted by the board of directors levying an assessment on the stock to the plaintiff and other stockholders, be rescinded and the sale of stock under the assessment enjoined.

The company operates the Virginia Reel at Venice. W. J. Guthrie is president, and Lawrence secretary and treasurer of the corporation, which was organized with a capital stock of $50,000. Of the stock 38,000 shares were issued to Guthrie and Lawrence and 11,500 to Fergus and others. It is alleged that the profit from the Virginia Reel for less than year is $5000.

Guthrie and Lawrence made a contract to buy fifty-nine acres near Venice, assuming a $15,000 mortgage, and negotiated to sell it for $105,000. Wolgast and Pake have a one-fifth interest, and it is alleged that Lawrence claims the land as trustee for Wolgast, Pake and their associates.

It is further alleged that the defendants propose to allow the action brought by the First National Bank of Venice and other creditors to get a judgment by default and sell the assets of the amusement company without defense. If the land is sold, it is said, the profits to the defendants will be $33,000.

SAYS IT'S STREET.

AMUSEMENT ENJOINED.

Whether the ground leased by Abbot Kinney to Thomas W. Pryor, on which the latter proposes to rear an amusement known as the Great American Derby, is private or public land, will be threshed out in court. Rogers & Dehm filed a complaint yesterday asking for an injunction restraining the city of Venice from interfering with the construction of the Great American Derby on private ground. The city asserts it is a public street. The order to show cause was made returnable by Judge McCormick in Judge Wood's court tomorrow. The suit is in the names of Kinney and Pryor.

An angle of this action is the arrest and conviction of Pryor's foreman for digging up a public street. He was proceeding to lay the foundation for the amusement building when, it is alleged, the Chief of Police of Venice arrested him. An appeal has been taken from the judgment of the court.

SOLVES DILEMMA.

EARNINGS TO WIFE.

Deputy District Attorney Joos solved a dilemma in Judge Monroe's court yesterday. The dilemma involved the question whether Richard Ziegler should go to the rock pile and earn money to support his wife and child, or be sent to the penitentiary where he would earn nothing.

Ziegler was charged with having received stolen goods, a felony, and with failure to provide for his wife and 7-year-old child. Judge Monroe opened criminal court. Ziegler pleaded guilty to the felony and was placed on probation. He then came up in the failure to provide court, pleaded guilty and was committed to the County Jail for one year. The $1.50 a day he will earn working for the county will be paid to his wife.

HUBBY'S RIGHTS.

COURT UPHOLDS HIM.

In dismissing the failure-to-provide case against F. H. Collins, Judge Monroe held yesterday that a husband has the right to say where his family shall make its home. Collins, it appears, had a home at the beach and his work called him to Los Angeles. Mrs. Collins refused to leave the beach and an estrangement resulted. A wife has no right to say she will live here and won't live there, declared Judge Monroe.

"I won't send this man to jail," he continued. "There is no reason why this couple ought not to live together and be happy. They have two nice-looking children, and should be happy. The case is dismissed."

ONE TOO MANY.

SECOND WIFE LEAVES.

Another wife cropped up in the romance of Mrs. Clara N. Parks and brought her a suitor for annulment in Judge Monroe's court yesterday. She testified that two weeks after marrying Benjamin Parks she discovered his interlocutory decree of divorce had been granted only three months previously, invalidating her marriage. She left him.

The decree was granted by Judge James August 4, 1909, and the record was produced in court yesterday. Owing to an error in the complaint the court allowed Mrs. Parks to file an amended complaint and continued the case.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

HUSBAND GETS DECREE. A surprise package was handed Mrs. Maude M. Carmack yesterday when Judge Monroe granted her husband, Rev. Joseph M. Carmack, a decree of divorce on the ground of desertion. She brought the action, alleging among other things he had failed to provide for her. The evidence was largely by deposition, Carmack and other important witnesses being in the East. Carmack filed a cross-complaint charging his wife with desertion.

UNDER ADVISEMENT. Arguments were made in Judge Finlayson's court yesterday on the validity of the Burnett Tenement-house Act, which has been once upheld by the higher court. The defendant, H. M. Barstow, owner of an apartment-house on South Flower street, argued through his counsel that if certain conveniences specified in the act were waived he could not be held accountable. This was denied by the city, represented by a deputy from the City Prosecutor's office. The court took the matter under advisement.

EDITORS DELVING DEEP.

Want to Learn all They Can About Southern California—To Visit Yosemite Next.

The Southern California Editorial Association leaves Los Angeles Thursday night on its annual junketing trip, which this year will be to the Yosemite Valley.

About a hundred of the editors and members of their immediate families will make the trip, coming from all of the towns and cities south of the Tehachepi. A special train de luxe will carry them from Los Angeles to Merced. General Passenger Agent Batturs of the Southern Pacific will be in personal charge of the trip and will accompany the party into the valley.

Arriving at Merced on Friday morning, the editors will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce of that place on a tour of the surrounding country, and at a luncheon at the new Hotel El Capitan, O. W. Lehmers, general manager of the Yosemite Valley Railroad, will take charge of the party there and Friday night there will be a special programme of amusements at Del Portal Hotel.

Saturday, Sunday and Monday will be occupied with excursion trips to various parts of the valley and the return will be started on Tuesday. Charles E. Jones, president of the association, who is registered at the Lankershim from Lancaster is in charge of the details of the scribes.

CLUB URGES OFFICIAL SUPPORT IN WATER FIGHT.

Declares in Favor of Charter Amendment to Place Police and Fire Chiefs Beyond Pale of Political Disturbances—Imperial Ottoman Army Officer Speaks.

Resolutions were adopted by the City Club yesterday urging the Mayor and City Council to give strong support to the legal representatives of the city in the effort to protect and preserve holdings in Long Valley and along the Owens River, in Mono and Inyo counties for the use and benefit of the city, and to defeat the attempt of the Silver Lake Power and Irrigation Company to deprive the city of its alleged rights.

A resolution introduced by the standing committee on civil service was adopted, declaring in favor of a charter amendment at the first opportunity providing that the offices of the Chief of Police and Chief of the fire department be placed under the merit system, so that such officers may not be displaced for political reasons by a newly-elected Mayor.

The speaker for the day was Maj. Comnenus-Palaeologus, formerly an officer in the Third Nizan Cavalry, Imperial Ottoman Army, and a member of the household of the deposed Sultan Abdul Hamid. He spoke on "Modern Turkey: Its Administration and Resources; the Revolution."

The speaker gave a concise description of the territory comprised in the Turkish or Ottoman empire, and information about its population, race and religions. He also dwelt on the political phases of the government of the empire in recent years.

"The enthusiastic spirit of reform which heralded the accession of Abdul Hamid has not entirely died out," said the speaker. "From the last decade of the nineteenth century reform movements have been rapidly and effectively growing in force and method."

The need of the Ottoman empire for new capital and the opportunities for development of valuable resources was discussed. The speaker believes that with the passing of the present war troubles a great period of activity will ensue and that many reforms will be instituted.

IN TROUBLE IN THE EAST?

District Attorney's Office Investigating Career of Railroad Man Accused of Embezzlement.

That William St. John Ranney, former Pasadena clubman and chief clerk to the auditor of the Santa Fe, was in trouble in the East, where wealthy relatives settled the alleged defalcation, was reported to Deputy District Attorney Veitch yesterday.

The deputy has dug thoroughly into the affairs of the young man, who is charged with having made away with about $75,000 during his eight years with the railroad company. He said the possible eastern difficulty makes no difference to the local authorities, as there are now seven complaints against Ranney.

The young man was never in prison before, say the railroad officials, who have a private system of looking up employees.

It is believed Ranney will plead guilty when his case is called in the criminal department of the Superior Court. He will have difficulty in securing probation, it is believed.

POLICE INNING COMING SOON

ARE SCHEDULED TO APPEAR IN SLAVERY INQUIRY.

Investigation Promised of Arrest of Women Who Were Subsequently Released—Bunco Man's Alleged Looked Into — Mysterious Girl Sought in Vain.

When the grand jury meets tomorrow it is believed that the police detectives who have been waiting these days for an audience will be given a hearing. It is said that some of the women previously summoned have made complaint about the manner in which they were arrested. Just who Kittie Phillips and Flora Wade were arrested and then allowed to go may be looked into. Miss Wade in particular has made a statement which she denies she is criminally connected with the Bixby case. Police officers will probably be given an opportunity to refute her sworn statements before the jurymen.

It is also expected that there will be an inquiry into the operations of the bunco gang, one member of which is now on trial in Department Nine of the Superior Court. One of the alleged bunco men under arrest in San Francisco has made the claim that certain Los Angeles officials knew of the presence of the confidence men here. Chief Sebastian is personally investigating this charge. When he learns the facts he may be ordered to appear before the jury in order to present the entire situation.

A young woman who is said to live in Hollywood was sought yesterday by detectives who wish to subpoena her to appear before the grand jury. She is supposed to have some inside knowledge of vice conditions. She was not found. The detectives did not divulge her name.

Detectives Boden, King, One of Oaks served fresh subpoenas yesterday. The case in which Florence Lavina Quick has already figured in justice and juvenile courts will probably be called to the attention of the grand jury. Several girl friends of Miss Quick have revealed the names of several wealthy young men who were their companions on midnight escapades. James Youngfogel, a moving picture actor, is under subpoena in this connection.

Several young men charged with having committed statutory crimes will be tried in the usual way in the juvenile court unless the grand jury requests to hear the case. In one case five boys under age are involved with two girls. Another concerns the relations of a party of boys and girls who live on the East Side.

It was a matter of a few months for Victor Levy, a barber, to obtain a divorce from Marie Brown, also yesterday. Bailiff Strehm of the Juvenile Court and Miss Cleo Helm, stenographer were the only witnesses and the evidence was such as to leave no doubt as to the nature of the life Mr. Levy led at Mrs. Rosenberg's East Adams-street house and at the Jacquil apartments.

Mrs. Levy said after the trial that she had reformed. She also declared that when the year is up she proposes to marry a man more or less prominent in police circles. She seemed happy at the conclusion of the divorce suit in which she made no defense, and said love and not money will govern her second romance.

POLICE RESPECT STYLES.

Woman Fined for Publicly Loaning Split-Skirt Wearer—Mrs Lee Criticisms.

The prevailing styles in feminine wearing apparel have received the official sanction of the local Police Court which decreed yesterday that young women appearing on the streets in slit skirts and silk hose are to be immune from open criticism.

The ruling came as the result of the arrest of Mrs. Catherine Gleason, 419 West Sixth street, who, it is charged, returned by the Coroner's Misses Olive and Loneta Ridings of No. 2222 Clifford street to loan them on wearing modern clothes.

The court, in passing sentence on the elderly woman, reminded her that opinions might differ in the matter of dress as in other things and that hereafter she must limit her criticism to near relatives. A fine of $20 was imposed but the sentence was suspended.

Mrs. Gleason, in telling of the occurrence, said she merely stopped the young women to warn them against wearing what she considered unseemly clothing on the street.

SEEK MISSING WITNESS.

Man in Jail Waiting to Be Tried For Alleged Assault on April 19 May be Released.

The police are making every effort to locate Theodore Lempicki, the aged man who was brought to the Receiving Hospital on May 1 suffering from wounds about the head which he claimed had been inflicted when he was assaulted by three men near the entrance to the Elysian way tunnel. Subsequently Allen was arrested and is held by the City Court.

Meanwhile Lempicki has not appeared and at his boarding-house the police were told he had taken to the longings a few days ago and departed. Inasmuch as he is the only witness against Allen, whose trial is set for tomorrow, the officers are anxious to locate the missing man.

MOTORCYCLES CRASH.

Two Injured in Collision Are Seriously for Hours—In Serious Condition.

D. T. Box, a real estate agent with offices in the H. W. Hellman building, and Jesse Wilson of No. 1414 Elwood street, are in a serious condition at the Receiving Hospital as the result of a collision between two motorcycles yesterday at Figueroa street and Central avenue. Box and Wilson are believed to have been suffering from internal injuries and were unconscious for hours.

Wilson and Robert Shay of No. 1414 Mateo street were riding the motorcycle which crashed into the machine ridden by Box, who was thrown to the pavement. Shay was not seriously injured and assisted in getting his companion and Box to the ambulance.

Mayor G. A. Bading of Wilmington has signed a batch of ordinances, no more will Milwaukee beer be allowed to wear plug which now is more than one-half inch from the crown of the hat. Coroner's Juries Findings Calmly Ignored.

No Arrests Follow Verdicts Responsibility.

Apparent Correlation Lacki in Official Circles.

The apparent disregard of the c stituted authorities for verdicts turned by Coroner's juries in the ev increasing number of inquests held this county brought to focus covering quarry: Why is a Corone jury? In view of the fact that th have been many cases within the p year where these verdicts apparen have been utterly ignored by the a thorities to whom the layman natur ly looks for initiative action, the qu tion appeals with peculiar force.

Two instances within the past f weeks have called the attention of t public to the apparent lack of corre tion between the Coroner's office a that of the District Attorney, or least to the failure of either or bo of these offices to work in harmon with the duly impaneled Coroner juries. In one instance a little gi was run down and killed by an a tomobile driven by a young socie woman. The Coroner's jury unhes itatingly returned a verdict fixing th responsibility for the child's death o the young woman and blaming he for the accident. In the face of th action neither the Coroner nor th District Attorney's office ordered o made any arrest. Persons interested in the case, knowing what the ver dict of the Coroner's jury was, na urally inquired: Why is a Coroner jury?

In the second case an aged man prominent in business, a manufactur of east citrus fruit expert, was crushed to death against the wall of a buildi ing at Fourth and Main streets by an automobile which left the stree and found its victim on the sidewalk The Coroner's jury, in its verdict, saf that the victim's death was due to reckless driving, but here again neither the Coroner nor the District Attorney's office deemed the verdict of sufficient weight to bring about the arrest of the man blamed by the jury for the accident. Friends learned of the finding of the Coroner's jury fixing the blame and when no action followed by the Coroner or the District Attorney's office, naturally inquired: Why is a Coroner's jury?

The accident of March 2 wherein Mrs Margaret Boetsch was crushed beneath the wheels of an automobile driven by Miss Frances Loftus, Stanford student and society girl, and the other where William E. Lankester was crushed against a building at Fourth and Main street April 19 by a machine driven by Joseph Marcelli, municipal, proprietor of a cafe, are two individual instances wherein the implied recommendations of the Coroner's jury, impaneled for that very purpose, have been absolutely ignored by the authorities. One knowing the circumstances can merely escape the self-directed query: Why is a Coroner's jury? Going back about a year to the time when the public was shocked by the frequent fatal accidents at county crossings of interurban railways, a close observer calls attention to the fact that the Coroner's juries made earnest recommendations, but nothing of any was done. The District Attorney's office hesitates to take the initiative in these cases and the result is that in numerous instances nothing comes of the Coroner's jury investigation. The public is left very much in doubt as to the alleged benefits derived from the Coroner's jury system.

In discussing the matter yesterday Coroner Hartwell said he knows of no way in which the system might be improved, and yet he admits that the verdicts returned by the Coroner's juries are in no sense binding. The jury is sworn merely to investigate and to find when, where and in what manner the deceased came to his death, and when by that verdict an implied recommendation is made that a certain person be held to answer, it rests entirely with the Coroner or the District Attorney to see that such action is taken.

Questioned as to individual cases, the Lankester accident in particular, Hartwell admitted that the verdict of the Coroner's jury was in his opinion a correct one, but added that he did not order an arrest because of the fact that there "might be some comeback" in event of the accused man's being acquitted later." As a matter of fact, according to the Coroner, the power of the Coroner and the District Attorney in effect nullifies whatever good there may be in the deliberations of the Coroner's jury.

One of the oldest institutions known to legal jurisprudence, the Coroner's office exercises unusual powers according to Hartwell. No one is exempt from jury service and is entirely within the province of a jury to find out whether or not wrong has been done. In the majority of instances, according to officials in a position to know, the verdicts returned are asinine, even in those rare instances where the findings of the Coroner's jury appear to be in accord with the evidence, the verdict is robbed of its legitimate force and effect, apparently, by the refusal of the Coroner or District Attorney to be bound by the findings.

Then one learns that following the finding of an individual an inquest is held and a Coroner's jury of six men impaneled, that testimony is introduced showing all the circumstances surrounding the death, that the jury then deliberates and returns its verdict and that the Coroner and District Attorney either follow the recommendations or ignore them as they please, one is not greatly surprised that the lay mind, applying the rule of "horse sense," inquires: What's a Coroner's jury?

HEALTH IN VAIN.

Mother of Conductor of "Times" Car and Domestic Science Passes Away After Ailing Long.

The death of Mrs. Fannie F. Wade, mother of Mrs. Bertha Haffner-Gingrich, who has conducted The Times Domestic Science for the past three months, occurred Friday morning at the home of her daughter in Glendale, after an illness of ten days.

Mrs. Wade, who had resided in Los Angeles for the past twelve years, had gone to her daughter to Southern California in last November. She was in frail health for some time, and Mrs. Haffner-Ginger brought her here hoping the climate and surroundings might restore her to health. She continued to gradually fail in health with paralysis about ten days ago. The funeral services were held yesterday.

vestigation Promised of Arrest of Women Who Were Subsequently Released—Bunco Man's Allegations Looked Into — Mysterious Girl Sought in Vain.

When the grand jury meets tomorrow it is believed that the police detectives who have been waiting three days for an audience will be given a hearing. It is said that some of the women previously summoned have made complaint about the manner in which they were arrested. Just why Mattie Phillips and Flora Walsh were arrested and then allowed to go away will be looked into. Miss Walsh in particular has made a statement in which she denies she is criminally connected with the Bixby inquiry. Police officers will probably be given an opportunity to refute her supposed statements before the jurymen.

It is also expected that there will be an inquiry into the operations of the bunco gang, one member of which is now on trial in Department Eleven of the Superior Court. One of the alleged bunco men under arrest in San Francisco has made the charge that certain Los Angeles detectives knew of the presence of the confidence men here. Chief Sebastian is personally investigating this charge. When he learns the facts he may ask to appear before the jury in order to present the entire situation.

A young woman who is said to live in Hollywood was sought yesterday by detectives who wish to subpoena her to appear before the grand jury. She is supposed to have an intimate knowledge of vice conditions. She was not found. The detectives did not divulge her name.

Detectives Boden, King, Oker and Jaks served fresh subpoenas yesterday. The case in which Florence Lorens Quick has already figured in the police-and juvenile courts will probably be called to the attention of the grand jury. Several girl friends of Miss Quick have revealed the names of several wealthy young men who were their companions on midnight escapades. James Youngdeer, motion picture actor, is under subpoena in this connection.

Several young men charged with having committed statutory offenses will be tried in the usual way in the juvenile court unless the grand jury requests to hear the evidence. In the case five boys under age are involved with two girls. Another concerns the relations of a party of boys and girls who live on the East Side.

It was a matter of a few moments for Victor Levy, a barber, to obtain a divorce from Marie Brown Levy yesterday. Bailiff Strohm of the Juvenile Court and Miss Cleo Helen Barker were the only witnesses, and their evidence was such as to leave no doubt as to the nature of the life Mrs. Levy led at Mrs. Rosenberg's East Adams-street house and at the Josephine apartments.

Mrs. Levy said after the trial that she had reformed. She also declared that when the year is up she proposes to marry a man more or less prominent in police circles. She seemed happy at the conclusion of the divorce suit in which she made no defense, and said love and not money will govern her second romance.

POLICE RESPECT STYLES.

Woman Fined for Publicly Lecturing Split-Skirt Wearers—Must Limit Criticisms.

The prevailing styles in feminine wearing apparel have received the official sanction of the local Police Court which decreed yesterday that young women appearing on the streets in slit skirts and silk hose are to be immune from open criticism.

The ruffling came as the result of the arrest of Mrs. Catherine Gleason, No. 119 West Sixth street, who stopped Misses Olive and Loneta Rollings of No. 2223 Clifford street to lecture them on wearing modern clothing.

The court, in passing sentence on the elderly woman, reminded her that opinions might differ in the matter of dress as in other things and that hereafter she must limit her open criticism to near relatives. A fine of $20 was imposed but the sentence was suspended.

Mrs. Gleason, in telling of the occurrence, said she merely stopped the young women to warn them against wearing what she considered unseemly clothing on the street.

SEEK MISSING WITNESS.

Man in Jail Waiting to Be Tried For Alleged Assault on Aged Man May be Released.

The police are making every effort to locate Theodore Lemplecht, an aged man who was brought to the Receiving Hospital on May 7 suffering from wounds about the head which he claimed had been sustained when he was assaulted by Frank Allen near the entrance to the Broadway tunnel. Subsequently Allen was arrested and is held in the City Jail pending his appearance in Police Court.

Meanwhile Lemplecht has disappeared and at his boarding-house the police were told he had taken his belongings a few days ago and departed. Inasmuch as he is the only witness against Allen, whose trial is set for tomorrow, the officers are anxious to locate the missing man.

MOTORCYCLES CRASH.

Two Injured in Collision Are Unconscious for Hours—In Serious Condition.

D. T. Box, a real estate agent with offices in the H. W. Hellman building, and Jesse Wilson of No. 1414 Elwood street, are in a serious condition at the Receiving Hospital as the result of a collision between two motorcycles yesterday at Fourteenth street and Central avenue. Both Box and Wilson are believed to be suffering from internal injuries and were unconscious for hours.

Wilson and Robert Shay of No. 1414 Mateo street were riding the latter's motorcycle which crashed into the machine ridden by Box, wrecking both motorcycles and throwing the riders to the pavement. Shay was not seriously injured and assisted in putting his companion and Box to the ambulance.

Mayor G. A. Bading of Milwaukee has signed a hatpin ordinance which will prevent no more will Milwaukee women be allowed to wear pins which project more than one-half inch from the crown of the hat. If the pins are covered with an "effective" guard the pins may exceed this limit, but those who guarded the wearers will be subject to fines of $1 for each offense, up to three and after that three days in the County Jail.

OFFICIAL FARCE BUT MIRTHLESS.

Coroner's Juries Findings Are Calmly Ignored.

No Arrests Follow Verdicts of Responsibility.

Apparent Correlation Lacking in Official Circles.

The apparent disregard of the constituted authorities for verdicts rendered by Coroner's juries in the everincreasing number of inquests held in the county brought to a focus the following query: Why is a Coroner's jury? In view of the fact that there have been many cases within the past few years where these verdicts apparently have been utterly ignored by the authorities to whom the layman naturally looks for initiative action, the question arises with peculiar force.

Instances within the past few years have called the attention of the public to the apparent lack of correlation between the Coroner's office and that of the District Attorney, or at least to the failure of either or both of these offices to work in harmony with the duly impaneled Coroner's jury. In one instance a little girl was run down and killed by an automobile driven by a young society man. The Coroner's jury unhesitatingly returned a verdict fixing the responsibility for the child's death on the young woman and blaming her chauffeur as an accessory. In the face of this finding neither the Coroner nor the District Attorney's office ordered or made any arrest. Persons interested in the case, knowing what the verdict of the Coroner's jury was, naturally inquired: Why is a Coroner's jury?

In the second case an aged man, prominent in business, a manufacturer of citrus fruit expert, was crushed to death against the wall of a building on Fourth and Main streets by an automobile which left the street and struck its victim on the sidewalk. The Coroner's jury, in its verdict, said that the victim's death was due to reckless driving, but here again neither the Coroner nor the District Attorney's office deemed the verdict of sufficient weight to bring about the arrest of the man blamed by the jury for the accident. Friends learned of the finding of the Coroner's jury by the same and when no action was taken by the Coroner or the District Attorney's office, naturally inquired: Why is a Coroner's jury?

The accident of March 2 wherein Sergeant Boetsch was crushed beneath the wheels of an automobile driven by Miss Frances Loftus, Stanford student and society girl, and the case wherein William E. Lankester was charged against a building at Second and Main street April 19 by an auto driven by Joseph Marcell, proprietor of a cafe, are especially instances wherein the verdicts and recommendations of the Coroner's jury, impaneled for that purpose, have been absolutely ignored by the authorities. One of the circumstances can escape the self-directed query: Why is a Coroner's jury?

Not a week or about a year to the day has the public was shocked by the almost fatal accidents at county crossings of interurban railways, a Coroner calls attention to the fact that the Coroner's juries made recommendations, but nothing was done. The District Attorney's office hesitates to take the lead in these cases and the result is numerous instances where the findings of the Coroner's jury are ignored. The public is left very much in doubt as to the alleged benefits derived from the Coroner's jury system.

In discussing the matter yesterday Deputy District Attorney Hartwell said he knows of no way in which the system might be improved and yet he admits that the verdicts rendered by the Coroner's jury are to all sense binding. The jury is empaneled merely to investigate the cause, where and in what manner the deceased came to his death. Action by that verdict an implied accusation is made that a certain person is held to answer, it rests with the Coroner or the District Attorney to see that such action is taken.

Questioned as to individual cases, such as the accident in particular, wherein it developed that the verdict of the Coroner's jury was in his opinion unjust, but added that he did not order an arrest because of the fact that there might be some comeback on the part of the accused man's friends later." As a matter of fact, according to the Coroner, the office of the Coroner and the District Attorney in effect nullifies whatever findings may be in the deliberations of the Coroner's jury.

One of the oldest institutions in English jurisprudence, the Coroner exercises unusual powers, according to Hartwell. No person is exempt from jury service and the Coroner within the province of his office is find out whether or not a crime has been done. In the majority of instances, according to Hartwell, he is in a position to know, but the verdicts returned are asinine, and in rare instances where the findings of the Coroner's jury appear to be in accord with the evidence, they are robbed of its legitimate effect, apparently, by the failure of the Coroner or the District Attorney to be bound by the verdict.

It follows that following the finding of an individual an inquest is held, the Coroner's jury of six men hear that testimony is introduced, all the circumstances surrounding the death, that the Coroner deliberates and returns a verdict that the Coroner and District Attorney either follow the verdict or ignore them as they see fit. It is not greatly surprising to the lay mind, applying "common sense," inquires: What is a Coroner's jury?

ter almost as light as day in the darkest night. The overhead lights for the general city system will be in place by July 1 and the boulevard fixtures will be ready for use a little later.

"A blaze of glory" is the hackneyed but appropriate description of the present downtown district of Los Angeles. For twenty miles out at sea the glowing city is seen reflected against the dark background of the night sky, a soft and mellow "milky way." The night watcher on Mt. Lowe sees the city as a great cluster of twinkling gems on the dark bosom of earth.

The newest additions to the nightly glow will be an ornamental lighting system on Second street from Figueroa street to Lake Shore avenue and out the latter thoroughfare to Sunset boulevard. Residents in various other districts are conducting the preliminaries necessary to obtaining lights.

A number of private lighting systems have been established and others planned in addition to the work that is conducted through the office of the City Engineer. The lights in Windsor Square are a pleasing example of the private system and a similar one is to be established in the Richmond Hill district.

The ornamental lighting system of the city has called for the installation of about 1000 posts, each with a cluster of five to seven bulbs, erected at a cost of about $100,000. Seven hundred of the handsomely designed metal posts will soon be seen on Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth streets. The cost will be about $50,000. The expense of installing the additional radiance, for which proceedings already have been begun, will be about $100,000. The proposed extensions include the following:

Main, from Pico to Thirty-sixth street; Pico, from Vermont avenue to Crenshaw boulevard; East Ninth street, from Main to San Pedro; San Pedro, from Aliso to Jefferson; Olive street, from Sixth to Pico; Hill, from Pico to Washington; Canal street, Wilmington, from First to Third street; West Chester place and Arlington place, between Pico and Country Club drive; Vermont avenue, from Los Feliz road to Sixth street—this one project being three and two-tenths miles in length.

In Statu Quo.

DANK MYSTERY VEILS AIRBOAT.

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES AT SEA AS TO INTENTIONS.

Complete Disappearance of French Aviator, Australian Mechanician and Mexican Purchasers of Aeroplane Leaves Interested Officials Perplexed—For War or Pictures?

The Mexican aeroplane sensation is in a state of status quo—whatever that is—and indications are that rigor mortis—likewise whatever that is—has already set in. It appeared to the Federal authorities here yesterday that the oxygen treatment would be of no avail, the pedal extremities being cold and the usual signs of dissolution having already appeared.

The condition might be avoided if Didier Masson, the clever and evanescent French birdman, and his Australian mechanician, Thomas Dean, would not persist in doing the vanishing act, and if the alleged Mexican leaders who are popularly supposed to have put a pile of perfectly good money in the eighty-horse-power machine had not disappeared, even as the baseless fabric of a dream.

The investigation by the Federal grand jury will be resumed Tuesday, when Glen L. Martin, air navigator, will be asked what he knows of the transaction. Other witnesses will be sumpoenaed.

Assistant United States District Attorney Robinson said he lacked information yesterday on the burning question as to why Masson and Dean had been allowed to escape from the Tucson police, or whether any of the warrants had been served. He was inclined to doubt the authenticity of the press dispatch from Nogales that Masson and Dean had registered there and that they wore the kahki uniform of members of the Constitucionalists.

He suggested that if Masson and Dean have no guilty knowledge of the uses to which the aeroplane was to have been put by the enemies of President Huerta, it would look better if they would return voluntarily to this country and give the grand jury an earful of information.

It seems to be agreed that the Mexicans supposed to have been concerned in the purchase of the aeroplane have fled to Mexico and are safely beyond the power of this government; but at that there is no information, so far as the public is concerned, to contradict the statements of those who are supposed to know most of the transaction—that the machine was for motion picture purposes.

Robinson said yesterday that the quest will be pursued and every person knowing anything bearing on the subject will be called on to appear as a witness before the grand jury. If an indictment is returned the parties wanted can be apprehended if they return to this side of the international boundary, and an indictment would serve as a warrant for the taking of the aeroplane.

So far nothing has been brought to the attention of the authorities that will warrant an investigation. It is believed that if it was the intention to use the machine for spying in Mexico or to drop dynamite bombs into the ranks of the Huerta forces, that fact is known to a number of persons in Los Angeles, but their identity has not been disclosed.

The enemies of the Huerta administration known to be operating in Los Angeles are not carrying their schemes on their sleeves. They are plentifully supplied with money and are not divulging their plans to the ho polloi about the Plaza. The investigation was begun on information furnished by Mexican Consul Cuevas, but this is not the first time that "bum steers" have been foisted on the Federal authorities here, not by Senor Cuevas but by some of his predecessors. The only reason for such action that has on numerous occasions caused much trouble and worry to the United States District Attorney's office is the fact that the information that something diabolical was about to be frustrated in Los Angeles, read well at diplomatic headquarters, in Mexico City, and served to bring out liberal appropriations for alleged secret service work.

Meanwhile the query whether the aeroplane was purchased for filibustering purposes is as tough a proposition as the question, "Why is a Coroner's jury?"

NEEDS OF Y.M.C.A. TODAY.

LOS ANGELES, May 10, 1913.—[Buiness Men of Los Angeles:] What do you know of the Los Angeles Young Men's Christian Association? Its burdens and its necessities?

You hear much about it. See its fine building, learn of its activities; but as they are not daily pleading for more money, seem always abundantly able to provide the finest athletic field in the State, meet all comers, give nearly 7000 boys and men the best there is, and no word of lack of funds by management, you may not have a correct idea of the facts.

Now, let us see who is providing all this.

The building, equipment, athletic fields, were all paid for from donations by a limited number of the appreciating public. Not one cent added to your taxes for all this.

Now, look at your city's public school buildings, including Manual Arts building and equipments. You know who paid for them.

The taxes for last year's schools in Los Angeles were $2,510,687, current school expenses. How about the schooling of the Y.M.C.A.? How much did it add to your taxes—not one cent, nor has one cent been contributed toward its current expenses by the public in the last eight years.

Who are the boys being given these educational advantages? The boys are mostly those who were compelled to leave public schools at the ages of 10 to 14 years to earn their own living or help support perhaps a widowed mother, brothers and sisters. With an ambition for better things, to learn trades, to add to their earning ability, they are attending Y.M.C.A. classes outside of labor hours, which is being paid for out of their meager wages.

You do not know, for it is not being dinged in your ears, how much the management are worried to meet all these demands. Not only to meet these demands, but that they may help take care of much more that should be done, for which there are no funds.

Business men of Los Angeles, have you ever been in the buildings? Can you then appreciate the influence of this society upon these boys and young men? Let me furnish the ideals of a boy and I will take the chances of him as a citizen. The ideal is always the leader of his associates and in the Y.M.C.A. it is the boy who excels in every department, and thus the influence there is not uncertain.

Did you see twenty years ago the possibility of the present society? How much have you contributed? Can you see the possibilities of the next twenty years? Do you appreciate how much one bad boy in a few years can add to the crime and taxes of your city? Some of these boys may drift away and come to the bad, but the boy who spends much of his idle hours about the classes and amusements of the Y.M.C.A. will not be found at Whittier, detention homes or San Quentin.

Many banks and firms who employ young men in responsible places are learning that the best bond they can get is to know they spend their idle hours at the Y.M.C.A.

There has been no call upon you by the management for eight years for current expenses. Now the largely-increasing demands are giving them great anxiety. There is not an industry, a public or private enterprise in Southern California more worthy of the best Los Angeles has to give than the Y.M.C.A. Pardon me when I claim it has but one equal, and that is the Y.W.C.A.

They now need not less than $60,000, and that amount quickly. Will the general public help? Are not these boys who are largely paying their own way entitled to some help from you, when you are contributing so much in taxes for public schools for those no better entitled to your support? We have no criticisms of our public schools. They are in keeping with Los Angeles' par excellence, but the Y.M.C.A. should be classed with the educational system, and not being provided for in taxes should have general public support.

Of the nearly 7000 present members many are men—the old men's club, as well as boys'.

One thing I wish to emphasize—listen! Wide discontent is abroad and is being spread by treasonable and anarchistic talks to boys as well as men. These are not heard in the Y.M.C.A. If you would avert a peril that is not idle talk you must get busy. Yes, you. Get next to the boys. You cannot glean too many of them—not only from the streets and public corners, but good homes as well. Help maintain the present lead of the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A. as the largest and most efficient in the cities of America. Don't wait to be solicited, but cut out blank, say how much you will give monthly for current expenses, and mail—$1 monthly will help, if enough of them, but $5 will help more, but say something if only 10 cents. Can you feel justified in allowing such a work as this being done in Los Angeles and you have no hand in it?

E. A. FORRESTER.

Los Angeles, ——, 1913.

I hereby agree to pay to the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A. $——— monthly toward current expenses.

"HANKY PANKY" CAPTURES ARMY OF "HEADLINERS."

Mammoth Musical Comedy Which Begins Engagement at Majestic Tonight Boasts Budget of Stars Who Won Fame in Two-a-Day—Pay Roll Largest of Any Company on the Road.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.

WILL the musical comedy magnates or the vaudeville managers win out in the relentless, bitter and costly war now raging for the possession of the best single and team talent now on the stage?

Clever entertainers, who, a few years ago were getting perhaps a $100 a week in musical comedy, are today drawing salaries close onto four figures in the two-a-day, while erstwhile vaudeville headliners have been seized, regardless of expense, and made stars of big girl shows over night.

Pay envelopes are fattening at the rate of hundreds of dollars per increase, but the theater-going public is paying little or no more than it did five years ago for its front row seats.

Where then is it all going to end?

A glance at the vaudeville bills in New York this week shows such well-known names as Jack Norworth, Vinie Daly, Isabelle D'Armand, Bessie Clayton, Courtney sisters, Kitty Gordon, Annie Abbott, all of musical comedy fame, in the two-a-day, sharing headline honors with such stars, pirated from the drama, as Ethel Barrymore, Nance O'Neill, and Sarah Bernhardt. And remember, that is just New York.

On the other hand the musical comedy magnates are rounding up all that is best in vaudeville, and there is no better illustration afforded than "Hanky Panky," one of the biggest girl shows of the year, which opens a two weeks' engagement at the Majestic tonight.

In a wonderful aggregation of principals one finds Max Rogers, Bobby North, Montgomery and Moore, Christine Nellsen, Clay Smith, Virginia Evans, Myrtle Gilbert, Harry Cooper and Flo May, every one of whom was a vaudeville headliner. Many, in fact, owe all of their success to their work in variety.

LOCAL GIRL STARRED.

You remember Christine Nellsen because she starred at the Grand when that playhouse was at the zenith of its popularity. Later she went into vaudeville and made so great a hit that the musical comedy magnates grabbed her, and she appeared with marked success in such productions as "The Kiss Waltz," "Balkan Princess" and the all-star Gilbert & Sullivan revival.

Orpheum patrons will recall Clay Smith. Once on a time it used to be Clay Smith and Melnotte Twins, and he is with "Hanky Panky" mainly because he is one of the best dancers on the stage today.

William Montgomery and Florence Moore used to offer a never-to-be-forgotten piano, song and dance sketch whichw as a wild and wooly take-off on vaudeville, in general, and pretty Myrtle Gilbert began her stage career in the varieties. You will recall her best though as one of the feminine stars of "The Yankee Prince."

THE GREATEST EVER.

Florence Moore, by the way, is really one of the funniest women on the American stage, and I venture to say that without her "Hanky Panky" wouldn't amount to such an awful lot.

"FINE FEATHERS" AT MASON "HANKY PANKY"—MAJESTIC

Lyceum Opens Again Tonight—Last Week of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" at Burbank and of "Old Heidelberg" at the Morosco Theater—New Bills at Orpheum, Empress, Pantages.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

THE story of "Fine Feathers" is intensely human. Its characters are drawn from life. There is an absence of hero, heroine, or villain. It deals with ordinary beings who are given full credit for the good that is in them. It is not a love story in the ordinary sense of the word, yet it deals with the truest affection of all—the love of a husband and wife—a love that has to fight selfishness and vanity as well as the romantic temptations which come into all lives.

In "Fine Feathers," from all accounts, Walter has written a play, based on modern conditions in the home and in the world of business, has shown the double standard of morals obtaining in modern commerce, which condones sharp practice in the office such as would not be tolerated in the drawing-room. It shows the evils of extravagance, the futility of consumption beyond one's power to produce—and all this is done, not by preachment, not by misanthropic phrases, but by a series of bold, vivid pictures. With Edeson, Lackaye, Figman, Coghlan, Robertson and Sumers in the principal roles, it is a promise of a fine performance of a real play.

There is only one company presenting "Fine Feathers," and this is the all-star cast which is to appear here.

The Majestic.

In Chicago, Boston and New York "Hanky Panky" has just completed record-breaking runs of 150 and 200 nights each.

Lew Fields, an expert judge of the pulchritudinous coryphee, has expended his usual care in selecting the "sirenic chorus."

The bright stars in the cast are, Max Rogers, the surviving member of the famous Robers Brothers; "Bobby" North, the "Warfieldian" character actor; Harry Cooper, heretofore the leading spirit of "The Empire City Quartette;" Clay Smith, Arthur Carleton, Christine Neilsen, prima donna; Myrtle Gilbert, the "beauty petite;" Virginia Evans, the statuesque blonde; Flora May and Florence Moore.

The book is by Edgar Smith, while E. Ray Goetz and A. Baldwin Sloane are responsible for the lyrics and music of such hits as "Where the Edelweiss Is Blooming," "Rose of Pyramid Land," "The Lyre Bird and the Jay," "Meet Me at the Stage Door Tonight," "Dixie Love," and others.

The plot, if it may be so described, is a musical comedy travesty with the adventures of that genial grafter "Get-Rick-Quick Wallingford" as a center.

One of the principal scenes shows the campus of the University of Chicago, with the famous Yale fence interposed for comedy purposes. This scene serves to introduce Billy Montgomery, as the campus leader of the rah! rah! boys, likewise, bringing together most of the stars.

Lyceum Theater.

The Lyceum Theater on Spring street will reopen tonight when Kolb and Dill, with their big organization numbering sixty-five will move over to the Spring-street playhouse and present a mammoth revival of "Peck O' Pickles."

For the engagement at the Lyceum and the revival of "Peck o' Pickles" the management has announced a special popular scale of prices ranging from 25 cents to $1, this scale to prevail at the night performances and Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

"Peck o' Pickles" was given for the first time on any stage in this city last season by Kolb and Dill. It comes from the pen of Frank Stammers and tells of the difficulties and dreams of two German merchants in a little town, who by keeping a blind pig and possessing lottery tickets involve themselves in serious trouble with a certain reform element in the village, bent on eradicating them from their midst.

A peace conference is called between the stubborn Dutchmen and the reform leaders and during the progress of it considerable beverage of the dark brown brew is in evidence. The result of this over-estimation of drinking capacity on the part of the Germans put them in a deep slumber and the audience is allowed to follow their dreams in a most realistic and highly amusing manner.

The dream first takes them back to the year of 1860 at the inauguration of Lincoln and then carries them into the Civil War. They then jump forward to the year 1950 and the spectators of "Peck o' Pickles" are given an imaginary idea of what is liable to happen when that far-distant time rolls around.

In the revival at the Lyceum the original production, properties and costumes will be shown, and in every particular the presentation promises to measure up to the best these comedians have ever offered on a local stage. Kolb and Dill of course will have the chief roles, with every member of their big company and Fannie Yantis and Laura Oakley, especially engaged, in the supporting roles. "Peck o' Pickles" is scheduled for one week only after which Kolb and Dill are planning a revival of their famous "Lonesome Town."

Morosco Theater.

Although the revival of "Old Heidelberg" was only announced to run two weeks, the play has proved so popular that at a late hour Friday the Morosco management announced a third week of the play, beginning this afternoon, in order to supply the remarkable demand for seats.

The charm of this play of German student days has never been better demonstrated than on the occasion of the current revival by Florence Reed, William Desmond and the others of the Morosco producing company.

For nineteen weeks "Old Heidelberg" has been given on the local stage and if present box office indications may be taken as any criterion, this week—the nineteenth—will be the biggest in the matter of attendance.

The delightful atmosphere of youth and good cheer, the clean, wholesome comedy, the fine dramatic moments, the bright dashing student songs sung by a chorus of twenty students, the splendid portrayals of the principals of the company and the fine scenic production have all gone toward making the current revival more popular.

The third, however, will positively

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

THE Wednesday meeting of the Ruskin Art Club was transplanted from work-a-day club surroundings to the home of Mrs. W. S. Ray, No. 121 North Union avenue, and blossomed into a delightful garden party. The short programme, arranged by Mrs. I. L. Hibbard, was given in the drawing-room, which was decorated with a profusion of exquisite General McArthur roses. Mrs. C. J. Dockstader spoke of the lyric poetry of the fourteenth century with its rules and formatism, touching also upon the conditions under which it was produced, and Mrs. G. L. Hutchinson told of the interesting career of Froissart, that most versatile chronicler, who makes his own times live again for us.

After the programme the club adjourned to the beautiful terraced garden where refreshments were served under shaded arbors, the clusters of prettily gowned women combining with poppy beds, flowering shrubs and gay Japanese umbrellas, to make a brilliant and picturesque scene.

This garden, by the way, well illustrates what can be accomplished in a short time in the wonderful outdoor world of Southern California. Three years ago it was an unsightly, weed-grown canyon—a gash in the landscape. Today, under the magic touch and artistic eye of the mistress of the home, it has blossomed into one of those lovely terraced gardens that are such a feature of English homes. Some of the choicest trees and shrubs from foreign lands have been planted here and thrive wonderfully. There are the sweet-scented wistarias of Japan; the German "rose of a thousand beauties," with its delicately variegated blossoms; the famouse French "blue rose," with its pinkish-purple petals; the lavender lotus tree; the Japanese tarsonia, a lovely fern-like tree; the cork elm, the hedge of yellow broom, and many native trees and flowers, including the California cherry, that grows so luxuriantly on Catalina Island. There are over 400 stepping stones in this lovely garden, leading from nook to nook.

Punch was served to the guests from a huge bowl embedded in greens on the humble wheelbarrow which played such an important part in the conversion of the canyon into a fascinating garden. The cart itself stood under a big willow tree, and was all but concealed with its load of flowers and greenery. On the upper terrace the pergola was converted into a tea room, where the fragrant beverage and delicious cottage cheese sandwiches were dispensed. In the summer house, down in the garden, ices and cakes were served.

To add his mite to the gayety of the occasion, "Bob," the tiny tame frog that of his own volition, leaped into the gold fish pond one day and has ever since floated around in company with its shining swimmers, piped up his joyous croak which, under the training of the mocking birds which "Bob" tries to imitate, has developed into a fairly musical baritone. Gay Navajo blankets were spread over the terraces, which are carpeted with lippia, now in full bloom. Exclamations of delight were heard on every side from the guests as they wandered at will among the beauties of the garden.

Members of the Travel Club, with who mthe hostess traveled through Europe a few summers ago, were special guests of the occasion, as well as Mrs. Elizabeth Cloud Miller, Mrs. Southwick of the Emerson School of Oratory in Boston; Mrs. R. L. Harding of Beverly Hills, Mrs. Herriott and Mrs. Josephine Witmer of Boston. Mrs. Ray was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Ella Hubbard of Azusa.

Badger Club Elects Officers.

Mrs. Frank A. Waters, a popular and gifted member of the Badger Club, was elected last Wednesday as president, to succeed Mrs. Morgan Jones, who has served the organization in that capacity for the past two years and who, in her address to members before retiring, urged the expansion of activities by forming departments during the coming year.

The new president, Mrs. Waters, is a progressive young woman of pleasing personality, and her regime will doubtless mark the introduction of such features as will continue the growth and prosperity of the club. Other officers elected were Mrs. Arthur C. Labrie, who was re-elected first vice-president; Mrs. L. E. Knott, second vice-president; Mrs. Mary E. Bartlett, who succeeds herself as treasurer; Mrs. Clarence H. Peare, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Herbert U. Durant, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles H. Grant, incumbent, and Mrs. Charles A. Lowell, directors.

Dr. Eleanor Seymour gave a talk on health, illustrated by slides, showing the development and growth of bacteria, and Mrs. Elizabeth Baker Bohan reported from the State convention at Fresno. Mrs. O. P. Clark told the club about the work of the Psycopathic Parole Society at Rest Haven, and interested the members to such an extent in this splendid effort for the aid of mentally afflicted women that a large number indicated a wish to join the society.

Mrs. Harrison Ward extended an invitation for afternoon tea at her residence, No. 2707 Menlo avenue, on Saturday afternoon, which was responded to heartily by club members.

A Live Missionary Society.

At the last meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Immanuel Presbyterian Church the day was devoted to the work of the freedmen. Splendid addresses were made by Mmes. Scott and Offut of the Sojourner Truth Home for colored girls in this city, which was opened last week, and a quartette of young women from the colored Methodist Church sang some excellent numbers.

Next Tuesday will be the regular all-day missionary meeting. At noon luncheon will be served from tables laid in the Sunday-school rooms, where usually a hundred or more women assemble. A feature of these luncheons is the birthday table reserved for guests and for those members of the society having birthdays during that month. The birthday honorees pay $1 each, and this fund is used to support a missionary.

The May topic includes Siam, Laos, Cuba, and Porto Rico—worldwide subjects. Mrs. Murray Harris conducts the current topics department, in which all vital points on missionary subjects are discussed. Immanuel Sunday-school has given all its money to missions, last year the sum totaling $1100. Mrs. David Thomas is the missionary secretary of the Sunday-school, and the last Sunday in the month is devoted to talks on missions—generally by some noted foreign worker, who is at home on furlough.

Y.W.C.A. Federated Clubs.

The federated clubs of the Y.W.C.A. will hold their annual meeting and election of officers tomorrow evening. Mrs. W. J. Hole, president of the association, will report on the Y.W.C.A. biennial conference at Richmond, which she attended, and each club will present a brief report of the year's work.

Matinee Musical Club Election.

The Matinee Musical Club will meet next Thursday afternoon in the rooms of the ladies' annex of the Sierra Madre Club in the Los Angeles Investment building, and elect officers for the coming year.

As Others See Us.

At the general conference of the Methodist Church, held in Minneapolis a year ago, one of the foreign delegates was Mr. Wong of China. Over in Foochow there was held, after his return, a woman's missionary conference, a report of which has just been published in the Woman's Missionary Friend, sent by Evelyn Worthley Sites, who says:

"The most thrilling thing in the woman's conference was the speech of Mr. Wong, our Chinese delegate to the general conferepce. He used his eyes while he was in America, and came back with a wonderful story. He said the strength of the American people was the glory of American womanhood. He had supposed, he confessed, that the American homes the Chinese see in the orient are grand exceptions, but he was astonished to find everywhere in America homes just as beautifully managed as those. He dwelt on the beauty and devotion of American motherhood and the noble service our women give in the school, the hospital, the Y.W.C.A., and the charitable institutions, and fairly took our breath away by stating at the finish that the American who did not turn out well was a hundred times worse than a bad Chinese, because he was surrounded by angels all his life—three special 'angels' guard every man—his mother, his teacher, and his wife. It made us American missionaries feel elated and depressed by turns to find ourselves all wearing halos, but it was a beautiful and inspiring talk altogether, and I wish more American women could have heard it."

Cosmos Reciprocity Programme.

Next Wednesday afternoon the Cosmos Club will be at home to sister organizations and will present a musical programme for their entertainment in the shape of a harp recital by Miss Myrtle Ouillett, Miss Lois Jones and Miss Esther Rhoades, who will give solos and concerted selections. Miss Rhoades is a daughter of one of the members of the club, and shows great talent in fingering the harp.

Sojourner Truth Home.

The Sojourner Truth Home for young colored girls, which has been built through the efforts of the club of women of that race, was formally opened last week with a "shower" of furnishings to which the merchants of Los Angeles and certain prominent citizens contributed liberally in the way of bed and table linen and furniture, one dealer generously donating a dozen beds for the dormitory, which will accommodate about twenty young women. The matron is a motherly woman, who will have charge of the home and instruct her charges in the art of tidy housekeeping. The building is of wood and plaster, with hardwood floors, beamed ceilings, splendid plumbing and all modern equipments. The interior was lavishly decorated with roses for the opening and during the afternoon many people, both white and colored, called to offer congratulations to the club, which has put through this philanthropic undertaking so successfully. Coffee and sandwiches, cake and ices were served, and were of such a brand as indicated that competent cooks might in the future be secured through cooperation with the home, for the inmates will be trained for domestic service, as the home is an industrial institution.

May Guest Programme.

The Friday Morning Club guest programme for May will be presented this afternoon in the form of an illustrated lecture on Switzerland by R. R. Baumgart, who will, in his address, discuss this progressive and model European republic.

Averill Annual Reciprocity.

The Averill Club entertained friends and delegates from other clubs last Tuesday afternoon, at the annual reciprocity day of the organization, with a musical programme participated in by Mrs. Robert H. Gregg, contralto; Mmes. Ada Chick and T. Exley, pianists, and Miss [illegible] Grants, violinist. Mrs. G. C. [illegible], president of the club, recited several humorous selections and Mrs. Spencer gave a delightful talk on the national spirit of music, illustrated by piano selections. Much merriment was aroused when he told of the criticism of American music and people by foreigners. The programme was followed by refreshments.

Mrs. Frank A. Waters,

Who has just been elected president of the Badger Club, an organization made up of former Wisconsin women.

Benefit Vacation Home.

The Vacation Home for working women at Venice is one of the philanthropic institutions that commands the approval and support of the public. Tomorrow night Oliver Morosco of the Morosco Theater will give a benefit performance for the home.

Ebell's Interesting Programme.

The programme at the Ebell Club tomorrow afternoon promises to be one of unusual interest. The topic deals with California—past and present, and the speakers will be Mrs. Joseph H. Johnson, Bishop Conaty and Gen. Harrison Gray Otis.

A remarkable exhibit of rare [illegible] will be a feature, furnished by Mrs. Annie Belle Picher of Pasadena, originator of the road plan of the Camino Real and founder of the Boundary Stone Leagues. Many in this exhibit will be the gold medals won at world expositions in Paris and at Omaha for this exhibit of materials which, at the Paris exposition, were entered in the department of liberal arts under the general head of "California Literature and Illustration," and which consists of aquarelle sketches, photographs, book-covers, [illegible] leaves, silver and gold work, all of which were collected with reference to a set color scheme to which all the textile fabrics were made to conform.

The Ebell exhibit will have its center the Yucatan Archangels [illegible] recently described in The Times, and under these four archangels will be shown a just finished Flemish triptych in gold, its three panels planned to hold music pages of a missal, water color sketches, tapestry or illuminated pages from a book.

Arranged on one side of the archangels will be the textiles which will carry a color scheme said to be the most brilliant ever displayed in Los Angeles county. On the opposite side will be an exhibit of Italian needlework, composed of the [illegible] exhibits of the Russian peasant handicraft and the Indian schools of Southern California.

The display of autographs is limited to the Texas petition of the Boundary Stone League which bears the signature of Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and of Mrs. Luther Derwent of Rockford, Ill., chairman of the D.A.R. Committee for the Memorializing of Historic Spots.

Dickens Fellowship Federated.

The Dickens Fellowship Club was admitted to the State federation at the convention last week in Fresno, it being the only club of its kind to become affiliated with the State organization. Mrs. Charles H. Eager, president of the organization, gave at the meeting of the Dickens of the Gamut Club, a most interesting account of the famous men mentioned by Dickens in his novels, together with their interesting traditions. Miss Dorothy Willis, who has lived in England all her life and coming to Los Angeles a couple of years ago, discussed Dickens as a criminologist and Mrs. G. S. Hunt continued from the last meeting the entertaining story of the "Five Housekeepers" of the great novelist.

Highland Park Ebell Elects.

The following officers were unanimously elected at the meeting of the Highland Park Ebell last week, no other nominations being offered: President, Miss Elizabeth A. Peirce; first vice-president, Mrs. Charles M. Gordon; second vice-president, Mrs. Marshall Tilden; recording secretary, Miss Bell Beatty; corresponding secretary, Miss Frances Cuthbert; treasurer, Mrs. S. C. Wiggins; general curator, Miss Sophia Dunham; directors, Mmes. A. A. Pierce, C. A. Hayward, H. C. Watson, A. L. Grotthouse and Horace E. Bush.

Misses Packard and Beatty, Miss Phillips and Tilden have held the same offices to which they were re-elected for the past year.

The club netted nearly $150 from a chicken pie dinner given May 1 [illegible] chairman of the committee being Mrs. N. Blackstock. Next Tuesday, which will be the last civics and philanthropy day of the club year, the speaker will be Dr. Dudley Hanmour on "Health Legislation" and reports from the State federation at Fresno will be given by Mrs. C. E. Gordon and Miss Helen Osborne Henry, who went as delegates from Ebell.

Woman's Civic Club.

A delightful and unique luncheon was tendered the business Women's Civic Club Thursday noon at the Gates Hotel by Miss Mae Gaudalur.

The long table was prettily decorated with fern and roses. An elaborate programme with the club monogram in gold was used as place card for each guest. Inside of the programme were the names of the speakers and their subjects. Mrs. C. Tyler, Mrs. N. E. Wiggins, Mrs. J. B. Stearns and Mrs. [illegible] were present, and gave greetings from the Civic Association, the Consumers' League and the Board of Education.

Every phase of business from a woman's point of view was discussed—such as "Woman's Understanding in Business," "The Responsibility One Person is More Essential to Business Than Another," "The Professional Woman," "Woman's Individuality," "Business Ethics," "Women Making Good in Business," "The Present-Day Woman," "Education of Woman of the Future," "Education as a Business Requisite," "The Part a Civilising Element," "The Power of the Press," "Business Men and Freak Legislation," "Slang of Approval," "Educational Needs of Business Woman," "Courtesy in Business or a Detriment," "Courtesy in Business," "Mismates in Business," "The Prestige of a Business Woman," "The Future Woman," "Peep Into the Future," "Then and Now," "Is Religion Necessary in a Business Asset?" "The Woman as a Competent Civic Woman," etc.

Manila!

A higher power fought the battle
With Dewer at Manila Bay,
Where fate destroyed the Spanish fleet
And freedom held her right of way.
Where our fighting Yankee boys
There rolled and sunk a navy of foes
And gained a glorious victory
Without loss of a single man.

The shot of Dewer at Manila
Changed the map of nations
And pushed the cause of freedom
Over every land and sea.
And the bullets of our soldiers
Are the bullets of the free.
Fired at every earthly tyrant
'Gainst home rule and liberty.

The Week's Drama.

[illegible] the last ten performances and [illegible] the following week the Morosco company will offer for the first time on any stage Byron Ongley's new play "The Path of Glory."

Morosco's Burbank Theater.

"Get - Rich - Quick" Wallingford, George M. Cohan's bright dramatization of George Randolph Chester's [illegible] stories of the same name, has proved such an out-and-out success at the Burbank Theater that the piece will be given for another—the third—week, beginning with the matinee today.

Nothing that has ever been given on the Burbank stage during the twelve years of its successful existence has followed the degree of popularity accorded quite as satisfying to the theatregoers of every variety as the Burbank company's presentation of this play.

"Wallingford" is one of the greatest American comedies that has come to the stage in the last ten years. It is particularly well suited to the talents of the Burbank organization, from the smallest and most important part to the chief roles—those of Wallingford and "Blackie" Daw, so capably played by Forrest Stanley and Norman Wallace. Frances Ring, Walter Edwards, Donald Bowles, James Corrigan, Grace Travers and many of the others of the big cast.

The run of "Wallingford," however, is not necessarily be limited, owing to the fact that Oliver Morosco has just contracted with David Belasco for the stock production anywhere of "The Woman," and this dramatic sensation is now scheduled to follow the Morosco play.

Empress Theater.

The new week at the Empress Theater, beginning with the matinee tomorrow, brings a new Sullivan & Considine bill headed by several of the vaudeville novelties of the current season.

The first feature on the new bill is "My Lady's Fans," produced by Love, and being artistic and clever reproductions of his own famous fan paintings posed by six pretty young art models. This act, with the reputation of being one of the best posing acts that has been seen in the variety stage. The young ladies have in the presentation of "My Lady's Fans," for the beauty of their symmetry of figures faithfully reproduce the remarkable creations of Mr. Dove.

Another of the new bill will be Mazie Lamont, famous for her darky impersonations, clever songs and ability as a contortor of amusing colored characters.

The Operatic Trio, composed of Miss Rosalie Mulhall and Miss [illegible] have in their repertoire selections from the standard operas, as well as from the celebrated LaVine Cimaron Opera Co., to be seen in their funny travesty on musical culture called "Imaginary Fez, Jr., a ventriloquist and [illegible] who has previously ap-higher power fought the battle ith Dewey at Manila Bay, Where fate destroyed the Spanish fleet and freedom held her right of way. Where our fighting Yankee sailors there felled and sunk a royal clan and gained a glorious victory Without loss of a single man!

The shot of Dewey at Manila Changed the map of monarchy, And pushed the cause of freedom over every land and sea. And the builders of great nations are the bullets of earthly fires. Fired at every earthly tyrant Against home rule and liberty!

The Week's Drama.

the last ten performances and on the following week the Morosco company will offer for the first time on any stage Byron Ongley's new play, "The Path of Glory."

Burbank Theater.

"Get - Rich - Quick" Wallingford, which M. Cohan's bright dramatisation of George Randolph Chester's series of the same name, has proved such an out-and-out success at the Burbank Theater that the piece is to be given for another—the third—week, beginning with the matinee today.

No play that has ever been given on the Burbank stage during the twelve years of its successful existence has created the degree of popularity or proved quite as satisfying to the theatergoers of every variety as the Burbank company's presentation of this week.

"Wallingford" is one of the greatest of American comedies that has come to the stage in the last ten years. It is peculiarly well suited to the talents of the Burbank organization, with the smallest and most important of the chief roles—those of Wallingford and "Blackie" Daw, so capably played by Forrest Stanley and Lillian Wallace, Frances Ring, Walter Edwards, Donald Bowles, James Neill, Grace Travers and many of the others of the big cast.

The run of "Wallingford," however, will necessarily be limited, owing to the fact that Oliver Morosco has just closed with David Belasco for the next production anywhere of "Kindling," and this dramatic sensation is now scheduled to follow the present play.

Empress Theater.

Next week at the Empress Theater, beginning with the matinee tomorrow, Ryan & new Sullivan & Considine bill headed by several of the ing in Siberia, all that is implied in the title, "Atop of the World in Motion," is encompassed in this 7000 feet of film that brings the frozen North to Los Angeles. Skagway, the White Pass, Behring Sea, the Esquimeaux at Cape Prince of Wales, natives busy with various characteristic occupations, pass in turn. Then instructive views of three methods of mining revealing the mammoth gold dredgers, the hydraulic elevators, and a gold clean-up after the spring thaw.

New and old favorites at the playhouses the coming week.

Pantages.

Lovely La Graciosa in "Visions of Fairyland" heads the Pantages list of attractions for the week, in a spectacular production. Christine Hill and her company appear here for the first time in "Fate," a tragedy. Miss Hill presents a drama of real life in "Little Italy" with a quartette of numerous hair-breadth escapes, but all ends happily at the end of the picture. Many of the noted Lubin performers took part in the staging of this production. It is the first time it has been shown on the Coast. It will be run in connection with an absolutely new bill of first-run pictures supplemented by vaudeville acts. At Clune's Broadway Theater, a bill of first-run pictures will be seen, including the Pathe weekly, which is always a pleasing feature.

Mission Play.

The "Mission Play," by John Steven McGroarty, which enters its thirty-first week at Tuesday's matinee in its own theater, the Mission Playhouse, San Gabriel, has been most fittingly called "The Passion Play of California." No other play approaches in impressive dignity Mr. McGroarty's pageant-drama of early California, unless it be the famous "Passion Play" of Oberammergau, which is more of a series of dramatic tableaux than a play. The "Mission Play" is both a pageant and a drama, ingeniously and successfully welded by the author into a splendid play.

Sunday's night's performance is the 366th presentation, and it still continues to draw good houses; the second season, however, is now drawing to a close.

Mozart Theater.

At the Mozart Theater, all next week, starting today, the great Greek tragedy "Oedipus Rex," will be featured in pictures. M. Mount-Sully, a French tragedian, who has staged the picture appears in the role of Oedipus. The theme is truly tragic, but the plot is simple. "Oedipus, the King," simply shows man as a creature of fate and is not intended to convey any moral. Oedipus, falling from the pinnacle of power and fame to the lowest depth of misery, cannot reconcile himself to his fate and as from the mouth of Othello, humbly says: ". . . vain boast, who can control his fate?" The settings are reproductions of classic originals.

Miss Bessie Bulpin, dramatic soprano, will sing.

Hamburger's Arrow Theater.

The topliner in an exceptionally entertaining programme beginning Monday is "Oil on Troubled Waters," an American two-reel photoplay wherein a miserly uncle gives a supposedly worthless property to the bride. Love and an oil well combine to produce a delightful story of chance and adventure. Other films show "The Girl Detective's Ruse," a Thanhouser story of a ruse that succeeds, and two Keystone comedies, "His Chum, the Baron," and "The New Conductor."

The Century.

"The Suffragette" will be the title of next week's bill at the Century, and Al Franks, who has charge of the staging of the productions at that house, claims the play has a plot. "A Real Plot," says Franks, and deals with late incidents of things in general around the entire world, especially in London, where the suffragettes are trying to rule.

For this special production a number of song and dance novelties have been arranged, with each member of the company aiming for first honors.

Jules Mendel will as ever be seen in the part of Heinz, while Rose Mendel will play the suffragette. Gale Henry, Frank Lloyd and Earl Hall, also will be prominently cast and seen to good advantage in their respective roles.

Announcement is made of the coming of Miss Frances White, who will join the Loewen brothers company inside of a week. Miss White is well-known in Los Angeles as a singing and dancing soubrette.

Tally's Broadway.

In addition to an assortment of photoplays, a remarkable trio of musicale artists will be heard at Tally's Broadway Theater the coming week. Charles Ross, a young boy possessed of a tenor voice, of range and power, will be heard for the first time in this city; Sig. Bogeusx, a Gypsy violinist, and Harry Blanchard, the lyric bass, who appeared at Tally's a week ago, will furnish the musical programme. The pictures include the new Pathe Weekly, the Post-Impressionists, a Selig comedy dealing with the recent Cubist art fad, two Biograph comedies, an Edison drama, "The Heart of Valeska," and a Lubin sea story, "Judgment of the Deep. "Deeralayer," Fenimore Cooper's novel dramatized by Vitagraph, will be shown for the last time today.

This Week.

People's Orchestra Concert With Two New Soloists—Joseph Riccard to Play—Woman's Symphony Concert—American Indian Tenor Discovered in Berlin.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

Caucasians will have in the future to look out sharply, if they propose to retain the supremacy in grand opera.

Recently, Berlin discovered a new tenor of great merit who created a sensation, not only because his voice was excellent, but owing to his origin and his physical appearance.

White and black tenors have been heard but it is the first time that in the history of grand opera production a full-blooded American Indian has been found to possess an operatic tenor voice.

Kawbawgan, chief of the Chippewa tribe, after his successful season in the German capital, has just made his debut at the Alhambra in London, where he received instant recognition as the "Red Caruso."

This interesting discovery is disturbing, as we may soon be presented with tenors and sopranl of various hues. All the more so as the walls of Paris have been covered with bills of crimson ornamented with yellow dragons announcing the forthcoming appearance, at the Hippodrome, of a famous Chinese singer, who may prove to be the long-looked-for yellow tenor.

People's Orchestra.

A programme which will afford a fine mixture of modern and classic numbers will be offered this afternoon at the Auditorium by the People's Orchestra. The concert will be the third from the closing one of a series of twenty-nine, and is destined to display not only the attainments of the orchestra, but of two splendid soloists also. Miss Lillian Smith, whose studies abroad have brought

"Hanky Panky."

Virginia Evans became a star overnight, won instant managerial favor, and spurned one of the choicest vaudeville contracts ever offered a musical comedy fledgling. She made her hit by filling in for Miss Neilsen when the latter was sick, and her wonderful success secured her a splendid part which is all her own.

Flo May used vaudeville as a means to introduce herself to the Shuberts and Zeigfeld, and was a valued member of the Winter Garden Shows, the Follies and Weber and Fields Jubilee.

And why dissertate on Max Rogers. With his brother Gus, "The Rogers Brothers," were vaudeville and musical comedy stars for two decades. The death of Gus ended the brilliant career of the team, but Max is still the droll Dutchman of old, bubbling over with laugh producing dialect.

Bobby North, too, is one of the old timers. As a member of the firm of Gordon and North, he used to produce rattling good burlesque shows, then made a "rep" as an eccentric in vaudeville, and blossomed into stardom in "The Gay Hussars."

Last, but by no means least, I mention Harry Cooper. He used to be the tenor comedian of the famous "Empire City Quartette," which, unless I am misinformed, was the highest priced quartette that ever charmed a vaudeville audience. Cooper has a voice that fills even the largest auditorium with vibrating melody, and is the musical feature of the show.

Surely, in this instance, vaudeville has been a heavy loser in the war with musical comedy for the best talent the stage boasts. And besides, there is a superb chorus, or else the camera is a most brazen fibber.

Orpheum.

Five new acts, with the three holdovers, make up the programme that the Orpheum has to offer for the week beginning Monday matinee, May 12. The new topliner is an absolute novelty—a travesty upon the once-popular melodrama by Everett Shinn entitled "More Sinned Against Than Usual." While it is broad burlesque of the old-time melodramas, yet it is played in all seriousness. There is the hard-hearted sire, the usual villain with the "shiveree" music, the poor heroine, turned out into the snow, the sobbing mother, the poor but proud hero, and so on down the list of those all melodramatists are familiar with.

Percy Warum, the English actor, and his company, will make their long-expected return visit the "The Boson's Mate." The Three Bohemians are strolling vagabond players who have a wide repertoire of selections, a fine ability as musicians. Powers Brothers are the clever European athletes. Chester Spencer and Irene Williams will sing and dance. Daisy Jerome, "the electric spark," with some new songs and gowns; Charles F. Semon, "the narrow feller," and Sandor's European dog circus, will remain over, and with the Edison talking motion pictures and the orchestral concerts will complete the bill.

The Auditorium.

At the Auditorium commencing Monday, May 12, for an entire week, each afternoon and each evening will be shown for the first time in this city Dobbs's original Alaska-Siberian pictures which are the only ones that have been taken in winter in the extreme Northwest and along the Greenland and Alaskan coast 200 miles north of the Arctic Circle, and which it took over ten years to accumulate. Walrus hunting in Alaska, fur trad- "push-cart people" taken bodily from New York's East Side.

Donita returns with songs and gowns that are appropriate to her personality—and a new piano specialist, Jack C. Rippen.

Charles Diamond is a fine harpist and Beatrice is a recognized specialist on the treble saxophone. Diamond is Little Carlena Diamond, said to be the cleverest harpist of her age, appears with the act.

Rizal & Atima, in novel acrobatics, and Grimm & Elliott, who appear in two shades of burnt cork, are important additions to the list of attractions.

Clune's Theaters.

"The Girl Spy in Mexico," a two-reel Lubin military drama, will be the stellar attraction at Clune's Fifth-street Theater commencing next Monday, for three days only. It concerns the adventures of a beautiful young woman who enlists in the service of her country during the recent revolution in Mexico. She passes through many thrilling adventures and has

Miss Nevell Speaks.

"Give the child some place where he can cut and paste and make a litter. It is easier to pick up scraps than to catch up lapses of character that come from repressing a child's natural self-expression," was the text of a talk given by Miss Ella Nevell, assistant supervisor of manual training, before the Parent-Teacher Association of Grand-avenue school, last Wednesday.

Miss Nevell dwelt on developing and training the child's imagination through training the hand, and the value of such concrete self-expression.

Rose Hill.

Rose Hill School Parent-Teacher Association met on Thursday last. Dr. Miller, psychologist, spoke on character building. The association presented the school with a victrola.

New Zealand Visitor.

Miss Helen Birss, "mistress" of a school in Invercargill, New Zealand, on a trip around the world, is visiting Los Angeles. She expressed herself as much interested in the work which our city schools are doing for defective and abnormal children, and on Thursday visited Sixteenth-street school, in order to view the permanent ungraded room there. Miss Birss has in mind the establishment of such a school in her own city.

Polytechnic High.

May Day was celebrated by the Senior Ionians, in a delightful programme of which one of the most entertaining number was Rostand's play, "The Romancers." Alice Fowler played Sylvette; Lawrence Phelps, Pasquinot; Ernest Timmsen, a country gentleman; Karl Leatherwood, Percinot, and Vivian Bennet, the part of a bravo. The piece was so successful that it was given next day for the lower-class students. A graceful May-pole dance was given by the Girls' Gym Club, on the campus before the main building, when the white-clad dancers wound their colored streamers in rainbow designs over the pole.

A new Spanish Club was organized May 2, with the officers for the first term, Joseph Kendall, president; Harriet Grant, vice-president, and Louise Gilks, secretary. The officers are especially proficient in speaking the Spanish tongue, and are capable of making the club a valuable addition to the older organizations.

The senior B's partially organized, the first of the week, electing as their chairman, Allan Box, and as their secretary, Maddaline Wadsworth. Colors and pins will be selected, and other measures taken in preparation for their coming important senior A term.

The Y.M.C.A. had "open house" for the boys of the Students' League, last week, and gave them the time of their life. The features of the evening consisted of a vaudeville, "eats," a speech by Ray Petty, and a big swim to close. The vaudeville consisted of musical acts with the piano, mandolin and ukelele.

"The Burglar" was given before a girls' auditorium call, by five members of the Dramatics Club, in which Alma McEntee, Anna Rusche, Georgia Owen, Edith Jones and Alice Bulpin somewhat timidly held at bay an imaginary desperado, supposed to be in the next room. However, the scoundrel turned out to be a harmless kitten, and the affair ended happily without the projected desperate deeds.

The musical department will present a comic opera, "The Pennant," by Oscar J. Lehrer, on the evening of May 28, and afternoon of the 29th. The entire girls' and boys' glee clubs and selected members of the orchestra will participate.

Agricultural High.

The girls of Agricultural High, cookery department, obeying Mr. Squeers's injunction, 'goes and knows it'—they cook the lunch every day for the whole school, and afterward serve it in the cafeteria.

"This is gaining practical knowledge," said Miss Leland, cookery teacher, "not producing food in tabloid doses."

Malabar-Street School.

An improvement association was organized last Monday evening, with twenty-five men of Malabar school district as members. Mr. Pentecost was elected president, Mr. Gates vice-president, Mr. Betrue secretary and treasurer. The objects of the association are to obtain better lighting, car and fire service, and additional street improvement. The meetings of the association will be held twice a month, on first and third Mondays, at 8 o'clock, at the Malabar-street school.

Los Angeles High.

"Measles, measles, who's got the measles" is the refrain that haunts the school this year. At present both Mr. Martin, head of the modern language department, and Mr. Van Patten are kept out of school because of measles in their families. Last term it was the mumps that played havoc with the faculty.

Varying the usual outing programme of mountain climbing, Dr. Day and Miss Rogers of the girls' physical training department, gave a swimming party to the college gymnasium and swimming classes last week. The main event, swimming, took place after the aquatic sports. Miss Rogers entertained the girls at her sea-side cottage, at Playa del Rey.

Mowatt Mitchell, the old L. A. and Stanford football player, headed the list of the "old guard" that addressed the Rugby squad at an after-school meeting last week. Informal Rugby practice will begin at once and a strong effort will be made to bring out a big squad for the fun and benefit of the game.

Forum, the debating society, was the host at an entertainment Friday afternoon and evening. The guests were the debaters of Manual Arts High School. Last year the Forum had the Hollywood Forensic followers for guests.

Mrs. Southwick of Boston gave a splendid reading of "Joan of Arc" at the regular Wednesday assembly meeting.

The college class had a social meeting Thursday. This organization is showing a whole lot of class spirit and helpful co-operation with the school faculty.

California poppies banked against the building and filling the beds between the main building and the front walk will soon add a fine bit of color to the hill top. The plants were set out and cared for by the pupils in horticulture.

Notices are being sent out to the alumni of the school announcing the fortieth anniversary celebration of the High School. An alumni banquet will follow the celebration. The festivities will occur some time in June.

The various musical organizations continue their activities by giving frequent entertainments outside the school. Friday evening the Boys' Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Blythe, gave a concert at the Salem Congregational Church. Next week the orchestra and Girls' Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Blythe and Miss Haynes, will give a concert at Barlow Sanatorium. The orchestra, directed by Miss Blythe, will furnish music at the Wilmington High School for their May Day festival.

Hollywood High.

The vaudeville and minstrel show presented by the athletic department on Friday evening, in the High School auditorium, was a great success. The first half of the programme consisted of vaudeville skits; the second half consisted of the minstrel show, presented by fifty boys. Jap Perrin was a clever interlocutor. The following boys, as end men, were a scream: James Candee, George Shaker, Jack Whitney, Alfred Wilkie, Clarence McKee and Leonard White. Forty grinning blacks composed a tuneful chorus. Popular songs were skillfully rendered and many new and clever jokes kept a capacity audience in an uproar. The proceeds go to the benefit of athletics.

Dr. William Horace Day, of the Los Angeles Congregational Church, and Prof. Hollister of the University of Illinois, spoke to the students, Monday, in assembly.

The following students were given "H's" in assembly, last Friday: Clara Bergh, tennis; Ruth Burgess, tennis; Alice Gower, tennis; Frank Greeves, pole vault; Innes Gates, high jump; Marion Smith, discus; Jay Perrin, discus; Harley Earl, pole vault, discus, hammer; Darrell Richardson, shot, hammer, discus; Parker Foster, mile run; Gilbert Merritt, half-mile; Ward Henry, half-mile, relay team; Forbes, high hurdles, relay team; Burtle Coultas, low hurdles, relay team; James Candee, 440-yard relay team; Lynn Ironmonger, 100-yard dashes; Meredith [illegible] broad jump, 880-yard dash.

Dana Jones, John Putnam and [illegible] Martin composed the sophomore team. The debate was clearly and forcefully presented and showed future [illegible] debaters.

The boys of Hollywood will give a circus on the athletic field, Friday evening, May 16. The show will be replete with all the usual accessories of hilarious circus day, such as hot dogs and confetti.

"Resolved, That California Should Have a Minimum Wage Law" has been chosen as the subject for the final debate to be held with South [illegible] High School, June 5. The following students were chosen to compose the two Hollywood teams, one of which will debate at home and one at Santa Monica: Laurens Morris, Gilbert Merritt, George Shaker, Vernon [illegible], Ruth Walker and Alfred Wilkie.

The Latin classes will present a Latin entertainment May 16 in the Auditorium, to pay for the making of the costumes of the Roman play. The entertainment will consist of a Roman play, "Schola Romana," a day in a Roman school, and a series of tableaux of classical subjects. Admission charges will be 15 cents.

MRS. DAVID FRANKLIN HOUSTON.

Wife of the Secretary of Agriculture is the Most Recent Arrival in the Coterie of Executive Hostesses at Washington.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

Mrs. David Franklin Houston.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Mrs. David Franklin Houston is the most recent arrival in the coterie of executive hostesses. Having an infant less than 3 months old, and a girl not yet 3 years, she declined changing her home in time for the regular time for entertaining. But the lure of Washington is great and Mrs. Houston decided all conditions came to her rather unexpectedly about a week ago. She has established a nursery in a sunny corner of the mansion and, with the exception of servants employed for many years, is beginning to feel comfortable in the circumscribed area of the executive mansion. Coming to attend her first Cabinet dinner, at which the President and Mrs. Wilson were hosts to have a complete list of guests of honor, Mrs. Houston slipped quietly into her place as one born receiving and calling to the prescribed ritual.

Tall and splendidly proportioned, the wife of the Secretary of Agriculture is one of the most impressive-looking women in the new circle of Washington hostesses. A native of Texas, she seems to breathe the very atmosphere of the great land of the Rio Grande. Highly intellectual, alert and physically perfect, and she has many other points of distinction.

"Although my husband has lived in Washington," said Mrs. Houston, "my life has not been so varied. Austin, the capital of Texas, is my birthplace. I went there and remained for many years ago, when we went to Washington. University life is an excellent training for social duties, no matter what the scope, and I feel that in my present environment, which is my first residence in Washington and in St. Louis, my family life was filled with many duties and we had to plan carefully and methodically to fit in all that I had to do. I see it is much the same here and I anticipate keen pleasure. I am entirely accustomed to the routine. My last home was in a wonderful park of which we were deservingly proud. Forest Park was an ideal environment. I have many little folks, and in a city that we have given up entertainment. But I have no doubt in Washington I shall find something which will interest me. I have not been in a home in real earnest until I do so before I go with my family to Martha's Vineyard for the summer.

"Washington impresses me with its beauty, cleanliness and the air of prosperity that gives one of being far removed from the squalor and misery of the great industrial centers. I have no doubt that there is poverty and ignorance here as there certainly the exterior appearance and cheerful vision of the city of Texas, which is one of the youngest of States, I believe is one of the points of the advanced ideas belonging to several clubs and societies are channels of good works and reforms. A club which is one of my time which I could spare from other avocations was one of active social service. Connected with the hospital of the Johns Hopkins University medical department. I might say, was one of the finest in this special service club distributing portions of the city and made systematic visits. I emphasized that point is in vain unless a child is brought with it. Of bringing a child out of the conditions promote rather a brief treatment than to return it to the home. Our work was to make a house-to-house study of sanitation, and to influence the poor to observe the proper methods and, above all, in the kitchen and where the other modern accessories existed. We did some good, and there are many who will continue this work in slow progress. I like that of all cities, is to become a matter of the entire citizenship gladly to the necessity of open air and the necessity of windows open at night. Then for their beds it is to interested in the to make them more comfortable danger of making another question. The vast number of people in foundries, mills make clubs a service is required of the community. But I think those clubs are most beneficial to the members. I believe in that sense of responsibility which imposes on every woman the obligation of aiding those less fortunate than herself. I hear that the problems here are different and when I get more leisure I shall take pleasure in learning something of the charities which interest Washington women."

Mrs. Houston, though regretful at spoiling a pretty romance, is the authority for the statement that she never studied under her husband at the University of Texas. The tale went that as a most brilliant student, she attracted the attention of the professor of English literature and history, sometime later, Chancellor of the Washington University, St. Louis, and now Secretary of Agriculture. This admiration soon ripened into something greater. Mrs. Houston says that her husband came to the Austin seat of learning after she had graduated and that as he had the reputation of being a stern disciplinarian. It was perhaps as well for the success of the little blind god that events transpired as they did. She met him in general society when he presented a less severe aspect and their mutual love of philosophy and of literature was the first attraction.

Mrs. Houston is the daughter of Duvall Beall, a much honored citizen of Austin. Her grandfather was another revered citizen of the Texan capital and was on the Federal bench. Judge Ezekiel Turner, and she bears her grandmother's name, Helen Turner. Judge Turner was rather in advance of his generation in that he believed that women should be as carefully and as completely educated as men.

He induced his young grand-daughter after completing a grammar school education to enter the Texas University. She took the complete course, and the A. B. degree making English literature her major study. After graduating, she taught for one year in the public schools of Austin, but after meeting Dr. Houston she decided that her mission was a more personal one. But she had always maintained a strong interest in literature and she studied the foreign languages and traveled frequently as an added incentive to study.

"Reading is one of my principal diversions," said Mrs. Houston, "but I cannot say that I have any favorite authors. At one time I consumed fiction with delight. I read all the new novels and naturally all the classics of the past. I seem to have exhausted this inclination, for now I find the greatest pleasure in essays, especially those which concern modern phases of life and the problems which are involved. Wells makes a particular appeal and I like the essays of Bernard Shaw and of Gilbert Chesterton. History and philosophical deductions are also engrossing, but I find but little enjoyment or benefit from the modern drama. The one trend seems to be towards gloom, sorrow, despair. One consolation, is the new plays are so depressing that there must soon come a reaction. I grant that the stage has a mission to instruct and uplift, but I believe it can be fulfilled more readily by depicting the joy of life rather than by the punishment of sin and deception."

Dr. and Mrs. Houston have three children of whom the oldest, a boy, is named for his father, David Franklin, Jr. The little girl is called Helen and the infant boy is Lawrence Reid, a family name in Mrs. Houston's branch. It is some time since a Cabinet family possessed an infant, the small daughter of George B. Cortelyou being the last. The family of Walter Fisher, one of Mr. Taft's councillors, consisted of eight children, but the youngest on coming to Washington was a little girl, Mabel, 3½ years. Mrs. Houston is the youngest of the Cabinet circle but her stately presence and rather grave manner give her an appearance of more years than she is entitled to. She has been married seventeen years and it is a happy omen that she has to stop and calculate the exact time before making a reply as to her marital record. Her marriage occurred at her father's home in Austin and was a brilliant social event. Mr. Beall's family located originally in Virginia and were probably akin to the old family of Beales who came to Georgetown in the days before the Capital City was dreamed of. The name was formerly spelled Beale but how it became transformed into the present mode, Mrs. Houston does not know. Her father's people, from whom he gets the name Duvall, were French Huguenots from Georgia and Carolina, but the Beales were from Virginia. She intends looking into the old records for the Beale history and to trace their progress from Virginia to Kentucky, then further south until the Rio Grande stopped their progress.

The Secretary of Agriculture and his wife are members of the Episcopalian faith, as are the Burlesons, who are like Mrs. Houston, natives of Austin, Tex. Mrs. Burleson, wife of the Postmaster-General, was also born in Austin, and that two of the Cabinet hostesses should be old friends and neighbors is a pleasant coincidence. Mrs. Houston has always been a member of St. Paul's congregation in Austin, but she has not yet chosen a place of worship here. She inclines to a residence near a park and the range of this is wide, from the fine old dwellings about Lafayette square, westwards, towards the heights which circle the great government reservation, Rock Creek Park, and then churches of her faith near all. As is fitting for the wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, Mrs. Houston is devoted to growing things and she must have a plot for a garden. She took great joy in the superb vegetation and flowers of Forest Park, her last home, and she delighted to wander through the dense woodland. Being a Texan, she is of course a fine equestrienne, but recently the care of a saddle horse in a city has been too great for the pleasure derived. She joined the Country Club in St. Louis and for a time she kept a horse there. She may return to her favorite exercise here, if she can find opportunity to do so. Mrs. Houston plays golf and tennis and is fond of walking. But just now, her little ones are an absorbing care to which must be added the obligations of a Cabinet hostess. She is fond of social intercourse and she accepts her role with keen anticipation. In fact, it augurs well for the social side of Washington next winter that the official hostesses expect to enjoy themselves rather than to take up the programme with a sense of finding it a treadmill. Mrs. Houston is a delightful conversationalist and drifts from books to fashions and from politics to foreign countries with the ease of a long social experience.

EDUCATORS, CHURCHMEN.

Associate Professor Herbert E. Slaught, of the department of mathematics in the University of Chicago, has recently been made managing editor of the American Mathematical Monthly.

Rev. Dr. J. Gilbert Mason, pastor of the Metuchen Presbyterian Church, has been nominated for Governor of New Jersey on the Prohibition ticket.

After more than half a century as a teacher in the Trenton schools, Prof. Lewis C. Wooley has tendered his resignation as principal of the Joseph Wood School. The resignation is to take effect June 1.

Alberic Rolin, recently made director of the library of the Temple of Peace, Holland, through the good offices of the Carnegie Foundation, is professor of international law at Ghent, and secretary of the Institution de Droit International.

Professor Francis Greenwood Peabody, professor emeritus of Harvard, recognized as one of the foremost theologians, has arrived in Japan, where he will deliver a series of lectures before the leading educational institutions. Five years ago he was the Harvard exchange professor with the Berlin University, where he had a successful season.

Prof. Baldwin Spencer, who occupies the chair of biology in the University of Melbourne, has returned, says a London paper, from a sojourn among the blacks of that region. What struck him most forcibly was the "extraordinary emptiness and loneliness of that street land." In its 522,000 square miles there are only 4000 white people. And within a few days' sail is a small island—Japan—with 40,000,000 people, a fact calculated to "make Australians think about the possibilities of the future."

Dr. Charles Kendric Babcock, chosen for the office of dean of the new college of liberal arts and sciences of the University of Illinois, is now a specialist in higher education in the government bureau of education at Washington. He was born in South Brookfield, N. Y., and was educated at the University of Minnesota and at Harvard. He was president of the University of Arizona for seven years. Dr. Babcock has also held a chair in the University of California. He is the author of "The Rise of American Nationality."

CRANKS.

After swinging Indian clubs for 107 hours—four and one-half days—without a break at Aldershot, Eng., Tom Burrows, the Australian athlete, went to sleep for twenty-eight hours. He intended to go on swinging for 112 hours, but exhaustion caused him to fall from the platform fast asleep.

William H. Reinke of the Childs Athletic Club, New York, recently successfully defended his title as the champion egg eater by consuming sixty at one sitting.

Mrs. Lillian Bell Bogue, who is well known as a writer under the name of Lillian Bell, says that married people should live in separate houses, should have their own mail boxes and invite one another to dine and spend the evening. The "horrible intimacy of marriage, with negligees and shaving mugs," she says, is responsible for so many divorces.

George Coleman, said to be Chicago's champion runaway boy, and claimed to have deserted his home and native city no less than 200 times, has been sent to the Minneapolis workhouse by Municipal Judge Bardwell. He says he is 19 years old.

Vudor-Shade Your Porch!

THE approach of summer wind and weather! Right now is the time to take complexion precautions.

Soothing, smoothing, building-up creams and delicate lotions,—protective, good face powders. These are always a need of the woman who cares to look well.

Especially now—though. When to the skin-exhausting stress of modern living—are added the complexion havoc of hot winds and dry weather.

Here are the materials you need to work with!

Riker's Violet Cerate

HERE is an ideal face cream and tissue builder. A face cream to ward off the drying effects of summer sun, the roughening of summer winds.

Daintily fragrant—and with none of that greasy after-effect that you've found the trouble with so many creams. In 50-cent Porcelain jars, and a vanity case given with each jar!

Violet's Bath Bowls

QUAINT wooden bowls that float. Filled with a semi-circle of bath soap—flower-odors—rose, verbena, violet.

Then there's a long-bristled lather brush that "goes with" this wooden bath bowl—from Violet.

Lovely—New Silk Negligees

FASHIONED from silky crepes, in the delicate negligee colorings—and in white, sprigged with tiny flowers.

Trimmed with set-in points of shadow lace—frillings and plaitings—and with black velvet touches.

New Pullman Kimonos; of soft, easily packable silks. The caps to match!

Undermuslins—Dainty, Lacy, Sheer and Reduced!

YOU will be surprised that so much undermuslin daintiness—so much of lace and embroidery trimming—and such sheer, yet wearable fabrics, should have been reduced to these three Monday prices—95 cents, $1.35 and $1.95! There are combinations, gowns and princess slips—as carefully cut and finished as though you, yourself, had fashioned them.

The New Five Dollar Gossard—

A CORSET designed as a foundation for summer fashions.

Lacing-in-front has much to do with the appropriateness of this particular corset. For lacing in front creates the long, smooth back, the straight hip and slender lines of summer clothes.

There's another new Gossard—an evening corset.

It's satin-striped in self-tone or in a delicate pink. And there are pink silk garters, pink silk lacers and an odd embroidery in pink.

Lingeries of Summer-Time

THEY are exquisitely dainty, flower-sprigged affairs. And simply made.

One model of white voile has practically no trimming whatever—except for the tiny embroidered flower in rose and green and a few rose-colored crystal buttons.

A Hat for the Lingerie Dress!

FLOWERED "garden hats—made of plaited malines, wreathed in tiny rosebuds and feathery with "paradise."

Smaller hats—weighed down with fluffy Ostrich plumes.

And the all-black hat that so many women like to wear with a lingerie dress. A lovely new model, entirely covered in black point d'esprit and trimmed in black Ostrich.

Parasols for the Lingerie Dress!

PANELS of creamy satin ribbons vividly patterned in great red roses—alternate with panels of Dresden-blue satin.

A band of ribbon brocade in the pink and rose shades binds a lovely parasol of delicate pink. And a very Frenchy note is struck—with the black velvet band at the edge.

Fine Wilton Rugs Are Much Reduced!

FOR only $32.50 and $35—these worth-more rugs. "Living-room" size—and designed in an attractive blending of soft browns and greens. You will find that they accord with the drapery and finishing scheme of your living-room—very artistically.

Aside from the attractive colorings and design of these rugs—you know the wearableness of a genuine Wilton.

Matinee Coats of Chiffon and Charmeuse

PRINTED, silk Chiffons, printed in a shadowy designing of Bulgarian colorings, and lined in the plain chiffon.

These are in all the new "gown" shades—Nell Rose, Bulgarian blue—black and the "sand" shades.

And these charming little matinee coats in charmeuse, too. Charmeuse lined with the printed chiffon—and made in a sort of drapey "Russian" style. They are white, rose colored, blue and black.

A New Jewelry Fancy

A QUAINT, tiny clasp of pearls or diamonds—set in platinum—to hold the bow of maline in place.

The silver mounting is sterling—and the jewels are very attractive imitations. They are priced at $1.25. There should be a gift suggestion in these dainty Maline Bow Holders—aside from the pleasure of having one of your own.

Inexpensive Handkerchiefs and Frenchy!

A BOX of six—initial embroidered—just the letter—or the letter set in a tiny octagon of embroidery. This box is priced at $1.00.

At this same price, there are the Frenchy handkerchiefs with colored hems and the initial in white, centered in a shield of the color.

And embroidered in touches of color, flower designs, butterfly designs—copies of the fine French importations. These at $1 for three, or 35 cents each.

Wide Belts of Patent Leather

THE five-inch belts so much in demand for wearing with the dress of ratine or linen.

These are the straight wide bands—or the crush belts.

And in white kid—both the straight and crushable leather belts.

New Bags in New Colors

BAGS of fine leather—in the new green shade and Callot blue.

Bags in slender oblongs and larger squares. And a quaint hand bag—of leather or moire—fulled into a simple mounting—and fitted with a tiny purse and mirror.

Blanket and Comfort Specials!

ALL-WOOL, fine, silky blankets—in daintily-colored plaid patterns of pink, blue or gray.

These are specially priced at only $5 to $8 the pair.

And lamb's wool comforts—covered in flowered silks—(to harmonize with the color plan of your bedroom.)

These have been reduced to $3.50—they were $12.50 and $15.

Jap Rugs Half Price

SPLENDID porch rugs. They are woven from the Japanese grasses—in the soft "wheat" colorings—with a design in Old Blue or Green.

Double-sided. And attractive and unusual porch floor coverings. The 7x10 and 6x9 sizes are $3.50; the 9x12 is $4, and the 9x15 is $5—half price.

Old Blue Linens—

A VERY new model is made Russian fashion—and trimmed with only a fine tracery of ratine braid and white crocheted buttons. It is priced at only $12.

The New Silver-Clean-Pan

THAT does away with all of the drudgery of silver polishing. Just warm water, a little salt and baking soda and your silver is again bright and shining.

U. S. Postoffice—Parcels Post—And a Mail Order Department—To do your shopping for you!

her much renown, and Mme. Alice Dorn, soprano, who is a well-known church singer of Los Angeles. She is especially partial to sacred music, and since her appearance upon the stage here in the leading soprano role of the "Passion Play" has devoted much study to the sacred works of the great masters. Her number for this afternoon will be "Hear Ye, O Israel" from Mendelssohn's "Elijah."

The orchestra will play one Wagnerian number, the Siegfried "Death and Funeral March," a popular selection, Victor Herbert's "Irish Rhapsodie," the overture to "Der Freischutz," Von Weber and the "Spring Morning Serenade," by Lacome.

Woman's Symphony Orchestra.

Miss Bessie Fuhrer, concert master of the Woman's Symphony Orchestra, has been selected as soloist for the closing concert of the season, which is to be given in Blanchard Hall, May 27. Miss Fuhrer, who has but recently returned from a prolonged course of study abroad, will play the "Concerto Romantique," by Godard, with the orchestra in support. This number is very rarely played, and has not been heard before in Los Angeles, according to the authority of Harley Hamilton, who will conduct the orchestra.

Cyril Dwight-Edwards.

A baritone, who has received the enthusiastic indorsement of London, Eng., New York, and Chicago, has elected to settle among us.

Advice to Those Who Have Lung Trouble

Pulmonary Lung Trouble is said to be curable by simply living in the open air and taking an abundance of fresh eggs and milk. Do all you possibly can to add to strength and increase weight; eat wholesome, nourishing food, and breathe the cleanest and purest air, and then, if health and strength do not return, add the tonic and beneficial effects of Eckman's Alterative. Read what it did in this case:

405 E. 8th St., Wilmington, Del.

"Gentlemen: In January, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. I took eggs and milk in quantities, but I got very weak. Mr. C. A. Lippincott, my employer (Lippincott & Co., Department Store, 306 to 314 Market Street, Wilmington, Del.), recommended to me Eckman's Alterative, and upon his suggestion I began taking it at once. This was about June, 1908. I continued faithfully, using no other remedy, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs. I firmly believe Eckman's Alterative saved my life."

(Affidavit) JAS. SQUIRES.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by The Owl Drug Co. and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.—[Advertisement.

Miss Lillian Smith,

Vaughn and the Christ Church choir. Mrs. Vaughn will sing "With Verdure Clad," from Haydn's "Creation," and also with the chorus, Gounod's "Gallia." The chorus will sing unaccompanied the "Ave Verum," by Gounod. The organ numbers will include Mendelssohn's sixth sonata, "Meditation," from "Thais," Massenet; "Funeral March and Song of the Seraphs," by Guilmant; variations on a Scotch air, Buck, and two movements of Widor's fifth symphony for organ.

Joseph Riccard Recital.

The young pianist, Joseph Riccard, will be heard in recital Thursday evening, May 15, at Gamut Club auditorium, in recital. Mr. Riccard is a pupil of Thilo Becker, with whom he has studied for several years, and is now ambitious to broaden his musical education in the various centers of Europe. Mr. Riccard will play some of his own compositions, and give a programme including selections of Chopin, Liszt, Mendelssohn and Mozart.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, widow of the Confederate general, is working hard to retain the postmastership at Gainesville, Ga., and has set many forces to work in her behalf. The women of Gainesville have sent a petition in her favor to Vice-President Marshall, and she herself has telegraphed many Republican Senators. During the last Presidential campaign Mrs. Longstreet was an active worker in behalf of Theodore Roosevelt.

Miss Sophie Rabinoff, recently appointed interne to a New York hospital from the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania, won the appointment over thirty men in competitive examination. Miss Rabinoff was informed, when she made application several months ago, that women were not eligible to become internes at the hospital. Later, the management decided to let her take the competitive examination, and she won from all the rest in a most decisive way.

MEN AND EVENTS.

James Duffy of Kansas City, Mo., is said to be a direct descendant of Brian Boru.

While fishing in a private water in Lincolnshire, W. Barnes of Helpringham, near Sleaford, caught a twelve-pound pike, which he hooked and lost last year. The fish had the hook in its lip at the time of its recapture.

Rudolph Tegeler, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of J. R. Meadows, will remain in the State Penitentiary at McAlester, but not as a convict. He will be employed by the State at a salary of $150 a month to run the electrical system installed by him at the penitentiary, and which he alone understands. The Tegeler case recently was reversed by the Criminal Court of Appeal.

Jack Harris, a coal miner of Phildia, Iowa, and father of twenty-three children, witnessed the marriage recently of his daughter, Lora Harris, his thirteenth child to enter upon matrimony. Miss Harris became the bride of George Gilliland, 22 years old, also of Phildia. She is 17.

William Gregory, negro, of Jackson, Miss., was told that Senator Vardaman, for whom he once worked, would see that he got a job if he came to Washington, so William set out on foot seven weeks ago and last week put in his appearance at the Senator's office. He was immediately promised the job of porter in the Senate office building. Senator Vardaman describes his protege as "a respectable, hard-working negro, who will never take a seat in a street car while a woman is standing. I want to have William here as an example to the members of his race," he added.

BLOWING BUBBLES.

Bonny, brown-eyed laughter
Father's pride and mother's joy,
On the mansion's lawn he sits,
Bowl and pipestem in his hand,
Blowing bubbles.

Rising, glittering in the sun,
Floating, bursting, one by one,
Nothing else he seems to see,
Happier than a king is he,
Blowing bubbles.

Though it is but a childish game
Still it seems to me the same
Which we men and women play
Are we not from day to day
Blowing bubbles?

"Building castles in the air,"
Dreaming dreams that come to naught,
Dreams of glory, fortune, fame,
Ah, how like this dear babe's game
Blowing bubbles.

Men for fortune play, or name,
Boys for fun there's in the game,
When our bubbles burst in pain
Misery's cup—boys only laugh
Blowing bubbles.

THE HELPING HAND.

Ignatius J. O'Brien, who has been appointed to succeed Redmond Barry as Lord Chancellor of Ireland, has been Attorney-General of that country for about a year. He was admitted to the Irish bar in 1881, and has served on its executive council. In 1911 he became Solicitor-General, and last year was raised a step higher.

A pretty 13-year-old girl is the youngest peeress in England, the King having called out of abeyance the ancient Barony of Furnivall in favor of Hon. Mary Fraser Petre, daughter of Lady Audrey Petre. The barony, created in 1295, has been dormant since 1777.

Sir Edwin Durning Lawrence, "probably the best laughed-at man in the world today," has spent a million dollars in an effort to prove that Bacon wrote the works attributed to Shakespeare.

Rear-Admiral David Beatty, successor to Rear-Admiral Bayly in command of the first battle-cruiser squadron, is the youngest officer that rank in the British navy. He has won rapid promotion for his service, having taken part in the Sudan trouble in 1896 and in the Chinese rebellion two years later. For Nile services he was given the commander. He attained to flag rank in 1910, a special order to that effect being necessary, owing to his short period of service.

BLOWING BUBBLES.

Bonny, brown-eyed, laughing boy,
Father's pride and mother's joy,
On the mansion's lawn he stands
Bowl and pipestem in his hands,
Blowing bubbles.

Rising, glittering in the sun,
Floating, bursting, one by one,
Nothing else he seems to see,
Happier than a king is he,
Blowing bubbles.

Though it is but a childish game
Still it seems to me the same
Which we men and women play,
Are we not from day to day
Blowing bubbles?

"Building castles in the air,"
Dreaming dreams that seem so fair,
Dreams of glory, fortune, fame,
Ah, how like this dear boy's game,
Blowing bubbles.

Men for fortune play, or fame,
Boys for fun that's in the game,
When our bubbles burst we cry,
Misery's cup—boys only laugh,
Blowing bubbles.

Henry L. Higginson has placed at the disposal of the people of Boston the money they can never raise by taxation for the maintenance of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. He pays the orchestra, and he has paid the annual deficit, and he has left $750,000 for its future maintenance. In a recent address he remarked that the cost has been to him a source of pleasure, and in closing remarked:

"It is my desire to have the Symphony, which has been my early ambition to found, for the benefit of all of the people, and I believe that a step has been taken for himself and his own individual interests is a poor specimen of a citizen and patriot. Each year there is a deficit at the end of the Symphony season. Originally I had reckoned upon a deficit of $20,000 a season, but there have been seasons when the deficit reached $50,000."

Hagan Shine of Ninth avenue and Fourteenth street, New York, recently gave his life in a futile attempt to save that of his child. The physicians decided that the only possible way for the child to live was by transfusion of blood, and Mr. Shine offered himself for the operation. A quart of blood was taken from his veins, but the effort was futile as the child died soon afterward. Mr. Shine himself was left extremely weak and after struggling along for several months he finally joined the child.

The announcement is made that some person is to give the city of New York land worth $3,000,000 for public playgrounds for children. As the Park Commissioners have been working for a comprehensive system of municipal playgrounds and recreation centers the gift will be a welcome one, and the additional fact that it will soon be available makes it doubly interesting to both the commissioners and the children of the city.

Herbert F. Cowley, writing to the London Express, places his little wreath upon the tomb of Mr. Pierpont Morgan. Mr. Cowley states that in 1894 he found himself stranded in New York and in a bad way financially. He wrote directly to Mr. Morgan, asking for employment, and by return post he received a reply telling him to call on the following morning, which he did, and was at work a few minutes afterwards. Some two months later he was compelled to return to London through serious illness, but before leaving Mr. Morgan told him that he supposed he could not have saved much money in so short a time and handed him a $100 bill toward the cost of his passage. Mr. Cowley says in conclusion: "It was an open secret then among the staff of his bank that no one ever went to him with a genuine tale of distress but what it was immediately relieved."

Charles Tyree, an attandant at the State Hospital for the Insane, at Topeka, Kan., has a broken arm as a result of his successful effort to prevent the suicide of one of the patients at the institution.

The attendant and several others had all the patients in one of the male wards in the recently completed receiving hospital out for their daily exercise march around the asiyum grounds. One of the newest arrivals broke from the ranks and ran to a tree which hung over a strone bridge on the grounds. Climbing nearly to the top of the tree, the patient dived headlong toward the masonry wall of the bridge.

Tyree, who had started in pursuit of the patient, saw what was happening and made an attempt to catch the insane man in his arms as he plunged headforemost toward the stone bridge. The patient's weight and momentum tore him out of Tyree's arms, but not until the force of his fall had been broken. The two went down in a heap, with the patient uppermost.

When Tyree was assisted to his feet it was discovered that his left arm was broken and his right wrist badly sprained. The patient was uninjured except for a few slight bruises. Had it not been for the attendant's presence of mind and nerve, the patient would have been killed by his headlong dive.

THE UNCHLOROFORMED.

Despite the fact that he is 85 years of age, Nathan H. Morgan, oldest resident of Salisbury, N. H., is able to hold two men above the ground clinging to his outstretched arms and has made a record by cutting and sawing eight cords of wood since last fall, besides doing all the other work on his farm.

New York's oldest policeman, Abram Storm, 70 years old, has retired after forty-eight years of service.

Joseph Hinchman, bachelor, 73 years of Merchantville, N. J., is suffering his first illness. He has adopted and reared twenty-six orphans.

John Young, 91 years old, of Hallowell, Me., split and piled two cords of wood one day last week.

Thomas Ellison of Walnut, Ark., 93 years old, has been married three times, and is the father of fifty children, grandfather of 125 children, great-grandfather of sixty, and great-great-grandfather of twenty-seven children. His youngest child is 11 years old and the oldest 65 years.

John Smith of Winnebago, Minn., 102 years old, is visiting his son, Andrew Smith, in Portland, Or. Only his difficulty in hearing and his light gray hair and beard suggest his great age. He makes the trip between Minnesota and Oregon about once a year. He does not believe in suffrage.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

LOS ANGELES, May 10.

Mother Darling: You have been away just three days and we have had three telegrams from you asking for clothing. You better let me pack your baggage next time. Fancy you wanting that fur coat—in a California May! Which reminds me, I went through the pockets and found something. Oh, oh, oh, mother, what a responsibility you are to me to be sure!

When did you wear that coat last? Ah, now I have you on the jumps! Well, well, you can rely upon my discretion, mother dear, but don't do it again. I never let anyone write on the backs of my programmes. Never!

Aunt Martha wears a weary, detached air. Having discovered how disgustingly you and the pater have reared us she has subsided into a numb sort of resignation and washed her hands of us. That nice Englishman called yesterday—oh, yes, to see you, of course, dear—so I suggested he should be asked to dinner. Hospitable idea, I thought.

"Why ask me?" said aunt, with raised eyebrows. "You have no intention of deferring to my wishes."

Poor auntie! After that, of course, we made a solemn compact to defer to her wishes in everything. We have been at it ever since. We simply won't move from one seat to another without asking her assurance that it's right. "Will it annoy you if I take a little salt?" asks Bob in his best manner. "I wonder if you would mind if I run up and put a little more powder on my nose?" I plead. There never was such an atmosphere of docility in this house before. Still auntie doesn't look quite happy. I tried to make her wear that skittish aigrette of yours in her hair last night. I know the Englishman would have liked it. But she gazed at it as though it was bewitched with evil. If she was going to break the Englishman's heart she meant to do it without the aid of an aigrette.

He really behaved quite well—the Englishman, I mean, not Bob. Of course we missed you very, very much, dear parents; but it was rather a lark doing the gracious hostess without you.

You see, mater dear, the fact is you are a lot too young and a lot too pretty. It is beginning to dawn upon me that you are an unfair handicap. The pater allows you altogether too much license. Of course, I know you simply can't help being charming; but really, for a becoming background to throw up my own charms, give me Aunt Martha every time.

Looking back I can see how often you have cut me out. Nay, nay, glad parent, I shall keep a sharp eye on thee in future. I think you ought to take to spectacles, for one thing, and I am not sure that little lace caps would not be comme il faut. Ask the pater if he doesn't agree with me.

I say, Mums, what really is the rule anent introductions here? The Englishman seems to think it is awfully bad form to shake hands when you are introduced to any one. From what I could gather there are only one or two rare occasions when a handshake is correct in that connection. In the case of a hostess, for instance, or when the presentee is a special person to whom one wants to convey a particularly affectionate regard. I foresee some awkward misunderstandings for us in Europe next year if there really is a different code.

The Barlow garden party was one of the jolliest affairs of the season so far—you would have enjoyed it. You knew Madeline Binkley had her debut party last week, didn't you? An afternoon affair and all the set were there. Her grandmamma, Mrs. Leffingwell, looked so nice. Isn't that San Rafael Heights place charming? I noticed the links at the Annandale Country Club began to look a bit deserted.

Which reminds me: Ask the pater if I can borrow that dandy little putter of his for the golf tournament next week. It's the Southern California event, you know, at Annandale and I do want to make some sort of showing this time. All that Riverside crowd is coming down. Mrs. Martin Chase is playing a topping game, they tell me. I wager Kathleen Wright will be among the winners this time. That kid can wield a golf club prettily and is sure to shine at Annandale, where she learned the game.

Oh, and I say, Mums, you dear Colonial Dames are going to get yourselves into trouble. You know very well that the Sacramento headquarters are the only official authority that can have any sort of say in anything. But you southern pedigreed pomposities have gone and formed yourselves into a little select band of aristocrats. Luckily for you you are not an elected official. But I thought you'd like to know Mrs. A. S. Lobinger is permanent chairman, Mrs. F. O. Wood, Mrs. Le Moyne Wills and Mrs. Garner form an Entertainment Committee and Mrs. Edwardes is the treasurer. All you have to do, darling, is to pay up, be sweet and responsive, learn up your pedigree piffle and attend the tea parties. Likewise, of course, cultivate a gracious, slightly condescending manner towards all the poor rank outsiders whose ancestors had the misfortune not to have any pull in British politics in those gorgeous old Colonial days. Then when the fuss begins, i.e., when Sacramento hears about the usurpation of authority and the setting up of an independent local government without leave, you can look innocent and a little shocked and throw in your lot with the winning side.

Oh, yes, that rich cousin of the S.'s has arrived. Sort of woman who gains her entire prestige from her clothes, I should say. The fact that she wears a Rollins hat, a Ferrill corset, a Jones gown or a Banziger suit is the utmost recommendation one can give her. A walking fashion plate, well-groomed and expensive, but a mind like a pincushion and a voice like a rattle. That's one thing I am proud of about you, Mums darling, you do set off your clothes, not they you. There is just something about you that would make a sheet look stylish and a patchwork quilt ladylike.

I may as well confess I tried to steal those white shoes of yours yesterday, but, mother mine, they are a whole size too small for me. Too small, mind you! What business has a mother with smaller feet than her daughter, I should like to know. Three and a half, indeed. A ridiculous little foot. No wonder it made so little impression on those rare occasions when you tried "putting your foot down" with us.

Give the pater our love and tell him to bring you home safely. And, I say, Mums, don't send for any more clothes—it gives us an awful impression of chaotic discomfort and unsuitably-apparelled motherhood. We want to picture you having a jolly time, as are

Your ever affectionate and dutiful children, TRIXIE.

Loan Exhibition Extraordinary

Mr. H. H. Khazayan of the Iran Company, importers and dealers in Oriental rugs, begs to announce to the public a Loan Exhibition of Rare Persian Rugs, Water Colored Paintings of Persian Types and a Representative Collection of Persian Art

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday—May 12, 13, 14 and 15.

At the Iran Company's Salesrooms, Number 720 SOUTH OLIVE ST. This Exhibition is one that will be sure to interest every art connoisseur and antique lover in Los Angeles and surrounding country.

The rugs that will be exhibited are priceless Antiques that have been loaned us by Chicago, New York and Southern California owners. These rugs have never before been exhibited in California. They are all works of beauty, depicting scenes and costumes of Persia, as early as the 14th century.

The most noteworthy painting exhibited is "Christ on the Sea Calling to Peter," that justly celebrated and priceless treasure painted by Ivan Constantine Aivazovky, Russian marine painter and landscape painter, who, we claim, without fear of contradiction, was the greatest landscape painter the world ever knew.

This picture has been exhibited in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul. The privilege of seeing this wonderful picture is now accorded Los Angeles.

There will also be exhibited an extremely valuable and representative collection of PERSIAN ART, embracing many of the jewels worn and costly articles and trinkets used in Persia from the 14th to 17th century. We believe this is the most representative collection of its kind in existence today.

It is desired that the public clearly understand that NONE OF THE ARTICLES IN THIS EXHIBITION ARE FOR SALE, OR WILL BE SOLD, the Exhibition being for the purpose of showing the Southern California public what has been done in the Turkish and Persian rug art from the 14th century to the present day.

There will be no charge for this Exhibition. Everybody welcome.

The ladies of the party enjoyed themselves in various ways during the time of the association sessions. Following the Wednesday afternoon meeting the entire party was taken to Cold Water Canyon, where a typical mountain dinner was served. The meat was roasted over a huge bed of coals and the coffee and other good things on the menu were dispatched without thought of the prescribed diet for the participants so often outline by their patients.

Thursday was given over to meeting and viewing the many attractions of the resort, the programme concluding with a pleasant dancing party in the evening.

As a special interlude, Miss La Fetra whistled the "Stride la Vampa," from the "Il Trovatore" of Verdi; "El Suspiro" of Alba, "Linda Mia," from the Songs of the Pyrenees, and Schubert's "Serenade" interspersed with the wild dove call. She concluded her programme with three very appropriate numbers, "Without Thee," of Guy D'Hardelot; "Habanera," from "Carmen," of Bizet, and "I Hear You Calling Me," by Marshall.

It was certainly a most successful affair and has formed the

FAMOUS IN A DAY FOR THE BEAUTY OF HER HANDS AND ARMS

A Free Prescription That Does Its Work Over Night—You Can Prepare It at Your Own Home.

"It's my own discovery and it takes just one night to get such marvelous results," answers Camille de Veriac, when her friends ask her about the marvelous change in the appearance of her hands and arms. "You can do the same thing if you take my advice," she says. "I feel it my duty to tell every woman what this wonderful prescription did for me. Just think of it! It did all this in one night.

"It affords me a world of pleasure to tell anyone else just how such remarkable results were brought about. I give you, absolutely free, the identical prescription which has made me so happy by beautifying my hands and arms. You can form no idea of the marvelous change it will make in just one application. The prescription, which can be prepared at your own home, is as follows:

"Go to any drug store and get an ounce bottle of Kuiux Compound. Pour the entire contents into a two-ounce bottle, add a quarter ounce of witch hazel and fill with water. Mix this at home. Apply night and morning. The first application will delight you. It gives the skin a velvety softness, obliterates all discolorations such as tan, sun spots, freckles and coarse pores, roughness, and, in fact, every blemish the skin is heir to. It also produces a marvelous effect on the face, neck and shoulders. It is deliciously cool and soothing and is not affected by perspiration. It will not rub off.

"If the neck is discolored from being exposed to the sun or from wearing high collars, this prescription will immediately relieve that condition. No matter how rough and ungainly the hands and arms, or what abuses they have had through hard work; no matter what exposure the skin has had to sun and wind, this prescription will work a wonderful transformation. Thousands of women are using this prescription with just the same results that I have had."—[Advertisement.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his health, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men.

I think I owe it to my fellow-men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 3750 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.—[Advertisement.

Woman's Danger Period From 45 to 50

This is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active—and with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form, and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation from hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

These symptoms are all just so many calls from nature for help. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared to meet the needs of women's system at this trying period of her life. No other medicine is so universally successful, and so favorably known. It invigorates and strengthens the organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.

Interesting Experience of Two Women.

ASHEVILLE, N.C.—"I suffered for years while going through the Change of Life. I tried a local physician for a couple of years without any substantial benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I quit my physician and commenced using it with the happiest results. I am today practically a well woman and anxious to contribute my mite towards inducing others to try your great medicine, as I am fully persuaded that it will cure the ailments from which I suffered if given a fair chance. If you think this letter will contribute anything toward further introducing your medicines to afflicted women who are passing through this trying period, it is with great pleasure I consent to its publication."—Mrs. JULIA A. MOORE, 17 East St., Asheville, N.C.

CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO.—"I can truthfully say that I never had anything do me so much good during Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken one half a bottle of it I began to feel better, and I have continued taking it. My health is better than it has been for several years. If all women would take it they would escape untold pain and misery at this time of life."—Mrs. ALICE KIRLIN, 358 West Mill Street, Circleville, Ohio.

Santa Barbara Gossip.

MISS VALESKA SURATT.

Valeska Suratt is known as the only [actress] on the American stage who does [not] use switches, wool puffs, [rats], rats, or other subterfuges in [dressing] her hair. She gives the reason

GROWING hair grow was for a long [time] as great a problem to me as [baldness] is today to thousands of women. [Many] were days when thick hair would [not] comb or brush, and I feared [baldness] would soon result. After long [experimenting] I came to two inevitable [conclusions]: the hair must have nourish[ment] to keep it in good condition, when [it] needs to give it; and the hair-[roots] must be allowed to breathe—dirt [must not] accumulate on the scalp and [must] remove it. Dandruff results, [the] becomes starved, looks lifeless, [and] fall out.

[Here] is a formula which I use—and [which] is the result of my conclusions, [which] has been to me astonishing. [It] needs two things, an antiseptic [tonic] and a shampoo that is not a [mere] remover of scurf. I will give [the] formulas here. The hair-grow-[ing] tonic: Mix a pint of alcohol with half [a pint] of water. To this add one ounce [of] cantharides. Shake thoroughly, and [it] will be ready to use. If you pre-[fer] to use imported bay rum in-[stead] of the water and alcohol. The beta-[nol] can not get at almost any drug [store] but should be applied very freely to [the] scalp after brushing it generously for [a] few minutes all over. Rub the tonic [well] into the scalp with the finger [tips] and forces the scalp with the finger [tips] and stops the hair falling. For the [best] shampoo egg exclusively, which [any] druggist should be able to supply [for] 25 cents. I shampoo the hair [about] once a week.

[Advice].—You say you are 25 and [have] gray hair. Use the following wrinkle-[lotion] carefully and you will soon look [as] if there is no exaggeration. A trial [will] never known it to fail. Pour [one] ounce of hot water in a bowl and [add] bowl in a pan of water over a [fire]. To this add two ounces of [glycerin]. When it is dissolved and starts [to] boil remove from the fire, and [add] two tablespoonfuls of glycer-[ine]. Continue to stir until it is cold. [This] is obtained for no more than [50] at any good drug store. This will [last] should be applied very liberally —[Ad]

Making the Hair Grow, and Other Beauty Secrets

By Miss Valeska Suratt

MISS VALESKA SURATT.

Miss Suratt Is Famous as the Self-Made Beauty of the American Stage.

Miss Suratt is known as the only beauty on the American stage who does not use switches, wool puffs, rats, or other subterfuges in order to hide. She gives the reason why her hair grow was for a long time a great problem to me as it is today to thousands of women. Many days when thick hair would not comb or brush, and I feared the worst result. After long study I came to two inevitable conclusions: the hair must have nourishment to keep it in good condition, when it fails to give it; and the hair-roots must be allowed to breathe—dirt must not accumulate on the scalp and must remove it. Dandruff results, when the hair is starved, looks lifeless, and comes out.

The formula which I use—and the result of my conclusions, which have been to me astonishing, are only two things, an antiseptic tonic and a shampoo that is not a single trace of scurf. I will give both here. The hair-grower:

One pint of alcohol with half ounce of bay rum. To this add one ounce of tincture of cantharis thoroughly, and it is ready to use. If you prefer, use bay rum instead of alcohol and alcohol. The beta-nol can be had at almost any drug store for less than 50 cents. This should be applied very freely to the scalp, massaging it generously for several days. Rub the tonic into the scalp with the finger tips, and the hair to grow abundantly and stop the hair falling. For the shampoo, exclusively, which I use, I could be able to supply you with it, I shampoo the hair about once a week.

Then may you are 25 and have the following wrinkle-remedy and you will soon look years younger in appearance. A trial is worth it.

Allow it to fail. Pour one pint of water to a bowl and add a pint of water over a slow fire, and two ounces of powdered borax dissolved and starts to boil remove from the fire, add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine and stir until it is cold. Bottle and keep for use more than a week. Any good drug store. This should be applied very liberally

MISS G. T. R.—I have tried many blood cleansers, but my mixture of sarsene is my old standby. It has a very prompt and thorough effect.

Dissolve twelve ounces of granulated sugar in one-half pint of water, and add one ounce of sarsene, and mix the whole together thoroughly, then add more water to make a pint. Sarsene is a liquid which you can get at the drug store by the ounce. Get it in the original package. Take one or two teaspoonfuls of this mixture three or four times a day, with a little water if desired.

FIDELIA S.—This leaves the skin as beautiful as marble. Every spot, all muddiness, freckles and liver spots disappear quickly. I am never without it, and use it on my arms, hands, face, neck and shoulders. I am proud of the result.

Let half a pint of water come almost to a boil. Add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine. Keep stirring while adding one ounce of sintone, until it is all dissolved. Then let it cool. If the cream is too thick to pour easily from a bottle, thin it down a little with more hot water. The cream will be white and satiny. Hold a wet, hot towel to the face several times for several minutes. Rub this cream on the entire face. Then wipe off with a soft, dry cloth. Then apply again and let it dry on the face. Repeat this again at night. Any good druggist will let you have sintone for about 50 cents.

MRS. S. J.—Hair on the upper lip, between the eyebrows, under the arms, and the "fuzz" on the face which is disfiguring to so many women can be removed almost magically. I will not advise you to use anything but the following. It is the only safe depilatory I know of. Get an ounce of simple sulfo solution. This you can get at the drug store for one dollar. Apply it with the finger tips to the superfluous hair, keeping the hair moist with it for 2 or 3 minutes until it has been dissolved. Then wipe it off with a damp cloth and wash the skin.

SOPHIA.—This is an absolute eradicator of blackheads. First wash the face with hot water and soap. Then sprinkle some neroxin generously upon a sponge made wet with hot water. Then rub well for a few minutes on the parts of the skin which are affected with blackheads. You should be able to secure the neroxin at any druggist's for 50 cents.

LOST.—You should certainly regain your lost bust development or obtain it if you have never had it. In a half pint of cold water dissolve two ounces pustone and a half cup of sugar, all well mixed together. Of this, take two teaspoonfuls three or four times a day in a wine-glass of water, after your meals. The pustone will cost you one dollar at the drug store.

How to Brown Hair Without Detection

Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Tint Hair Stain Can Be Applied in a Few Minutes Every Month.

There is a way of staining gray, faded or bleached hair any shade desired, from a beautiful rich brown to almost black, so that it is difficult, if not impossible, for even experts to detect that the hair has been treated in any way.

This preparation has the tremendous advantage over hair dyes of containing no silver, sulphur, lead or other poisons which invariably cause hair-falling. It has no odor, no oil, no sediment and no grease, and does not rub off on the clothing. It makes the hair grow out fluffy and luxuriant.

A liberal amount as a laboratory trial package of this Walnut-Tint Hair Stain, together with a booklet on hair, is sent by Mrs. Potter's Hygienic Supply Co., 1745 Groton Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio, in plain, sealed wrapper, if you will send 25 cents in stamps or coin, and if it is desired to continue the treatment, full-sized packages may be obtained at drug or department stores for $1 a package.

It is applied in a few moments with the comb, and it stains the hair evenly, from tip to root. It produces any shade desired, from a beautiful, rich brown, to almost black.

One bottle of this Walnut-Tint Hair Stain can last a year.—(Advertisement.

IT'S PILING UP ON JOHN BULL.

Everywhere He Looks Now He Sees Trouble.

Britons Hear Britannia No Longer Rules Sea.

The Man Too Old to Be Honest Is Found.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Federal (Wireless) Line Overland to The Times.]

LONDON, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] Trouble in the Balkans; trouble in India; trouble in Egypt; trouble in South Africa; trouble among the deep-sea sailors and the dockyard workers at home ports—John Bull is surely afflicted by a whole gripful of trouble.

The Balkan muddle has been so much before the public eye that observers have grown calloused to its irritating perplexities. But the same cannot be said of the bad news from India and Africa. Lord Kitchener is relied upon to suppress the unrest on the Nile, but there is grave fear that the Indian conspiracy and the South African quarrel have been allowed to drift so far that desperate measures will have to be used before long.

At Bombay, Calcutta, Delhi, Hindu and Mohamedan are openly arrayed, shoulder to shoulder, pledged to work against the "white sahibs" "for the regeneration of our common motherland." The phrase quoted is from a speech delivered at a recent congress of the All-India Moslem League, which has attracted pained attention in England and among the British in India. Officials of the Indian government are heard to declare that unless something is done, there may be another cataclysm worse even than the terrible Sepoy mutiny. England's attitude toward the Turks is being used as a torch with which the Indian Mohamedans hope to light the fires of revolution; and it exhibits all the signs of reaching fruition in deeds of desperation.

In South Africa, the old blood feuds are being revived between Boer and Briton; this, notwithstanding the able statesmanship of Gen. Louis Botha, the Premier, who is loyally doing his best to play the part of peacemaker. The storm has been deliberately provoked by Mr. Steyn, whose trickery and ambition was so largely responsible for the Boer War. Steyn, an exile from the cape for some years, has reappeared in the scene of his former triumphs and subsequent overwhelming defeat and he has turned the purely personal quarrel between Gen. Botha and Gen. Herzog, a Boer member of the Cabinet who was asked to resign following anti-British intrigue, into an Afrikander "paramount issue." At Johannesburg, Kimbul, Pretoria and Cape Town, feeling is at a high pitch, and Gen. Botha has advised a strong increase of the British forces now at the cape, "to be prepared for eventualities."

The trouble in the shipyards brings the "jinx" right to John Bull's doorstep. The employers complain that their workers are losing heavy inroads of time to attend funerals, football matches, etc., and state that as they lost altogether, 18.8 per cent. of their time, they could get 18.8 per cent. on their wages without any advance if they would only work full time. They also state that, owing to the last three advances, of 15 per cent., in all, and the extra claims made by their workers, their work was costing 30 per cent., more. The employers state further that every advance given to the men had been abused by their ill-conduct and bad time-keeping.

To make matters still worse, Englishmen are being told that Britannia not merely no longer "rules the waves," but that she is unable to stand Franch, German and Belgian competition in the building of ships. British shipowners are giving their orders for new ships to foreign shipbuilders. Following on the orders for three steamers placed by British firms in France, Mr. J. Chambers, head of the firm of Messrs. James Chambers and Company, Liverpool, states that his firm has ordered a ship from a Belgian company. Firstly, they were assured of an earlier delivery; secondly, the price was lower than that quoted by British firms and thirdly, the firm had already suffered by steamers being delayed owing to trouble with the workingmen. "If the British worker is going to work, let him work," said Mr. Chambers.

GERMAN SPY RELEASED.

Phil Max Schultz, who was sentenced to twenty-one months' imprisonment as a German spy, has been released from Horfield jail at Bristol. He was transferred to Horfield from Exeter some twelve months ago. The arrest of Schultz created considerable sensation. He was seized by the police while living upon a yacht at Plymouth at just about the time that two British officers were arrested in Germany and sentenced to detention in a fortress. On his release from jail, he left for London in the company of his lawyer.

TOO OLD FOR HONESTY.

"I have never done an honest day's work in my life, and I don't intend to start now," said George Wells, 60, described as a dealer, to a detective after being committed for trial. "I have been a thief all through my life, and since I started, four months is the longest time I have been free, and I was thieving during that time." He was sentenced to three years' penal servitude and five years' preventive detention at London Sessions, which entailed in the aggregate thirty years in prison, being proved against him.

AN UNUSUAL SCENE.

There was an unusual scene recently at East Cowes, Isle of Wight, at the funeral of Miss Saunders, only daughter of Samuel Saunders, a well-known builder of motor boats. The body, enclosed in a leaden shell, was placed in a mahogany motor boat hull, and this, placed on a trolley, was drawn to Whippingham Cemetery, by employees of the firm. Here the motor boat containing the remains was buried in the presence of a large crowd of people.

ATHLETE'S FEAT.

Tom Burrows, the Australian athlete, completed his task at Aldershot of swinging Indian clubs for 100 hours without a rest, and then went on swinging merrily. The clubs weigh three pounds, six ounces each, and Burrows has kept going at a minimum rate of eighty revolutions a minute.

He decided to go on beyond his self-imposed task because he heard since he started that there was an unauthenticated record of 112 hours by someone in Australia. "Although I felt a little drowsy when I had swung the 'century,'" he said, "I soon pulled round, especially when the band played. My clubs seemed to swing to the music."

TONS OF DUST.

The workmen who have recently been engaged in cleaning Nelson's Column in Trafalgar Square, have removed no less than twenty tons of accumulations from the platform and statue at the top of the column, which has not been cleaned for the last forty-five years. The dirt on Nelson's hat alone weighed half a ton. The top of the column is inhabited by a colony of pigeons, which was much disturbed at the appearance of the workmen.

TWO LITTLE SEA URCHINS.

Two little sea urchins—marine animals covered with prickles like a hedgehob—that have never seen the sea, have been born in the zoological laboratory of the Imperial College of Science, South Kensington, and are being reared by Prof. MacBride.

Their parents were brought from Plymouth some months ago, says Prof. MacBride, for the purpose of studying hybridisation. The eggs, when they appeared, were no bigger than the point of a pin. They were put into four large glass tanks filled with sea water and containing a species of seaweed as food. In a few months the sea urchins made their appearance.

To give the sea urchins the impression that they were actually living in the sea, a glass plate connected with a rod, which in its turn is connected with a little hydraulic pump, was fixed in each tank. When the glass plate moves up and down, a gentle motion is given to the water. The sea urchins imagine it is their first experience of the swell of the sea. This is the first time any sea urchin has been born under such conditions and so far from the sea.

Woman Manager of British Theater Who Frequently Visited United States Answers Last Curtin Call.

Royal Wedding Will End Historic Feud.

Kaiser's daughter and her fiance,

Who after their wedding will visit the courts of Europe and will also tour in the United States. The above picture shows them in court dress and uniform they will wear when formally calling on crowned heads. Princess Victoria Louise is the only daughter of the German Emperor and is 21 years of age. Her fiance, Prince Ernest Augustus of Cumberland, aged 26, is the only son of the Duke of Cumberland, whose father was deposed from the Hanoverian throne by the great grandfather of the Princess. Since then the houses of Hanover and of Hohenzollern have been bitterly antagonistic, but the wedding will restore the ancient friendship.

Hochzeit.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING FOR KAISER'S DAUGHTER.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 10.—The most brilliant royal ceremony that has taken place in Europe in many years will be the approaching marriage of Princess Louise, the Kaiser's only daughter, to Prince Ernst Augustus, the youngest son of the Duke of Cumberland, on May 24.

The wedding itself will be a magnificent affair, and the meeting of different sovereigns of Europe will give the occasion unusual political significance.

Not since the funeral of King Edward of England have so many notables been gathered together as will witness the royal nuptials, and great preparations are in the making at the Berlin and Potsdam palaces for the reception of the royal guests.

Besides the German Emperor and Empress, and the German royal family, the King and Queen of England, the Czar of Russia, the King and Queen of Italy, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne; the King and Prince of Denmark, and possibly the King of Roumania and the King of Norway will be in attendance.

Count Eulenberg, the Kaiser's court marshal, is confronted with many delicate questions in deciding upon the precedence at court of the different personages that will attend the wedding. It is expected that King George and the Czar, who will remain here only two days, will stay at the palace in Berlin, while the other royal personages will be accommodated in the new palace at Potsdam.

SUPPRESS WAR PICTURES.

Celebrated German Painter of Battle Scenes Finds Productions Likely to Arouse Ill-Feeling.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 10.—Anton von Werner, Germany's celebrated painter of battle scenes, and honorary director of the Royal Art School, contributes this month an interesting sidelight on the history of international relations during the recent European crisis, illustrating the precautions taken in Germany to avoid sharpening the situation.

For some time rumors concerning a withdrawal from exhibition of some of Werner's paintings for political reasons have been in circulation. These have now been confirmed by the painter himself, with the addition that the withdrawal was at the request of the Foreign Office, which was anxious to avoid anything which might stir up hostility in France. Last autumn Werner was invited to participate in the jubilee loan exposition of German art, to be held to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession of Emperor William to the throne. He placed at the disposition of the organizers a number of his historic pictures, dealing with scenes of the Franco-Prussian war and with events in later German history up to the death of Gen. Count Von Moltke, the military genius of that conflict. At the same time he suggested, in view of the strained political conditions at the time, and the fact that the pictures dealt with martial scenes of perhaps provocative nature, that the director secure the permission of the Emperor to the exhibition of the paintings.

He was told in reply that at the request of the Foreign Office the pictures would not be exhibited. The fire-eating section of the German press naturally rages at this interference with German art, but the action of the Foreign Office is generally applauded by the public as well as by Prof. Von Werner himself.

AUSTRIANS VICTIMIZED.

Government Takes Steps to Prevent Subjects Being Swindled Out of American Estates.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, May 10.—The Austrian government has taken steps to prevent, as far as possible, the recurrence of incidents in which Austrians entitled to a share in estates in America have been victimized by agents who fraudulently secured their power of attorney, and, then appropriated the whole or part of the inheritance.

A circular, addressed to the provincial authorities, has been issued by the Ministry of Commerce, instructing them to warn relatives of Austrian subjects dying in America against sending powers of attorney to unknown individuals, and suggesting that such authorization should be given only to Austrian Consular officials. There have been many cases in which obscure agents have made away with estates rightfully belonging to poor people in Austria.

BRAZID TO KEEP TARIFF.

Government Decides to Maintain Duties Heretofore Granted to American Products.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

RIO JANEIRO, May 10.—It is stated that the Brazilian government has decided to maintain the tariff reductions heretofore granted American products.

The Brazilian Congress authorized the continuance of favorable duties on such products as flour and cement, but the decrease necessary to make it effective has not yet been issued.

Reciprocal.

AMERICA LOSES BRAZIL TRADE.

Argentine Expected to Get Flour Business.

South Americans Indignant at Coffee Seizure.

Will Retaliate by Duties on Our Manufactures.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, May 10.—American manufacturers probably have lost a flour trade amounting to $3,000,000 a year as well as a lucrative business in cement, typewriters, machinery and other products as a result of the Brazilian government's resentment at the breaking of the Brazilian coffee valorization scheme by the Department of Justice. After several conferences with State Department officials, Brazilian Ambassador De Gama let it be known today that his country in the future would decline to extend the 30 per cent. differential in customs duties which until April 9 was allowed on the American products.

Without the differential, it is said the American producers will not be able to compete with those in Argentine and the Argentine millers are expected to control the Brazilian flour market.

NO COMMERCIAL TREATY.

There has been no commercial treaty between the United States and Brazil since 1841, but negotiations from time to time had resulted in the tariff differential, under which manufacturers in this country had built up an extensive trade.

Brazil's claim is that this differential was allowed with the express understanding that America was not to impose any harassing or discriminatory customs regulations on her exports to the United States. The action of the Department of Justice in seizing 900,000 bags of coffee held by the Valorization Committee in this country, and compelling its sale contrary to the plans of the committee, is regarded as a violation of this understanding. Looking to the future, the Brazilians are not planning a new valorization project, but the committee is still holding 3,000,000 bags of coffee in Europe to market at its pleasure.

THREATEN RETALIATION.

Casting for means to secure a continuance of the differential, Americans have urged the State Department to retaliate by recommending to Congress the imposition of duties on Brazilian coffee and rubber, imported into America in enormous quantities. It is understood, however, that the Brazilians confidently believe Americans must have these commodities at any cost, so that either the middleman or the ultimate consumer must pay any tariff tax that may be imposed.

WHICH IS WORSE?

London Finds as Much Fault With Milady's Feathers as Boston Does With Hat Pins.

LONDON, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] As a substitute for the giant hat pin, the feathers now worn are very unwelcome, declare all who have come in contact with both weapons. Omnibus conductors are complaining that the profusion of feathers is making difficult the collection of fares because of the amount of daylight they exclude from the interior of vehicles.

"Considerations of that kind cannot be allowed to interfere with trade and fashion," said a court milliner. "As the feathers worn seldom exceed two feet in length they are not at all uncomfortable to the wearer of the hat. Nothing is prettier than to see the feathers of two or more women who are discussing their absent friends. There is no need of any man having his eyes injured by these pretty ornaments."

If the fashion of feather ornaments in the hair spreads, it will soon be impossible to see the stage in any London theater. It is expected that enterprising managers will provide rooms where such things can be stored during performances.

LORD HAMILTON TO RETIRE.

Member of Parliament in Days of Disraeli and Gladstone Will Resign His Seat.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, May 10.—Lord Claud Hamilton, who was elected to Parliament before either Disraeli or Gladstone became Prime Minister, and is thus the last link with the House of Commons as it was in the days of the Palmerston, Russell and Derby administrations, has decided to retire at the next general election.

Lord Claud, second son of the first Duke of Abercorn, was elected a member of Parliament for Londonderry, a seat which until the recent bye-election, when it was won by the Liberal home ruler, has invariably been represented by a Hamilton, in 1865, when he was only 22 years of age. He was defeated in the next general election, by which time he had become a Lord of the Treasury. But he found a safe seat at King's Lynn, going thence to Liverpool, for which he sat until 1885, when he retired. At the last general election he again entered politics, and was elected for South Kensington.

Although a strong party man and keen politician, Lord Claud is better known as chairman of the Great Eastern Railway. He is one of the few members of the aristocracy who through family and financial influence have been placed at the head of a great railway, and have made a success of it. With Sir Frederick Banbury, formerly a successful stock broker and a man of considerable financial influence, he has been considered the representative of the railway companies in Parliament, and has consistently fought their battles.

The announcement of Lord Claud's retirement from Parliament followed the passage of a government bill enabling railways to raise their rates to meet increases in the wages of employees.

MAKES A PLEA FOR THE POLES

Baron Rosen Becomes Their Spokesman in Duma.

Wants Control of the Police Abrogated Entirely.

Midnight Strike a Novelty in Czar's Capital.

BY GEORGE FRASER.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Poland (Without Rite Overland to The Times.]

ST. PETERSBURG, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] Baron Rosen, the former Russian Ambassador at Washington and the man who more than all others tried to avert the disastrous Russian war with Japan, is striving hard to secure a measure of local authority in Poland on the basis of the Russian municipal government law of 1892. The benefits of this charter of the Russian towns, especially regarding self-government, are to apply, with local adaptations, to Polish towns. The proceedings of Town Councils may be conducted in the Polish language. The chairman is to furnish a Russian translation of declarations in Polish if so desired by any member. Police control generally is to be removed, and special concessions are accorded to Warsaw. These provisions, which were recommended by a committee, have been practically accepted by the government.

In the general discussion on the first reading various members of the Duma opposed the proposal to sanction the Polish language on the ground that a uniform language was a powerful bond of union. Baron Rosen and M. Shebeko, on the other hand, argued that the authorized use of the Polish language would more than anything help to draw Poland closer to Russia. Although Poland a century ago ceased to be politically independent it should not, they contended," be treated as if it had no separate existence of its own. The history of the Balkan states was eloquent of what oppressed nationalities were capable of. In view of recent events it was not in the interest of Russia to do anything to discourage the Poles from turning to her as their hope for the future. A few days ago the possibility of a conflict between the Slav and German worlds was adduced by a responsible statesman as an argument for increasing the German army. For Russia there was only one answer—to see to it that if this conflict ever arose all the Slavs were on one and the same side."

Baron Rosen advocated a broad-minded policy for the frontier regions, based on intelligent sympathy with local needs and susceptibilities. "Only thus," he declared, "could voluntary allegiance, the true bond of union, be created. The existing balance of power was not a permanent guarantee of peace. This balance might be disturbed by a progressive increase of armaments. The frontier population should be inspired by a sense of solidarity with the Russian people in order that, if a universal conflagration broke out, the whole empire might be ranged under the banner of the exalted ruler who stood for the union, the might and the glory of Russia."

ANOTHER STRIKE.

Another strike—this time in the Russian capital—commemorated the first anniversary of the shooting of discontented workmen at the Lena gold mines. The police received information that the strikers were bent on organizing an impressive demonstration, carrying red flags, singing revolutionary ditties, marching to the cathedral on the Nevsky and generally engrossing the attention of St. Petersburg and Russia for at least one day. Correspondingly elaborate measures were taken and they proved efficacious.

The strike began at midnight, and by noon of the following day between 50,000 and 60,000 hands had left work. But the entire force of police was about, checking their every move by skilful maneuvering and the barring of the thoroughfares rather than by violence. The police prefect himself moved about from place to place, and wherever groups gathered they were immediately dispersed. Traffic was nowhere interrupted, nor was order seriously violated.

A number of workmen and students gathered on the Nevsky, and refused to circulate, whereupon the mounted police rode forward and dispersed them. In another street the crowd not only refused to obey the police officer who summoned them to move on, but marched against the police, who drove them away by force. A number of arrests were made, but the bulk of the population witnessed nothing, and the manifestation is significant only as a symptom.

PRINCE OF WALES MAY COME.

Heir Apparent Plans Tour to Canada and Possibly Will Come to the United States.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, May 10.—Although nothing has as yet been definitely arranged, it is very certain that the Prince of Wales, who has paid long visits to France and Germany, will before long start on a tour of the dominions and colonies. Canada, in all likelihood, will be the first dominion visited, and when there it is possible that the Prince, like his grandfather fifty-three years ago, will have a look at America.

The Prince will finish his university education at Oxford at the end of the present year. He will then be given a commission in the Grenadier Guards. Whether he will actually serve with the guards is not known yet, but if he does it will only be for a short time. If nothing happens to intervene, he will be free to start on his tour of the dominions in the spring of 1914.

Alice Maud Meadows began to write when she was 14 years old. Her publications include, "The Infatuation of Marcella," "An Innocent Sinner," "The Moth and the Flame," and many other novels.

TO TEACH RUBBER TAPPING.

Experienced Grower of Malay States Going to South America to Give Instruction.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, May 10.—Alexander Irving, an experienced rubber grower of the Malay States, will soon sail for Brazil in charge of a party of rubber tappers who will teach the natives the methods of tapping in vogue in Ceylon and the Federated Malay States. It is expected that by the use of this method the output in Brazil will be increased five-fold. Many thousands of tapping knives already have been shipped to Para, and the Brazilian government is prepared to spend $250,000 to instruct the natives in the rubber country in this very effective system of tapping.

In the meantime rubber prices continue to tumble in the London market, and 75 cents a pound is now being offered for the quality which brought $3 during the great boom of 1910. The output is rapidly expanding and rubber brokers are wondering how low the price will go if the promised five-fold increase in Brazil materializes.

RHINE LEGEND IS VERIFIED.

SITE OF ANCIENT CLOISTER IS TURNED INTO LAKE.

Only Tops of Trees Appear Above Water, Where Once Stood Historic Monastery, Whose Monks, According to Tradition, Were Swallowed by Earth for Their Sins.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 10.—A Westphalian legend of a sunken cloister, swallowed by the earth in a night in punishment for the sins of the monks, appears now very possibl founded on fact. The legendary occurrence has just been repeated on the reputed site of the ancient monastery near Rheine, but this time without involving modern sinners.

Fifteen acres of a wooded moor, still called "the Holy Lake," in commemoration of the waters beneath which monks and monastery disappeared and which in turn slowly silted up first into marsh and then into moor, have dropped out of sight. On the spot is now a lake thirty feet deep, with only the tops of the higher trees appearing above the surface.

The legend speaks of a rumbling subterranean noise which warned the population of the fate overtaking the monks, and the same sound, accompanied by a noticeable trembling of the earth, during the night of April 15, carried the news of the new wonder to the villages around the moor. When the spot was visited the next morning it was found that fifteen acres had sunk bodily some forty feet, the subsidence occurring so evenly and gradually that birches and pines were still erect in the soil, though already well below the level of the surrounding land. Streams of water were pouring from the almost vertical sides of the cavity, which soon filled to the depth of about fifteen feet and then, after an interval, to about thirty feet. The flow of water still continues, but the waters seem to have found a concealed outlet, for the level remains fairly constant.

Thousands of sightseers are visiting the "miracle," including many geologists, who have already advanced their explanations of the phenomena. The country here is underlaid with beds of limestone, which, the geologists assume, is subject to erosion by strong underground streams of water. Into a cavern thus formed an area of stone corresponding to the new lake has presumably fallen and the present sinkage may be only the beginning of further subsidence.

Scourge.

CANCER DEATHS HAVE DOUBLED.

PROBLEM MORE SERIOUS THAN TUBERCULOSIS.

English Statistics Show That Despite Medical Ingenuity Disease Is Outstripping Its Sombre Rival in United Kingdom and Steps Are Being Taken to Combat It.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, May 10.—"The time has now arrived when the attention of the public must be directed to the fact that cancer is at the point of overtaking consumption, satistically, as a bringer of death to English men and women."

This statement occurs in a summary of mortality statistics from 1851 to 1910, just issued by the Society for the Relief and Prevention of Cancer. The object of the report is to furnish for the information of the public the essential statistics of the cancer problem in England and Wales.

The compiler says: "The public has long been familiar with the numerical gravity of the white scourge, but that malady, now so well in hand, pales into insignificance beside the new terror that has arisen. There is little rashness in prophesying that within five years cancer will have outstripped its rival and will have a heavier death roll than consumption. The one, moreover, is a dying and conquered foe; the other shows a prime vitality and rider roughshod over the whole realm of medical ingenuity. Yet the public has campaigners galore against consumption, but its war against cancer has been left practically to a single imperial committee."

The annual death roll from cancer in the United Kingdom during the sixty years covered by the survey of this committee has increased from 17,365 (497 a million) to 42,134 (960 a million. In other words, the percentage has more than doubled.

"SCHIEBE-TANZ VERBOTEN."

That's the Same as Saying in English that the "Bunny Hug" is Forbidden in Deutschland.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 3.—"Bunny-huggers" and "turkey-trotters" are faced with jail in Germany, just like the more dangerous "criminals" who wear projecting hatpins in Berlin. A workman in Bernburg and the wife of a comrade with whom he indulged in the forbidden German equivalent, the "Schiebe-Tanz," were arrested for the offense. The man was sentenced to six months in jail, and the woman to a fine of 50 marks, or six days' imprisonment.

BRITISH GIBSON GIRL DENOUNCES SPLIT SKIRT.

BY LADY MAYWARING.

[BY CABLE AND FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE OVERLAND TO THE TIMES]

LONDON, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] Lady De Clifford, who is famed as the Gibson Girl of the British aristocracy, frowns upon the "split" skirt. Her ladyship says it is both inartistic and indecent.

Among some new dresses which she ordered a couple of weeks ago were two for which she was fitted hurriedly. When the modiste delivered the frock, Lady De Clifford was shocked to see that the otherwise lovely gowns were "split" very conspicuously. She was quite indignant over the mistake and wrote her thoughts to the fashionable maker of women's wear. They were quite burning, according to the surprised and penitent modiste, who at once apologized.

MILITANTS POISON DOG.

The champion Pekingese, Choo Tai, owned by Miss Violet Ashton Cross of Egham, was poisoned by the militants. She received today a post-card which said: "Very sorry Choo Tai had to be sacrificed, but our rules must be inexorably enforced and we are resolved to stop at nothing now. Every valuable prize winner or race horse, such as the Derby winner, shall be maimed or destroyed when the chance presents itself, until we get votes for women. You and other owners of valuable property can only enjoy peace by helping us get the votes. The money you offer as a reward had better be applied to assisting the cause."

SUFFRAGETTES FOR PAY.

A woman who has been asked many times to contribute to the suffrage cause said today she had investigated and found many women and girls who were parading the streets with suffragette banners fighting the police or rioting are totally uninterested in the suffrage cause, but are being paid ten shillings a day, which is more than they could earn in any other occupation. She said she had been led to make the investigation because one of her friends had a daughter who didn't want to vote but against all the mother's entreaties insisted on carrying a banner for the good cause received.

FRENCH RIVAL OF ZEPPELINS.

Trial of Rigid Airship Declared a Success.

Tribes Lured Into Slavery in New Hebrides.

Society Women Form League to Help Housemaids.

BY PAUL VILLIERS.

[By Cable and Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

PARIS, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] The first rigid airship built for the French army, the Spiess, has been undergoing trials at St. Cyr, and so far the experiments are declared to have been successful. The airship was taken out of its shed in the presence of the Minister of War, and was put through some evolutions over the aerodrome, chiefly for the purpose of testing the machinery and of training the soldiers in the manoeuvers for taking the airship in and out of the shed.

The Spiess airship differs from the Zeppelins by the fact that its rigidity is obtained, not by means of aluminium, but by hollow wood framework covered with canvas. It consists of eleven compartments, with a total length of 340 feet and a maximum diamter of forty-five feet. Each compartment is filled by a ballonet, which adapts itself to the rigid frame as soon as it is inflated. A sort of triangular keel extends nearly the entire length of the airship, with a slight depression fore and aft, where the motors are situated. There are two Chenu motors of six cylinders and 1800 horse power, each of which operates two wooden propellers eighteen feet in diamter. These propellers are attached aft high up on each side of the rigid frame, which constitutes one of the original features of the new airship.

The transmission is effected by oblique shafts twenty-three feet in length with cardan joints and three supports. The steering is effected by vertical biplanes fixed aft and the stabilisators consist of four horizontal planes also attached at the rear. A series of cables stretched across the eleven compartments terminate forward, and by being joined offers a solid hold, which permits of anchoring the airship with the nose to the wind. The cubic capacity of the airship is given at 35,000 feet, and its probable speed is about forty-five miles an hour.

SLAVERY IN FRENCH COLONY.

Women with votes, or still seeking votes, in the United States will be shocked to learn of the apalling conditions in the French colony of New Hebrides, as disclosed by M. Pierre Bernus, a noted traveler and writer.

The anti-slavery laws are openly defied; the most barbarous cruelties are practiced; the joint court under the Anglo-French Convention of 1906 affords no redress, declares M. Bernus, who testifies that he has personally witnessed the scenes he describes. "Settlers in quest of labor equip a ship and go from island to island, seizing the men and women whom they want, sometimes by craft, more often by violence."

He tells how "a recruiter sailed into a lonely inlet, induced a whole tribe to come aboard his ship, gave them food and drink, and then weighed anchor with his cargo of stolen slaves."

"Three natives—one being a woman—ran away from a slaver. Rather than be captured the woman drowned herself."

The French government is sending out a commission of inquiry, with a French warship to give chase to these modern corsairs.

Republican France is loyal to Republican Portugal, and certain influential Portuguese conspirators who have made Paris their center of operations have been told that their room is preferable to their company. The Portuguese have taken the hint and departed for London.

President Poincare has high ideals of the duties of friendly nations towards each other. Only a few weeks ago, the head of the Surete notified the President that a certain Spanish anarchist was carrying on an active propaganda against King Alfonso and Count Romanones, the Spanish premier, from a house in Combovose. The President ordered the house raided and the anarchist and his correspondence seized. The documents taken were forwarded to Madrid while the enemy of society was promptly departed.

Under the patronage of many of the most prominent society women of Paris, a League of Good Mistresses has been formed. The purpose is to ameliorate the lot of Fifine, the French maid, and her sisters of the parlor and kitchen.

There are more than 775,000 servants in France. The majority of them work under most unsatisfactory conditions. That the sleeping accommodation for the maid in a French or a German flat is often exiguous everybody knows well enough, and one need not wonder at the regulation that all sleeping quarters must possess direct ventilation and a door opening inwards. When one reads that it is proposed as a reform that all servants should be given facilities for a bath once a month one will admit that the League for Good Mistresses is not too luxurious in its ambitions.

The spectacle of a Mayor in the dock, facing a charge of double attempted murder, is one of the features of the Seine Assizes. M. Piron, the chief magistrate of Gentilly, is the defendant in the case. In the evening of December 28, Madame Chabrux, widow of M. Chabrux, banker and money-lender, and her sister were alone in the villa of Perreux. There was a ring at the bell. Madame Chabrux opened the door to a visitor whom she recognized as a M. Jamet, who had had dealings a few weeks before with her deceased husband. No sooner had the so-called M. Jamet been admitted than he attacked Madame Chabrux with a knife, inflicting severe wounds. Her cries brought out her sister, who was also stabbed several times. Both women recognized in the Mayor their aggressor. Inquiries into M. Piron's affairs proved that he had been for a considerable time on the verge of bankruptcy. An old railway time-table found in the villa of Perreux after the crime bore notes which experts identified as M. Piron's handwriting. Again, an acquaintance of the Mayor, a M. de Burgat, stated that on the morrow of the crime M. Piron had made full confession to him. Against all this evidence the accused, opposes flat and vigorous denials. Love and robbery are declared to be the motives for the crime.

Ready to Suffer Martyrdom for Ballot.

High Treason.

"BLOW UP PARLIAMENT!" MILITANT SUGGESTION.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

[BY CABLE AND FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, May 10.—"If Parliament won't give women the vote, then let us blow up Parliament," Miss Elsie McKenzie, one of the most active militants, is accused of saying. Fearing that some of the anarchist amazons might try to put this advice into practice, Chief Inspector William Gough of Scotland Yard, has detailed the special police assigned to protect the Parliament buildings.

Miss McKenzie is defiant and dares the government to do its worst to her. She says: "Nero hurled the Christian girls to the wild beasts. These political wild beasts who play with the women's cause cannot frighten us. We shall draw their teeth in time and what odds if a few of us suffer martyrdom."

STRENGTH, WITH PEACE IDEAL OF GERMANY.

Kaiser's Chancellor Enlightens the World as to Aims of the Fatherland—A Lesson for the Strategists and Tacticians in Washington in the Earnestness With Which Teutons Are Perfecting Their Aerial Fleet.

BY MALCOME CLARKE.

[BY CABLE AND FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 10.—"The two great treasures which we seek to obtain," says Chancellor Herr von Bethmann Hollweg, "are peace and the strength of the Fatherland."

"Treasures so precious are not to be had for nothing, and sacrifices must be made for them. The echo which our appeal to the self-sacrifice of the German people has found strengthens me in the conviction that Germany is in no danger of going under in prosperity and luxury, but that she is ready to make sacrifices for her strength and for peace."

These treasures are to cost German property owners the substantial sum of $250,000,000. Property will pay; "but, it is asked," what a dangerous precedent—what an alarming temptation to Socialist greed and extravagance should the party of theoretic altruism ever gain actual control of the Fatherland."

FOR THE STRATEGISTS.

There is a lesson to be gleaned by the strategists and tacticians at Washington, D. C., from the thoroughgoing earnestness with which Germany is perfecting her aerial fleet. The following table, which is official, shows the augmented strength and distribution of the air fighters:

	Non-com. Officers.	Officers.	Men.
1913 estimate	96	258	1,320
Now added	77	550	2,671
Total	173	808	4,001

The following shows the distribution of the personnel.

	Non-com. Officers.	Officers.	Men.
Prussia: Five airship battalions	81	225	1,905
Prussia: Four aeroplane battalions	54	381	1,190
Saxony: One airship and one aeroplane company	7	55	251
Wurtemberg: One airship company	4	20	149
Bavaria: One aeroplane battalion	27	77	416

There are to be 13 army airships, with 14 companies. Each company is to have two airships, so that the whole force will be about 30. If only to judge by the figures of personnel, (about 160 men to a company), this estimate is probably far too low. It would be more prudent to calculate upon the basis of three airships to each station, but the only safe calculation must be based upon information regarding the output and capacity of the building yards. There is no difficulty about accommodation for the ships. The Zeppelin shed at Potsdam, which takes two ships, was built last autumn in about six weeks. What is clear is that the General Staff is laying the foundations of a comprehensive scheme, which is capable of very great and very rapid expansion.

Presumably it is intended to get all the 12 aeroplane companies into working order as soon as possible. There is good reason to believe that the present number of army aeroplanes in Prussia considerably exceeds 150, and that at least 100 more will be added this summer. This estimate does not include the aeroplanes of the Bavarian army. The number of really effective army aeroplanes at any given moment will probably never be known, but it was stated long before the present army bill was ever thought of that each of the 25 German army corps was to have six aeroplanes in commission and six in reserve—making a total of 300. With the new organization here described the total would give only 20 aeroplanes for each of 15 aeroplane companies.

At Munich a high school for matrimonial sciences, or, to give it its sonorous Teutonic title, "Hochschule der Heiratswissenschaften," has been founded by Prof. Dr. Walter Hassall. Dr. Hassall hopes that within a month's time the academy will number 500 students of both sexes. These, on completing their course, will be awarded diplomas as teachers of love, and will be expected to travel the length and breadth of Germany in order to make an active propaganda in favor of marriage. The curriculum at the high school will includ lectures by specialists on the dangers of flirtation and the beauties of "all-sacrificing love." Experts in zoology and biology will illustrate their instruction by means of cinematographic displays, and will explain the interesting laws of affinity and soul attraction and repulsion. Special courses will be held, at which the ideals of love will be instilled into the souls of rebellious subjects; while the problem of preventing the flight of love after the disillusionment of matrimony will receive great attention.

THE KAISER'S ENERGY.

With tremendous energy the Kaiser has thrown himself into the arrangements for his daughter's wedding. It is having the whole attention of the Hohenzollern household. In particular the Kaiser is plotting all sorts of stately revelries for the court ball which is to honor the occasion. It will be opened by a polonaise, danced exclusively by young people. The dance is several centuries old, and has always been a feature of the German court balls.

The Kaiser is insisting on a careful rehearsal of the polonaise by those who are to take part in it, and the dancing master at the Berlin Schloss is having a busy time of it. Despite the puritanical feelings of a certain section of the German court, moreover, His Majesy insists on observing also the ancient and pretty custom of cutting up and distributing the bride's prove as successful as the first, he thinks it would be possible to secure many people from contagion in times of diphtheria epidemic.

A Marburg doctor states that he has inoculated a child with the serum and then transferred the serum to another body. It was the first case in which immunity against infection had been secured by means of human serum.

RUINED BY GERMAN ARMY.

Cost of Service so Great to Many Families That Parents Are Compelled to Give Up Farms.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 10.—At a time when Germany is about to make a big increase in her army, it is of interest to note the economic effect of the present peace footing upon a typical peasant family. This aspect of Germany's military burden has been made the subject of investigation, and from reports on nearly 2000 peasants' families in Bavaria it is seen that every soldier costs his family at least $238 during the two years of service in the army. As the pay of the men does not suffice for their needs their parents have to send them money and gifts that average about $36 a year. Besides this, the peasant must hire a farm laborer as a substitute for his son, which means a further expense of $90. These figures appear all the more serious when it is remembered that over half of the families included in the investigation furnished the country at least four soldiers each, while the number went as high as eight or nine in some families.

A striking feature of the situation is the virtual ruin of some small farms by the removal of the young men to do their term of service. Such cases are by no means rare. One peasant who supplied five soldiers wrote: "I should have been glad to send a few of them to school, but I am spending all my money on the army." Another, owner of three acres of land and himself a farm laborer for a part of his time, said: "My property, small enough already, was ruined by military duty." He had sent four sons into the army.

GERMAN CRANE THE BIGGEST.

Was Employed in Construction of Largest Steamer on Ocean to Sail Next Month.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, May 10.—Germans usually attribute to Americans a craze for everything that is big, but Germany makes some things bigger than any other country in the world. When the Imperator starts on her trial trip she will be the biggest steamer on the ocean. Moreover, the final work on the mammoth vessel has been done with the biggest crane in the world, which was completed about the beginning of April.

Hamburg broke the world's records in cranes twenty-five years ago, but it later lost this pre-eminence. Now a German firm has built there a crane that can handle loads to a maximum of 275 short tons within a radius of 113 feet, and 120 tons within 174 feet. But its working reach is even greater than this, for the movable arm is itself surmounted by a small crane that can lift ten tons at a distance of 200 feet from the center. The weights of that size, the crane has a total sweep of 440 feet. The machine is operated by electricity, and only two men are required to serve it. The chief operator in the central house is provided with a searchlight to enable him to work at night.

German manufacturers of course claim that their machines excel those made in other countries, and that 140 big cranes in the world were built by a single German firm.

THICK DANDRUFF OR SMALL SCALES

Head Sore from Eruption. Very Painful. Began as Red Rash. Hair Came Out in Spots. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In a Month Head Well and Smooth.

Crosier, N. M.—"When my little brother was six months old his head became sore from an eruption and instead of healing it turned to a solid scab and was very painful. The trouble began as a red rash which developed into a thick dandruff or small scales and then under this formed pus, and it soon spread all over the top of his head. He was very cross and fretful and did not sleep well. His hair came out in spots.

"Mother tried lots of home remedies but they did no good. Then a friend told mother about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and she used them. She used the Cuticura Soap to wash and cleanse his head, then applied the Cuticura Ointment and in one month his head was entirely well and smooth.

"My own little boy developed a case similar to my brother's when he was a baby. We used Cuticura Soap and Ointment in time and he was cured in eight days." (Signed) Mrs. Lucy G. Bloomfield, Aug. 20, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Two Generations Now Using It

Nation's Most Popular Laxative Keeping Millions of American Families in Good Health.

There must be genuine merit to an article that has stood the test of two generations of users.

In the field of medicine none has had greater success, nor retained that success to a greater degree, than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is now being used by two generations of people. Its use in families is constantly becoming more general. The reason, primarily, is that it has merit. It is what it represents itself to be, a laxative-tonic; it does not make exaggerated claims nor use coarse language to set forth its virtues.

ELSIE LEWIS.

It is a medicine, but so mild and gentle a medicine that thousands of mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet, in a slightly larger dose, it is equally effective for grown-ups. It is for any disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels, for constipation, no matter how chronic, for dyspepsia no matter how severe, for biliousness, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, headaches, drowsiness after eating and similar complaints arising from a clogged-up condition of the bowels. It is pleasant to the taste and does not gripe. It can be used with safety and good results by anyone at any age or in any condition of health, and that person's health will improve. Every druggist sells it and the price is only fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

Thousands of families throughout the country are never without it in the house, among them Mrs. Clara Lewis, Beck's Store, Ky., who gave it to her baby, Elsie, while teething, and says: "It is the best medicine in the world for the stomach and bowels." She writes that she keeps it in the house for every member of the family, takes it herself and that her mother recovered her health and gained in flesh by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Huntington Park.

A SCORE of small tables each centered with bowls of gorgeous golden poppies and surrounded by women in pretty summer toilettes dotted the lawn at the J. H. McCord residence in Huntington Park, Friday afternoon, the occasion being a luncheon given by Mmes. McCord, Bina L. Wyman, John Beckwith and C. H. Getchell.

Guests to the number of sixty, former residents of Des Moines for the most part, partook of a bountiful luncheon served thus invitingly in the open and enjoyed to the full the charming environment, for roses of the choicest varieties ran riot near by and filled the air with delicious fragrance.

SLEEP-DISTURBING BLADDER WEAKNESS BACKACHE-RHEUMATISM, QUICKLY VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After a Few Doses Are Taken.

Backache, urinary disorders, and rheumatism are caused from weak, inactive kidneys, which fail to filter out the impurities and keep the blood pure, and the only way on earth to permanently and positively cure such troubles is to remove the cause.

The new discovery, Croxone, cures such conditions because it reaches the very roots of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering cells and glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism; it neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the tender membranes of the bladder, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped-up, lifeless kidneys so they filter and sift all the poisons from the blood, and drive it out of the system.

So sure, so positive, so quick and lasting, are the results obtained from the use of Croxone, that three doses a day for a few days are often all that is required to cure the worst case of backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and overcome the numerous other similar conditions.

It is the most wonderful preparation ever made for the purpose. It is entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth to compare with it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give desired results, regardless of how old you are, how long you have suffered, or what else has failed to cure you.—[Advertisement.

Health and Beauty Advice

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Annette: (1) Sometimes a druggist endeavors to discourage the making of home-remedies because he thinks it interferes with his business. I never suggest the use of anything that is not sold in first-class drug stores. (2) To make kardene spring blood-tonic and liver remedy, get 1 ounce of kardene, mix it with ½ cupful of sugar and add ½ pint of alcohol and 1½ pints of hot water. This formula makes a full quart of tonic, of which you should take 1 tablespoonful 5 minutes before each meal and before retiring. As an all-around tonic this has no superior. It will restore your lost appetite and tend to strengthen and build you up. It purifies blood and your pimples and ugly blotches will soon disappear.

Virginia: A good "liquid-powder" or face-wash which when on seems a part of the skin is made by dissolving 4 ounces of spurmax in ¼ pint of hot water or witch hazel, and adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This home-made complexion-beautifier whitens the skin without the use of powder, and is particularly recommended for the use of anyone who has a sallow, dark or oily skin.

Constance: To remove dandruff and stop falling hair, apply once a week a quinine hair-tonic, made by dissolving 1 ounce of quinzoin in ¼ pint of alcohol, adding ¼ pint of cold water. Rub into the scalp and hair with the finger tips until absorbed. This treatment will promote the growth of hair and tend to make it luxuriant and glossy. (See answer to Molly.)

Molly: It is not necessary to shampoo the hair oftener than twice a month if you use a shampoo that will thoroughly cleanse the hair and scalp. An inexpensive shampoo that makes the head feel good and helps the hair is made by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cupful of hot water. Pour on the hair and rub well. You will find that this makes a good lather—and plenty of it—thoroughly cleanses the hair and scalp and relieves irritation and stimulates roots to helpful action.

Viola: Yes, healthy eyes are clear and sparkling. If yours are dull, red and inflamed you need an eye-tonic. Get an ounce of crystos from your druggist and dissolve it in a pint of water. One or two drops in each eye every day is all that is required. This eye-tonic will not smart or burn and will give relief when the eyes are tired, inflamed or sore. It strengthens the eyes and will benefit you if you wear glasses.

Laura: Your friend is right in saying that I know a certain wrinkle-remover which can be made at home at very little expense. It is a vegetable product and is unlike creams containing oils or animal fat as it neither grows hair nor makes the flesh loose and flabby. Just dissolve an ounce of almozoin, which you can get from any druggist, in one-half pint cold water and add 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. Stir and let stand for one day. To remove wrinkles apply a thick coat of this cream-jelly and leave on over night. This protects the skin and allows all the blood action to be used in constructing new texture. Then wash it out of the pores and massage thoroughly with more of the cream. It makes the skin soft and velvety, while it is unequaled in reducing large pores.

Student: It will be good news to you to learn that what you eat is now thought to have little to do with obesity and that if enough exercise is taken, even a fleshy woman may eat what she wants. To half starve oneself means to look haggard and altogether unlovely. Don't drink while eating, even water, and don't drink alcoholic beverages at any time. The best flesh-reducer I know of is parnotis. Get from your druggist an original 4-ounce package of parnotis, take it home and dissolve it in 1½ pints hot water. Take one tablespoonful 3 times a day, before meals.

O. T.: Your eyelashes will grow long and have a pretty curl if you apply pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. This eyebrows can be made to come in thick and glossy by putting pyroxin on them frequently with the finger. You can buy pyroxin in a small, original package, but be careful and don't get any where hair is not wanted.

Olga N.: The disfiguring hairy growth can be permanently banished by using a depilatory paste. Get a small, original package of delatone and mix enough of the powder with water to cover the objectionable hairs. Let remain 2 or 3 minutes, then remove and wash the skin. This simple treatment dissolves the hairs and leaves the skin free from blemish. Read Mrs. Martyn's book, "Beauty." $5.—[Advertisement.

Important Announcement to All Customers Who Have Been So Kind As to Wait for Their Dinner Sets

We recently received a carload of Dinner Sets—Dinner Sets that were purchased for our regular retail trade. All of these Sets are of high-grade ware, but include 42 pieces instead of 50 pieces. They are, however, made up of all large pieces—they contain no butter chips, but instead have Bread and Butter Plates. We feel that a great many of our customers who have waited for the 50-piece sets will be satisfied with these 42-piece sets. They are here for your inspection—three patterns—mostly white with gold border decorations. We make this suggestion for the benefit of those who have been so kind in waiting. On the other hand, there will be a small consignment of the 50-piece sets here in a few days, and deliveries will be made as soon as they arrive to those who decide to wait for them. Come Monday or Tuesday and select your dishes, or phone your Salesman your wishes in the matter.

Sunday Newspaper Readers Will Eagerly Buy
Any Paper Printing an Article Signed by

PRESIDENT WILSON

Upon the Real, Live, Home-Reaching Topics

THE first time any series of authoritative and signed articles ever appeared in the daily press by a President of the United States. Here is a feature which THE TIMES freely exploits and advertises, despite the fact that this journal disagrees in toto from the President on the tariff question. The articles are published on their merits, impartially, as matter of human interest.

The first article of President Wilson's remarkable series of plain talks to the country in favor of Free Trade, will appear in

The Los Angeles Times (Exclusively in this city) Sunday, May 18, 1913

It will set forth with emphasis and clarity his personal views on the tariff. This pronunciamento of President Wilson's is now first printed in any newspaper or periodical, except in the limited number of newspapers forming the syndicate which serves THE TIMES. In other words, for the first time in history, articles by a President of the United States, written during his term of office, will be published in newspaper form. This, breaking as it does all precedents, is without exception the most remarkable feature ever brought out by an American newspaper.

Look for the issue of THE TIMES FOR MAY 18. Agents to make sure of their supply of papers, should send in their orders well in advance

LIFE GLAMOUROUS WITH ROMANCE.

WOMAN WHO CROSSED PLAINS LONG AGO IS CALLED.

Passes Away After Short Illness, Having Lived in Los Angeles for Forty-six Years—Meets Young Man With Immigrant Train, Who Becomes Her Husband.

Death ended a life interlinked with much of the pioneer history of the Pacific Coast yesterday when Mrs. Mary Davidson, who crossed the plains from Missouri to Oregon in 1852 and came to this city in 1867, passed away at her home, No. 858 Beacon street, after a short illness.

Born in Jackson county, Missouri, December 23, 1830, the daughter of Joab Powell, a pioneer Baptist minister and contemporary of Peter Cartwright, Mrs. Davidson, then Miss Powell, braved the manifold terrors of an Indian-infested West when she accompanied her father from Missouri to Linn county, Oregon, in 1852, where he set up a little chapel among the pines in a sparsely-settled country.

On the way across the plains, however, she had met a young man with an immigrant train, S. M. Davidson, and this meeting ripened into love and led to the marriage of the two six months later.

Engaging in the lumber business, Davidson accumulated considerable property. In 1866 his health failed and he decided to seek a more salubrious climate, so he and his wife came to this State and settled near San Luis Obispo, where he engaged in lumber importing and the cattle business.

Attracted by the wide ranges of Southern California, the Davidsons came to this city in 1867 and settled in what is now the West Adams district, but was then far fithout the borders of the village that is now Los Angeles. Success in the cattle and lumber business and lucky ventures in real estate made Davidson a wealthy man. At his death sixteen years ago he divided a large estate among his wife and six children.

Mrs. Davidson leaves six daughters: Mrs. Jennie Clark of Fullerton, Mrs. Theodosia Lilliard of Artesia, and Misses Ellen, Sarah, Julia and Lydia Davidson of this city. She also leaves a brother and sister in Oregon.

The funeral will be held at the family home at 2 p. m. tomorrow. It will be in charge of Dr. C. M. Carter of the First Baptist Church, of which Mrs. Davidson was perhaps the oldest member. Burial will be in Rosedale Cemetery.

FINDING FLAWS IN THEIR BILL.

Democrats Start to Tinker on Tariff Measure.

Would Make Radical Change in Import Valuations.

Penrose Keeps Up His Fight Against Secret Hearings.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Chairman Simmons of the Finance Committee sees merit in an amendment to the tariff bill suggested by Asst. Atty.-Gen. Denison and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to proclaim valuations on imports. It is claimed that would prevent undervaluations and avoid confusion resulting from fluctuating foreign market values and ad valorem rates.

After the department officials had explained their proposed amendment to the Senator today he declared it a worthy proposal and said it would receive the most thorough consideration by the committee. The plan seemed to him to be of chief value as a preventive of fraud on the part of the importers in willful undervaluations to reduce duties they would be required to pay.

WILSON APPRISED.

President Wilson has been apprised that such an amendment would cut down litigation, take much work from the board of appraisers, and is believed by its proponents to be absolutely necessary for the successful working of an ad valorem tariff bill.

Another amendment proposed would make it unlawful for any person to take up appeals from appraised valuations on a contingent fee basis. Asst. Atty.-Gen. Denison said today that the amendment, with the provision already in the bill requiring a fee of $1 for all protests and appeals, would curtail customs litigation 50 per cent.

The proposed amendment injects a completely new feature into the administration of the tariff law.

PENROSE FIGHTS SECRECY.

Chief interest in the tariff now lies in the contest over the question of public hearings precipitated by Senator Penrose. There is a possibility the Republicans may rally enough Democratic support to their plan to defeat the majority party in its tariff programme at this juncture.

Such a development undoubtedly would result in slowing up consideration of the measure in the Senate. That is the Democratic chief objection to public hearings.

HIS JOB TO BE PEELING SPUD

POLICE ARREST MAN WHO GETS 'EM FOR WORK.

Man Said to Have Formerly Been Head of a Detective Agency and a Deputy Constable Is Taken in Charge of Having Passed Bad Checks and Many Other Things.

A. de Toro, Deputy Constable of private detective and alleged confidence man, for whom the police have been searching since 1911 on various charges, was arrested yesterday by Sergt. Amman of Central Police station, when he applied for a job as a "steel pigeon" for the purloining of De Toro, according to the police, had a varied career since coming to Los Angeles and has been remarkably successful in evading arrest. As a result of his nerve they point to his endeavor to become connected with the very department which pursumably at least, was trying and had been trying for two years to run him hend him.

The charge upon which De Toro will be tried is that of having passed worthless checks. He is also charged by the Brilliant Jewelry Company with securing a diamond ring by false pretenses. This charge, according to a statement made by the prisoner, he gave to Minnie Rosenthal, a young woman who, prior to her departure for the East, had been keeping what wavering affections he had. The versatility of the man is shown in the charge made by a number of gypsies to the effect that he secured various sums of money from them upon the representation that he was a brother-in-law of Police Sebastian and could secure permission for them to tell as fortune tellers in the city.

Constable Woodbury declares that De Toro is said to have been in commission, is declared by the police to have been on the Coast for years, deputy because of his ability to chant for borrowing money from various beach cities upon the representation that he was a Deputy Constable sent there by Woodbury. Altogether there appear to be a sufficient number of charges against the man to keep him busy for many years, providing they are all pressed. Detective Nick Harris, who has been on the lookout for De Toro for several months, said yesterday that he had in his possession many checks issued by De Toro, which proved to be worthless. De Toro, as the police have learned, was at one time proprietor of a A.D.T. Detective Agency. It has also been living at No. 111 Bonnie Brae street and says that he has been in this city during most of the time the police have been searching for him.

FACT AND COMMENT.

A few weeks ago the city accepted one of the costliest pieces of street improvement work yet completed in Los Angeles, namely the paving on Western avenue, between Washington and West Adams streets. Within forty-eight hours after this fine stretch of hard, smooth, roadway had been given official approval by the street department, another municipal power, the water department, had begun to tear it up. Twenty-four hours sufficed an improvement that had cost deeply into the pockets of many property owners had been permanently damaged. Instead of a glassy, unbroken asphalt surface there remained a street furrowed with ridges and hollows and smeared with oil. In a few weeks these ridges will have settled and formed unsightly depressions, alternated with countless humps, and Western avenue will have taken its place among the needlessly ruined thoroughfares of Los Angeles.

The water department could just as well have laid its pipe before the pavement was put in. It could have saved to the city the extra cost for labor represented in the digging of trenches through successive strata of asphalt, crushed rock and cement, by doing the necessary excavating when only the bare dirt had to be reckoned with. If the pipe-laying had antedated the paving there would have been no outlay for "repairs" after the trenches were in. The street work itself would have lasted longer. The street would have been safer and smoother.

Crenshaw boulevard from Pico to Adams will never be the street those who paid for its improvement expected it to be. The public utility corporations have seamed and furrowed the beautiful stretch of city highway almost from end to end. Norton avenue, between Third and Temple, was recently laid out as a hundred-foot boulevard only to be rendered dangerous and unsightly through the same agencies. The new street work on Van Ness avenue, between Wilshire and Temple has met a similar fate. The completion of the recent improvement of Temple street from Edgeware boulevard to the bottom of the Silvial ravine, was no sooner announced to those who had to be assessed for the work than a gas company was busily engaged in demolishing a portion of the work. Wilshire boulevard in front of Windsor Square was as smooth as a sheet of glass until the utility corporations recently sent laborers to digging it up.

Some system, this!

Lack of Team Work.

The constant tearing up and patching and repatching of the streets is one of the crying evils of Los Angeles. The instances cited are flagrant examples. What has happened on these streets during the last few years has happened at one time or another on almost every street in the city. One of the most sightly portions of the new Washington boulevard is now being defaced in order that a gas company may obtain an outlet into a new district. Until something is done, until stringent laws governing the laying of underground pipes and conduits are passed and enforced, this wasteful, senseless methods will prevail.

Lack of team work between the city and the public utility corporations and between the various departments of the municipal government itself is responsible for the present regrettable state of affairs. Each agency is working independently and all are suffering through the absence of co-operation. The problem is one in which realty men, automobile associations, property owners, the utility corporations and the city have a mutual and a vital interest.

The Remedy.

In order to stop the constant and needless devastation of its streets, Los Angeles will have to frame and put into operation a drastic ordinance covering every phase of street improvement and tract development operations. The whole scheme of things will have to be changed. The Fact and Comment man, though not professing to be particularly enlightened on points of law, would suggest an ordinance designed somewhat on the following lines:

Before the city authorizes the beginning of any piece of permanent street improvement it should by legal process notify every property owner, every utility corporation, every subdivision agent and every municipal department likely to be directly interested that all necessary water, gas, sewer and storm drain connections destined to cross under or to extend along the course of the street involved must be completed before a certain set date. The law should provide that once a street is

CANAL OPEN SESAME OF INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS.

One Hundred Millions of Private and Public Capital Pouring Into Southern California Enterprises in Anticipation of Tremendous Impetus to Be Given by Great Interoceanic Waterway.

At least $60,000,000 of private capital is being poured into Southern California industrial development in anticipation of the opening of the Panama Canal, according to statements compiled from the investments of various interests in and around Los Angeles. This staggering sum is exclusive of the great amount represented by established industries. It represents new enterprises now actually under way and definitely launched. These millions are so much new money in the field of local industry. Many of those in close touch with conditions will declare the figure too low.

To the $60,000,000 total of private industrial outlay may be added at least $40,000,000 as a rough estimate of the investments already made and to be made by the city of Los Angeles in its great municipal enterprises. The aqueduct, with its ramifying mains for water distribution and its latent power energy waiting only for a scientific harnessing, may fittingly be called a gigantic public industry. The harbor developments may properly be listed under a similar classification.

The expenditure of this $100,000,000 will unquestionably revolutionize the industrial West. Within the next few years there is sure to spring up in and around Los Angeles one of the greatest manufacturing districts in the world.

Aside from the opening of the Panama Canal itself, the heavy immigration that is certain to follow the cheap water rates to this Coast and the assured cheap distribution of western freight to eastern markets there are several great factor that are working for the development of the industrial side of Southern California progress.

The part to be played by the aqueduct enterprise can scarcely be overestimated. The development of the harbor and the position of the oriental steamship lanes just oueside the channel islands will make Los Angeles a necessary port of call for all canal shipping to the West Coast and the Orient.

The development of the Pacific Electric will give all of Southern California rapid and cheap distributing facilities for shipping. The building of the Pacific Light and Power Company's $20,000,000 Big Creek plant and the delivery into Los Angeles of 350,000 horse power of electric current will furnish cheap power for industrial purposes.

The coming of the $3,000,000 Southern California and Midway natural gas lines will furnish cheap fuel for the operation of the boilers of the various plants. The development of Imperial Valley as a cotton factor and the extension of the wool industry in Nevada, Arizona and a part of California will make, with the power of shipping facilities on hand, an almost instant demand for textile manufacturing in the Southwest.

In addition to this, the experts who have been looking into the industrial field report that the $3,000,000 oil pipe line that is being built from Kern to the harbor for the furnishing of fuel to the industries and the shipping that will touch at

POLICE ARREST MAN WHO ASKED 'EM FOR WORK.

Man Said to Have Formerly Been Head of a Detective Agency and a Deputy Constable Is Taken in Charge of Having Passed Bad Checks and Many Other Things.

A. de Toro, Deputy Constable, private detective and alleged confidence man, for whom the police have been searching since 1911 on various charges, was arrested yesterday by Sergt. Amman of Central Police station, when he applied for a job as "stool pigeon" for the purity squad. De Toro, according to the police, has had a varied career since coming to Los Angeles and has been remarkably successful in evading arrest. As evidence of his nerve they point to his endeavor to become connected with the very department which, presumably at least, was trying and has been trying for two years, to apprehend him.

The charge upon which De Toro will be tried is that of having passed worthless checks. He is also charged by the Brilliant Jewelry Company with securing a diamond ring under false pretenses. This ring, according to a statement made by the proprietor, he gave to Mamie Furman, a young women who, prior to her departure for the East, held the position of De Toro's somewhat wavering affections. The versatility of the man is also shown in the charge made by a number of gypsies to the effect that he secured various sums of money from them upon the representation that he was a brother-in-law to Chief of Police Sebastian and that he could secure permission for them to operate as fortune tellers in the city.

Constable Woodbury, under whose commission, is declared by the police, De Toro have been on the trail of his alleged deputy because of his alleged practice of borrowing money at various beach cities upon the representation that he was a Deputy Constable sent there by Woodbury. Altogether there appear to be a sufficient number of charges against the man to keep him busy for some time, providing they are all proved. Detective Nick Harris, who has been on the lookout for De Toro for several months, said yesterday that he had in his possession many checks bearing the name of De Toro, which proved to be worthless. De Toro, so the police say, was at one time proprietor of a detective agency.

A.D.T. Detective Agency.

No. 217 South Hill street and says that he has been living at No. 217 South Hill street and says that he has been in this city during most of the time the police have been searching for him.

CHOICE 10-ACRE PROPERTY AT $525 PER ACRE.

The most attractive site for a country home in —this section of the country. Less than 14 miles from —the center of Los Angeles; 1500 feet elevation;
—plenty of mountain water, with perfect climate and
—fine soil.

A table land with some attractive canyons and —backed up by green foothills and canyons. Covered —with beautiful oaks, sycamores and cottonwoods, and —most of the year a running stream flows through the —property.

This is a choice natural park, and a reasonably

—natural beauty is far ahead of any of the properties sur—rounding Pasadena. It is only a short distance north —of Glendale and is right by the foothill boulevard
—passing through Verdugo Park.

Let us prove there is one beauty spot you have over-

GOVERNMENT LAND—

INDIAN AND STATE LAND—
MUCH VALUABLE WELL LOCATED land in California has been allowed to go to the State, and this sells, regardless of present value, at prices made a long time ago; you can secure some of these bargains for less than one-tenth the value. The State does not advertise these lands. I do.
The ownership of these lands must be searched out on the records of the State Land Office and very few people have the time, patience and knowledge necessary to do this. HERE IS WHERE I COME IN. I am a searcher of State records. Have spent time and much money searching out these State lands. You need my lists to use and select State and Indian lands.
MY OFFER: On receipt of $5, check or any convenient way to help pay advertising expenses, and your name on my list I am the man who can show you and find all satisfactory, I will send you, by registered mail, (1) Lists of STATE LAND in any three counties in California, or within 60 miles of the deserts of good towns, in all counties of California. (2) 25 pieces of INDIAN LAND, now in four counties of CALIFORNIA, near railroad, that I have filed and timber, $2 an acre and up, one-tenth cash. Straight sale, no lottery, no drawing. (3) 25 pieces of INDIAN LANDS IN OREGON, some extra well located. (4) HOMESTEAD and U. S. TIMBER LAND, not well located, for cut, some rough, near end of railroad, plenty wood, water, work, markets, some of good mixed. Cost of homestead about 10 cents an acre when you file. Can't tell about it, acre expense, when you get deed, after three years. (5) Lists of 25 pieces of SCHOOL LAND, nearest any town you mention, sent you about fifty days after you send me a money order. Some on the market at $2.50 an acre on time. (6) After you order OTHER LISTS sent you without further charge. Bear in mind that it pays me to suit you. Satisfied customers recommend me to their friends. Circulars free. Better order at once, as time to buy INDIAN LANDS is limited. Lists of other Indian land to be sold this year will be sent later. I INCLUDE PARTICULARS, DESCRIPTIONS ON HOW TO SEE AND BUY. Write JOSEPH CLARK, Office and Residence, 1511 K st., Sacramento, Cal.

HOMESEEKER, DO YOU WANT A HOMESTEAD IN a desirable locality in Arizona? After investigating many localities, I found homesteads for myself and relatives, in a mountain valley in a mild, healthful climate, altitude just right. Pure mountain water in shallow underflow; rainfall February, March, April. Ample early crops; July and August rains insure fall crops; orchards in the near-by mountain regions produce a variety of fine fruit; over 150 homesteads have been filed on; the California Limited. FOR SALE—

BY E. J. McCULLY CO.

60-acre ranch with Mineral Hot Springs that could be made a very popular resort, because of the good climatic conditions, beautiful scenery, sparkling Mineral Water, convenience to Oceanside, San Diego and Los Angeles. The owner is in the East and authorized me to make a quick sale at $12,000, $3800 cash, terms on balance on or before five years at 6 per cent. From the grounds of a resort bungalow a man could pay for this property in five years. 20 acres of this ranch is fine walnut or fruit land and can be irrigated from spring water above it. There are hundreds of live oaks, sycamores and other trees on the place and a good stream of water flows all the year. On the place there is a good 6-room house, barn and bathhouse and the property is well fenced. This price includes all large ag. implements and the complete furnishings of the house. At the price it is an unusually good buy. A bungalow is located on the property and a good general merchandising store would pay well, as the ranchers come here for their mail and the nearest town is twelve miles. Investigate at once and you will buy it.

FOR EXCHANGE—ON ACCOUNT OF OLD AGE and feebleness, compels owner to sell for $1000 dandy 5-acre ranch 1½ miles from railroad station, 8 blocks from electric car line, not very far from Los Angeles, beautifully located, on oiled roads, best of soil, 75 walnuts, 4 oranges, about a dozen each apricots, apples, pears, peaches, plums, quinces, grapes, fig, both white seedless and black varieties, all bearing and in best of shape to set to walnuts and alfalfa. Dandy 6-room house, sided with rustic, with good cellar; 2000-gal. redwood tank, pumping plant and 15-h.p. engine to supply water for house and garden. 10 large palms and flowers galore. Money Is Tight.

FINANCE IS IN SUSPENSE.

Loans Are Now Made Very Conservatively.

And Stock Market Activities Are Dulled.

The Outlook Is Brightening, Bankers Say.

Money is tight—not tight to a degree that portends a financial stringency, but so that a very conservative policy is adopted by banks in making loans. But it now begins to look as if the crucial point were about past, provided no adverse influence intrudes itself in the situation.

The strain in the money market has, perhaps, been more real than apparent. It is generally conceded, however, that it has been difficult to obtain loans for speculative purposes, and consequently sentiment in the stock markets has been distinctly bearish, and securities have reached some low points. The situation has not cleared up by any means, but in the horizon the outlook is brightening. It is likely, however, that considerable conservatism will be maintained during the rest of this year, in view of preparations that have to be made to supply money needed to move crops, which promise to be of unusual size in 1913.

Dullness has characterized practically all the security markets of late, and the waiting attitude seems to have been adopted by the investing public and capitalists until the exact effect of the various adverse forces can be ascertained definitely. Among the most important of these are undoubtedly the changes in tariff, the Balkan War, troubles and disturbances in Mexico, and various internal changes incident to the new legislative policy in this country. It has probably been the combination of forces more than any one of them that has made the present atmosphere of dullness hang over speculation and certain of the large lines of enterprise. It does not seem that the lesser activities are effected to any degree, as every-day business has gone along much in its wonted prosperous way.

Probably, taken all in all, the most prominent influence upon the financial situation and the one which has been watched with a marked continued interest, is the Balkan affair. Europe has had to make large drafts upon this country for gold at a season when it was to be expected that Europe would be making remittances to this country. This has had to do with the decrease in the ready cash on hand in the banks of this country, as compared with their loans and discounts. Ready money has been in heavy demand, and the country which has offered the line of least resistance to the procuring of it has been the United States, whose treasury the tremendous crops and big industrial development of last year had filled with gold.

Europe has been drawing steadily on the reserves in this country during the last few months, and the past week no less than $6,000,000 altogether had been taken by Paris from Monday to Friday, and further shipments are expected to be made. The Bank of France has, according to the general understanding, of course, offered excellent inducements for the shipment of that amount of gold.

The disturbances in Mexico, although their influence should be pretty well discounted by this time, still are a menacing factor of some importance, as the progress of the situation cannot be forecasted with any degree of accuracy. When the recent outbreak and change of regime occurred, it was watched with no small degree of interest in eastern financial circles. This is not surprising in view of the fact that America has according to estimates, some $1,057,770,000 invested in the country; Great Britain, some $221,302,000; France, about $149,446,000, and other countries perhaps, $118,535,000, an aggregate of considerably over $1,500,000,000.

AT HOME.

California herself has injected some very disturbing features into the general financial situation by the activity of her Legislature in framing certain laws, which to say the least, can only be considered of a very alarming character. No longer ago than last Friday a portion of the stagnation in the New York stock market was ascribed in some quarters as due to the report that a formal protest had been received by the President from Japan against the anti-alien bill.

The investigations into the alleged money trust by the Pujo Committee, although they were prominent among the early causes of depression, have ceased to be for the present, except in a vague way. But many minor disturbances have cropped up here and there to help influence the situation adversely.

Tariff changes, while perhaps they have been the most important influence on business and industry in general, and therefore indirectly on the money market, have not affected the latter directly, but have perhaps acted as a restraining influence on the heavy demand for the coin of the realm. There is no doubt, however, that industry generally has felt in advance the depression likely to result from the reduced schedule in a marked degree, more perhaps because it did not exactly know until lately the nature of the changes—the suspense was more dangerous than the actual effect. It looks as if all along trade had pretty well anticipated all the adverse influences in advance, and had made every effort to discount them.

In other years perhaps the combination of conditions disturbing finance, might have resulted in a panic, but this year there were the sustaining influences of big crops, thriving business and generally good fundamental conditions of last year. And the good fundamental conditions have remained. The country had gone through the financial depression of 1907-8 and had weeded out some of the sporadic growth, so that business had been established on a sounder basis and was ready to meet the exigencies of the present situation without feeling the weight of its effects too heavily. How long it might be able to stand the strain, is another question, but as the situation seems to be clearing, there is little fear that such a test will be necessary.

TRADE SUFFERS.

Trade seems to have felt the pinch to quite a degree. "Whatever may be the cause, general trade has contracted materially since the end of February," says the Wall-street Journal in an interesting review May 3. "Up to that time nearly all branches of business were showing large gains of 5 to 15 per cent. over the previous year. Normally the volume of business declines after October and November, when the crop movement and the autumn trade reach their climax. This shrinkage in business activity resulting from the completion of the crop movement was no greater than usual from last November until the first of March.

"But since the first of March trade activity has so declined that the shrinkage from November to date is appreciably larger than usual.

"Comparisons with October would be misleading because our crops last year were so much greater than they usually are even in proportion to population that the volume of business was correspondingly inflated, and the decline from that high volume was accordingly large. No such reasoning, however, applies to comparisons of the present turnover with that of November.

"Hence it is indicative of the change in business conditions that average daily bank exchanges from November to date show a decrease of 18.76 per cent., as compared with a ten-year average decline of only 3.64 per cent. Railroad earnings and merchandise imports and exports show similar though less radical results. Building operations are small in November, because of the nearness of the winter season, and conversely they are usually at their maximum in April.

"Hence, also, it is that April building permits average nearly 54 per cent. greater than those of November, but in this case they were only about 32 per cent. greater. Likewise, commercial failures are small in November, because the weak spots are eliminated by the high money rates, the quarterly settlements, and the large failures of October. In April they tend to increase because of the quarterly settlements, but the April failures this year were about 16 per cent. above those of November against a ten-year average of 7.5 per cent.

"Taken as a whole, trade contraction since November is about 10 per cent. greater than usual, and the aggregate business of the country is no greater than it was a year ago. Meantime the average yearly rate of business expansion in the United States, including fat years and lean, is about 4 per cent.

"What is the trouble? Is it politics, the reaction from extravagance, or lack of money and capital, or is there something fundamentally wrong with the business situation?"

BANK RESERVES.

Further light is thrown on the situation, in the same publication's analysis of the statement of the Comptroller of Currency, giving the condition of the national banks April 4, from which statement, it says there are several matters of an adverse bearing to be deduced:

"In the first place the banks of the country, as a whole, do not appear to be making any headway in increasing their reserve holdings, notwithstanding whatever recession in business is said to have taken place recently. On the contrary, they appear to be losing ground in this respect. The reserve percentage of the combined statement of national banks first fell below 21 per cent. on September 4 last (20.69 per cent.) after a period of four and a half years during which the percentage stood regularly above 21 per cent., sometimes in excess of 23 per cent. On November 26 the percentage declined again to 20.35 per cent., but some improvement was shown on the occasion of the next call, on February 4, when 20.91 per cent. was recorded. Now, instead of a further improvement, as might have been expected under the circumstances, there has taken place another deterioration, with the percentage of reserve on April 4 down to 20.44 per cent. This continuation of low reserve percentage is an almost unprecedented record in the national banking system and carries one back to the 1906-07 period of credit expansion when the reserve percentage of the national banks went below 21 per cent. on three occasions."

LOCAL SITUATION.

The local situation has not shown the effects of the depression in as marked a degree as such cities as New York and Chicago, but the effect has nevertheless been apparent in the dullness which has of late prevailed in the stock market, and the general low prices of securities. Investors are chary about putting their money in speculation, especially as it is rather difficult to secure money for that purpose. Nevertheless the market on certain classes of securities is quite active, as is evidenced by the fact that according to general understanding the recent issue of debenture notes by the Union Oil Company is disposed of rapidly.

The local and general situation is well described by Stoddard Jess, president of the Clearinghouse and vice-president of the First National Bank.

"Money has been tight all over the world," he said, "but I believe that it has been easier in the United States than elsewhere, and as easy in Southern California as anywhere. I look for money to be much easier in two or three months. It is already easier than a month or so ago.

"The demand for money has been very heavy. In India several large crops have been harvested the past few years, and the money paid for these has largely gone out of circulation. Those who received it stored it away. In Europe the demand has been especially heavy, as a result of the Balkan war.

"The gold movement to the continent has been very large. In fact, I should not be surprised if the amount of gold taken from the United States by Europe totaled $50,000,000 to $60,000,000. If it had not been for the war scare I believe that Europe would have made large shipments of gold to this country; her inclination would be to do so. Instead of sending gold, however, she sent securities and obtained gold in return.

"I do not see any likelihood of a financial stringency. That which is expected rarely comes, because it is prepared for. Money is getting easier, and I look for it to be much easier than it is now in the course of three or four months. The banks have exercised care in the making of loans, and have curtailed those to be made use of in speculation.

"Stocks are cheap, but a period of financial stress rarely occurs when they sell at low prices. It is generally when they are at the top prices."

Regarding the effect of the tariff on the situation, Mr. Jess said: "I believe the prospect of tariff changes has acted as a contrary influence to the heavy demand for money, in that the big industrial organizations have been hesitant in expanding their activities, and consequently have not made such large demands on the money market.

"Trade conditions have exhibited some contraction, as far as the big industrial organizations are concerned, but business in a retail way has been excellent. Taken as a whole, fundamental conditions are of the best. Affairs have been in suspense, however, pending the outcome of the various events which have occurred to influence financial conditions."

Sesame of Progress.

San Pedro will form an additional strong feature in the industrial future of the district, while the proving of the deposits of iron in the Southwest has been carried to such an extent that it is only a question of months before rolling mills of great magnitude will be built near the harbor.

TORRANCE IS READY.

That these factors have been carefully considered by alert capitalists is evident in the development of the new industrial city of Torrance, which has been built entirely with the view of taking advantage from the beginning of conditions that are bound to come with the opening of the canal.

Already the gas and oil mains have been run to the new city, the Pacific Electric has not only put in a complete distributing system of trackage in the new industrial district but has planned to spend something like $1,000,000 in the building of new shops at this point for the construction of electric cars to serve the entire West.

The Pacific Light and Power Company and the Edison Company, both have arranged to put electric current into the new city and a part of the system already is installed.

Streets, parks and a complete city plan have been developed at Torrance, with no other idea than to care for the industrial growth of the Southwest and to provide adequate homes for the workers.

Into the purchase of property on which Torrance stands was put $1,730,000. Into street work and similar improvements will go before the work is finally finished some $400,000, while the sewer system will cost before it is complete $120,000 more. The general water system for the Dominguez estate will cost before it is complete some $500,000, while the domestic and industrial system of Torrance will cost complete something like $250,000, according to the estimate of the engineers. These figures are submitted by the men directly interested.

Aside from this total in improvements there is a future plan for a ship canal to cost close to $3,000,000, to connect the new district with the harbor property and to bring the shipping to the very doors of the factories.

All of this work, however, is entirely preliminary to the coming of most of the factories themselves and to the complete development of the residence districts for the men employed.

GREAT STEEL PLANT.

Throughout all Southern California the development of industries is being carried on. At the port is projected the big $10,000,000 development of the California Industrial Company, which plans the removal of its Los Angeles plant to the harbor and the building of one of the greatest rolling mills and steel plants in the world. Land for this development has been purchased and the plans of the plant are now under consideration by the engineers.

As has been stated, the Pacific Electric will build its car shops at Torrance, where already the Union Tool Company has a $1,000,000 plant housed in the most modern buildings of the kind in America, structures that in themselves represent an investment of $400,000.

At Torrance also has been established the big steel barrel factory of the Pacific Metal Products Company, and a large plant for the manufacture of oil well chain. Under construction at the new city are the factories of the Fuller Shoe Company, the Torrance Pearl Button Company and the consolidated plant of the Moore Truck Company and the motor truck factory of the Union Tool interests.

Within the next few months Torrance will also see the completion of the $750,000 plant of the Llewellyn Iron Works, the $100,000 plant of the W. C. Hendrie Rubber Company and a plant for the Acme Brass Foundry Company.

H. H. Sinclair, manager of the Dominguez Land Company, developer of Torrance, has already taken up the question of the bringing to the Coast of a number of cotton and wool plants. These plants have in the past been forced to operate in the New England States because of power conditions, but with the development of Imperial Valley cotton and coming of the Big Creek power the eastern plants will be able to remove to the West, where it will be possible for them to take advantage of a full year of bleaching days, unhampered by the fog, snow and rain of the Atlantic seaboard States.

SEAWARD ACTIVITY.

While Torrance is the leader in the feverish preparation for the great industrial epoch that is about to break upon Southern California, it by no means has a monopoly on the hustling enterprise that is just now so manifest in this section. At the new industrial city of El Segundo the Standard Oil Company is now engaged in spending approximately $5,000,000 in the establishment of one of the greatest oil refineries in the world. Other new and important enterprises are sure to follow, as El Segundo is strategically situated for a manufacturing center and is rapidly claiming attention in the industrial world. Three other new industrial townsites, Harbor City, Cudahy City and Industrial White City are energetically bidding for consideration.

At Long Beach the Craig Ship Building plant is developing an industry in which all of California may well take pride. Southern California, it is certain, will soon be building its share of the great ships which will carry the products of this section through the canal and to the Orient.

In the Los Angeles Harbor district the phenomenal activity in industrial subdivision property speaks eloquently of the manufacturing development that may be expected along the water front during the next decade. In fact that development is now in full swing and is gaining momentum. Now building at the harbor is a large fish cannery, which is believed to be the forerunner of many other similar plants. This industry has straggled far afield in the past ten years and it is coming to be recognized as a great mistake that fish captured in Southern California waters should be shipped to other points in the United States and abroad for canning. The California sardine has too long borne foreign labels.

Another promising new industry is assured at the harbor in the form of the plant now being completed by the American Potash Company, which plans to build up a great establishment for the reduction of potash from seaweed and kelp. Construction was begun less than a month ago by the California Woolen Manufacturing Company upon a plant for the turning out of various woolen products for which California has heretofore depended upon eastern factories. Other important harbor enterprises are "in the wind."

That Southern California, the mecca of the auto owner and the leasure class of tourists, will soon be manufacturing the cars that glide over its hundreds of miles of boulevarded highways is presaged by the recent establishment in Los Angeles of a great automobile assembling plant in which a leading eastern concern will not only put together parts of cars shipped here from the main factories, but will make integral portions of its machines. At Torrance the W. C. Hendrie Rubber Company will soon begin the manufacture of tires.

The time is not far distant when Los Angeles will cease to depend upon the East for its meat products. Three or four stock yards enterprises are now taking shape and packers are awakening to the possibilities here. Fruit canneries and plants for the utilization of the by-products of horticulture and agriculture are springing up everywhere in the Southland. The sugar industry has already become one of supreme importance in this section.

Light manufacturing, of the kind that seeks the up-to-date loft buildings, has made enormous strides here in the last year alone. The recent wonderful activity in loft construction in Los Angeles has been due almost entirely to the entrance of outside concerns into the local field.

Fact and Comment.

paved it may not be torn up again for a period of at least five years.

There should be a provision permitting the city itself to make all necessary connections for property owners that fail to do so and charge the same at cost against the property affected. The last-named plan would be of material assistance to many and would prevent the holding up of a projected improvement work because of the failure of the city to reach all the property owners.

Such laws would not be contrary, in the opinion of the writer, to the complete development and building up of a residence district to prevent delays in the petitioning for street improvements. The connections for sewer purposes have to be made sooner or later anyhow, and there is no benefit to be gained by delay, especially when the price of that delay is a new street. Only that portion of a street sewer connection lying within the course of a street would have to be installed in advance of street improvements, as the rest could wait upon the private demand. The point is that utility connections are provided and easily available in order to enhance the value of all surrounding property in any district.

Many owners of private tracts in Los Angeles have shown a most commendable spirit and have set a good example by voluntarily installing utility connections in advance of the beginning of street improvements. A tract salesman who can assure a prospective customer that the street in front of the lots he offers for sale will never be torn up has a strong selling point to start with.

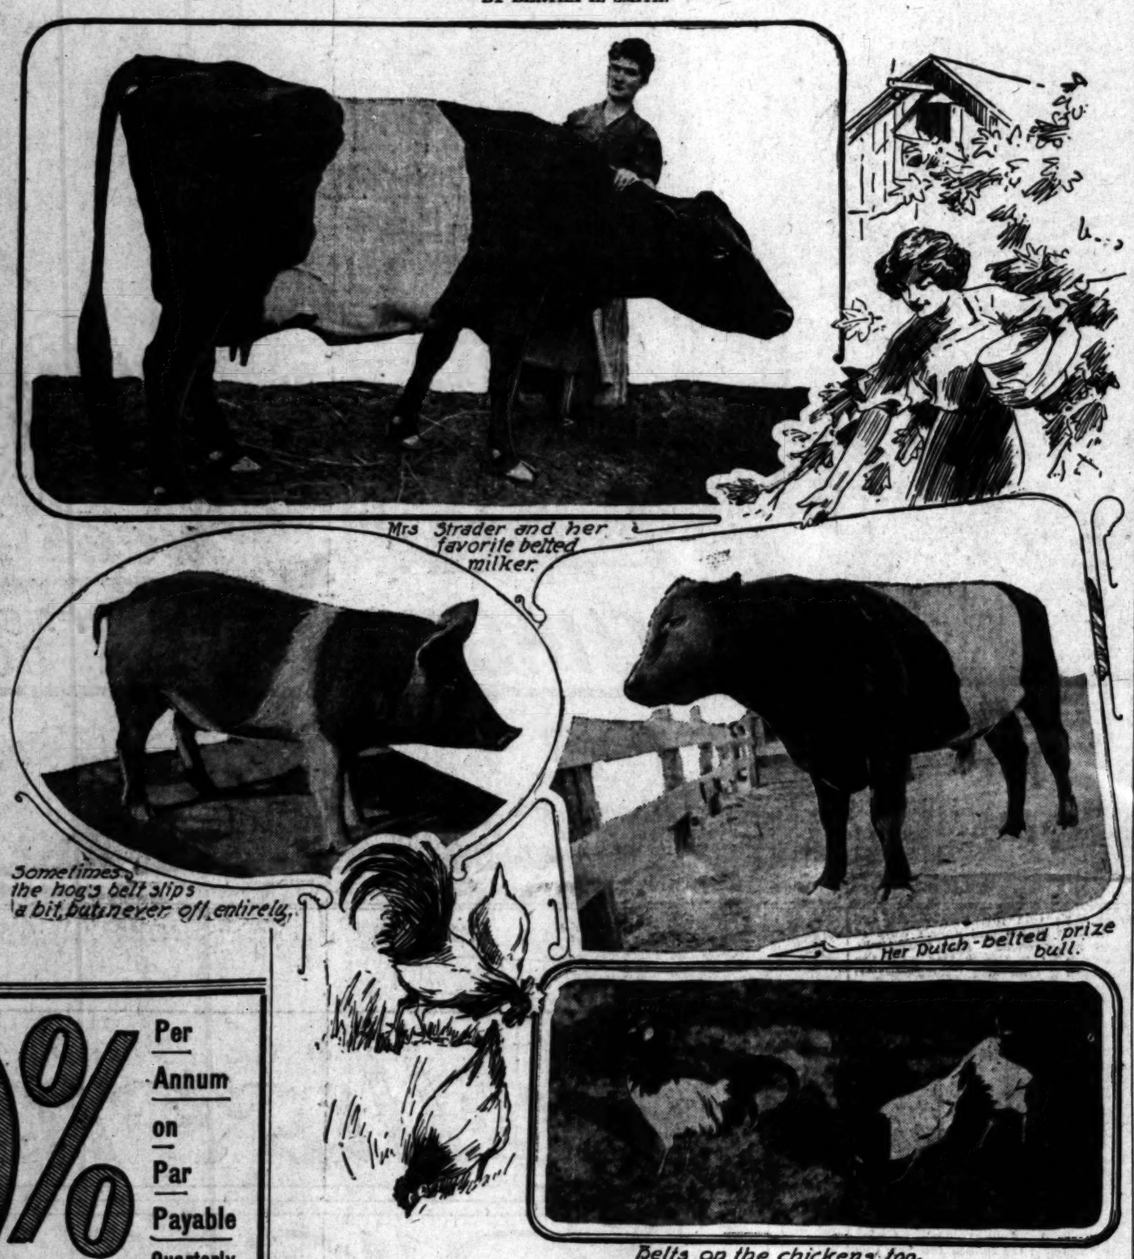
Nothing Like It.

CALIFORNIA'S MOST SPECTACULAR STOCK FARM, MRS. STRADER AND HER BELTED BEASTS.

A Successful Woman Cattle-Raiser of San Joaquin Valley and Her Remarkable Achievements With Cows, Calves and Birds.

BY BERTHA H. SMITH.



On the farm of the broad-belted live stock.

THE most spectacular stock farm in California is hidden away in the heart of the San Joaquin Valley so deeply that few people ever discover it.

If the broad, green stretches of the San Joaquin were criss-crossed by canals, as Holland is, with leisurely boats idling up and down them, as in Holland—though God forbid that even in fancy we should see women side by side with horses leaning heavily against the rope that guides the boat, as one sees them in Holland—if there were such cheap and easy waterways through the San Joaquin, tourists would flock to this stock farm to delight in a sight that now and then greets the traveler's eye in Holland—of cattle that look like heaps of Navajo blankets thrown out upon the grass.

This farm is a few miles out from Ceres and is owned by Jennie Strader and her husband, U. G. Strader, who brought to it a half-dozen years ago from New Jersey a herd of Dutch Belted cattle, known in Holland as Lakenvelders or Veldlarkers. This name is said to mean literally a field of white, implying the thought of a white body with black ends, or, more figuratively, a shadow on a sheet.

One visiting this farm gets the idea that Jennie Strader is the senior member of the firm, for one finds her, as the evening shadows settle upon the valley, guiding the herd into the barnyard, tossing in to them some fresh hay, handling the pitchfork more easily than the average woman handles a broom. And Jennie Strader can tell you all the fine points of each member of the herd, where this one is near perfection, where that one lacks a point or two, for it is she who attends to the breeding of the cattle, keeping her mind at once upon a standard of beauty and those points that make for utility as dairy stock.

GOOD POINTERS.

When the Straders took their first exhibit to the State Fair at Sacramento they had just finished their long transcontinental journey, and the cattle were thin, dirty and in bad condition. The judge told Jennie Strader the unpleasant truth about them, gave her some good pointers about the care of them in this new land, encouraged her to send East for some better cattle of the same breed, predicting for her a success if the cattle were rightly handled. As a result of his advice she cleaned up, bred up, and stayed up to a better standard, and as a result, in 1908, when the California State Fair offered $50 for the cow that would produce the most butter fat on the fair grounds, the Straders' Dutch Belted cow, Julia Marlowe, walked off with the $50 for producing more butter fat at each milking than any other animal in the contest. In the fall of 1909 they sent two Dutch Belted cows to the contest and Lady Fresno took the first prize, with Julia Marlowe in second place. Lady Fresno also won a prize for producing the largest quantity of milk at one milking. In the fall of 1911 Lady Fresno and Julia Marlowe were accompanied by Helen Gould to the fair, and while each of them won a prize in the dairy contest, none of them had first place, their failure in this respect being explained by the Straders as due to the fact that they had all freshened in the spring, and that neither Lady Fresno nor Julia Marlowe was dry at all before freshening.

The moot question of what's in a name might here be raised, but the fact remains that these Ceres beauties have become regular headliners on prize lists, not only at Sacramento fairs, but in Washington, Oregon and Arizona.

ON A MILKING STOOL.

Sitting on a milking stool in her big barn, with her head against the black flank of one of her pets, her hands squeezing continuous jets of rich milk into a big pail, Jennie Strader told what she knew of the origin of these spectacular cattle.

They originated in Holland several hundred years ago, but at the time of the wars with Spain they were nearly exterminated. The few that remained were acquired by the nobility, who have ever since bred them with great care, and are loath to part with them.

The system of selection by which this extraordinary color breeding was attained seems to be a matter of mythological speculation. One of the tales heard in Holland is that some of the breeders among the nobility of Haarlem conceived the idea of breeding animals of all kinds, cattle, pigs and poultry, to a certain color. There is a custom in Holland of placing blankets upon cows recently calved because of the dangers of the damp climate, as cattle are not stabled at all during eight months of the year. The story goes that those Haarlem nobles kept white blankets on their cows most of the time, because it gave them a neat appearance, and that when some calves came accidentally with white middles, it crystallized the idea of breeding for a broad white belt with the rest of the body black. The owners then placed the white blankets belt-wise around the cows, and after a time the calves came with more and more certainty bearing the artificial marking of their mothers.

This legend must be accepted in the absence of the other explanation, and it probably sufficed Mr. P. T. Barnum when in 1849 he induced one of the noble farmers in Holland to sell him a few of the cattle, to bring to the United States for exhibition purposes.

For a time he kept them in the tent with his one-toed zebras, man-eating lions, his blood-sweating behemoth of holy writ and the rest of his rare and improbable animals, but afterward took them to his farm on the Hudson River and set them at the simple task of giving milk and reproducing their kind.

THE DUTCH BELT.

A few Dutch Belted cattle were imported to this country in 1848, and with the exception of the Barnum herd no others were brought until 1906 when a New Jersey man succeeded in importing one heifer. It was from the descendants of some of these first settlers that the Strader herd was recruited, and very soon afterward they were on their way to California. There are still but few of this breed in the United States, and indeed it is said that there are not more than a 1000 head in Holland, though, of course, Holland could easily be lost in one of the old Spanish land grants of California and figures have a very different meaning there and here. Of that number many are not bred pure, and even where they are bred with considerable care, the white belt is often wider than breeders here allow it to spread, and nearly all of the foreign animals have more or less white on the hind feet. Of course, where the only purpose of the breeder is to produce a good dairy cow, the marking does not matter, but the cattle have been so much in demand in this country by gentlemen farmers, who prize them for their unique beauty, that it has paid breeders to pay particular attention to the marking.

As soon as they were well established on their California ranch, the Straders decided to go in for other white belted stock. They bought some Hampshire hogs, which seem to be an English breed, but in appearance are certainly near-relatives of the Lakenvelder cattle. Sometimes the hogs' belts slip a little forward or back, as the belt of a fat man is apt to do, but it rarely slips off and disappears entirely.

To complete their unique and striking family, they added a few pens of Lakenvelder fowls, altogether the most sensationally beautiful of all poultry.

STRIPED CHICKENS.

These chickens have been bred in Holland and Germany for many years, where they gained the soubriquet of "everlasting layer." Not until about ten years ago did English and American fanciers take a notion to them and even yet they are the rarest seen of any of the beautiful breeds.

They are as small as Leghorns and as nervous, and as they go strutting aristocratically about on their foraging expeditions over the broad acres of the Strader ranch, they look very much like a lot of snowy Leghorns that had thrust their heads into a pail of jet-black ink and fallen backwards into another, escaping from both with no speck of the black on their white bodies. The black glistens iridescent in the sun, but in the shadow it is blacker than any sin ever committed, and as a study in black and white the Dutch Belted chicken is as near perfection as is safe for anything to come.

There are two standards for this variety of fowl, one known as German and the other as English. The German standard requires a type of bird closely resembling the Leghorn not only in shape but in the comb of the females, the comb being inclined to fall to one side. They are slightly larger than the English or Dutch bird. It calls also for a white saddle hackle in the males. The English standard calls for a small comb in the females and a black saddle hackle in the males.

The Straders are farmers, born and bred. They have the farmer's love of sweeping an eye far to the limit of his own land, and far, far, to the house of a neighbor. They have the farmer's habit of independent thought that comes of a knowledge that on that land can be grown enough to meet most of the family's needs. They have the farmer's interest in countless generations of live stock, the perfecting of a type and careful guarding it. They have these and all the other traits that hold people close to the broad acres. If they didn't, they would long since have moved their spectacular cattle and hogs and chickens to the outskirts of Los Angeles, put a high-board fence around them, set one of the little Straders on a tall stool in a shed by the gate to sell tickets, and be reaping in the shekels of sightseers and salting them down in barrels in the cellar.

But, of course, there's an adage that deals with everyone and his own liking, and the Straders are proving it.

LOS ANGELES AT THE TOP.

Leads All Other Cities in Permits for Year.

New York, Nearest Rival, Is Thousand Behind.

Philadelphia Third, Chicago Fourth in Race.

Los Angeles barely missed capturing first place among American cities in the number of permits issued for new buildings during the month of April. In fact, but two permits stood between this city and the metropolis. New York City standing first with 1709 permits, and Los Angeles second, with 1707 permits. The discrepancy in April is more than made up by the big lead Los Angeles has over New York in the number of permits granted to date for the year.

Philadelphia, with 1692 permits, stood third in the national column for April, and Portland, with 1423 permits, was fourth. Chicago held fifth place, with 1339 permits, and Detroit sixth, with 1007 permits. Seattle boasted, the creditable total of 948 permits, beating both St. Louis and Minneapolis by good margins. San Francisco granted 509 permits to builders during the month.

In point of valuation of its April building operations, Los Angeles held the enviable position of fourth after New York, Chicago and Boston beating Philadelphia by nearly $1,500,000. New York led with a valuation of $13,104,002, Chicago had $12,329,900 to its credit and Boston (including a metropolitan district taking in a wide area outside the city) had $6,160,000. Los Angeles followed with $5,047,065, as compared with Philadelphia's $3,489,615, San Francisco's $3,152,020, Detroit's $3,070,195, and Portland's $2,940,830. The only other cities to total over $1,500,000 were St. Louis, with $1,586,006; Minneapolis, with $1,424,280, and Kansas City, with $1,265,745. San Diego and Oakland had $776,850 and $652,490, respectively.

The above figures are provided by Construction News of Chicago, which publication collects monthly statistics of building activity from all the leading cities of the counry. The figures for the various cities in April follow:

	No. Bldg.	Cost.
New York	1709	$13,104,002
Chicago	1339	12,329,900
Boston	442	6,160,000

Yucaipa Valley "Red Apple" Land

is the safest and most profitable investment in Southern California today. The net result of an apple orchard in the Yucaipa Valley, developed under our expert care, shows it to be a highly profitable investment.

Net Results Is What Counts

You can now buy the choicest of our "South Bench" apple lands with water, at $285 an acre. This tract is the cream of the Yucaipa Valley." It costs only $23 an acre for first-class apple trees planted in a careful, scientific manner. The total cost of land, trees and all costs of development; including water assessments, taxes, interest, etc., amount to less than $450 an acre in five years. In the fifth year Yucaipa Valley apple orchards yield over $100 an acre. The tenth year they average over $400 an acre net. One five-year-old orchard in Yucaipa produced four boxes of fancy apples per tree. Several older Yucaipa Valley apple orchards have yielded over $1000 per acre in a single season. Cherries have paid over $40 per tree in one crop. . . . Mr. L. C. Stancliff bought from us Block 7, Sub. No. 1. He sold less than three years later. Total amount invested $1300, his equity brought him $4000. . . . Mr. J. H. Sampson bought Block 100, Sub. No. 1, in 1910. He sold in 1912. Total cost to date of sale, $370 an acre, he received $800 an acre net. You will do even better if you buy now. You won't plant for experimentation, but for immediate success. You will profit by the experience of over twenty years of apple growing in Yucaipa.

Our New "South Bench" Tract

lies perfectly level—no grading necessary. The rich, red soil is 25 to 35 feet deep. Elevation 2600 to 3000 feet above sea level. An ample supply of pure mountain water is delivered under pressure to the highest point of each tract, at a very low cost. The high San Bernardino Mountain Range shelters this district against the cold north winds, the hot desert winds and sand storms, making the Yucaipa Valley not only a very healthy and delightful place to live, but it gives us almost perfect conditions for the growing of the fine flavored, juicy, big Red Apples for which the Yucaipa Valley is justly famous.

MODERATOR MATTHEWS.

Will Preside Over General Assembly of Presbyterians—Dr. Matthews is the pastor of the Largest Presbyterian Church in the United States, if not in the World. Everything He Touches Grows.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

Rev. Mark A. Matthews, D.D., LL.D.

SEATTLE, May 4.—Elders enough to load a train of Pullman cars are on the way to Atlanta. As many more are getting ready for the journey. Elder Wilson of Princeton, Elder Marshall of Indianapolis, and Elder Bryan of Lincoln, however, will be detained in Washington.

Several hundred clergymen will accompany the elders. The great General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church is to meet on May 14, and it will continue in session until June 1. It is the highest law-making body and the supreme court of the denomination. Scholars, orators, editors, bankers, manufacturers, merchants, lawyers and physicians, picked men from every State and community, will be delegates. Millions of Presbyterians for the next twenty days will be waiting for news from Atlanta.

The moderator of the church is Rev. Mark Allison Matthews, D.D., LL.D., of Seattle. He will call the assembly to order. Officially, he is the head of the denomination. The moderator travels the country from time to time energising ministers and congregations. At all events that is what Dr. Matthews has done, preaching in three churches every Sunday when away from Seattle. In the meanwhile, he has been the pastor of the largest Presbyterian church in America, if not in the world.

"We require no more for admission into the church," he tells the people of Seattle, "than is required for admission into heaven." So he has increased the number of his communicants from 400 to 5000 in eleven years. More than 7000 persons attend his church. He looks down from his pulpit on the foremost men of his city. The poor are at home in his pews. Fifty ushers are on the main floor and in the galleries. Seventy-one singers are in the choir. Japanese, Chinese and Koreans are on the rolls. In 1902 the congregation owed $24,000 and $1600 in interest. The debt was paid and a new building was erected at the crossing of two streets. No church in the United States is more complete; few, indeed, are so beautiful.

WORKS TEN DAYS A WEEK.

If Dr. Matthews were a business man he would be a millionaire. If he were a lawyer—and he is one, though he has never practiced for fees—he would have an office in Wall street. He is an organizer and an orator. "I work eighty-five hours a week," he told me, "which is the equivalent of ten and a half days of eight hours each." He thinks he knows what is the matter with the Christian church. "Lackadaisical preachers," is his answer. Incidentally, he exposed the municipal grafters of Seattle, helped to recall the Mayor and send the Chief of Police to the penitentiary.

"I was six feet and six inches tall as a boy," he said, when I asked for his measurements, "but after I got married and settled down I shrunk to six feet and five inches." The Lincolnian spareness of his body accentuates his height. Moreover, he wears a coat that reaches to his knees. His face is long, his eyes are gray, his hair is black and, oddly enough, his mouth is small. He is modest, magnetic and plain-spoken. "A preacher with a cigar between his teeth," he has said at scores of ministers' meetings "will have hard work to save many souls." He makes few gestures while speaking. His art is so refined that he is never dramatic. Wherever he goes the people believe in him. His first church had a membership of sixteen. He multiplied it by four and then moved on to a much larger town. Whatever he touches grows. He doubled two important churches in the South before he was called to Seattle. The average increase of his communicants has now reached 700 a year.

"Aside from your power as an orator," I asked him, "how have you built up the largest Presbyterian Church in the United States?"

"I should prefer to eliminate myself from your question," Dr. Matthews answered. "I can say, however, that no minister can succeed unless he works, unless he keeps everlastingly interested in his high office. There is nothing wrong with our churches. The trouble lies in the indolence of many of our pastors, and what I say applies to all nominations.

THE DEATH KNELL OF A SOUL.

"A goodly number of preachers lack definiteness. They are the men who stand up and say: 'Shall we sing hymn so and so?' or 'May I ask you to sing hymn so and so?' Then on the Sunday before communion they venture to remark that 'if any one desires to unite with this church, either by letter or a confession of faith,' he will have the opportunity of doing so the following week. 'May we,' 'shall we,' and 'if' are the words of doubt and defeat. They lack force and point. They denote indifference, undue humility or a fear that the preacher may accidentally step on somebody's feet.

"Every time a minister gets up to preach before a large congregation he sounds the death knell of some soul. It is a fearful responsibility. A doubter balanced on the edge is sure to be present. It is the psychological half-hour for that man or woman. If the minister is not equal to the crisis, the person ready to make the turn goes away and may never again be in the frame of mind that he was when he entered the church. A minister must be very much in earnest. He can't 'if' and 'may' and 'shall' and walk uncertainly into the pulpit. He must be intense and filled with zeal and conviction. And the Holy Ghost will help such a man, but the Holy Ghost can't be expected to take any more interest in a mechanical preacher than the mechanical preacher takes in himself.

"There are 40,000 elders of the Presbyterian Church. Some of them call themselves 'ruling elders.' Well, elders don't do any ruling these days. Church trials are out of fashion. If

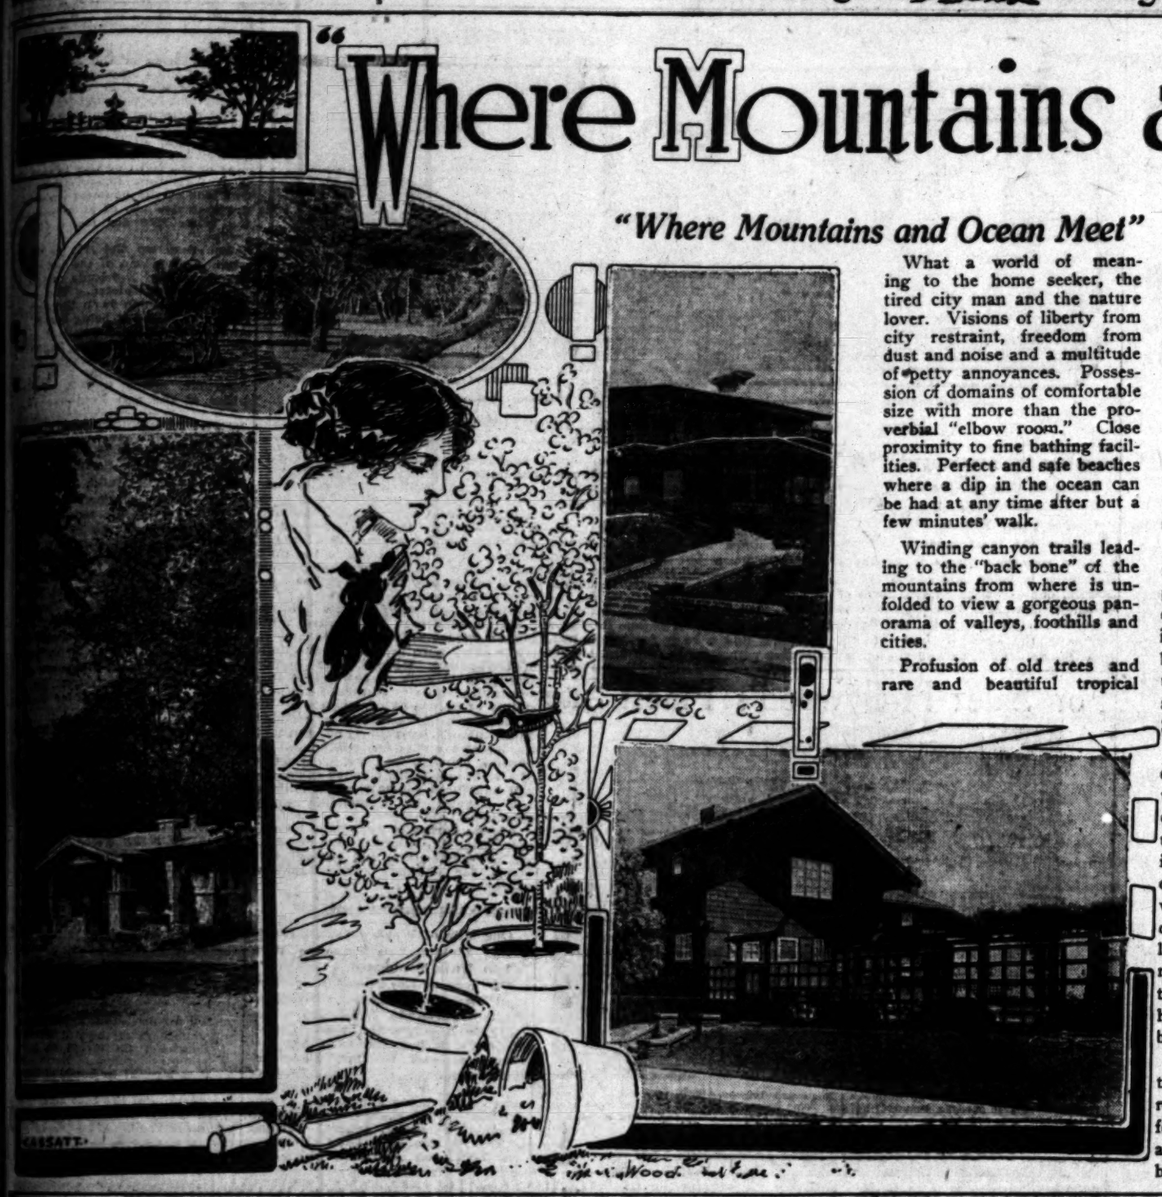
"Where Mountains and Ocean Meet"



"Where Mountains and Ocean Meet"

What a world of meaning to the home seeker, the tired city man and the nature lover. Visions of liberty from city restraint, freedom from dust and noise and a multitude of petty annoyances. Possession of domains of comfortable size with more than the proverbial "elbow room." Close proximity to fine bathing facilities. Perfect and safe beaches where a dip in the ocean can be had at any time after but a few minutes' walk.

Winding canyon trails leading to the "back bone" of the mountains from where is unfolded to view a gorgeous panorama of valleys, foothills and cities.

Profusion of old trees and rare and beautiful tropical shrubbery produces an effect rivaling the most beautiful found in the Mediterranean section.

The San Vicente-Santa Monica section occupies a unique position in that it is the only one of its kind in Southern California. There are beach combinations of great beauty but a trinity of mountains, canyon and sea gives San Vicente-Santa Monica the laurels.

The fact that it is the only one of its kind focuses the attention of tourists, homeseekers and investors upon it. Naturally, the concentration of the interest of thousands of investors upon this favored spot would cause the movement of considerable property and large deals are practically a matter of daily occurrence, not taking into consideration the hundreds of residence sites being sold.

It takes but a ride of inspection through this section to realize that there remain but few unsubdivided pieces of acreage and that they will be but "a drop in the bucket" compared to the huge demand for homesites in San Vicente-Santa Monica, which will increase instead of decreasing as the years go by.

Historic Santa Monica Canyon is again in the limelight. While its rustic beauty is of an all-the-year-round nature, it is especially bright after the spring rains. The scores of motorists and visitors who are now flocking to the canyon are captivated by its leafy retreats and vistas.

Many unique homes are to be found in the canyon and are of substantial style of construction because of protective restrictions in force. The giant sycamores lend themselves admirably to the scheme of landscape improvement. These trees, centuries old, are highly valued.

The fact cannot be overlooked that King C. Gillette, in identifying himself with the San Vicente-Santa Monica section, has aided greatly in placing it before the public in the best light, and the launching of his 153-acre "Gillette's Regent Square," only a little more than six weeks ago, has further helped in advertising this section.

Gillette's Regent Square is truly a masterpiece subdivision. Down to the smallest detail no expense has been spared. Even the ornamental signs giving street names are of massive construction and produce a harmonious effect. In this subdivision will be put all modern improvements. Sewers throughout the tract, electric light, telephones, and fine car service on the Los Angeles-Westgate-Santa Monica line of the Pacific Electric are a few of the many advantages. Sales since the opening have climbed to a point very near the $400,000.00 mark. When one considers the fact that probably three-fourths of the buyers intend to build homes it is evident that building activity will be great in this section during the coming year. Identified with all the sales successes, Santa Monica Canyon, Brentwood Place, and Gillette's Regent Square have been the L. D. Loomis Co., who are selling agents.

Who Will Succeed to the Syndicate Control of the Dead Monarch, Pierpont Morgan? Will It Be the Stalwart and Able Heir of His Millions?—Or Will It Be the Newly-Discovered Bank Dictator, George F. Baker?

BY WILLIAM H. KNIGHT.

WHEN the death of J. Pierpont Morgan drew near the question was persistently asked, upon whom will the mantle of this colossal figure fall? Who is now competent to wield the scepter of the most powerful financial monarch the world has ever known? Who is equal to holding together the vast and diversified interests which he, with marvelous skill and genius, had unified? Can the question be answered? Let us see.

He is already handling large railway and industrial bond syndicates, and is undoubtedly destined to become a large figure in the financial worlds of America and Europe.

New Dictator Discovered.

But there is another name that has been pretty thoroughly canvassed since the death of John Pierpont Morgan, and it is a name not unworthy of being mentioned in the same breath with that of the mighty king of finance. Until the fatal illness of Mr. Morgan little was known, except in Wall Street and banking circles, of one of the most extraordinary financiers in America—George Fisher Baker. He is engaged in operations of continental scope. It has been ascertained that his name is on the directories of eighty-seven or more banking institutions, railway systems, and industrial enterprises.

But one of the most significant developments of the past few weeks is the fact that he was on terms of the closest intimacy with the dead magnate. During the later years of his life, Mr. Morgan seldom engaged in any enterprise of magnitude without consulting this quiet, self-centered bank official, who has just been brought into the high limelight.

Mr. Baker is head of the First National Bank (chairman of the board of directors,) third strongest in the metropolis, with a capitalization of $10,000,000, surplus of $22,000,000 and deposits ranging round $115,000,000. Several members of the Morgan firm are on the board, and these, jointly with many of the directors of the First National, are on the boards of other banks, notably that of the National City Bank, capitalized at $25,000,000, and deposits of $160,000,000.

It was brought out in the Pujo investigation that the stock of the First National Bank, of which the par value is $100, is now worth $1000 per share, thus making the value of the bank's capitalization equal to $100,000,000. The Los Angeles Times' dispatch of April 1 did not hesitate to say in headlines, "Baker Inherits the Money Crown," "Right-Hand Man of the Late Financier Acclaimed King by Wall Street," "That Baker Is Now Dictator No One in Wall Street Will Question."

The Pujo Committee further brought out the fact that the syndicate operations of the First National are surpassed by no other single group in American financial transactions. This bank and its allied companies have, in the last ten years, participated in issuing securities representing in the aggregate almost $2,500,000,000. The greater portion of these issues represent new railroad securities difficult to place with banks of more modest resources, but yet, after being examined in the Morgan and First National banks, found to be of undoubted merit. Here are some of the bond issues that have been floated conjointly by the three banking houses of J. P. Morgan & Co., First National Bank and National City Bank: Great Northern Railway Company, $20,000,000; Erie Railroad Company, $12,500,000; Detroit Tunnel Company, $16,000,000; New York Central Lines Equipment Trust, $22,500,000, etc.

Enigmatical Personality of Baker.

What kind of a person is this newly-discovered giant of finance? If one goes to "Who's Who" for a few personal details or a possible skeleton of the banker's career, he gets no satisfaction. He does learn that Mr. Baker was born in Troy, N. Y., in 1840, and he is consequently 73 years old—only three years younger than Mr. Morgan; that his office is at No. 2 Wall street, and that he resides at No. 258 Madison avenue—only a block from Mr. Morgan's late residence. With the exception that there is a partial list of the banks and corporations with which he is affiliated, there is no other evidence that he is a human being with an ordinary history and associations. In other words, this unobtrusive person, who is perhaps the greatest financial power in America today is quite an enigma to his fellow-men.

Those writers who probe into the affairs of persons in the public eye have begun to make estimates of the wealth of this newly-discovered Croesus. Of course, it is all guess work, but they range from one hundred to two hundred millions, making him the third or fourth richest man in America. Here is the marvel, that this silent man, with such a far-reaching financial grasp, should, in the midst of the seething cauldron of New York money-getting, while comparatively unknown, sitting quietly in his inconspicuous office, and without becoming the subject of newspaper paragraphers or magazine articles, gather in a hoard that, when revealed by the Pujo committee, astonishes the world.

Formation of Greatest Banking Group.

Following is a characteristic example of the Morgan-Baker method of handling large undertakings. In March, 1911, two insurance companies—the Equitable Life and the Mutual Life—having aggregate resources approximating one billion dollars, together owned one-third of the stock of the National Bank of Commerce, capitalized, like the National City Bank, at $25,000,000, and regarded, next to that, the most powerful bank in the country. As it was deemed unwise to have their immense holdings thus concentrated in one institution, they looked around for buyers and finally sold one-half of their holdings in the Bank of Commerce to a bank syndicate composed of two private banks—J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., both with large European connections—and two national banks—the First National, of which George F. Baker is at the head, and the National City, reputed to be a Standard Oil bank.

Thus, including the Bank of Commerce, these five gigantic banks and the two most powerful life companies in the world, with almost unlimited resources, were strongly linked together, and working in unison under two such directing heads as J. P. Morgan and George F. Baker, were able to undertake any financial project that might appeal to them, and which, without their sanction, would probably go begging. This combine

House and grounds of E. B. Martin near Downey.

MODERN AND SCIENTIFIC.

Twentieth Century Farming Idea to Be Exemplified by Downey Man. Invests Large Sum in Place.

One of the most modern and attractive suburban places in Southern California is being laid out by F. B Martin, one and a half miles north of Downey. Martin is investing close to $100,000 in the property, the figure including the original cost of his seventy-five-acre farm and the outlay for his house, numerous outbuildings and extensive and up-to-date improvements. The whole place has been planned and will be conducted along strictly scientific lines.

The house, designed and constructed under the direction of Frank E. Hartigan, a Los Angeles builder, has just been completed. It contains nine rooms, two baths, electric lights, automatic water heater and a gas furnace. The interior finish is in selected hardwoods. A garage for three machines and a barn for ten horses, together with a large feed and supply warehouse comprise the adjacent outbuildings.

Martin has built a reinforced concrete pumphouse in which has been installed an electric pump supplying a 15,000-gallon tank. The water is distributed under a pressure of eighty pounds. When the water in the tank drops below a given level the pumps are automatically released and at once renew the supply. The irrigation is through a system of concrete piping.

Martin expects to do intensive farming on his seventy-five acres and to make every acre produce to the limit of its capacity. He will devote one or two acres to each of the marketable vegetables, so as to eliminate the possibility of failure of any one crop. He expects soon to establish a certified dairy plant, consisting of sanitary stables and a modern milkhouse, his purpose being to feed the by-products of his gardens to his blooded cows. He will haul both vegetables and milk to Los Angeles by automobile every morning.

At one corner of the place he will soon begin the erection of a superintendent's bungalow and several cottages for Chinese and Japanese gardeners.

RUSH NEW BOULEVARD.

One Mile of Wide Macadam Roadway Linking San Fernando With Van Nuys Completed.

One mile of the extension of Sherman Way, the $500,000 boulevard in the San Fernando Valley, from Van Nuys to a connection with Brand boulevard in San Fernando, has just been completed by the Brashear-Burns company. Curbs have been set for three and a half miles and the grading, surfacing and paving of this stretch will be rushed, according to Fred W. Forrester, general manager of the Angeles Mesa Land Company. The boulevard extension, which will practically bisect the valley [illegible] of the Angeles Mesa Land Company, comprising something over 2000 acres, and the lands of the San Fernando Mission Land Company, will be about five miles long and will cost, when completed, approximately $250,000.

The boulevard from curb to curb is 130 feet wide. In the center is the right of way of the Pacific Light & Power Company's Los Angeles-San Fernando Line. From the outer edge of the right of way to each curb is a forty-foot macadam roadway. One side of the boulevard will be for the exclusive use of automobiles, while the other side for teams and motor trucks.

The road up the side of the mountain, which makes one of the best approaches to the lower San Fernando reservoir, is practically completed. The cost of this work, which is in the neighborhood of $30,000 is being borne by the Angeles Mesa Land Company and the San Fernando Mission Land Company. The road leads by an easy grade to the topmost edge of the reservoir, giving a view of [illegible] miles of the San Fernando Valley.

on a lot in Pico Boulevard Tract. YOU may be that person. Why don't you go after it? Your chances are good if you get your name and address in to us AT ONCE on the coupon below. This is no gamble or lottery—it is an open-and-above-board plan devoid of all risk by which you stand in good stead to make the money mentioned and by which you are absolutely certain to make SOMETHING. You SURELY can't LOSE.

The house of Hollingsworth & Company could not afford to present a proposition to the public that is not clean and creditable in every way. We want you to investigate at once—and investigate Pico Boulevard Tract—the basis of our proposition.

This tract is literally the "Key to Los Angeles' Westward Growth"—situated, as it is, right at the edge of the city's next step westward—with the best residence section of Los Angeles built up solid to its border line and in the vicinity of the very highest class residence property selling for $4000, $5000 and up. In sharp contrast to the steep prices charged for property all about it, Pico Boulevard Tract now sells for only $675 up. Of course, such prices can't last any time at all. We made our prices from $200 to $300 less than our lots are actually worth today, because we intend to close out the tract quickly rather than to drag out its sale by putting our prices higher.

Pico Boulevard Tract has all desirable improvements and restrictions — spring water piped to each lot—high rolling ground—wide streets and parkings—beautiful shade trees —commanding view. Good service on three car lines —Redondo Short Line, Pico Street Line. Five-cent fare—25 minutes to downtown.

How to Reach Pico Blvd. Tract

Go in our motors or take Pico car to end of line; or Redondo car on Hill St. to Bonita Meadows avenue, in middle of tract. Our autos meet Pico car to take you over the tract.

See the tract Sunday—our autos will meet Pico cars to take you over tract and salesman will conduct you. It will be a profitable, pleasant trip for you.

But first of all—NOW—sign and send the coupon.

MARKET IS ACTIVE.

Several Important Transfers Reported in South Pasadena—Apartments Changed to Family Hotel.

SOUTH PASADENA, May 10.—The South Pasadena real estate market continues active and some important sales have recently been made. Prominent among these is the sale of a business lot on Mission street between Fair Oaks avenue and Mound, reported by the O. Hibbard Realty Company. The seller was W. H. Spangler of Long Beach, the buyer, P. J. Dolan of this city. The lot is 25x150 feet. The reported consideration is $2500. Dolan will improve the site in the near future with a store building.

Through the same agency, Spangler has purchased two bungalows on lots 50x150 feet in size, on Magnolia avenue, at a consideration of $3000.

One of the largest of recent sales here was that of ten lots on Meridian avenue between Magnolia avenue and Grevalia street. The property was formerly owned by Walter L. Wotkyns of Pasadena, and the buyer is S. H. Merrill, who expects to improve the lots with a number of bungalows. The sale was made through the agency of the Sparks Realty Company.

The El Centro apartments on El Centro and Diamond avenues have again changed hands. A. O. Roe was the seller and the purchaser was A. E. Runo of Los Angeles, who has electricians and workmen putting the building in condition for a first-class family hotel.

H. E. Andrews, formerly of Pasadena, has exchanged his house on South El Molino street in that city, for a residence at No. 1728 Oxley street, South Pasadena.

BIG GAIN IN VALUES.

J. F. Grass & Co. report the sale of the northwest corner of Hollywood boulevard and Sycamore avenue, 209 feet on the former, by 200 feet on the latter thoroughfare, for W. E. Henshaw to Robert T. See. The consideration is given at $13,625. Five years ago See sold three and one-half acres one block west of his present purchase to Grass for $8500.

BUY CHURCH SITE.

Representatives of the Los Angeles Missionary Society this week completed the purchase of two lots in Chesterfield Square. The property was purchased as the site for the Chesterfield Square Methodist Episcopal Church. The property is situated at the southwest corner of Cimarron avenue and West Fifty-fourth street. The lots have a total frontage of eighty feet and are 120 feet deep. The church will be built immediately.

ORDER EXTRA TREES.

An order for 30,000 citrus trees and 10,000 deciduous fruit and olive trees has been placed by the Fontana Company with nurseries in Highland and Del Rosa. These trees will be used in connection with the planting of 1000 additional acres by the Fontana company this summer, according to those interested.

WAKING THINGS UP.

Old Residents of Oceanside Astonish by Sudden Realty Activity at That Ordinarily Quiet Resort.

OCEANSIDE, May 10.—Old residents of Oceanside are rubbing their eyes and pinching themselves as the result of the recent sudden and unanticipated awakening of business and realty activities at this place. The first surprise came a month ago with the announcement of heavy ocean front purchases by George M. Cohan and Nat C. Goodwin, two celebrities, who, with the Big Five Corporation of Los Angeles, bought $100,000 worth of beach property. The corporation named has acquired approximately two miles of ocean front holdings and upon it plans to build a number of summer homes. These deals were closed by the Hayes Land Company of Los Angeles and Oceanside.

The lots purchased by Cohan, Goodwin and the members of the Big Five Corporation are all in the Strand Tract addition. The corporation also has acquired for a reported consideration of $25,000 the Herbert Crouch ranch of 500 acres, east of here, which it proposes to subdivide into five, ten and twenty-acre tracts, with water for irrigation. The Hayes Land company reports the following additional sales:

To Montgomery M. Moulton, one lot, $950; E. W. King, two lots, $1100; the San Diego Syndicate, business lot, $2500, and other lots, $3250; Adam Layer, twenty lots in South Oceanside, $3200; R. H. Wilson, for David G. Harrington, two lots; H. E. Whittaker, for Oceanside Development Company, one lot; Mrs. Percy Johnson, for the same company, one lot; Andrew Thill, for the same company, land at Cleveland and Eighth streets; Mrs. Mabel E. Reynolds, 50x100 feet on which A. McCullom will erect four bungalows; Adam Layer, five lots; Minnie Kennedy, one lot; Emily Arguello, one lot, for W. H. Wheaton to A. Berthiaume, two lots; for Melkirk & Allen of Pasadena, to Roy Abercrombie, one lot; for Miss Alice Manning to A. S. Williams, five-room cottage, $3000, and to D. C. Welsh, five acres in South Oceanside, $5000.

M. Franklin, claim agent for the Santa Fe, has started a $10,000 business block on a site recently purchased.

TWO NEW MAIL ROUTES.

Planada to Be Brought in Close Touch With Three Neighboring Districts—Cornerstone Laid.

PLANADA, May 10.—Two new mail routes to Planada are in prospect. The Postal Department has posted notices asking for sealed proposals for carrying mail to and from Mariposa by way of Mt. Bullion and Cathay, and also from Lewis.

St. Paul's Reformed Church of Planada held interesting and impressive ceremonies in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of its new church last Sunday afternoon.

G. B. Green, who recently purchased twenty acres in the Holt tract, is preparing to plant his tract to alfalfa. He will also plant sixty acres for the Planada Development Corporation, which expects to have its new pumping plant on the Holt tract working in a few days.

The Planada-Yosemite auto stage has resumed its regular summer schedule between Planada and Wawona, the southern entrance to the Yosemite Valley, touching at the Mariposa Big Trees on the way. This stage line is becoming more popular every season owing to the scenic beauty of the trip.

ADDED VALUES

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HOME BUILDERS

In buying property for home-building purposes, we keep to the close-in districts, both in Los Angeles and San Diego.

In doing this, we not only avoid speculation, but are sure of steadily advancing values.

Our 83d Street tract, with Main Street at one end and Moneta Avenue at the other, is an example. So is Manzanita Tract, twelve minutes from Hill Street Station by Hollywood cars.

Our newest purchase at Lorena Street and Hollenbeck Avenue is just outside the three-mile circle, adjoining the built-up section and close to a splendid school.

In San Diego our Arizona Street Tract and Mayfair Tract are similarly situated. So is a new purchase that we are not yet ready to announce.

The same applies to the 7200 acres in the Coachella Valley, 114 miles from Los Angeles on the main line of the Southern Pacific, where the U. S. Government is urging date cultivation.

It is safe to say that every one of these purchases will constantly increase in value, regardless of the impetus given by our own development work.

The profits are from the added values that come with the growth of the city, plus the profits on the improvements we make before we sell.

When you buy shares in this Company, you are investing in these properties and profits. $1.25 makes you a shareholder. DIVIDENDS QUARTERLY.

Spineless Cactus

Come in and interview our Mr. J. Frank Reynolds, who was formerly Luther Burbank's representative for several years, and who Luther Burbank sent to Australia, Egypt, India and England, introducing the SPINELESS CACTUS.

"The fearsome, dreaded foe of the race has been conquered; the time of little rain is set at naught; the great flame-hearted sun itself, burning its mighty way across the blistering desert, is defied; the whole desert and arable regions of the globe by the act of one man may become a limitless reservoir of food."—(From Government Report No. 837, Report No. 944.)

We believe that the arid land question is finally solved, and that SPINELESS CACTUS will cover the arid lands in the future as ALFALFA is now covering the irrigated lands that once remained idle.

PREDICTS DEATH OF SYNDICALISM.

Lord Weardale Says English Unions Observe Law.

Troops Are Not Needed In Strikes of Labor.

Suffragettes Are Making Most Trouble.

SPECIAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.
NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 10.—[Special Dispatch.] What is what an English lord says about labor uprisings in America:

"The syndicalist movement is growing rapidly in the United States; it has not made any progress in England. It is being met with opposition and violence in the United States; it stands alone in England. Force begets force."

And while Lord Weardale, who made the statement will not outline a course for this country he believes that peaceful measures rather than force will go far in avoiding labor wars and in bringing them to an end when they occur.

Lord Weardale is chairman of the English delegation here to formulate plans for the celebration of the signing of the treaty of Ghent.

"In my country," the visitor continued, "public opinion would not tolerate the interference of militia, or the use of bullets in labor disputes. As a result the unions are not driven to desperate deeds. They keep out of the control and influence of the syndicalists, and there is peace in the industrial field.

"What we would do if the extreme syndicalists should get control of our labor unions? Would do nothing. I cannot imagine such a thing. The syndicalists movement in England is working up the vain struggle for life. It is destined to die. If, however, it should get control of our unions, then the laboring men would leave these unions."

Asked whether there is any social unrest in England, Lord Weardale made an impatient, nervous facial gesture, as he said:

"Yes, the suffragettes, they are giving us quite some trouble."

LOOK PLACES OF STRIKERS.

Two Mayors of Cities Braved Being Called "Scabs," and Worked, One as a Hod Carrier, Other as Stoker.

Mayor Rueben H. Sulvin and John Purroy, Police Commissioner of Genoa, N. Y., have qualified as hod carriers. When fifty-five union carriers and 117 members of the carpenters' union who were engaged in constructing the new City Hall, went on strike, half a dozen masons remained at work. While an admiring crowd looked from the streets, the two officials, perspiring freely in the sun, made trip after trip from the mortar board to the place where masons were at work. They kept at the task for several hours and thoroughly enjoyed their self-imposed job.

At Sydney, N. S. W., the Lord Mayor also took the place of a striker. When the employees of the gas plant went on strike the Lord Mayor summoned a meeting at the Town Hall to call for volunteer workers. The Lord Mayor appeared on the platform and was greeted with cries of "scab" and "blackleg." The crowd attempted to arrest the leader, and in a free fight had to use their batons. The rioters threatened to overwhelm them until reinforcements came.

After the meeting the Lord Mayor and many other volunteers went to the gas company's office, where the Mayor took off his frock coat and silk hat, donned an old pair of trousers, vest and a cap, and then proceeded through the streets to the gas plant amid cheers and hoots. The secretary of the company declares that the Mayor "stoked like a Trojan," doing a full four-hour shift. His men attended to thirty furnaces.

PATRIOTIC UTTERANCE.

Men Have a Right to Refuse to Join Unions, and Also to Labor for Any Wages as They Choose to Accept.

[Portland Weekly News Letter:] Some of our late ex-Presidents in an address delivered in Chicago some years had this to say of the rights of the free workingman who does not wish to join a labor union nor become a part of the oligarchy of labor and therefore a slave to the tyrannical dictates of the business agent of the walking delegate:

"Nothing I have said or shall say can be construed into an attitude of hostility against or unfriendly to the working men, who for any reasons do not join unions, and their right to ask for such wages as they choose to accept is sound, and any lawless denial of that right cannot be too severely condemned. All the advantages of trades unionism, great as they are, cannot weigh a feather in the scale against the right of any man to go seeking employment to work when and for what he pleases."

This surely is a patriotic utterance, coming from one of the foremost men representing Republican principles who may read. It cannot help but have its effect for good, and we grant that we had more of such manly help and such manly utterances would be herewith given.

TO FIX OUTSIDE WAGES.

New York Court Renders an Important Decision, Squelching Certain Demands of the Unionites.

[New York Sun:] Labor performed in the State on materials intended for use in connection with a municipal contract in New York and paid for at a lower rate of wages than that which prevails in this State, does not violate provisions of the New York State law, according to a decision of the Court of Appeals today. The case was brought by the Granite Cutters' International Association in an attempt to cancel the contract for the construction of the municipal building in New York City.

The contractor in charge of the work had let the work of trimming granite to a Maine corporation, whose workmen were paid less than the rate paid for the same work in New York State. The granite workers claim that such a transaction violates the New York labor law.

Judge Miller of the Court of Appeals in an opinion holds that when the law was passed the law fixing a minimum rate of wages it did not intend to cover work done outside for delivery within the State.

A TIMELY PROTEST.

[EDITORIAL.]

THE National Association of Manufacturers is an organization composed of about four thousand manufacturing concerns, located in every State of the Union. Its purpose is the promotion of industrial freedom—freedom from the despotism of union-labor dictation, whether such dictation is directed toward employers or toward the workers who are unaffiliated with trades unions. It is strictly non-political, or, to speak more accurately, non-partisan. Its spirit is loyalty to the laws and institutions of our country.

Its members believe in equality of opportunity and in the impartial administration of law. They believe that only upon such foundations can a structure of economic and social justice be erected. They do not oppose labor organizations per se, but they denounce their adoption of measures that are above or outside the just administration of law.

The manufacturers' association, in a recent letter to President Wilson, expresses its opposition to the insertion by Congress in the Civil Appropriation Bill of a clause prohibiting any part of the $300,000 appropriated for the Department of Justice from being used to enforce the Sherman anti-trust act against labor unions or associations of farmers. They indorse the action of President Taft in vetoing an appropriation law which contained such a provision.

They call the attention of the President to the inherent wrong of such a provision and to the fact that in many of his public utterances he has wisely and clearly emphasized the necessity, in our social, economic and political body, of striving to attain, in the last analysis, exact justice.

The exemption of labor unions from the operations of a general law is violative of every consideration of the equitable, just and impartial administration of justice. It is special and class legislation in an ingenious and subtle form. That it is an attempt to subvert the operation of a duly enacted statute of Congress and of the constitutional requirement that laws shall be equal and uniform in their operation by a covert negativing of the operation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, will be clear upon the most cursory examination.

If the Sherman Anti-Trust Act should be amended by due Congressional methods, that is a proposition the merits of which will be open for legislative debate and the expression of popular opinion, through the people's representatives in Congress. But while the law is upon the statute book and contains no exemptions, is it not clear that to limit the operation and application of the law, by the subterfuge of a restrictive prohibition, through the medium of an appropriation, is dangerously near nullification. Is not the indefensible character of this exemptive provision utterly at variance with an orderly procedure for the administration of our public laws?

Labor's Unrest.

THE STRIKE NEWS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

SPEAKING of Schenectady, N. Y., a few days ago, Idaho Haywood boasted that the I.W.W., activities there were the greatest calamity that had befallen Paterson, N. J., since the great fire of 1902. The fire cost the city, said Haywood, $5,000,000 or $6,000,000; the I.W.W., is costing the city $2,000,000 a week, and this is the tenth week of the strike. He gloated over this. Except for advising the cutting off of innocent heads, was there any more vile and dangerous language used by the leaders of the great French Revolution of 1789? Haywood is under indictment at Paterson for inciting violence by his speeches. He claims, falsely claims, that true Socialism must begin, not in legislation, but in destroying work and property. He directly teaches defiance of law. Pickets led by girls are being arrested at Paterson. There is more shooting and a strike caused a fire. Five of Haywood's assistants are also indicted for inciting to riot. One hundred of the Paterson strikers' children—some of them but little tots—were sent to New York and took part in the Socialists' May Day parade in that city. They, as taught, waved red flags and sang Socialist hymns, particularly the more violent ones. It's a disgrace to American manhood and womenhood to mislead and expose children in this way. The auto trucks in which the children rode in the parade were labelled "the starving children of the Paterson strikers," but they were not starving by any means—quite the contrary. All were decently and comfortably dressed. In this move the I.W.W. leaders in Paterson duplicated the Lawrence, Mass., plan of obtaining public sympathy by false pretenses. The people of Paterson, following the example of Akron, O., are organizing to drive the I. W. W., trouble-makers out of the city in order to save its silk industry. Several silk mills have already arranged to leave Paterson. The mill owners are fixing an early date for reopening their mills, strike or no strike, and thus pit the pay envelope against the "fight-on" pleadings of the I.W.W. leaders. In the meantime, Idaho Haywood goes on inflaming frequent audiences of 5000 and more. Employers promise "a fair hearing and consideration of all grievances after the men return to work, but they are still firm in positively refusing to treat with Haywood or any official of the I.W.W., or any committee of the same. It is known that there are thousands of strikers in Paterson, not affiliated with the I.W.W. who want to return to work, but dare not for fear of violence. Mill owners still object to granting the requested eight-hour work day.

The Pacific Coast wireless strike situation is getting worse. Wireless men are leaving the vessels as fast as they arrive in port.

Buffalo, N. Y., now has a strike of 2500 department store clerks, delivery men, and elevator operators. Union labor officials say the girls were being organized, but that the present strike was not ordered by the labor council. The demand is for more wages and less hours of work. They want $8 minimum weekly wage for women clerks and $15 for men clerks with a minimum for boys of $8, and for chauffeurs of $18; also, an eight-hour day; the Saturday half holiday with full pay for June, July, August and September, and the closing of the stores at 5 o'clock each evening.

In Buffalo the livery drivers and stablemen have struck for $14 a week minimum, evidently to help the department store delivery drivers in their strike.

A thousand Italian laborers who were employed on estates in Greenwich, Conn., are on strike for $2 a day for eight hours. They have been getting $1.75 for ten hours. Labor agitators are harranguing the excitable men. That's where strike violence breeds, and breeds fast—in the reckless harangues of agitators whose living depends on constant agitation. No agitation, no fat salaries, and fatter expense accounts.

The painters and plumbers, whose work centers in and around Greenwich, Conn., threaten a general strike for more wages. The carpenters and masons do not want a strike, which, if it comes, will affect millions of dollars' worth of new buildings planned for this year. Just think for a moment how many, many millions of dollars' worth of building work would be held up or cancelled (mainly to the loss of the workers) by a general strike in the building trades of Los Angeles. The defeat of Harriman at the primary of May 6 has doubtless saved us from that dire calamity now, as did also his defeat on December 5, 1911.

Syracuse, N. Y., has a strike of 2000 hod carriers and building laborers, 500 carpenters, and others, in all about 4000 workers. The hod carriers and laborers want a raise from 24 to 32½ cents an hour. The carpenters ask an advance from 45 to 50 cents an hour. Italian laborers tried to stop others from working. They say they will stay out a year if necessary. Rioting began, but the firemen stopped it with cold water—usually an effective remedy.

Mechanicsville, N. Y., has quite a large brick-yards' strike. No demands were made on any of the companies, either for more pay or to air any grievance. The men simply knocked off work. Agitators are trying to organize the men into a union. All the plans are guarded by Sheriff's deputies.

The West Shore (N. Y.) Railroad, has a section men's strike all along its line. They are getting $1.60 a day for ten hours' work and want $1.75 for nine hours or $2 for ten hours.

Labor leaders in New Jersey demand under threat of strike, a raise from $1.75 to $2 a day for 30,000 laborers. Eight thousand have quit work already in the Oranges, Paterson and Newark. The move is led by organizers of the General Labor Industrial Union of America.

Four hundred chemical workers have joined the clay brick and smelter strikers at Perth Amboy, N. J. This brings the number of strikers up to 6000, besides the daily-expected strike of the workers in the several terra cotta plants.

It begins to look as if the abolition of New Jersey's criminal laws by the Industrial Workers of the World has not been so complete as they believed two months ago, judging by the many indictments and arrests.

The hotels and restaurants in London, Eng., are again facing a general strike to be called by the Hotel Workers' Union. The breaking of agreements by hotel managers is alleged.

The new coal miners' strike in South Wales, England, is spreading. Already fully fifty thousand men are out. The strike is against the employment of non-unionists. The unionists have been winning thousands of men in the last month, raising the membership of the federation from 18,000 to 32,000. Some of the colliery companies are supporting the miners' federation and are advancing money to the non-unionists to enable them to join the union and to others to pay their arrears of dues. That's entirely a new feature in the attempt to cure labor unrest.

I.W.W. leaders are being arrested at Hopedale, Mass., for parading without special permission as required there by law.

Preliminary strike conditions are seething in the British shipyards and dockyards, just when the industry is more prosperous than it has been for years. The men want more wages but employers prove that they lose 18.3 per cent. of present wages by voluntarily not working full time.

The eastern railroads have refused the wages demands of their 100,000 trainmen and conductors, as they cannot afford to pay the extra $17,000,000 a year asked. The roads also refuse to arbitrate under the one-sided (to labor) Erdman act.

Miss Flynn, the I.W.W. strike organizer and inciter, is trying to get up a strike of the 2500 ribbon and broad-silk weavers in the North Hudson towns. Evidently this move is to help the Paterson I.W.W. silk workers' strike.

In various places the unionized electrical workers are striking for $4 a day. They are now getting $3.50. At the same time there are two union factions among them.

Jamestown, N. Y., has a strike of its union street railway men. Service is interrupted and may be entirely tied up. The demands are for more pay, shorter hours, and the reinstatement of a discharged conductor.

The Mechanicsville (N. Y.) brickyard strikers are weakening. The Rev. (?) Dr. Dunn of Schenectady, N. Y., Socialist Mayor and I.W.W. strike helper, did not respond to the call of "come over into Macedonia and help us," as was expected. Doubtless his Little Falls arrest and jail experience for ordinance violation was enough for him.

The 2500 coal miners 'strike at Nanaimo, B. C., was over almost as soon as begun, without result. It was begun in error.

The knitting mills strike at Cohoes, N. Y., is still going on. No disturbances yet. No indication of either side giving in. The strikers are getting relief money from the funds of the union.

The Erie Railroad has given increases of 5 to 9 per cent. to some of its telegraph operators, but they insist upon 12 per cent. increase, and may strike anyway. The increase affects about 25 per cent. of the operators.

Nearly all the paper hanging and paint shops of Philadelphia are closed by a union strike for higher wages. Arrests are being made for disturbances.

Some factories at Brussels, Belgium, are refusing to re-employ some of the men who recently went on strike. A job once lost by striking is sometimes very hard to get back, but much of union and other labor finds that lesson hard to learn. It's far easier to strike than it is to get a job. The strike cost $20,000,000.

Factory laborers at Saratoga, N. Y., struck for a $2 nine-hour day. They were getting $1.85 for ten hours. Every man of them lost his job, as new men were put in their places.

Salt Lake City's sixty-eight firemen have refused a 10 per cent. raise and threaten to strike in five days. Such a strike would mean the cancellation of insurance policies.

The pearl-button makers of New York City and around, about 3500 (14 per cent. women) are on strike for 20 per cent. more wages for all who have been earning under $14 a week, and 10 per cent. more for all earning $14 or more. The average wage now is $16 a week and the trade is a difficult one.

Cincinnati is seriously menaced with a street railway strike. The demand is for a ten-hour work day and more wages.

Irrepressible.

I. W. W. LEADERS ARE ANARCHISTS.

IN ALL LABOR DISPUTES WHICH THEY SEEK TO DOMINATE.

Haywood, Arrested in New Jersey and Released on Bail, at Once Attempted to Excite Public Feeling Against the Legal Department of the City.

The leaders of the I.W.W. organization are an impossibility. They appear to have lost every suspicion that they are amenable to all the present legal restraints that have been created for the general safety of the community. William D. Haywood, the head of the lawless I.W.W. gang, was placed under arrest at Paterson, N. J., for attempting to incite to violence the silk mill strikers of that city, and as soon as he had been released from arrest on bail, ridiculed the charge of the prosecuting attorney of Passaic county that he and his coadjutors were "preaching anarchy," and attributed the violence that has taken place in connection with the strike at the silk mills to "the manufacturers and their hired thugs." He is reported as declaring to an excited crowd that efforts were constantly made to "prejudice the public against the strikers," and that the leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World were "indicted for preaching peace."

"These leaders have left nobody in doubt as to what they are preaching," says the New York Journal of Commerce. "It is the same doctrine that Haywood was preaching when he and Moyer, as leaders of the Western Miners, incited to assassination, and succeeded in putting the penalty for the violent death of an ex-Governor of Idaho upon one of their own hirelings, who is now serving a life sentence in prison. It is the doctrine which he preached to produce the turmoil and destructi at the Lawrence strike in Massachusetts. It is the doctrine, long openly avowed, of defiance of law and public authority in seeking to force capital out of the control of industries and turn it over to labor. It is an incitement to the use of force and violence, just so far as they can with safety to the perpetrators be made to serve the end, regardless of the rights of ownership or of property, or the personal rights of anybody not on the side of "the cause." If this is not preaching anarchy, a new definition must be found for that term. That it is inciting to riot is sufficiently demonstrated by the results.

"In the tumult and the shouting, the disorder and the riot, raised by Haywood and his industrial workers, who work chiefly with their tongues, the cause of the strike in the silk mills at Paterson is lost sight of and its merits are not to be considered. So far as we now recall, no grievances were formulated or demands presented by an organized body of the operatives or any unions to which they belonged. No peaceable or reasonable methods were attempted for adjusting disputes about wages or hours or conditions of labor. All that is clear now is that there was dissatisfaction and agitation and a strike took place when Haywood and his emissaries of unrest swooped in, as at Lawrence, to create turmoil and disorder, to compel recognition and extort terms of surrender yet to be defined. Their immediate purpose was to prevent the strikers from going back to work and others from taking their places until terms dictated by them were made. As a result the mills have been idle for weeks and the operatives are reduced to want.

"The lesson to be taught is that industrial peace is not to be attained by this kind of reckless warfare. This is anarchy, and no cause can be advanced in a civilized country which does not first of all recognize the supremacy of law and show regard for the rights of others than those who constitute one party to a dispute. It is for the interest of workingmen as of employers, of labor as of capital, of personal as of property rights, and especially of labor organization, that these lawless and riotous methods should be so discountenanced that they must perforce be abandoned as worse than useless for their avowed purpose of promoting the "cause of labor" or the "rights of man." Organized society cannot afford to tolerate such methods and the sooner an end is put to them by a stern enforcement of the law, the better for all concerned. If allowed to have their way from economic anarchy to the verge of political anarchy, the inevitable recourse must be to a strengthening of power in the hands of those who have the capacity to govern, for the protection of person and property alike, and for the preservation of the economic and social system. These Haywoods and Ettors and Trescas and Flynns are the worst enemies of democratic government."

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

It is true that we see idle men on the streets of Los Angeles—able-bodied men at that—but are they idle from necessity or from choice? Undoubtedly the latter, judging by the vacant jobs advertised from day to day and from week to week. It is from those "idle by choice" that the I.W.W. gets recruits and to that class many of the members of the I.W.W. (Haywoodites) belong. If, as the idlers of Los Angeles say when asked why they are not busy, "work is scarce," why are the following jobs advertised as vacant?

Working hours are a full eight and one-half daily. German jewelry workers live, as a class, under comparatively good social conditions. No piece work is done in the homes of the operatives. German laws insure pensions when the worker's usefulness is at an end. That partly makes up for the wages being lower than in the United States. The workers' positions are practically permanent. Jewelry-making is one of the best conditioned and best-paid industries in Germany.

Austro-Hungary, Budapest—	Wages per week.
Pressmen	$7 to $8
Makers	$8 to $14
Engravers	$10 to $18

Tool makers	$6 to $8

The working day is nine hours for 300 days a year. The factories are clean and sanitary, and the operatives are prosperous and live in sanitary homes. The wage agreements are specific and run for five years, precluding the likelihood of strikes.

Cost of Living in Canada.

Wholesale prices in Canada reached a very high level in 1911. In 1912 they rose still higher. Since 1897 there has been a continuous advance, interrupted only in the year 1907-8. An interesting table in the Labor Gazette shows the typical weekly expenditure of a family of five with an income of $800 a year for the three years 1910, 1911 and 1912. The weekly food bill has increased from $6.75 to $7.40. Fuel and lighting have increased from $3.81 to $4.32.

Thus the expenditure of the typical family on food, fuel, light and rent has increased from $12.24 to $13.63. The weekly income is $15.40, so that the remainder, $1.77 a week, is all that is left for clothing, amusements, books, medical attendance, and medicines for a family of five. This is for the whole Dominion of Canada; the average being greatly reduced by including smaller interior cities.

New York Store Women's Wages Low.

Investigations by a committee of the Consumers' League into wage conditions under which women employees of the New York department stores work show that the average weekly pay is not more than $6 and that $9 is the least upon which a self-supporting woman can live decently, according to the annual report of the league, just published.

To 41, or 12.3 per cent., under $5 weekly; to 88, or 26.4 per cent., under $6; to 199, or 59.6 per cent, under $6.50; to 208, or 62.3 per cent., under $7; to 136, or 37.7 per cent., $7 and upward; to 281, or 84.1 per cent., under $8; to 66, or 15.9 per cent., $8 or more; to 215, or 64.3 per cent., under $9; to 19, or 5.7 per cent., $9 and over.

The committee found that chances for advancement in these cases were small, that department store employers openly expressed a preference for girls living at home; that some advertised for saleswomen, preferably those living at home, and that others have gone so far as to tell applicants that unless they live at home or have other sources of income they cannot live honestly on the wages firms are accustomed to pay.

PUPILS START A STRIKE IN NEW YORK HIGH SCHOOL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 10.—"Wearied of the same old songs" in the morning and the "same old grub" at noontime, the 3000 pupils of the Stuyvesant High School are agitated by a strike movement. It began when 1200 boys assembled in the auditorium Monday and refused to sing "Hymn 226." Not a voice was raised, but when the principal announced "We will now sing 'America,'" the patriotic instinct of scores of boys was so aroused that they sang lustily, although a majority of the students still kept their lips shut tight.

"We weren't going to throw down 'America,'" the patriots explained.

Balking at the food served in the school lunchrooms and demanding permission to buy their lunches outside, the lads also started a hunger strike, but this has not proved so popular.

Patriotism.

NAIL AMERICAN FLAG ABOVE SOCIALIST BANNER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EAST LIVERPOOL (O.) May 10.—Cheered by thousands and later meeting with a unique situation, two men placed an American flag above the red flag of Socialism on a high building in which the Socialists have headquarters. Several days ago the Socialists flung their flag to the breeze and the city authorities found that there was no law to haul it down. Protests from the G.A.R., and Sons of Veterans caused a lively controversy.

Last Monday two men, one a law student and the other the owner of the building, ascended to the roof of the structure through a trapdoor, incidentally passing the headquarters of the Socialists. The American flag was nailed above the red banner. When the men attempted to leave the roof they found the trapdoor locked. From the edge of the building's roof the men notified the crowd below of their predicament. Within a moment an alarm of fire was sounded. The ladders of the department were used and the two men descended to the street.

STRIKE STATISTICS.

Over Two Million Days Work Were Lost in Russia Last Year Because of Strikes.

[Baltimore American:] "The United States is not the only country in the world that has labor strikes," said a well-known meember of the Builders' Protective Association, of New York City. "Russia has a great many strikes.

"From a report issued by the United States government upon data furnished by the Russian factory inspector, it appears that during 1912 there were 1215 strikes recorded in Russia, in which 688,000 laborers participated, the number of days lost being 2,200,000. The majority of the strikes (1216, with 511,300 participants) were due to politics; 702, with 172,052 participants, had economic motives affecting them.

"As regards strikes from economic reasons, an increase could be observed in nearly all branches. In industries producing chemicals, alimentary substances, metal works, etc., the strikes were more than double those of 1911. In the textile industries there was an increase of 64 per cent., due to strikes in the woolen textile branches. The claims in the greater part of these, where the aim was to obtain higher wages, were partly granted in the more prosperous branches; but where depression in business demanded a reduction of wages, laborers who struck met with failure. There was an 89 per cent., increase of strikes in the printing industry. In the machine-building industries there was increased activities and a call for good hands. This prompted workers to demand higher wages, which in most cases were refused.

"In nearly all strikes secondary causes were afterward added. At least 12 per cent., of the main claims and 37 per cent., of the miner were allowed, the remainder falling through. Upon the whole, it must be said that the employers showed themselves more inclined to accede to demands for improvements in food, housing accommodations and other questions directly affecting the laborer's well-being than where simply an increase of wages was demanded. The total outcome of the strikes was less favorable to the workers than in 1911."

The league's investigators base their contentions on what they have learned concerning 225 saleswomen more than 16 years of age, who have held 324 places in stores of all grades, including some of the best in the city. They prepared a chart showing that in the 324 cases examined the following wages were paid:

UNIONITE INCONSISTENCY.

Peculiar Mix-Up That Has Occurred at Portland in the Erection of a Brewery Building.

[Portland Weekly News Letter:] Some time ago it was decided to erect an addition to the Gambrinus brewery, and it seems that in the excavation for foundations there was some digging to do, which, on account of the weather, was a nasty job, it being a few months ago when our rains were most copious and weather abominable. It must also be understood that there is no organization in the common labor which ordinarily digs trenches, ditches and does excavating.

When the contractor, who, of course, was a "closed shop" man (the breweries do not employ anyone else on account of their 5-cent beer and fear of being boycotted,) called for laborers to do his excavating work and tried to rush these men so that the aristocrats of labor (inside of the organization) could get at their work of installing the machinery, these common laborers rebelled, and the upshot of it was that the laborers told the union men, who were trying to push the thing, to get down and do this dirty work themselves; that it was no snap, and they were not going to be rushed around in the filth and mire."

At any rate, the work was delayed somewhat or else it would have been finished long before this; but the point we wish to make is, that the machinery intended for installation coming from the East, arrived on the ground in due time and was satisfactory because it had the union label and sanction of the higher-ups, who levy tribute on "closed-shop" manufacturing establishments. In the interim, while the machinery was awaiting installation, which has been for several weeks, the machinery manufacturing establishment declared for "open shop." Now the local poohbahs of the labor fraternity have declared this machinery "unfair," although it was originally built under their full sanction and "closed-shop" arrangement, had been bought and paid for by the brewery, and was satisfactory until this moment, when it was found long afterwards that the shop in which it was made was now an "open-shop" concern and standing for the principles of freedom.

Classes of employees other than saleswomen, the report says, fare even worse than they in the matter of wages. A census was taken of 702 places such as those of stock girls, packers and cashiers, and of these 58 per cent. paid less than $6 and 74.2 per cent. less than $7. All the girls concerned here were more than 16 years of age.

Talks on Money-Making

By I. R. PARSONS.

Building A City In a Year

EL SEGUNDO is Spanish for "The Second." El Segundo is the second industrial city to be built around a Standard Oil Company plant on the Pacific Coast.

The first was Point Richmond, near San Francisco.

Both were built through necessity, and not through any desire to indulge in a real estate speculation.

And, while fortunes have been made by shrewd real estate buyers at Point Richmond, which has grown into a young metropolis of industry, with a host of large manufacturing plants, a population of over 15,000, and all the modern improvements of a city of the first-class, yet, in my opinion, El Segundo will outdo its elder sister and grow to be a greater city within the next few years.

It has far greater natural advantages.

It lies in a beautiful country, near the fastest growing city—Los Angeles—in the world, where the sun shines 365 days in the year, amid fruit and flowers, and with a variety of magnificent bathing beaches within a few minutes' ride of its limits.

It will be a delightful place in which to live as well as an important industrial center.

Here will be the great distributing point for the "fuel of the future"—oil—which all the nations of the earth are clamoring for and which California must supply, as well as for numbers of other industrial plants which will be attracted to this new center of industry.

The great Standard Oil Company, once it makes a start, never fails to carry out its projects to a successful conclusion. The first unit of its great plant is now completed. Other units will follow in quick succession.

All this is a preamble to my talk about El Segundo, as it concerns YOU.

The movements and activities of the Standard Oil Company would not interest you, unless you were invited in to participate in these movements.

The Standard Oil is not in the real estate business.

You and I don't need to do much arguing to prove to ourselves that where so great an undertaking as this is under way, there is money to be made by the man who can see beyond the end of his nose—or who has the gift of prophecy, in ever so small a degree.

I have in mind the case of a waiter in a coffee house at Point Richmond, Standard Oil City No. 1, who bought two lots there in the beginning for $350 each.

Five years ago he refused $4000 for them, three years ago $6000, and recently $17,000.00!

"I've got a job," he said, "I don't need the money. They'll bring me $20,000 some day."

This is just one instance.

I could multiply it many times, and prove up in each case.

Yours respectfully,

I. R. Parsons,
Gen. Manager.

Moderator Matthews.

a church member takes a cocktail at his club we don't haul him before the ruling elder, but we say: 'Brother, you have done wrong. We are not going to put you on trial, but we ask you not to do it again.' So the elders do not rule. Mostly, they loaf. I believe in team work.

TEARS UP ALL HIS SERMONS.

"If our elders in the United States would get together in twos we should have 20,000 teams. And if each team were to bring one person into church every week Presbyterianism would grow at the rate of 80,000 converts a month, or 960,000 a year. In 1912 only 73,000 persons joined the Presbyterian Church. I charge the elders with the loss of nearly 900,000 new members of our denomination. They are mediocre men, too, as you would call them. What is the matter with the church? The inquiry is heard in all directions. What I have said may answer the question."

"How do you prepare your sermons?" I next asked.

"I dictate them—two a week—to a stenographer, first working them out in my mind as a lawyer would work out a case. Then I preach them without looking at the manuscripts unless what I say is likely to cause misunderstanding or a debate. When I read a sermon I read it. I hold the manuscript up before the people and stand away from the pulpit. I don't sneak it onto an open Bible and pretend I am speaking extemporaneously. All of my sermons are torn up immediately after they are delivered.

THE DANGERS OF A BARREL.

"Preachers, I heard while a boy, kept their sermons in barrels. I decided to deny myself that luxury. I have done forever with a sermon the moment it is preached. The policy of destruction keeps me at work.

"I wanted to grow when I first came to the ministry and was afraid to trust myself with a barrel—I would dip into it occasionally, I knew. Dipping of that sort becomes a habit by and by, and before one knows it sermon writing is a hard labor and is shirked whenever possible. The practice of throwing my sermons into the fire or waste-basket compels me to prepare in advance for every church service. I dictate, read the manuscript, and then am ready for the pulpit. Once I could memorize whatever I read or heard. That is an evil accomplishment. It makes a phonograph of the human mind. I quit trying to remember anything but my own sermons and so lost the power of memorization."

"Do many men attend your church?"

"The morning congregation numbers from 2200 to 2500. The evening congregation is 500 larger. Fifty-five per cent of those who hear me in the morning are men. Only 20 per cent of the evening congregation are women. If a preacher deals frankly with men they will listen to what he says, though they may not agree with him part of the time. They want masculine sermons and sincerity. Right-living and right-thinking are popular subjects. We like to hear about ideals even if we stumble and fall in trying to reach the heights in front of us. We see the picture of a good man and the sight pleases us."

"Is the world becoming better or worse?"

"Collectively, humanity is growing better. The sentiment of the world is improving all the time. A United States judge was impeached and I saw men wag their heads and heard them say that matters are getting pretty bad. It is not so. The judge was impeached. A few years ago he would have gone unwhipped for his crime. It is disgraceful now to do some things which were respectable not so very long ago."

WHAT TO DO WITH DOUBTS.

"Do you point out to your people the errors which you think you see in the Bible?"

"Were I to see what I believed to be errors in the Bible I should keep still. The discovery would be a matter between God and myself. A doubting preacher should pray out his unbelief with heaven. Prayer is answered. Mark what I say: Prayer is answered. God is with the man who wants help. Argument with God will clear up any question, but some ministers prefer to do their arguing in the pulpit."

"Will all Christians finally be united in a common church?"

"I do not believe so. Nor would it be good for our religion. A regiment is composed of companies, but each company is fighting under the same banner and commander. I think, however, that all Presbyterian churches should come together."

"What message would you give to the American people?"

"I would appeal to the individual, the family and the nation to return to fundamental principles. We are drifting away from the thoughts and the acts which made us a great people. A love of work must be retaught at the fireside and at school. Man was not cursed when told he must earn his bread in the sweat of his brow. Moreover, we must regain our reverence for law—the law of the home and the law of the State. Reverence for law will be followed by just laws.

"Young people no longer like to work. They have free schools, free books, and sometimes free doctors. They are obtaining many things without personal effort or sacrifice. We are trying schemes hatched in the convict colony of New Zeland, most of which have failed there. The government, we think, should help us, whereas we should help the government. We are passing from independence, initiatice and the habit of industry.

"A father and mother should meet in a bedroom or sitting-room and agree on a code for the family. They should reach an understanking without jangle or contradiction. Then they should come out of the conference and put their laws into effect. Thus respect for the law would start in the family and would be carried out into citizenship to the upbuilding of both character and country.

REAWAKENING IN HIGH GRADE

Approaching Summer Brings Renewal of Work.

Grand Jury Investigates Fume Fight.

Fair Lady Battles for Control of Mine.

(Special Correspondence of The Times.)

RIDEWELL (Cal.) May 8.—The high grade district is gathering new energy with the coming of the summer season. Several companies that have done scant work since the close of last summer are again showing animation, and the situation has been enlivened by important strikes during the past few weeks.

Outside capitalists are again coming in, and indications are bright for a season of pronounced activity. Several strong companies, including the Modoc mines, Sunshine-High Grade, Spearmint and Twin have performed considerable development work during the winter months, and on several claims a large reserve of commercial ore has been exposed.

Snow is rapidly vanishing and the roads are gradually placed in fair shape. The work done last summer indicated what may be looked for at greater depth, and the general opinion is that before the close of the present season some good producers will be developed.

Considerable work is under way at the Sunshine-High Grade property, largely controlled by Los Angeles people. On the Sunshine claim rich ore has been opened in the main adit, and developments are progressing to open the shoot at greater depth. A rich strike is said to show sensational values.

Block No. 5 on the Sunshine has been taken under lease by J. H. Miller, proprietor of the High Grade Hotel, and Otto Dietrich, of New York. Arrangements are perfected for immediate developments. Several other portions of the Sunshine claim are attracting much interest.

On the Yellow Jacket claim, controlled by the Sunshine-High Grade people, the Spearmint lease has sunk a seventy-five-foot shaft and extended a drift to the vein. At point of contact the ore-body is reported about fifteen feet wide, with some

AWAKENING IN HIGH GRADE.

Approaching Summer Brings Renewal of Work.

Grand Jury Investigates In Fume Fight.

Fair Lady Battles for Control of Mine.

MIDWELL, (Cal.) May 8.—The high grade district is gathering new energy with the coming of the summer season. Several companies that have done scant work since the end of last summer are again showing activity, and the situation has been relieved by important strikes during the past few weeks.

Outside capitalists are again coming in, and indications are bright for a season of pronounced activity. Several strong companies, including the Modoc mines, Sunshine-High Grade, Spearmint and Twin have performed considerable development work during the winter months, and several claims a large reserve of good ore has been exposed.

Snow is rapidly vanishing and the roads are gradually placed in fair condition. The work done last summer proved what may be looked for at greater depth, and the general opinion is that before the close of the present season some good producers will be developed.

Considerable work is under way at the Sunshine-High Grade property, recently controlled by Los Angeles people. On the Sunshine claims rich ore has been opened in the main adit, and developments are progressing to sink the shoot at greater depth. A new strike is said to show sensational values.

Fraction No. 3 on the Sunshine has been taken under lease by J. H. Millspaugh, proprietor of the High Grade mine, and Otto Dietrich of New York. Arrangements are perfected for immediate developments. Several claim portions of the Sunshine claim are attracting much interest.

Portions of the Yellow Jacket claim, controlled by the Sunshine-High Grade and the Spearmint lease has sunk a seventy-five-foot shaft and extended a drift to the vein. At point where the ore-body is reported to be fifteen feet wide, with some ore containing good values. Developments are progressing steadily.

A deal is reported pending for the Big Four, one of the best developed properties in the camp. A considerable reserve of milling ore has been opened and equipment includes a five-stamp mill. Several rich shipments were sent out from the Big Four last summer, in addition to the milling ore treated on the ground. At the Modoc group crosscutting is going on from the recently completed 200-foot shaft. It is expected soon to intersect the big vein exposed in the upper workings. Chicago people are chiefly interested. Rich ore is sacked at the Shasta View, Privett and other claims.

TO REOPEN NOTED MINES.

It is announced that several strong companies are endeavoring to secure control of the famous App mine, near Jamestown. This is one of the big properties controlled by the estate of the late F. M. Neville, and for years ranked as one of the most productive mines on the lodge. Among the people interested is a group of San Francisco capitalists. In the interests of this syndicate, a thorough examination of the App, Rawhide and other properties was made recently by A. E. Boyd and Clifford Dennis, mining engineers from San Francisco. It is understood that indications were so satisfactory that arrangements are made for a more exhaustive inspection of the ore reserves, with a view to the acquisition of the mines. The mines are well equipped with operating and milling machinery.

PLACER ACTIVITIES.

The Guggenheim interests are actively drilling the placer ground along the Trinity River from Carrville to Trinity Center, and a thorough test is made of the deposit. Three Keystone drills are in action, and several deep prospect pits are also sunk. Considerable water is in evidence and makes the shaft-sinking a costly affair, as it is necessary closely to timber all the wet and loose ground.

The shafts vary in depth from fifteen to sixty feet and are five feet square. If a sufficient percentage of the ground proves attractive, a large dredge will be installed. About forty men are at work and twenty more will be employed at an early date.

The Gold Mountain hydraulic mine, near Quincy, is recording a prosperous season. One giant has been in action several weeks on a big bank of gravel and Superintendent E. Fagg estimates the material to be worth $1 per yard. Large quantities of snow still remains in the hills, and the outlook is for about two months more of activity. A huge concrete restraining dam was constructed last season, and all debris is impounded. Several improvements scheduled for the present year, will enable the company to operate on a largely augmented scale next season.

MERGER'S LUCK TAKES A TURN.

Encounters Ore Reported of High Value.

Belmont Enters Vein of High Grade.

Consolidation of Two Mines is Planned.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) May 9.—After a long series of vicissitudes Merger has come into a body of ore which yields a reported average of $100 per ton. This discovery is on the crosscut from the 1070 level where the company has been for some time running with the hope of catching the ledge which was opened originally on the 950. Last week there was considerable disappointment over the fact that the ledge when entered failed to equal expectations. Then water drowned out the forces and a long delay ensued.

With the resumption came better luck and quarts of a high grade was picked up in shipping quantities. On the strength of this find and the fact that the Zadig influence has been eliminated as a factor in the management of Umatilla, that stock is showing greater strength than at any time since it was listed. If the war clouds of litigation only fade away there is some prospect of Superintendent Marty making a mine out of the property or demonstrating that the mineralization of the western district does not extend that far to the northeast. Recent development on claims west of town has been of a favorable character and several new companies are in process of formation for the purpose of sinking deep shafts to penetrate the mineralized zone.

North Star was a star performer and the sudden reaction is ascribed to an impoverishment in the east drift and rumors from San Francisco that returns from last week's shipments were not up to the standard of the previous week when the company scored the phenomenal feat of sending out 400 tons running $50 to the carload.

At $30 the mine could pay well, but the expectations of the public had been pitched too high and consequently the speculators caused prices to run wild and out of all reason. North Star has always been a popular play with the local railbirds and miners who patronize the brokerage offices and they have held consistently to the stock all the way from 8 cents and around 23 cents to the top notch of the week, when most of them concluded to let go and take their profits.

Rescue has gained through the prestige of the North Star, but experienced operators cannot find any excuse for the improvement on the boards of a stock representing what is considered the worst arranged property and least efficient managed in the district. Even admitting that the Rescue should strike the Belmont vein system, at which it is aiming, the entire mining conduct will have to be overhauled to bring operating costs down to something akin to a normal basis. The mine is nothing more than a series of gopher holes where the ore has to be handled and rehandled three or four times before it reaches the surface. This militates against efficiency and economy.

Out in the eastern belt indications favor an early working agreement between the Mispah Extension, controlled by the Knox interests, and the Boston Tonopah, a moribund property, which has lain idle for many years with a heavy debt hanging over the heads of the stockholders. This debt is a personal obligation owed to George Wingfield, holder of the controlling interest, and report has it that he is likely to ask for judgment on his claim any time in furtherance of the movement for these two companies in the same area to get together for operating on a large scale.

With the judgment of Wingfield applied there would not be much recourse for stockholders, but this fact does not apparently occur to the speculative element which has been dabbling in the stock during the last ten days. A judgment against the property would wipe out the stockholders and leave them with a lot of certificates suitable for papering their cabins. Mizpah Extension is reputed to have the makings of a mine as it is in excellent territory abutting on the Belmont. It has been grievously mismanaged, however, and will require the expenditude of vast sums before it can make any pretension to laying up dividends. At the annual meeting of the company in Philadelphia last Thursday a proposal to increase the capital stock of the Mizpah Extension from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 was carried. The company owes $50,000, advanced by two directors, and this will be liquidated by issuing stock for that amount. Then it is proposed to finance the company to the extent of $100,000 for the purpose of installing new and extensive machinery, including compressors and a new large capacity hoist. This will enable development on the 1500-foot level, where some values have been extracted under difficulties near the Lillie Belle claim of the Belmont Company.

EMPLOYEE MEETS DEATH.

Workman of General Petroleum Company Is Crushed Beneath Wheels of Moving Team.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

M'KITTRICK (Cal.) May 8.—General regret is expressed among oil men here because of the death yesterday of Peter J. Plunkett, a well-known employee of the General Petroleum Company.

While driving a six-mule team from this city to the property of the company on the North McKittrick front, Plunkett lost his footing and was thrown under the heavily-loaded wagon. Unable to extricate himself, he was crushed in the abdomen and breast. He was found shortly afterward by a passing truckman. The latter hurried to the lease of the company and obtained help. Plunkett was then placed on a truck and taken toward McKittrick. Death ensued, however, before the town was reached. The remains were conveyed to Bakersfield.

Plunkett, who was 40 years old, is survived by several children, residing in Berkeley, and a son who is in the employ of an oil company at Bear Creek. He had been in the service of the General Petroleum Company ever since the company began operations on the North McKittrick front.

BELDRIDGE COMPANY ACTIVE.

Good Producers Promised Along West Line of Property—Associated Finishes Six Rigs.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

M'KITTRICK, May 8.—Much activity is reported on the properties of the Beldridge Oil Company, which is conducting extensive operations in the Beldridge district, fourteen miles from here. On section 34, 28-21, well No. 76 has been brought in with a daily capacity estimated at 250 barrels. Well No. 78 is drilled deeper, the belief being that a much better production will be realized.

On section 28, 28-21, well No. 28, a wildcat, is down 500 feet. The drillers struck the same water sand in which three strings of tools were lost two years ago in well No. 3. A circulator has been put in to overcome the sand.

All the wells along the west property line promise to be good producers, the daily average being estimated at from 100 to 350 barrels.

The Associated Oil Company has completed six rigs on the California Standard lease in the southern part of the McKittrick field, and is installing a large gas engine on the property. While the wells on this portion of the company's land have not been operated for several years, it is believed that the results will be quite satisfactory. The wells are in a territory that has heretofore produced light oil, and on this account they are regarded as quite promising.

The United States Oil Company is drilling well No. 6, on section 6, 30-22.

VALLEY ACTIVITIES.

The sale of six small San Fernando Valley farms to five purchasers during the past week is reported by the Janss Investment Company. The five sales were made by G. S. Reynolds. A tract of seven acres was sold to William M. Sawyer, a merchant from Norfolk, Va., who bought at Marian Acres, at a total of $3755. Ten acres at North Lankershim were purchased by M. F. Guggenheim for $4250. J. F. Edmonson of Portola, bought five acres at Marian for $2250. Five acres, near Sherman way in the Van Nuys-Lankershim lands were sold to Anton Schultz for $2375. Saul E. Laundav bought seven acres at Marian for $1575 and five acres at North Lankershim Acres for $2125.

DESERTS FAR EAST.

William M. Swanson of Pennsylvania, who has wintered in Los Angeles for several years, has purchased the beautiful eleven-room residence of C. H. Bareford, at No. 514 Gramercy place, for a reported consideration of $14,000 cash. C. E. Cooper, sales manager for Robert Marsh & Co., handled the deal.

SECURITY HOME BUILDERS OF LOS ANGELES

We Will Build You a Home On Easy Monthly Payments

If you own a lot we will build you a home and let you pay for same on easy monthly payments. Pay rent to yourself and make the landlord's profits. There is not a home in the city that is not worth more today than it was a year ago.

If you are paying rent, your landlord makes the profits of this increase in values as well as a good rate of interest on his investment.

If you own your home or are paying for it on easy monthly payments you get these profits.

Some people foolishly argue that it does not pay to own your own home—taxes, interest, etc., are so high.

When you pay rent, whom do you think pays these taxes, interest, etc.?

Do not fool yourself into thinking that the landlord pays them, for he doesn't. You do, and in a few years he is wealthy and you have only your rent receipts to show for your money.

Let us build for you on your vacant lot.

If you already have a home, it will pay you to build and let the other fellow pay you rent.

If you want some particular lot we will buy it for you and build you a home, or we will sell you one of our lots and build for you, or we will sell you one of our just completed fully modern, cosy bungalows all ready for you to move into for a payment of $100 cash, balance same as rent.

its holdings near Fort Jones. A large acreage of good-grade gravel is available and indications are said to favor a long season. Considerable work is done with hydraulic monitors, and the deep snow in the Siskiyou mountains insures plenty of water for the work. George Burbank is superintendent.

The grand jury of Shasta county charges the Mammoth Copper Company with damaging county lands, and recommends that steps be taken to check further harm, beside demanding compensation for alleged damage already done. The report of the inquisitorial body marks another point in the fight of the farmers against the smelter operators, but it is stated by insiders that the report will have scant effect, as the Mammoth Company has always signified its willingness to meet all just claims, and is besides one of the largest taxpayers in the county.

The loss of the revenue derived from the company's operations means that the tax rate will be largely increased on other property, including the lands of disgruntled grangers. Many of the leading farmers are deprecating the continued assaults against the Mammoth. A sentiment is rapidly growing in favor of the mining industry, which developed Shasta from a county of little importance into one of the busiest and most prosperous sections of California.

After a bitter fight of several years for control, Miss Eleanor Hoeft of Nevada City has wrested the Fairview mine, at Alleghany, from a coterie of local mining men. Acting for a party of Michigan people in addition to her own interests, Miss Hoeft carried on a gallant battle, charging the old management with bad faith and other failings.

The case attracted wide attention, as many prominent Nevada City men were involved, and charges and counter-charges were freely made. It is stated that the new controlling interests will at once proceed with the development of the mine on a substantial scale, and that funds will be raised to finance comprehensive plans.

The owners of the Curtis Consolidated Mines have arranged for the building of a large mill and concentrating plant at their property near Monitor, Alpine county. The property is a vast low-grade proposition, and approximately 1,300,000 tons of ore are exposed. The quartz actually in sight is considered sufficient to keep the big mill in constant operation for five years. Electric power will be employed. Southern California people are interested.

In the Randsburg district mining activities are progressing along broad lines and several new concerns have recently become interested in the noted old camp. The Nugget Mountain Gold Mining Company has been incorporated with a capital of $1,000,000 to operate a promising group on Nugget Mountain, fifteen miles northwest of Randsburg. F. M. Ward, R. S. Huntington and W. H. McBride, all of Randsburg, are directors. Arrangements are under way for early work.

Vigorous developments continue at the Consolidated group, King Solomon, Butte and other properties, while the great Yellow Aster seems embarked on a new era of prosperity. Rich ore has been found at Kearsarge, ninety miles to the south. The discovery is claiming much interest. Numerous locations have been made, and several shipments of rich ore have been sent out. Besides the gold content, the ores show, fair silver values, as well as traces of copper and other minerals.

SURE OF GROUND.

Separation Company Which Has Been Trying New Flotation Process May Erect Test Mill.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) May 9.—Churn drilling has been renewed by the Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company and fifteen holes are to be sunk south of the Live Oak shaft, in addition to 229 holes sunk in the past, with a total exploration of 124,886 feet. A second shift has been put at work at the experimental mill of the Mineral Separation Company, which is trying out the flotation process on Inspiration ores.

It is said that the Separation Company is now so sure of its ground that it will erect a 600-ton test mill near the Scorpion shaft. All the work thus far has been without expense to the Inspiration Company. Last week the Inspiration garage was destroyed by fire, together with two Velie trucks.

The Miami Company is changing its No. 2 shaft into a chute, for the handling of a stock pile, in which now is stored about 75,000 tons of ore. The surface equipment of the shaft will be taken away. Though heretofore the main producer of the property, this shaft will be abandoned for hoisting, due to the progress of underground work in other directions and the stripping of ore bodies below.

On the 650 level of the Iron Cap mine an ore body five feet wide has been struck. Four feet is good grade ore, but the fifth is said to be phenomenal—solid glance in character, assaying 52 per cent. copper and over 100 ounces silver. This property had lately been put into the unsuccessful class, although its surface showing was of the best and it was expected that a large body of sulphide would be struck by a vertical shaft driven to cut the ledge on the incline.

During the past few months exploration has found much good ore, however, and if this latest strike has any permanency, the mine can be listed at once among the producers. The controlling company also has a tangible asset in the ownership of the best townsite included within a large area of highly mineralized ground.

At the Gibson mine much legal trouble is said to have been terminated during the past week; the employees were paid, as well as all outstanding debts, it is stated.

COPPER QUEEN KEEPING BUSY.

New Ore-treating System is Prepared For.

Angelenos Negotiate For Tombstone Claims.

Revolution Causes Little Damage to Big Mine.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) May 7.—An immense amount of work is being done by the Copper Queen Company only a short distance below the business section of Bisbee in surface preparation for the top-slicing system which is to be employed in getting out ore on the upper levels of the older workings handled from the Czar and Holbrook shafts.

The main road is placed upon the mountainside and the channel of the creek is to be moved to solid ground, where the water may not seep into the underground workings. Ore taken from below ground will be replaced from surface excavations, making everything solid and safe, and preventing such accidents as that which happened lately at Miami.

The new system undoubtedly will work toward economy and enable the handling of much lower grade ore than heretofore, making valuable large ore bodies which have been abandoned for years past and considered profitless.

Just above the postoffice, on Copper Queen ground, unworked for many years, an old tunnel has been reopened and exploration work is being done by Kirker & Smith lessees, into the first ore body ever worked in this camp. It is probable that several weeks will be needed to demonstrate the success or failure of the lease, but good ore is already brought out and is shipped by means of a handy railroad spur, which runs immediately back of the Copper Queen library.

Twenty claims in Tombstone Canyon, embracing ground believed valuable for lead and silver are being looked over by Los Angeles capitalists, who are negotiating for a bond with the owners, Martin O'Hare, L. J. Overlock, J. Rambeau and John Martin. The land lies between the Higgins and Copper Queen lines, and has been little developed. The deepest workings are only sixty feet.

W. H. Worthington of Patagonia has purchased a three-fifths interest in five patented claims and four other claims in the Tyndall district at an administrator's sale of the property of the late Charles H. Perry. Included within the ground acquired is the Bradford mine, a producing property.

A new shaft is to be sunk on the old Trench mine by John Hoy, who is operating the property, and who is supposed to represent ex-Senator Clark of Montana. Large pumps have reduced the water in the old shaft until thorough exploration of the old workings can be made. These are said to have been found very rich, fully warranting a new scheme of development and the placing of permanent pumps.

The Trench was patented in 1879 by Hearst, Haggin & Tevis, of California. It was a producer as far back as 1885, however, when operated by the father of Thomas Gardner of Patagonia. The ore was then rich enough to return a profit after shipment for reduction to Wales. It has been worked in desultory fashion for many years, but the water question, it seemed, could not be solved. A peculiarity of the mine is that chunks of galena ore are found, when broken open, to contain quantities of native silver.

The Mascot Mining Company is preparing to ship about three carloads of low-grade ore a week from its mines, fifteen miles from Wilcox, in the Dos Cabezos Mountains. It is expected a branch line will eventually be built to the mine, which embraces an immense ledge of low-grade copper ore, carrying also fair values in gold.

It is noted as remarkable that the Greene-Cananea Copper Company has suffered little damage to its surface works or reduction plant by reason of the large amount of bellicose disturbances around Cananea during the past year. Although Mexican rioters practically assumed control of the camp and drove General Manager J. S. Douglas out, they seemed to have respected property rights and both mines and works are in the best of condition for active work, whenever protection can be assured the management. The company seems to have taken no particular side in the political disturbances and is not expected to become subject to any penalty in the future, whatever party be seated in authority.

For a fortnight past one of the most interesting of sights has been an immense crystal cave discovered in the Shattuck mine. The walls and roof of the cave are composed of very beautiful lime formations, mainly white or colored blue or green by copper stains. The management hung the cave with electric lights. Many visitors were allowed the privilege of inspection. Although a matter of regret, it will be necessary to destroy the natural beauty of the cavern in order that the workings above may be safe. The cavern will have to be filled with water. In a similar cave of the Copper Queen a session of the Masonic Grand Lodges of Arizona was once held.

Goldfield.

ESTIMATE SHOWS SMALL RETURN

CONSOLIDATED'S OUTPUT SHOWN FOR MONTH.

Extraction of Best Ore Stopped to Carry on Other Important Work. General Manager Explains Production is to Be Only Temporary. Many Visit Large Marlon Boiler.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) May [illegible]. preliminary estimate of the production of the Goldfield Consolidated Company for the month of April, given out, shows the smallest output and earnings for any month in many years. During the month the mill of the company produced 36,[illegible] of ore, the gross recovery from which is estimated to be $350,000, with the costs of $189,000 and net receipts of $170,000. This latter showing, coming on top of the March net production of $470,000, the largest for the year, caused some surprise.

The reasons for the small production were set forth in the [illegible] for March by General Manager [illegible]. He stated that it had been found necessary to stop extraction of ore in a number of points where the low grade of ore has been mined, and stopes are filled in order to prevent caving and to enable the removal of mine quantities of good ore that remain in the walls and sides of the stopes. This reduced production is only temporary, it is said, and it is expected that the grade of ore mined in the future will bring production up to a considerably higher figure.

During April the big Merger [illegible] Company shaft was deepened [illegible] eight feet and is now 1400 feet deep. Wild rumors have been current [illegible] mostly to the effect that the Merger had got into the ore. General Manager Mocine is authority for the statement that, while the shaft has encountered a changed formation, there is at present no evidence of ore worth the name of "monkey wrench." The more favorable, however, that the hard shale formation has given way to a different kind of material is sufficient to bring a ray of hopefulness to the faces of the optimists here who have been watching operations on the Merger almost with bated breath for the past two months. If the Merger goes into ore there will be another boom, if not the kind of one that has characterized Goldfield.

Thursday of this week [illegible] were run from the [illegible] pah to the new industrial town of [illegible] rara, about seventy miles south of Las Vegas and Tonopah and the Tidewater railroad. [illegible] a fountain puris on the desert, [illegible] tric lights dot the hills and the [illegible] and dance hall are not in [illegible] quantity. There was dancing, a dinner and the town's guests [illegible] themselves after the manner of [illegible] folk.

The American Carrara Marble Company is operating an immense [illegible] of high-class marble and will employ about 400 men. It is asserted by [illegible] this is one of the largest and [illegible] deposits of marble in the world. [illegible] siderable Los Angeles capital is [illegible] ested in the venture.

Goldfield entertained about [illegible] members of the Nevada Bankers' Association today. It was the [illegible] meeting. Addresses were made by Judge Peter J. Somers of [illegible], John Henderson of Elko, R. [illegible] of Sacramento, W. R. [illegible] Vegas, F. W. Wolfe, assistant [illegible] of the Bank of California, [illegible] Francisco, and others. An elaborate banquet was served in the [illegible] the Goldfield Hotel.

W. W. Watterson of Boise, [illegible] president of the Lone Star Consolidated Mining Company of Goldfield was here the other day to attend the annual meeting of the company, at which old officers were re-elected and a campaign of further development was mapped out. In addition to its Goldfield property, the Lone Star owns a mining ground of great promise in Inyo county, California.

Word has just been received here of the death in Boise, Idaho, the other day of Patrick Lynch, manager of the Nevada Eagle Mining Company of the Goldfield district. Lynch, a well-known pioneer of the district, had gone to Boise to bring his family home when he was taken ill and died.

A rare bird for the desert, or elsewhere, pushed its bill against an electric wire the other evening and fell at the feet of Walter St. Pierre, one of the prominent merchants of this camp, who was walking along one of the business streets. Pierre carried the bird to the Goldfield Hotel, where Proprietor Wingfield recognized it as an [illegible] the habitat of which is the [illegible] Mexico. How it wandered so far north is another story that the [illegible] failed to whisper to any one.

PLACER MINES ATTRACT.

Interest Is Revived in Deposits From Which Millions in Gold Were Once Taken.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) May [illegible]. newed interest is taken in the [illegible] mines of Southern Yavapai county, from which the pioneers of Central Arizona took millions of dollars' worth of gold dust. Pittsburg capitalists are now considering the purchase of 6700 acres, three miles south of Congress, at $100 an acre, and are said to have secured satisfactory results from [illegible].

This ground comprises the [illegible] of the southern slopes of the Bradshaw Mountain chain, [illegible] much of the richest [illegible] country in the southwest. The [illegible] of the placer deposits, [illegible] easily-reached banks, has been [illegible] ciated for many years. [illegible] ter supply is very limited, [illegible] for the storage of water for the [illegible] ing of these banks that the [illegible] Grove dam was built. The [illegible] suffered a serious rupture and the dam went out in 1910, however, [illegible] sidering the purchase of the [illegible] tal with which safely to [illegible] Hassayampa and other [illegible] rain streams, and to bring the [illegible] down by ditches and flumes to [illegible] where it can be utilized both [illegible] draulic washing and low [illegible].

Henry E. Shumate of this [illegible] closed a deal with California [illegible] talists for the sale of [illegible] placer ground in the [illegible] trict of Northern Yuma county, [illegible] he has claims upon more than [illegible] acres. The district is remarkable [illegible] the fact that the gold [illegible] about twenty feet below the [illegible] and is contained within a [illegible] caliche formation, which [illegible] treated by milling and [illegible] though much of the gold is [illegible] large percentage of free gold is present, but is rather coarse [illegible] dle.

Announcement has been made that the Arizona Copper Belt Mining Company is preparing to build a reduction [illegible] tory oil-burning smelter [illegible] property in the Black Hills [illegible] and that it expects to treat ore at a cost of not over $7 a ton.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Synthetic Potash.

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Q.: Give analysis of comparison to nature products. DR. D. R. W.

A.: Your question is of but few words. To answer it fully and comprehensively, from the standpoints of chemistry and mineralogy, would require a page, at least, of this issue of The Times.

All synthetic products produced by the aid of chemistry are, in chemical reaction, similar to the chemical products known as "true." This you well know, but for the benefit of students the following matter is published.

The oil of gaultheria, from the fresh leaves of the popularly known wintergreen, is the true oil of wintergreen and while the synthetic so-called oil of wintergreen produces similar results chemically, how much more inferior, to the humen economy, is this "synthetic" variety of the true oil. Take the oil of betula lenta (sweet birch,) and we have the salicylate of methyl, the true oil; synthetically it can be prepared from salicin, and by heating chloreform and sodium phenol, the last referred to being "synthetic." Salicylic acid is "true" if produced from the oil of wintergreen, but it is manufactured synthetically and cheaply so, from carbolic acid. You very well know that if a patient is suffering from the multiple ills of disease, commonly known as "rheumatism," that the "synthetics" above referred to are absolutely of no value, and rather, most injurious. We could go further on synthetics, but space forbids further thereon, with a reference only to the facts that, "chemical synthesis and analysis will invariably carry the principles of the natural science, unconsciously, into the mind," and, as a matter of fact and proven demonstration, it is the only way to become master of the science.

Strictly classifying your synthetical preparation we shall specifically hold to the term potash, (potassium carbonate.)

It may be stated that potash does not occur in nature, and there is no such salt in mineralogy.

"Potash can be obtained from many minerals, vegetables, woodashes, etc., and is it not a synthetic always?

Your sample is more hygroscopic than the potash of commerce; it is not of the required whiteness; it is of no great spar.; it is far from the standard of purity as shown by silver nitrate, and a barium salt. Gunpowder made from a nitrate obtained from your sample will hardly "go off," and the spectroscope does not indicate true potash alone.

The sample reminds us of certain salts obtained from kelp, and from the shores of Salt Lake especially in winter.

Many of our old college "Profs." on questions on the order of your coming, and, until something more is known of the manner in which you obtain material represented by the sample, it is the part of wisdom to apply this qualitative test and refer—ers to a close.

Garnetyte and Almandine.

BISHOP, April 15.—Q.: Please test the two samples in small red sack, and marked Nos. 1 and 2. It is said that both carry zinc, and the rocks are from ledges in Inyo county. F. C. C.

A.: Sample No. 1 is the hard "garnet rock" of Dana. It is greenish-brown in color, and is a tough rock, consisting of an alumina-lime garnet. It is massive and opaque and otherwise fit for jewelry purposes. Sample No. 2 is a semi-transparent alumina-alumina garnet, and if you have pounds of this substance it would pay you to work the lead and ship the material for use as an abrasive. Of course, if the locality is at an unreasonable distance from the railroad, transportation, including freight charges, might eat up all profits, even though sold at $25 to $30 per ton. There is zinc present in either specimen.

Thorium Absent.

GLOBE (Ariz.) April 15.—Q.: In this sack I am forwarding you by parcel post a grab-sample from my claim in Graham county, Ariz., and several of the boys, including myself, are very anxious to know whether thorium is to be had from this ore. It is claimed that the darkish-brown pebbles are thorite—is it a fact? I know some little of chemistry, but that helps but little when I tackle the vast field of mineralogy.

"INQUIRER."

A.: Glad to hear from you, but at the same time beg to differ with you as to your limitations of chemistry. Without the aid of this, one of the natural sciences, mineralogy would be a hopper go lucky uncertainty. Let us deal with the "darkish-brown pebbles." Dana informs us that orangite and gadolinite are thorium silicates; that thorite, but eucrasite is a titanium substance. Where would we class the pebbles were to be classified as to measure a description? Will any one give the required information?

The samples undergo decomposition with salt of phosphorus, "setting free the silica, forming a head which is infusible while hot and has a skeleton of silica floating in it." Sometimes such a head is transparent and clear when cold, and this blowpipe test indicates that the pebbles are silicates, but silicates of what? Let us try crystallography: "Thorite occurs in pyramidal prisms, but usually massive and compact, isomorphous with zircon, color black, sometimes brown or orange, yellow (hyalite.) Opaque in thin splinters. Lustre of fresh fracture resinous. Streak dark brown or pale yellow. Easily frangible. Fracture conchoidal. Hardness 4.5 to 5 Sp. gr. 4.8. Composition thorium silicate with over 57 per cent. thoria. Average sample; low percentages of uranium and a dozen other elements."

Your samples of pebbles are not thorite in thin splinters, in sp. gr., for which we find 4 each. Some of the pebbles are in aggregations of slightly obtuse rhombs, with terminals truncated." Color Opaque. Translucent in thin splinters, and of a deep brown color by transmitted light. Luster resinous and streak greenish gray.

The blowpipe shows a silicate and the physical characters of the pebbles do not indicate thorite. We now apply chemistry, hammer them, as it were. Some of the mineral is decomposed with hydrochloric acid. If thorite the solution should turn to a jelly. The solution attacks slowly even with heat and forms a yellowish-red solution.

As for the reagents: Arsenious acid; thoria absent (there is phosphorus in thorite). Phosphoric acid (thorite does not carry arsenic acid.) Uranium absent.

Goldfield.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Synthetic Potash.

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Q.: Give analysis of comparison to nature's DR. D. R. W.

A: Your question is of but few words. To answer it fully and comprehensively, from the standpoints of chemistry and mineralogy, would require a paper, at least, of this issue of The Times.

All synthetic products produced by the art of chemistry are, in chemical nature, similar to the chemical product known as "true." This you already know, but for the benefit of students the following matter is published:

The oil of gaultheria, from the fresh leaves of the popularly known wintergreen, is the true oil of wintergreen. While the synthetic so-called oil of wintergreen produces similar results chemically, how much more important is the human economy, is this "synthetic" variety of the true oil. Take the oil of betula lenta (sweet birch) and we have the salicylate of methyl, the true oil; synthetically it is prepared from salicin, and by the use of chloroform and sodium methylate. The latter referred to being "synthetic," salicylic acid is "true" when derived from the oil of wintergreen, but it is manufactured synthetically quite cheaply so, from carbolic acid. You very well know that if a person is suffering from the multiple pains, commonly known as "rheumatism," that the "synthetics" above mentioned are absolutely of no value. They are, moreover, most injurious. We could enlarge further on synthetics, but space will not permit further thereon, with a reference only to the facts that, "chemical analysis and analysts will invariably adhere to the principles of the natural sciences unconsciously, into the mind," as a matter of fact and proven assertion. It is the only way to gain mastery of the science.

In quantifying your synthetical products we shall specifically hold to term potash, (potassium carbonate).

It may be stated that potash does not occur in nature, and there is no such word in mineralogy.

Potash can be obtained from many sources, vegetables, woodashes, etc., but is it not a synthetic always?

The sample is more hygroscopic than the potash of commerce; it is of the required whiteness; it is of good specific gravity; it is far from the standard of purity as shown by silver nitrate and a barium salt. Ganister made from a nitrate obtained from your sample will hardly "go" and the spectroscope does not show true potash alone.

Your sample reminds us of certain salts obtained from kelp, and from the waters of Salt Lake especially in

Any of our old college "Profs." whose notes on the order of your sample, and, until something more is known of the manner in which you have material represented by the sample, it is the part of wisdom to apply the qualitative test and refer-

Corundum and Almandine.

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Q.: Please examine the two samples in small red pack, marked Nos. 1 and 2. It is stated that both carry zinc, and the latter are from ledges in Inyo county.

F. C. C.

A: Sample No. 1 is the hard "garnet" of Dana. It is greenish-brown in color, and is a tough rock. Sample No. 2 is an alumina-lime garnet. It is massive and opaque and unfit for jewelry purposes. Sample No. 3 is a semi-transparent variety garnet, and if you have a quantity of this substance it would pay you to work the lead and ship the rock for use as an abrasive. Of course, if the locality is at an unreasonable distance from the railroad, the cost, including freight charges, might eat up all profits, even if it did run $50 per ton. There is no gold in either specimen.

Thorium Absent.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) April 15.—Q.: In accordance with your request I am forwarding you by express a grab-sample from the mine in Graham county, Ariz., owned by some of the boys, including myself. We are very anxious to know whether it is to be had from this ore. It is claimed that the darkish-colored pebbles are thorite—is it a fact? I know but little when I tackle the subject of mineralogy.

"INQUIRER."

A: Glad to hear from you, but at the same time sorry to differ with you in the conclusions of chemistry. In addition to aid of this, one of the best aids in mineralogy would be the blowpipe, unfortunately. Let us inform you that orangite and thorite are thorium silicates; that allanite, but eucrasite is a columbate. Where would we have to be classified before we can give a description? Will you give the required informa-

Isomorphous undergo decomposition of phosphorus, "setting free the thorium, and has a skeleton of which is left in R." Sometimes such pseudomorphs are present and clear when the blowpipe test indicates that they are silicates, but what?

Under crystallography: "Thorite, a primordial prisms, but usually short and compact, isometric, color black, brown or orange, yellow to green in thin splinters; lustre of fresh fracture resinous; dark brown or pale yellow; fungible. Fracture conchoidal. Hardness 4.5 to 5 Sp. gr. Composition thorium silicate, 77 per cent. thoria and small low percentages of uranium and a few other elements."

The specimens of pebbles are not thorite, but allanite, in sp. gr., as we find 4 each. Some of the pebbles are in segregations of small rhombs, with the edges truncated." Color dark brown, translucent in thin splinters. Lustre resinous to pale gray. Some of the pebbles silicate and some of the pebbles are thorite.

Under the chemistry, hammer and blowpipe. Some of the thorite is decomposed with a yellowish-red so-

Sample No. 2 is a deep brown color and Luster resinous to pale gray. Some of the pebbles silicate and some of the pebbles are thorite.

Under the chemistry, hammer and blowpipe. Some of the thorite is decomposed with a yellowish-red so-

Sample No. 3: Arsenious acid absent (there is no thoria). Phosphoric acid does not carry uranium absent.

Silica present. Iron peroxide over 43 per cent. (not quite 4 per cent. in thorite.) Oxide of lead in the pebbles over 24 per cent. (a trace only in thorite.) The mineral is positively not thorite. What is it?

Comparing the samples with mineral as shown by chemical analysis and we find that the pebbles are Bertrandite, often confused with Pharmacosiderite (cube iron-ore, or arseniate of iron.)

Potash Present.

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—Q.: I offer you for test, etc., four samples of mineral that I take to be "Salines," and the nature of which I am very anxious to learn. The samples come from the dry-wash section about twenty miles from Skidoo, and are supposed to run in niter values. B. J.

Q.: Glad to hear from you. That "dry-wash" has water near sample No. 1, and we find in the specimen sodium chloride and sulphate, magnesia and lime present with 3.65 per cent. potash. No. 2 is on the order of No. 1 with 3.80 per cent. potash. No. 3 is an impure trona, made up of limonite (yellow ochre) with hydrous sodium sesquicarbonate; potash a trace. No. 4 is in brilliant-white monoclinic crystals; brittle; soda, lime, oxygen, carbon and water present, and the mineral is known as "Gay-Lussite."

Pydophyllite.

BEAR VALLEY, April 17.—Q.: I send you some samples by parcel post from Pine Knot P. O. No. 1 is the hanging-wall; No. 2 the foot-wall, and No. 3 is from a stringer coming from the hanging through the ledge and peters out in the foot-wall. No. 4 is from a small outcrop at the surface, and about 1200 feet from the discovery shaft; north from the discovery, but our present ledge runs northeast and southwest. What puzzles me is to know whether this is another ledge or not? No. 5 is from an assessment work hole about twenty feet north of where No. 5 was taken. The ledge matter runs fair in lead; there is a little galena in the ore but I have been hoping it is now changed to lead carbonate. F. L. W.

A.: No. 1 is limestone; No. 2 is pegmatite (graphite granite) and No. 3 is a greasy-looking substance composed of iron oxides, graphite, and manganese dioxide. No. 4 is a combination of oxides often referred to as "iron gossan" by the mining boys in the hills, and is at times in true mining localities a good "omen", as it were, for pay ore "underneath." No. 5 is "heavy spar" (barium sulphate).

You did not include in the samples any specimen from the ledge and galenite is not present in any specimen.

To solve the puzzle of the leads, north and south, and northeast and southwest, you will probably find at the proper point a junction where the two leads meet. Better prospect for it anyway!

With the samples there is one tagged "special," which resembles talc in crystallization; it is 2 in the scale of hardness; the folia are radiated; it is pale-green in color, and 2.75 in sp. gr. In chemical composition pyrophyllite is an aluminous bisilicate. "Compact pyrophyllite is the chief constituent of a kind of slate or schist, which is used for slate pencils and hence is called pencil-stone."

Masters of Monetary.

brought the three largest national banks with an aggregate capitalization of $60,000,000, and resources and deposits of nearly half a billion dollars, together with two private banks having almost unlimited European resources, into a financial union that was well nigh invulnerable. It gave the metropolis the greatest banking group in existence, with enormous power, prestige, capital and resources.

Young Morgan's Capacity for Leadership Must Be Tested.

But the financial leadership of Wall street is still a vexed and unsettled question. As the bulk of the Morgan millions goes by bequest to the only son—Pierpont Morgan, Jr., the latter will have the handling of a vast fortune, and as it is probable that most of the directorates held by the father will fall to the son, he will undoubtedly be able to exercise a powerful influence over the money syndicates of the future.

It is these severe tests that must be successfully met by any successor to the dead financial monarch that makes Wall street hesitate before placing any new man upon the vacant throne and giving him their unreserved confidence. Yet as George F. Baker, superb as his record is, and though still in vigorous health, has reached an age when his future tenure of life is precarious, it is natural that the syndicate interests of the monetary capital of America should be looking around for some younger man to assume and shoulder the responsibilities devolving upon the person who is to hold these vast syndicate interests together and prevent a general disintegration of the market.

Upon the success of J. P. Morgan will devolve a responsibility for which the mere right of succession will not be sufficient equipment. Will the son be able to carry the burden he will inherit? This is a question of the gravest moment to the commercial world. A thousand conflicting and naturally hostile interests are conciliated and united in the vast series of Morgan combinations. They have been kept together by the genius and power of one master mind. To continue to hold them together will be a tremendous task.

Twenty-five Billions of Capital Must Be Conciliated.

Let us see what this would mean to the new imperator. There are now 385 directorships, more or less interlocked, in forty-one banks and trust companies. These have total resources of $3,832,000,000, and total deposits of $2,834,000,000. Then there are fifty directorships in eleven insurance companies; 155 directorships in thirty-one railroad systems; ninety-eight directorships in twenty-eight producing corporations; and forty-eight directorships in nineteen public utilities. These 736 directorships in 130 corporations, so interrelated that they must act harmoniously in order to accomplish satisfactory results for all, have total resources or capitalization of not less than $25,525,000,000.

On Nov. 1, 1912 there were in the private banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. at No. 23 Wall street, seventy-eight accounts of interstate corporations, and the combined capital, surplus, and bonded debt of these corporations reached a total of $9,785,825,500. But while it should not be overlooked that the steel corporation itself is capitalized at practically $1,500,000, neither should it be forgotten that its twenty-four directors are part and parcel of combinations having the vast capitalization of $14,388,975,738.

A week after Mr. Morgan's death a financial writer in Wall street used this language, "The marvelous and intricate machinery of the financial district is believed by many to be in imminent danger of disruption. No previous situation has been so full of dynamite—so alive with mercilessly conflicting forces and purposes." It was an extreme statement; the financial atmosphere has measurably cleared; it is now believed that the many vast interests will be drawn together and conserved by the instinct of self-preservation. The readjustment will probably depend on united and harmonious efforts of the able and sagacious son of the dead financial monarch, and the experienced leadership of that monarch's most trusted friend—George F. Baker.

LIGHT OIL FIELD GROWS STEADILY.

MUCH NEW ACTIVITY VISIBLE IN VENTURA.

Developments in Simi Valley and Elsewhere Inject New Interest Into Field Activities—Montebello Oil Company Leads in Number of New Producing Wells.

SANTA PAULA, May 8.—Developments in Simi Valley and in the vicinity of the Montebello Oil Company's property are injecting new life into the activity in the Ventura county field. A survey and comparison of the production and recent activity shows gratifying results.

Altogether there are about twenty to twenty-five wells drilling in the field, and scattered activity extends from the operations of the Trader's and California Counties Oil Companies in the north, nearly to the Los Angeles line. In fact one operator, Capt. E. J. Stowe, is working within Los Angeles county, between Chatsworth and the Saugus tunnel, where he has obtained some 3000 acres. It is believed that an extension of the Simi field may be found in this direction.

The production of the Ventura field has shown a steady increase since the first of the year. The daily average output of March showed an increase of about 150 barrels over December. This increase, in view of its relation to the total production of the Ventura district and the quality of the oil, is a satisfactory one.

More significant is the comparison of the production of the first three months this year with that of the same period last year. This comparison shows an increase of nearly 50,000 barrels, practically all of which is light refining oil. It seems likely that this continuous growth will be maintained because of the renewed interest in development work.

The Montebello Oil Company has brought in a number of wells since the beginning of the year, and continues an active development campaign. During March the company brought in four producers, adding about 225 barrels to its output. The preceding month three wells with an aggregate output of about 300 barrels were added to the list. Two came in during January with an aggregate output of about 160 barrels.

The new producers of the company brought in during the first quarter of the year therefore aggregated some 700 barrels, and several good wells have been brought in since then. It is said that the total production of this company is about 35,000 to 40,000 barrels a month, and that the amount of increase in the output of the Ventura district during the past year or so may be taken as nearly indicating the increase in the output at the Montebello property.

All the company's wells are shallow, while on the Calumet property adjoining, two producers have been brought in at a considerable depth, comparatively speaking.

In the Simi Valley the Petrol Oil Company is running some five or six strings of tools, and has brought in several wells at shallow depth. The last one was good for about twenty to twenty-five barrels a day at the start, according to estimates. A French syndicate is also making preparations to drill two wells on its property in this district, as are also Dabney & Miley, who have secured a lease west of the Petrol Oil Company. It is understood that negotiations for a number of other leases in this district are under way.

PRODUCTION GAINS.

Large Increase Over Last Year Shown in Midway Field—Many New Wells Brought In.

TAFT, May 8.—Although no sensational wells of the Lakeview gusher or K. T. and O. gusher type have been brought in since the first of the year, the production of the Midway district shows quite a satisfactory increase as compared with the early part of last year. That giant gushers have not been brought in, is considered favorable rather, than otherwise, as it gives consumption an opportunity to gain some headway on production.

Figures show the output of the field for the first three months of the year to be over 7,000,000 barrels, while during the same period last year the output was over 6,000,000 barrels. The increase has heretofore amounted to about 1,000,000 barrels. The General Petroleum has been very active, bringing in new wells since the first of the year, having increased its outputters perhaps to the extent of about a dozen. About ten were brought in during the first quarter, and it is figured that these added about 1200 to 1500 barrels at least to the company's production per day. Several good producers were brought in by the company on the Globe leases, and one on the Bear Creek and Logan divisions, respectively.

The K. T. and O. added a large amount to its production the first quarter of the year, as several gushers were brought in on the properties of the company. The Associated got a large producer on section 34 in February. The Union has two large wells flowing on the McLeod lease. The Honolulu Consolidated has increased its output to quite an extent. Other companies have brought in quite a large number of wells in the aggregate.

The Maricopa-Sunset district has been the scene of considerable activity, especially in the Maricopa Flat, where large wells are generally the order of the day. The gusher of the Maricopa Queen has been a notable feature in this respect.

Large Sum Expended in Building Operations in Glendale During April—Church to Be Enlarged.

GLENDALE, May 10.—During the month of April, according to the Building Inspector's report, permits were issued in this city for buildings to represent a total valuation of $48,-765. These permits include two business houses and several fine homes.

Just as soon as the legal requirements have been met, work will be started on the asphalting of Broadway from Glendale avenue to Brand boulevard, and on Brand boulevard from First to Sixth streets. This will be the first work of this class to be done in Glendale. The work will be done in conjunction with the lowering of the tracks of the Pacific Electric Railway on Brand boulevard from First to Sixth streets.

At an election held here last Wednesday it was decided to issue bonds to the amount of $52,500 for school purposes. This issue provides that an additional grammar school to cost about $25,000 shall be erected in the southwest portion of the city and that the remainder of the money shall be used for purchasing additional ground at the various school buildings.

The officials of St. Mark's Episcopal Church are enlarging the building of that congregation at Fifth and Louise

RUSHING NEW LINE.

BAY CITY, May 10.—The Pacific Electric is now at work rushing the first section of the new Long Beach-Bay City line. All week men have been at work putting up poles, digging the right of way, and stringing the rails, and within a short time cars can be run from the main line to the ocean front. This first section of the new line is being rushed to completion for the purpose of hauling material for the new pavilion that is being constructed at the foot of Main street, but as soon as is possible the line will be extended along the front, across Alamitos Bay and connected with the present Pacific Electric line to Alamitos.

Residences were started in this place during the past week by Mrs. Blumve, Adela P. Reed, Charles Albrecht and James Graham. The first three places are being built on Eleventh street, the last-named house on Thirteenth street.

WOMEN VOTED IT DOWN.

[The Square Deal:] Quite a commotion was caused at a recent meeting of the Central Labor Union in Philadelphia recently when a rude male delegate proposed the following resolution: "Be it resolved, that no delegate shall be seated who does not show at least five union labels on his or her wearing apparel to the Credentials Committee, which is to report on each individual case in this respect to this body."

The resolution looked innocent enough on its face, but the trouble was that two of the ninety odd delegates were women. They voted against the resolution and by making some speeches, declaring they would not submit to inspection, they managed to have the resolution defeated by a vote of fifty to forty-five. The women alleged that the resolution was meaningless and that it was an insult. As one of them put it:

"I have union labels on all six of my garments, but that's nobody's else business here. I am for the union label and always will be, and I will allow no one to doubt my word on the question of wearing the union label, here or any place."

TO LOOK OVER GROUND.

Announcement was made during the past week by Bishop Joseph H. Johnson that Mr. Goodhue of the firm of Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson of Boston, the architects commissioned to prepare plans for the beautiful St. Paul's Church and Pro-Cathedral on Olive street, would arrive in Los Angeles about June 1. Goodhue is one of the most distinguished architects in the United States, will spend some time in this city studying the site of the new church and considering the requirements of the parish. Preliminary sketches of the contemplated edifice were published in The Times about a year ago.

Proven Values AND Promises Fulfilled

Give Gibraltar Shares a Value Far in Excess of Present Selling Price

The Gibraltar Investment and Home Building Company was incorporated just one year ago today. "Let the Rich, Productive Land Grow Money for You," was the first invitation to the investing public. "The World May Not Owe You a Living, but Mother Earth Does Pay Big Dividends to All Who Help Develop Her Rich Resources," was the promise made by Gibraltar in support of the first invitation. It is because the rich, productive land is growing money for all who help in the co-operative development of Mother Earth's rich resources that the proven value of Gibraltar shares is today far in excess of the price at which this company is offering them to the public. It is because promises fulfilled have resulted in dividends paid, and a constantly increasing value of assets that Gibraltar has today over 6000 co-operative shareholders, and is able to point with pride to one of the greatest records of public support that any co-operative, profit-sharing, land investment, home building and development has ever made. IT IS BECAUSE OF PROVEN VALUES OF GIBRALTAR PROPERTIES AS SHOWN BY CAREFUL APPRAISEMENT AND OF THE CARRYING OUT OF EVERY PROMISE MADE TO THE INVESTING PUBLIC THAT

Shares Advance on May 15 From 20 to 21 Cents

Having successfully carried out the developing of rich tracts of land, and the producing of trees to meet the steadily increasing demand for orchard homes, Gibraltar will continue to advance with even greater progress than that recorded for the first year. The appraisement of Gibraltar properties made on April 16 shows a gain of $1,073,724.85 above the values at which the same were carried upon the Gibraltar books on March 31, the condensed financial statement for that date having been published and being at present available to any one who desires a copy. The total value of lands and nursery properties of Gibraltar according to the appraisement, was, on April 16, $2,652,988.52, with an increase in value being made daily by the growth of the trees in the immense nurseries, and the rapid development, planting and selling of the 1897-acre tract of Gibraltar at Bloomington, the value of which was placed at $758,000.00 by the appraisers.

Gibraltar's Greatest Profits Are in the Future

Gibraltar's record of increasing values and resources is one of which any investment company should be proud. Gibraltar will make still greater progress and profits for its co-operative stockholders. More than 12,000,000 olive trees, being propagated and grown, comprise the largest supply of olive nursery stock in the world and are supplemented by hundreds of thousands of citrus nursery trees, all of which are increasing in value every day. The demand for olive trees is far in excess of the supply and is increasing their market price. The land which Gibraltar is improving, planting and selling is steadily advancing in value. The enhancing price of land and trees, together with the increasing scope of Gibraltar's operations, is the force behind the advancing price of Gibraltar shares.

Within 9 days $49,329.00 worth of orchard homes have been sold on Gibraltar Acres at Bloomington, 52 miles from Los Angeles

GIBRALTAR HAS PROVEN THE SUCCESS OF THE CO-OPERATIVE PLAN OF BRINGING THE LANDLESS MAN TO THE MANLESS LAND, OF GROWING THE TREES AND PROVIDING THE ORCHARD HOME. MORE TREES WILL BE GROWN, MORE LAND WILL BE BOUGHT AND MORE HOMES WILL BE SOLD. THE THREE PROFITS REALIZED WITH ONE SELLING COST UNDER THE CAREFUL MANAGEMENT OF GIBRALTAR WILL ACCRUE TO THE BENEFIT OF OUR SHAREHOLDERS AND CAUSE THE STOCK TO INCREASE STEADILY IN VALUE.

Gibraltar 8 per cent preferred shares are now selling at 20c either for cash or on the twenty-monthly-payment plan and will advance on May 15 to 21 cents. Buy before the advance

Pointers On California Land

Our little booklet with the above title is ready for distribution. It is crammed full of information that is of value to those interested in farming, fruit-growing, dairying or the stock-raising proposition in California. It is yours for the asking.

There are maps and descriptions of our excellent farm land at Sharon. These lands, which are the peer of any in California, were bought in the one vast tract of 22,000 acres, at an especially low price, and consequently are placed on the market at a price that will attract anyone who is looking for A-1 land.

No description can be given of these lands that conveys an adequate impression of the soil, water conditions, the location as to town, railroads, and so forth. They must be seen to be appreciated. Parties go up each week from our office.

Secure the descriptive booklet, ask us all the questions you wish to and make arrangements to join one of these pleasant excursions to our lands. If you want the best that can be had for the least money and on the easiest terms see us quickly for choice. 55c a day will make a splendid California farm yours. Land $100 to $175 per acre. Prices will soon be advanced. Delay pays no dividend.

STATE'S FIRS PROTECT CI

IN A speech made at Atlanta, Ga by Gov. Joseph M. Brown he sa tersely and truthfully "A State great in proportion as her laws are and strong in proportion as they are enforced. And conversely, a state which knowingly tolerates within its borders the elements of disregard of laws or acts in defiance of law is a training school of Anarchy and a menace to Christianity and civilization. Law in its analysis is but applied justice."

The occasion of Gov. Brown's speech was a strike of the trainmen on the Georgia Railroad. The management dismissed one conductor and one of its flagmen. Thereupon all the conductors and flagmen, about 250 in number, struck. The management hired other men and attempted to operate some of its trains. These were beset by mobs who made themselves the fighting partners of the strikers at the terminal stations and at some local points, and were violently beaten or otherwise driven from service.

The road was unable to perform the functions of a common carrier for about two weeks during which upwards of 400,000 of the people of Georgia who are dependent wholly or in part upon this road for the conduct of their commerce and in many cases, for their supplies of the necessaries of life, found their power to travel prostrated and their commerce paralyzed.

Great Speech.

STATE'S FIRST DUTY TO PROTECT CITIZENS' HOMES.

[A speech made at Atlanta, Ga., by Gov. Joseph M. Brown he says should and truthfully "A State is just in proportion as her laws are and strong in proportion as her are enforced. And conversely, a which knowingly tolerates within its borders the elements of disrespect of laws or acts in defiance of it is a training school of anarchy, and a menace to Christianity and civilization. Law in its analysis is but equal justice."

In relation of Gov. Brown's was a strike of the trainmen Georgia Railroad. The management dismissed one conductor and of its firemen. Thereupon all the engineers and firemen, about 250 in struck. The management other men and attempted to some cases of its trains. These were beset by mobs who made against the fighting partners of the men at the terminal stations and other local points, and were violently beaten or otherwise driven from duty.

The road was unable to perform the functions of a common carrier for two weeks during which upwards of 400,000 of the people of Georgia who are dependent wholly or in part upon this road for the conduct of their commerce and in many cases for their supplies of the necessities of life, found their power to be frustrated and their commerce prostrated and their commerce paralyzed.

No part had the people in the controversy, no blame could be imputed to them by either side to it; yet upon them fell the inconvenience, the danger, the loss. Farmers who had notes to pay with cotton could not ship the cotton, manufacturers could not fill their orders, hence their drafts which were payable on delivery of the goods could not be cashed, with the result that, in some cases, the weekly payment of wages to their employees was held up; traveling men must be paid salaries without being able to make their trips and people at local stations, in some instances lying critically ill, could not secure the service of trained surgeons of physicians.

There was a contract between the yardmen and the railroad company by which each party bound itself in law and in honor to certain voluntary obligations. The last of these obligations was that each party on each side agreed that, in case it wished at any time to withdraw from the joint compact, it would give the other side thirty days notice before withdrawing.

When the strike on the Georgia Railroad became effective, the yardmen in the same class in the employment of the Atlanta Joint Terminals, without giving the management so much as thirty minutes notice, struck and abandoned the work they were under contract to do.

When negotiations were in progress for ending the strike, the strikers demanded that the new men hired to take their places should be discharged and the strikers restored to their jobs. This the managers refused to do for the double reason that the strikers could not be trusted to fulfill any obligations they might enter into, and because the company was obliged in honor to protect in employment the new men who were doing the work which the broken pledge of the strikers had forced the company to give to the new men.

The strikers thereupon boldly said to the company, "If you do not ratify our act in violating our contract with you for work in the railroad yards in the city of Atlanta, our associates and allies will paralyze the commerce of the people on the railroads running from Chattanooga to the Atlantic Ocean, from Atlanta to Montgomery, from Cincinnati to New Orleans."

Then Gov. Brown took a hand in the game. He called upon the judges of the Superior Courts to order the sheriffs to swear in enough deputies to protect the rolling stock of the road and the persons operating the trains. Those localities where this was not done he declared under martial law. In Augusta three strikers while engaged in unlawful acts were killed. Commenting on this the Governor said: "These killings, as greatly as all regret the necessity for them, established a status for the military which will save doubtless many lives in future; for all citizens now recognize that Georgia has no mere 'tin soldiers.' Wherever they are sent in future they will carry with them the assurance to orderly people and warning to mobs that Georgia will maintain her laws unflexibly and without regard to consequences to persons who would trample them under foot. The military is the last resort. It's duty does not begin until the power of the civil authority is exhausted. But when judges, sheriffs and Mayors are found to be helpless against the lawless forces in any community the military of Georgia can and will uphold the laws and maintain the majesty of the State."

The strike ended by the strikers losing their jobs, the new men holding their places and the complete restoration of order. Gov. Brown said in his Atlanta speech: "If such an emergency comes again during this administration the State will not await the slow process of arbitration, but will promptly meet the issue tendered her and enforce her laws. No more must her commerce be paralyzed by agencies working outside of her prescribed process for their own ends. This has been done twice; but the public interest, public policy, and the State's regard for her own laws will enforce an immediate 'Thou shalt not' if there be another attempt to "tie up" the people's transportation facilities to force a desired settlement between labor and capital. The State needs both; she will, so far as just protect both; yet she will, if needs be, curb both or either. It must be understood that she is supreme. Her process controls. No grade and no shade of lynch law will she tolerate."

If California could only trade off Holy Hiram for Gov. Brown there is scarcely any "boot" her people would not willingly give.

PROUD OF NEW SCHOOL.

ANAHEIM, May 10.—The increased attendance of Anaheim Union High School since the completion of the magnificent new school group on Center street has amply justified the expenditure of close to $140,000 on this institution. The citizens of Anaheim are justly proud of the new High School, which is unquestionably one of the finest and most up-to-date in California. The group comprises six buildings and is designed along the stately lines of the Grecian Ionic period. John C. Austin and W. C. Pennell, associated architects of Los Angeles, drew the plans for the institution.

CHANGE IN ARCHITECTS.

Arthur B. Benton, who has for twelve years been architect for the Glenwood Hotel Company, and who has designed and superintended the construction of all of the buildings of the Glenwood Mission Inn at Riverside, has, because of exacting professional engagements, withdrawn from immdiate connection with Frank B. Miller's architectural projects at Riverside and elsewhere. He will, however, continue to be associated with Miller as general consulting architect. It is probable that Architect Myron Hunt will handle the Glenwood improvements in contemplation at this time. Messrs. Benton and Hunt are both fellows of the American Institute of Architects and past presidents of the Los Angeles Chapter A.I.A., and their methods of design have enough in common to insure a proper continuity between the present building and future improvements which Hunt may design.

month in Calhoun for his sixteen members. I worked and studied and Dr. Hillhouse taught me languages. He sent me word one morning that he desired me to preach for him the next Sunday. I was 24 years old. I had never preached, but I was in the pulpit and ready for business at the hour appointed. My sermon was about the rearing of children. And the congregation listened to me, though I must have been torn to pieces on Monday in the homes and shops of the village.

"At the death of Dr. Hillhouse I was asked to take his place. I had been licensed, but had not been ordained, which ordeal I passed through at the age of 20, going before the Cherokee Presbytery of the Southern Church. John Temple Graves, the orator and editor, presented himself for examination at the same time. Close fitting trousers were in fashion. Graves appeared in skin-tight pantaloons. His hair was parted in the middle. He was asked two or three preliminary questions and answered by saying that he wasn't entirely sure whether he ought to preach or do something else.

"The examiners looked at his trousers and his hair and then one of them said: 'This is no place for a decision in such a matter. Go to your room, young man, get on your knees and settle the case with God. Our duty is to learn whether a candidate is competent to preach and not to determine if he ought to preach.' Years after, Graves said he would describe the occurence of that morning as an explosion of an interrogation point.

BUILT CHURCH WITH WAGES.

"I preached at Calhoun for several years without a salary, working in stores and other places and using the money I earned for a new church building. My next pastorate was at Dalton. I doubled the membership there and was called to Jackson, Tenn. How was I called, you ask? By the Holy Spirit. I never paid any attention to the earthly processes of the event, but I suppose some traveling salesman heard me at Dalton and spoke favorably of me in Jackson.

"I did well in Jackson. It was a fine, big town, and the business center of Western Tennessee. I started a night school and gave 600 young people some of the rudiments of an education. I meet them now in different parts of the country. There was a good hotel in the city, and traveling salesmen made long journeys so as to stay there on Sundays. One of them, a Mr. Craig, had a brother in Seattle. I was offered the First Presbyterian Church in Seattle by telegraph. That was in 1902.

"I read law while in Jackson simply as a mental exercise. I have been admitted to the bar in the States of Tennessee and Washington. Poor people in my church come to me for legal counsel. If a workingman is hurt, shysters and ambulance chasers are likely to get most of the settlement money. I take such cases among my own members, adjudicate them in my study with the opposing lawyers, and ask no charge for my services."

MACHINERY ARRIVES.

EDOM, May 10.—The arrival last week of a carload of materials, machinery and equipment for the demonstration farm to be established in the Coachella Valley by the Southern California Home Builders, enabled that concern to begin active operations in this district. A pumping plant for the well recently sunk by the company on its 7300-acre tract is now being installed. Houses for the employees of the company, barns, sheds and other buildings on the demonstration farm will be rushed to completion. The demonstration farm, comprising 160 acres, will be set out principally in alfalfa, figs and apricots. Small vegetables for the use of employees and gardeners will also be cultivated. The company plans also to establish a fifty-acre date palm nursery.

HOW TO HEAT YOUR ORCHARD.

Orange Expert Gives Advice Concerning Heaters.

Selection, Operation and Determining Factors.

Profits Make Infinite Care Worth While.

BY CHARLES B. FULDER.

There seems to be several important things that the orange and lemon growers must consider in the purchase of orchard heaters that they will no doubt install in their groves the coming winter.

One of the worst features in a heater is a draft regulation where a great amount of fire can be obtained by the opening up of what the heater men call the draft control. This is done to show the growers what amount of fire can be had if great heat is desired. The question arises, do we need the great amount of fire we see the selling agent making with his heater, which will burn all the fuel in the heater in a few hours? We must answer this question, No. If a grower is allowed the use of a heater that will burn a great amount of oil in a short time he will be liable to do this in the early part of night when he is firing his orchard, and will soon run out of oil and the result will be that he will lose his fruit in the early morning, as he cannot possibly keep his heaters full of oil.

We who used many heaters during the last freeze know that a low-burning heater to each tree in a grove will save the trees and fruit from frost and give the grower a long time for the burning of his heaters. If you have a heater that will burn all the oil in ten hours, hundreds of the growers will open the heaters up to their full capacity of burning and soon run out of heat and oil and be left without protection. Give the grower a heater that will burn, say, fourteen hours or longer and produce all the heat that is desired, and if he cannot get any more fire by the opening of drafts he will be sure to accomplish the required results by his operation. Growers should not make the mistake of buying a heater that will soon burn all the oil, but should get one that will give enough fire when it is burning wide open and will give at least fourteen hours of protection without refilling. Then the grower will have what he needs.

The higher one burns a heater the more it will smoke and the more smoke the poorer the operation will be in orchard firing.

A well-sooted orange cannot be washed and cleaned in such a way that the buyer will accept it as first-class fruit, and a lemon which demands very careful handling will be more or less bruised in the operation of washing, so the loss cannot be estimated until it reaches its destination after being packed and the loss in decay will naturally come out of the growers' pocket.

ESSENTIAL FEATURE.

A heater that will burn any kind of oil as fuel and give the necessary amount of heat is the thing that the grower must have, as the supply of any one kind of oil is not large enough to supply the demand at all times, and the grower will be compelled to use whatever fuel he can get when he needs it. So the fuel subject is of as great importance as the purchase of heaters.

Growers will have to burn out heaters to a dry substance only once or twice a year, and will not use the entire amount of oil in one filling, but will be continually adding to the supply already in the heaters. There are many heaters on the market that will be found hard to light after the oil has been left standing in them for a number of days and some that cannot be lighted at all. The grower must satisfy himself in this regard also to get the desired results.

You cannot burn a heater of the three-gallon capacity more than nine hours at a time and that is not sufficient to save the fruit in a freeze such as last season. Do not consider purchasing a heater that will burn less than five gallons of oil. This is the best size that you could have in your grove.

AVOID HEAVY SMOKE.

In the burning of nearly every kind of oil more or less asphaltum will accumulate in the heaters after a few firings, and many heaters do not and cannot burn this oil to such a state that it can be easily cleaned from the heaters. If you buy a heater that will burn all the asphalt in your oil you will have sooted fruit, as you cannot burn heavy asphalt without a heavy smoke, and the smoke that will come from the heaters will be a heavy expense to you in the washing and cleaning of the fruit in the packing-house. The best way to overcome this difficulty is to buy a heater that will burn all oil to a dry asphalt, which will allow the heater to be easily cleaned. This will prove of greater saving to the grower and the heaters will wear longer, as in the burning of the asphalt there will have to be such a heavy draft regulation that the bottom of the heater will get hot and soon burn out and new ones will have to be purchased—a needless expense to the grower.

One subject that it will be well to look into is in the supplying of parts that growers may need in the future, such as will be damaged in the use of orchard heating in careless handling. This cannot be helped in some cases no matter how closely one watches the men handling the heaters, filling and taking them from the orchards when it comes time for storing. Chimneys, covers, bowls and the different parts will have to be ordered from the factories, or the expense of making them by hand will be enormous. To offset the expense of a long freight haul from an eastern factory and an excessive price for heater parts, it would be better for the growers to look at California-made heaters where the factory is close at hand and the supply of parts can be had in a few days and all replacements made promptly and without delay.

Consider in the purchase of a heater if it is one that has been used and tried during a freeze and has saved fruit.

Mr. Merrill, in an article in the California Cultivator, said: "Let the experimenters try out th enew devices and let the growers confine their efforts to tested and proven devices."

Look at the daily reports of orange and lemon sales in the papers and note the prices quoted for California fruit that is in condition for shipment. From $3.50 to $4.50 and even over the $5 mark. These high prices are for the fruit that was protected from frost and the low prices are for unprotected and partly-frozen fruit that had better not have been shipped from California.

Important things for the grower to consider in the purchase of orchard heaters and which will help them in their selection are: Simple construction, economy of the purchase price of heater, economy in the purchase of the fuel that the heaters burn, quality of material used in the heater, standardization of all parts that heaters are made in such an accurate way that the parts are interchangeable. When taken down for storage after being used, see that all parts will nest closely together, allowing more heaters to be placed in a small space; see that you buy a heater that will not cover the fruit and trees with soot, making it necessary for all the fruit to be washed. The heater must be capable of burning at least fourteen hours with one filling of oil; must burn any grade of oil; must burn all fuel so that the heaters can be easily cleaned, easily ignited and extinguished. See that rain cannot get into the heaters left in the orchard when filled with oil. See that after the heater is burning with all the drafts open, that it will continue for at least fourteen hours without the escape of heavy smoke.

HEATER WITH BRAINS.

Get a heater that will regulate itself after being lighted, and will continue to burn evenly without attention. See that the draft regulation is such that as the oil burns lower, it will receive the proper amount of draft without being necessary to open draft slides to get more fire. See that you yourself can do with the heater what the agent does. See that the lids or covers are put on in such manner that the warping of the heaters will not loosen the covers, allowing additional draft and causing quick consumption of oil and burning out the heater in a few hours, as was the case with several last year. Most important of all, see that the heater that you buy has been used and has proven a success beyond all reasonable doubt.

These factors are important and should all be considered by the growers. Don't buy something without knowing what amount of good it will do.

Tell your neighbor what you have learned. By co-operation among the growers all will be benefited by the experience of all.

AHEAD FOR YEAR.

RACERS BURN ROADS FOR PANAMA-PACIFIC BATTLE.

Brunlette Says His Apperson Will Be First to Bakersfield—Floersheim's Car Will Take the Ditch or Win. Don Lee Noblest Roman of Them All—Oldfield Out for That Ten Thousand Dollar Purse.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

EIGHTEEN drivers and eighteen fast racing cars will be put on the road this week somewhere between this city and San Francisco. Each will take the valley route and each will visit each town along the route. If there is a man between Los Angeles and the Bay City who is not heard of the race he will have chosen this week.

J. A. McKee is near San Jose today. He is taking it slowly studying the valley roads. McKee will be in the valley unless he wrecks his Cadillac. He has been out more than any other car and when the cars are sent on the well-known restaurateur will have just where to drive in order to get away from the bunch. He is the first car in at Bakersfield. This is the duty of Bill Brammer who purchased an Apperson car for this race. Bill's car is stripped for action and when that Apperson gets past San Francisquito Canyon nobody must watch out for a real thing in the fifty-seven varieties of dust trailing through the confines of that deep ravine.

There are still those who are willing to wager that a Cadillac or a Mercer will win. This may be an idle boast as both these cars have been sent over the entire time and again and with Lewis Disbrow, who won second place in the Phoenix race, at the wheel of one of these fast Cadillac racers, these cars have a great chance.

NOT GLOOMY GUS.

Joe Floersheim, on the Berlin Speedway is one of the owners whose car I am now watching. He has agreed to drive his Mercer as far as Bakersfield and then Gaston Morris will take the wheel. That firing Frenchman is a driver. He proved it when he sent a Mercer into the race at Bakersfield and won so handily. That Berlin car will be in the money or in the ditch. It is in splendid shape and all the work done on it the past week is will to at least ninety miles an hour. That's fast enough to win.

Now, Floersheim is a sport. He is asking odds of no one. The car belongs to him. The prominent business man has the money and is spending his cash to make a showing in this race. He has given Morris a free rein and with the Bakersfield challenge trophy, a handsome and costly cup, to show for what his car can do, he is now out for the big race and will pay no attention to other meets until the July Fourth battle.

Omar Toft and the Simplex is an interesting pair. This car is the property of Mrs. Leotis K. Northam and the racer is entered by this well-known society woman with a bid that looks good to many. The car is built for the road. It was not rigged right for that Bakersfield track meet, but when it comes to road work the Simplex seems about right.

BUICK WINNER.

Louis Nikrent is the driver who will be sent away with a thousand good rooters behind him who are certain he will win. Nikrent will drive a Buick "40" in all probability, though Frank Howard is seriously considering the entry of that little brown car that made such a fine showing at Bakersfield. The Buick will be there when it comes to the fast work on the smooth roads and Nikrent should hold his own in the canyons and rough spots. The car he will practice with is not the racer Louis intends to handle in the big event.

The large number of private owners makes this race one of the interesting events. A. B. Daniels of Coronado, will start his six-cylinder Locomobile. This car is fast and is a handsome car on the road. It will be sent into the lists with a driver who is willing to take a dare. Herbert Brown, one of the best road drivers in the local field, may be at the wheel of one of the fast cars. Brown has proved to be a heady driver and is willing to take a chance where it is necessary.

National roadster that will be entered in Panama-Pacific-Los Angeles-San Francisco race. Bert Dingley, who has been asked to drive, is at the wheel. The famous racing driver may decide to manage the National team during the road fight.

SEALS TAKE SERIES AND HOP INTO SECOND PLACE.

Angels Hit Ball Hard, but Work Their Own Downfall With Costly Errors—Victory Was Fourth Straight for Howard's Men—Johnson Leads Local Sticksmiths With Four Hits in as Many Trips.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

MORE SOB stuff.

Those San Francisco lowbrows snatched another game yesterday—their fourth of the week—grabbed the series while it was hot, hurdled the Tigers into second place and battered down the Angels' lead to a meager two games. Just at this moment we can't think of any other nuisances that they committed. That'll do for one day.

The Seals were pretty well liked when they first came down, but if this thing keeps up we certainly shall succeed in engendering considerable hate for them.

The finals yesterday were 7 to 1, and those figures stand for much hard hitting, a lot of fine field goals and drop kicks and quite an assortment of blasted pitching reputations.

Dillon's men drove the ball to all angles of the lot, whanged it fifteen times, but nullified the effects of the bombardment with a weird exhibition in the field, kicking and otherwise maltreating the ball for an even half-dozen errors.

SEALS USE TRIO OF PITCHERS.

Because of their rough work with the stick, Del Howard began calling out the life guards early in the fifth, and didn't quit until he had used three.

Harry Hughes, a young man from Bozsano with rosy cheeks and dimples, was permitted to work four innings. He was given the finger after Ellis had hit him for a single in the fifth, leaving a trail of two runs. Frosty Thomas, St. Paul product, was second on the programme. It proved a bad guess, for Frosty got struck for a cluster of three in the sixth. Finally it was put to "Cack" Henley to commit the act of subjugation. "Cack" worked his way through the seventh and eighth gracefully, but was saved from slaughter by a kind fate in the ninth, when with two runners on base and one out, Dillon smashed a line drive into McArdle's mitt for a double.

The first three innings were alloted to Roy Crabb. Three runs was the toll collected off him. Walter Slagle, trained relief man, worked the remainder of the game. Walter was the victim of a leaky support, the Seals being entitled to but one of the four runs scored during his incumbency.

THE TURNING POINT.

Husky Mr. Zimmerman knocked the ball out of Boles's hands in a play at the plate in the eighth inning, and this was the flimsy pretext on which the Seals built up their winning rally in that round.

This was a play on which Boles would not lose the ball once in five seasons.

Pretty tough, for the stocky little backstop had been catching a phenomenal game. His throwing was the acme of perfection. Six times his unerring aim brought down would-be base stealers, and each time it required a perfect shot to nail them.

But for that wonderful arm behind the bat it is doubtful whether Crabb would have survived the first inning. Roy started wild, and walked two of the first three men to face him. Both were cut down stealing.

Each club hung up its first marker in the second, Hogan getting around for the Seals on a low throw by Johnson and a brace of sacrifices, and Maggert matching it for the Angels. Harl drilled a triple into left. Dillon with the count three and two, slipped a single over the infield, scoring him. Metzger fanned. Johnson singled to left, putting Dillon on third. Weak hitter this boy. Only four in four times up yesterday. Hughes then rose up in his wrath and fanned Boles and Crabb.

TOO MANY COOKS.

Two were down in the third, when McArdle dropped a fly in short left. Johnson, Metzger and Ellis all tried to catch it, and the ball came near "beaning" all three of them. McArdle ran it into a double. Johnson singled Mac home, went to second on the throw-in and rode home on a single by Hogan. Willie was flagged sealing. Say, but you ought to have seen this Hogan boy play ball in the fourth, when he went up and yanked down Slagel's line drive with his glove hand. Wow, it was wonderful.

Hughes was lucky to get by the third, when the Angels filled up the bases on him with two down. Metzger hit in "hard luck," smoking a hard line drive which would have cleaned the sacks had it gone three inches further to Wuffli's right.

Slagle introduced himself in the fourth by passing Zimmerman. Wuffli whaled to right for a base, and a pass to Cartwright glutted the cushions. Slagle then got even with Hughes for fanning Boles and Crabb in the second, by striking out the San Francisco battery. Mundorff, the meanest kind of a man in the pinch, hit to right, scoring Zimmerman. Wuffli tried to come home on the clout, but couldn't make the riffle, Lober's educated arm intervening to reduce the damage to a minimum.

Johnson singled in the fourth, stole second, kept on to third when Schmidt's peg veered from the mark, and was "squeezed" home by Boles.

Ellis opened the fifth with a hot single to center. Exit Hughes. Enter Thomas. Frosty got by this inning, only to encounter a batch of trouble in the sixth, when the Angels tied up the count with a three-run rally.

TOUGH ON THOMAS.

Dillon shot a glancing single off Wuffli's uplifted palms, the first of a batch of freak singles with which the Angels tortured Thomas. Metzger slapped the ball down to Cartwright. It caught Carty on the shins, and when he had finally subdued it he threw low to second in a frantic effort to force Dillon. This put Pop on third. Johnson jabbed a hot one down to McArdle. It ran up Mac's leg, came down on his head and found a resting place on the back of his neck. Dillon scored during McArdle's duel with the ball, and Metzger took second. Boles sacrificed, and Slagle scored both of his mates with a fine swat to left. Ellis singled to second, after Howard had flied to Zim. Lober ended it with a grounder to McArdle.

Corhan, batting for Thomas, delivered the tieing tally in the seventh, on a walk, a sacrifice, a stolen base and an error by Metzger.

Fear of extra innings and a cold supper vanished in the eighth. With one down, Zimmerman poked a harmless-looking fly into short left. Ellis had good claims to the ball, but Johnson insisted that it was his, and then failed to squeeze it. Ernie was more successful on Wuffli's fly. Cartwright cracked the ball to right. Zimmerman courted what seemed sure death by attempting to score from second. Lober's shot had him ten feet from the plate, but runner and catcher came together, and when Boles picked himself up, Umpire Bush made the important discovery that Walter didn't have the ball. Cartwright took second on the play, and Schmidt put him across with a tidy tap to left. Dillon strangled Henley, unassisted.

PENSY BEHIND.

HANOVER (N. H.) May 10.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Dartmouth defeated the University of Pennsylvania in the track meet here today by a score of 70½ to 46½.

PRESIDENT BAUM HERE FOR PROBE.

Allan T. Baum, president of the Coast League, arrived here last night for the purpose of gathering evidence relative to Thursday's trouble between Page and Umpire Bush.

President Baum announced that Page would be reinstated in time to play in this afternoon's game, but further than that declined to discuss the affair.

He held a conference with Henry Berry last night, but it is not known what transpired.

BEAT KOESTNER BY HARD KNOCKS IN THE EIGHTH.

Venice Loses Tough Contest After Having a Four-Run Lead—Leard Is the Hero, for His Fine Drive in the Eighth Won the Game, Which Was Full of Interest All the Way.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Oaks have the thanks of the San Francisco fans for helping to furnish a nip and tuck ball game, coming gamely from behind twice today to nose out the Tigers, 8 to 7, thereby being a factor in sending the Seals into second place in the race.

Venice had a clean-cut lead of four runs before the Oaks got into the going. Then they tied it up in the next two innings, forged to the front, were forced back to second place and finally, in the last of the eighth, by sheer force of hitting the ball, sent themselves into the win column.

With the score standing 7 to 6 against the Oaks and the last of the eighth looming up, Gardner was sent in to bat for Pearce. He nearly broke the right field fence with a hard drive. Zacher, a substitute for Pernoll, hit one to short. Schirm was hit by Koestner, the bases were filled, and no one out.

Leard drove the ball to left, back of third base, and two runs came across the plate, just enough to win.

It was exciting ball all the way, with some phenomenal catches, a few close decisions, plenty of variety and all sorts of action on the bases.

Hogan's men confined their early achievements to the third and fourth innings. Rowdy Elliott scratched out a hit in the third but was forced at second by Koestner. Leard, too anxious to make a double, juggled Carlisle's grounder and he was safe. Meloan walked and although he was forced at second by Bayless, two runners crossed the plate.

Two more errors helped them out in the fourth. Patterson opened with a drive to center, while Hosp flied to Hetling. Hallinan singled to left and when Schirm booted, Patterson took an additional base. Elliott worked the squeeze play to score Patterson and on Hetling's bad throw of Koestner's grounder, Hallinan reached home.

In the fifth, with two out, Pernoll beat out an infield hit, Schirm rapped one through second to center and Leard hit to left. Becker laid the ball back of first to score two men.

"BABE" DRISCOLL SOLD TO FRESNO.

Henry Berry last night announced the sale of Milton (Babe) Driscoll to the Fresno club of the California League.

With his more seasoned pitchers rounding into form, Berry did not feel that Driscoll could be of great service to him at the present time, and that the youngster would benefit by a year's work in the Class D organization. Driscoll will report to George Wheeler Tuesday.

This brings the Angels down to 19, but the number will be raised to 20 early next week, when Berry will add a young infielder, whose identity will be kept secret until the deal is closed.

Too Much Class.

U.S.C. NOW HOLDS TWO WORLD'S TRACK RECORDS.

Fred Kelly Ties World's Mark Made by Smithson in High Hurdles — Berkeley Wins Big Meet With Little Trouble With Local University—Stanford in Third Position.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CONFERENCE SCORES.

California, 53; U.S.C., 28 5-6; Stanford, 21; Santa Clara, 9; St. Mary's, 8; Washington, 2 5-6; Occidental, 1 1-3.

BERKELEY, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] U.S.C. is now the stronghold of two world record breakers, Kelly and Bergstrom.

Kelly, this afternoon, in the speediest high-hurdle race ever run up on the Blue and Gold cinder path, broke the world's college record and tied the world's record by dashing over the high sticks in 15 seconds flat. Kelly's time has never been equalled except in the Olympic games and he now shares the title of world champion with Smitheson, who was clocked at 15 flat at the Olympic games in England.

Kelly made a fine start and was not pressed until the half-way point, when Beeson (C.) closed in and for a second the men were neck to neck, then Kelly's Irish fighting blood began to show itself and he slowly pulled away from Beeson. At the finish he led Beeson by a good step.

BEESON WINS HONORS.

Beeson made good the loss of the high hurdles by winning first in the low sticks and clearing 6 feet, 5 1-4 inches in the high jump. This height breaks the conference record and comes dangerously close to Horine's world record. Kelly lost his stride in the low-stick race and was forced to drop out to save himself a fall on the steep curve. Laird took second in the dash but was disqualified for mowing down the sticks.

ONE CHANCE LOST.

U.S.C. could have perhaps taken first in the 440, had Laird been run instead of Jackson. Coach Comstock decided to try for a world's record in the relay and so entered Jackson, who had just finished in the 100-yard dash, in the quarter. As it was, the plucky little negro took second, while the sparing of Laird was of no advantage, as no other relay team appeared. Todd (C.) did not run in the quarter.

EXAMS HURT CARDS.

Stanford's entry list was so depleted that the Cards made a poor showing. The final exams have played havoc with training at the "farm" and several customary first placers failed to land in their positions.

The two-mile was the only race that provided a thrill. Vlught (S.M.) and Crabbe (C.) fought for pole until the last straight-away. On the finish both men were breast to breast until the fifty-yard line was reached, then Crabbe turned on his famous sprint juice and tore away from the surprised Vlught in a fine finish. As a whole the meet maintained the best average of times of any held this season. Results:

Mile run—Vlught (St.M.) first, Wood (C) second; time, 4m. 22s.

The 100-yard dash — Haskamp (Sta.C.) first, Wood (C.) second, Campbell (S.) third; time, 10 1-5s.

The 220-yard dash—Campbell (S.) first, Hodge (U.S.C.) second, Brown (S.) third; time, 22 4-5s.

The 440-yard dash—Clark (C.) first, Jackson (U.S.C.) second, Monson (Sta.C.) third; time, 50 2-5s.

The 120-yard high hurdles—Kelly (U.S.C.) first, Beeson (C.) second, Ward (U.S.C.) third; time, 15s.

The 220-yard low hurdles—Beeson (C.) first, Murray (S.) second; time, 25 2-5s.

The 880-yard run—Bonnett (S.) first, Cuendett (C.) second, Smith (U.S.C.) third; time, 2m. 1 4-5s.

Two-mile run—Crabbe (C.) first, Vlught (Sta.C.) second, Dodge (S.) third; time, 10m. 9s.

Hammer throw—Shattuck (C.) first, Coolidge (C.) second, Wiley (C.) third; distance, 159ft. 6¾in.

Shot put—Kelly (U.S.C.) first, Kelly (Sta.C.) second, Livernash (U.S.C.) third; distance, 44ft.

Pole vault—Krohn (S.) first, Wilson (O.) Watkins (U.S.C.), Cocteau (W.) tied for second; height, 12ft.

High jump—Beeson and McFie (C.) tied for first, Earl (U.S.C.) and Haskant (Sta.C.) tied for third; height, 6ft 5 2-8in.

Broad jump—Allen (C.) first, Earl (U.S.C.) second, Walters (W.) third; distance, 22ft. 11in.

Discus throw—Livernash (U.S.C.) first, Shattuck (C.) second, McFie (C.) third; distance, 114ft. 2½in.

Oaks Trim Tigers.

and Coy's shot to center annexed the third.

The run that tied came in the sixth. A slow hit ball to short gave Ness his base and Cook sacrificed. An out for Pearce sent the runner to third and he made the balance of the circuit on a wild pitch.

In the seventh, after Koestner's failure to hold a throw at first, put Becker on the bases, Coy got his home run that gave the Oaks a temporary lead of two.

The eighth was likewise full of action and for a time it looked like the Tigers would put across a victory.

Bayless poked the ball against the right field fence. Patterson doubled past third and Hosp hit Bayless home with a single through to right. The crucial moment came when Elliot hit a bender to Leard. It was a hard ball to handle with little time, and as it was bouncing around in Ness's hands the runner was called safe, two more of the Tigers crossing the rubber. Score:

WILD THROW WINS FOR BEAVERS IN LAST ROUND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Judge Munsell failed to catch the signal from Jack Bliss to stop a fake throw to second to cut off an attempted double steal and that one little miscue spoiled the chances of the Sacramento Wolves to win a game featured by four runs with only two hits for the local squad.

Munsell stepped to one side and the throw from Bliss bounded to Young too late to catch Fitzgerald running from first, and too late to return to the plate to head off Rodgers with the ninth-inning run which gave today's game to Portland by a 5-to-4 score. Results:

James Ralston of Sioux City, Iowa, will be at the wheel of the Cutting if Forer decides to start the car in the Los Angeles-San Francisco Panama-Pacific road race. Ralston is an experienced road driver and has figured in some of the big contests. He would be here as soon as the Indianapolis race is over and that would give him ample time to study the road and learn the conditions of the Valley route.

"That will be a great race," said Agent Forer yesterday. "Seems to me the Cutting would stand a splendid chance to win. While it is too early for me to decide the drawing of the Cutting Forty on the run to Fresno leads me to think we have a fine chance for place, and it is not unlikely that a Cutting will be entered."

"I was able to find but one point in which the old world motorist has the advantage over the American and this is in the matter of roads. European highways are among the best in the world, but, with the spirit of progress that is now being manifested in road building, in this country, we should soon catch up with the procession. And then it is but a matter of time before we will forge ahead in this respect, just as we have in every other."

MOTOR TOUR TO VANCOUVER.

Auto Club Engineer to Map Scenic Route.

Mileage and Other Data to Be Compiled by Parker.

Chance for Autoists to Learn About Woodland.

One of the finest tours that has ever been outlined is that from Los Angeles, up the Coast to Vancouver and return. O. K. Parker, engineer of the Automobile Club of Southern California, a man versed in the lore of the hills and valleys of the Pacific Coast, has agreed to map this route for The Times and the mileage and route will be given as an aid to tourists who are planning a vacation this summer.

Eighteen maps of near-city out-of-town and State-wide tours are being prepared by Engineer Parker. They will be ready for distribution within the next few days. These maps will show where the gasoline and oil can be obtained. The chance for garage service will also be shown. Camping points and the best hotels will also be marked. The maps are complete in detail.

From San Francisco north to Vancouver there are two routes, one along the Coast through Lake county, Ukiah and Eureka, the other through the Sacramento Valley by way of Redding and Red Bluff passing Shasta Springs and Mt. Shasta. This route is particularly delightful during the month of August. For those who desire to make the trip before June 1, it is suggested that the more easterly route by way of Alturas, Goose Lake, and Central Oregon will be found a much pleasanter road.

From Central Oregon the motorists will proceed down Deschutes River to the banks of the Columbia where the car can be shipped from the Dalles to Portland. This is necessary because at the present time there is no road between those two points along the Columbia River. Another way of reaching Portland from Central Oregon is to go westerly over the Coast range through Santiam Pass intersecting the regular coast route or Pacific highway at Salem, then following the Willamette River north to Portland. From Portland to Seattle the Pacific highway should be followed.

The Automobile Club of Seattle has posted the entire route from Vancouver to the California line and wherever the motorists find the signs of the Pacific highway they may be assured of an excellent and well-traveled road.

In addition to the California mountain scenery in the neighborhood of Mt. Shasta and along the Coast range above San Francisco, motorists should visit Crater Lake, Mt. Hood and the Wonderful National Park at Mt. Rainier. Crater Lake is one of the natural and wonderful curiosities of the Pacific Coast.

KLAMATH LAKE.

It is situated just north of Klamath Lake at an elevation of 7000 feet and is really formed by the crater of an extinct volcano. It is in the midst of a vast plateau, the slope of which gradualy rises on all sides until at its apex there is a vast declivity with precipitous walls of over 2000 feet in depth at the bottom of which lies Crater Lake. The volcanic walls of this crater are wonderfully full of color and the lake itself is the deepest of blue. The diameter of the crater is approximately four miles. The government has formed around this lake a national park but motorists are allowed to drive their machines directly to the rim of the crater where there is an excellent hotel for the accommodation of tourists.

During the early period of rivalry for supremacy between Tacoma and Seattle there was some question as to the naming of that most prominent landmark along the Cascades which for years was called, Tacoma Mountain, but which was finally named Mt. Rainier. The Federal government has made a national park of the region around this mountain and it will ever be maintained as a playground for the people, noted far and wide for some of the finest glaciers and alpine scenery to be found on the Pacific Coast. Mt. Rainier attains an elevation of nearly 15,000 feet and its summit is everlastingly covered with snow-white glaciers from which, during the summer season, beautiful waterfalls and cascades go tumbling down the mountainside to form numerous rivers entering Puget Sound and finally reaching the Pacific Ocean through the Straits of Juan De Fuca.

SECRETARY BRYAN'S NEW CARTERCAR.

William Jennings Bryan has purchased his third Cartercar coupe. This handsome Sedan was sold to the Secretary of State by Harry R. Radford, vice-president of the Cartercar factory. Radford has sold Bryan a Cartercar each season for the past three years and this time William Jennings gets an inside operated car that he can use summer and winter on the streets of Washington. Bryan is an enthusiast when it comes to the friction-driven car. The ease of operation appealed to him when Vice-President Radford recently demonstrated the Cartercar on the streets of New York. It was good enough and after a run of thirty minutes the Secretary of State purchased his third Cartercar.

The Company Behind the Cross Country

Look up the rating given The Thomas B. Jeffery Company by the great national commercial agencies. You will find it is the highest that can possibly be given to any concern.

Forty years of manufacturing experience and the result of constant striving toward ideals of accuracy constitute the greatest asset of this company today.

W. K. Cowan Co., 1140 S. Hope St., Los Angeles, Cal., one of nearly five hundred distributing houses maintained by Cross Country dealers.

Fifteen fundamental facts we offer in conclusion. These are the facts that every buyer must consider if he chooses wisely. Study them carefully and consider their meaning.

1 The 1913 Cross Country is the product of forty years of manufacturing experience.

2 The Jeffery Company has the highest financial rating that it is possible for the commercial agencies to give.

3 Capital three million dollars, all paid in, with a large surplus.

4 The Company is owned practically in its entirety by one man and is absolutely independent of any alliance with any other concern.

5 Every piece of equipment and every particle of real estate owned by this company is paid for in full and never has a bill been allowed to pass discount.

6 Ninety-six per cent of all parts are made in the Jeffery works.

7 Twenty-five thousand Rambler cars are on the road.

8 The Jeffery organization includes a factory manned by two thousand men, with a sales and service force including nearly five hundred branches and distributing dealers.

9 The factory ground area is one hundred and four acres and the floor area twenty-five acres.

10 Cross Country parts sell from one-half to two-thirds less than parts of other cars.

11 Fifteen employes of this company have been in its employ twenty years and over; fifteen from fifteen to twenty years and nearly all the rest from one to fifteen years.

12 The Jeffery Company was the first American company to adopt the demountable wheel, universally used abroad and now being imitated widely in this country.

13 The Jeffery service facilities in every part of the United States are under direct company supervision and are unexcelled.

14 The Jeffery organization is an organization of young men, who have built up a reputation for fair dealing which entitles them to expect to be in business for many years.

15 The Jeffery Company is notably conservative, valuing permanent success beyond temporary profit.

The Jeffery organization produces nothing but the Cross Country car. We cannot, in view of the facts enumerated above, do anything else but build it right.

A beautiful four-color reproduction of the Cross Country, from an oil painting by R. Philip Brainard, is ready for mailing. See the Cross Country by all means, at any Jeffery branch or dealer's display room, but send for the picture anyway.

FOUR FRANKLINS ON OWENS RIVER.

HARD TASKS FOR THESE AIR-COOLED CARS ON AQUEDUCT.

Roadster of Same Type as Winning Phoenix Racer Makes Good on the Roughest of Work—Hamlin Says It's Easy—Nickel-Plated Car on Display With R. & L. Electrics.

No automobiles in the State are worked harder than the four Franklins that are being used in the Owens River aqueduct work.

There are two 1909 models, one 1911 and one 1912. These are run continually and have no rest and the service in the rough Owens River country is such as few motor cars are asked to withstand. The roads are rough and almost all trips are made at full speed as the engineers want to move in haste when they go from point to point.

There are numerous stories of the wonderful work of these Franklins. There is a roadster of the same model as that used by Ralph Hamlin when he won the Phoenix race. This car was put in service and being the fastest was always given the fastest work. It was run 18,000 miles before being touched and after being overhauled was run 14,000 miles before the valves were again ground in.

"Any Franklin will do as well under ordinary use," says Hamlin, "but this car was being given the hardest of service. There were no boulevards, nothing but sand, mud, mountains and rough roads."

Hamlin now has on display in his salesroom a special show car. All the metal parts are silver plated and the engine is nickel trimmed. It makes a handsome appearance and has been much admired during the past week at the Franklin salesroom on Flower street. The Franklin agent is also making a display of the late R. and L. electric coaches. These are fitted with the new pneumatic tire that can be run on the rim without being rim cut.

Jackson, Fla., is to have a big Industrial plant, employing some 500 hands and turning out 300 tires per day, together with other automobile accessories in which rubber is used.

A steady effort of 119 pounds is required to drive an average two-ton automobile along a dry level macadam road at thirty miles an hour. The average touring car weighs very close to two tons, therefore, if you have a car of this class and it is necessary for your motor to exert a greater effort than this, there is something wrong with your running gear.

HOBBLE STEP FOR BUICK

Tight Skirts Result in New Motor Car Luxury

Milady May Now Board Car With Ease and Grace

Lever at Driver's Side to Operate Device

That the strange vagaries of Fashion reaches further into the realm of feminine attire than upon more than one occasion has demonstrated to a most surprising degree and that the world of business is going in any manner to venture to realize this all important fact is shown by the newest step of the Buick company.

It was the maker of the Buicks that a short time ago demonstrated his realization of the importance and near relation of the hobble skirt and the motor car by being first to bring forth the new gear-shift lever. This found favor with women motorists as it meant absolute protection to the skirts from the levers, the invention had more than once stained milady's robes.

And now the Buick, with its former alertness in recognizing the requirements of the feminine as made gasoline carriages once again met the requirements of Fashion by adding an extra step to their 1913 Buick model 6 touring car.

The step is a special one, between the usual running board and the ground, to accommodate the requirements of the present fashion which points to the skirts—frocks, in fact, of the so commonly referred to as the "hobble."

The step is ten inches wide and of solid steel and is solidly but not adjusted to the regular running board, hanging midway between the car and the ground.

It can be either carried to and on the car, or for a moment be removed from its position, swung and carried in the car.

Heretofore the wearer of the tight skirt, the passing fashion of fashion for the past few years has been forced to make an awkward step in getting into a car or oftimes forced to display more hosiery than is considered modest and grace and appearance are lost and good form.

With the new Buick arrangement milady may now board her favorite machine with all of the ease and certainty of walking erect, while the danger of being caught by a tight skirt, which has more than once resulted seriously, is entirely eliminated.

The new adjustable step is but a few days old in local automobile circles, but it has already found favor with women who have had the misfortune to be the occupants of the rear seats of the Buick touring car.

It is already a common sight to see a woman in an all-important part of the selection of a motor car, the Buick, as she is in the process of buying a theater ticket, etc., and the adaptation of the Buick builders to meet the feminine needs in this regard will no doubt result in an increased popularity of this make of car in the near future.

New England visitors to the automobile show in New Yor particularly those from Spri and vicinity have always take justifiable pride in the exhibits arranged by local commercial Knox Automobile Company's was a mecca for New Englanders since the first show held in Ma Square Garden, for this compan one of the pioneers of the ga car in America, and was a partic in the first annual show. Its ex have therefore, been widely studi excellent examples of the pro of the automobile industry in country.

There are many local citizens distinctly recall the intense in manifested in the first little t wheeled Knox by the thousands future motorists who flocked t garden throughout the momen week. This original Knox m marked the advent of the first r practical gasoline automobile, an simplicity and generally neat ap soon made it a center of attrac with a consequent gratifying ad of sales.

This first successful venture o added the Knox reputation and ated a patronage and following w has been largely augmented by th ceptional exhibits of recent years, first by this well-known concern ion upon the appearance in 19 the first four-cylinder water-co ing model that public approval most strongly shown, however, ar clearly showed a high order of gineering design for its day, and corporated many valuable feat taken from the most approved A ican and European practice. Man the features first introduced on t model are still retained as impor characteristics of the present K car as follows: DeDion circulat ing system, three-speed selec transmission, three-plate clutch ck inserts and detachable cyli heads, arranged with valves in heads, without cages.

When the torpedo type of body made its appearance in 1910, the K company showed an entirely new car of such rare beauty and distin ive appearance that it won the mu coveted title of the handsomest c in the show. Most of the early K pedo types were extremely narrow in ance and the graceful lines of finish of the Knox model w a distinct relief to the eye.

Another contribution of importa by the Knox company to the auto ive was the method of painting cars with the natural wood fin Cars were shown by the Knox co pany in 1911 and again in 1912, w the novel and distinctive type mahogany, veneered, Fren Circassian walnut and mine nishes.

This year three cars only will b exhibited by the Knox company a pleasure-vehicle show, consisti a Model 46, little six, seven-passe touring car, little six six-passe torpedo and a model 45, four-c roster Berlin. Showing a small number of cars than in previous yea will make possible a more attracti arrangement of the exhibit, overcro the crowded appearance of pr vious seasons.

The seven-passenger "little six" finished Brewster green (light) wit full black leather upholstering and nickel trimming, while the six-passe little six torpedo is finished in handsome chocolate brown, with Ma brown upholstering and nickel trimming. Both cars will be show with electric lighting and starting sy tem and the complete standard Kno equipment embracing every acces ory necessary for comfortable tour ing.

The model 43, four-cylinder Bar is an exquisitely finished wit natural mahogany graining on th inner panels and black upper pan and upholstery in wine-colored cloth. The lighting system is ele tric and includes a very complete set of lamps, making it probably on of the best-lighted closed cars at the show.

The Vance-Canavan Motor Com pany, California distributers for Knox cars, have recently sold a "little six" touring car to L. H. Mitchell, and also furnish the city of Glendale a combination hose and chemical fighting apparatus, costing $6250.

Knox Martin tractor which has proved to haul loads up to twenty tons, is creating a sensation in the commercial field, and it is simply a matter of making deliveries.

Since the Chicago and Great Western Railway has not lived up to its agreement to restore the accommodation train between Clarion and Mason City, the residents of Thornton are planning to establish an automobile stage line to Clear Lake, connecting with the Interurban to Dubuque.

EIGHT TONS LUMBER ON KNOX TRACTOR.

Eight tons of lumber, piled high on a Knox-Martin tractor, was rolled over the shoestring district from San Pedro to Los Angeles Wednesday. This is a record for the big tractor. The grade caused considerable comment as the load was placed on the tractor at San Pedro and was then sent into the heart of the city in fast time. It is the heaviest load ever hauled anywhere in Southern California by a commercial truck.

C. E. Griffen, secretary of the Montgomery & Mullin Lumber Company, owners of the truck, superintended the run. It was made over rough and smooth roads. The Knox-Martin tractor came up trouble whatsoever and at San Pedro it was backed right up to the lumber vessel and the boards were swung into the hold. According to Griffen, the test has solved some of the transportation problems for the lumber dealers.

HARRISON PREDICTS FINE YEAR FOR PEERLESS CARS.

H. O. HARRISON, head of the H. O. Harrison company, has just returned from a trip to the Peerless factory, and says this will without a doubt be the best year the Peerless has ever enjoyed.

"Elaborate improvements are under way there," said Harrison, "and the reports of the great things transpiring at the Peerless factory are not in the least exaggerated. The demand for Peerless trucks has been so tremendous the new addition to the truck department will be the first finished.

"During the week I was at the factory orders were received for fifty trucks from firms such as the Standard Oil Company, National Cash Register Company, Wells Fargo Express Company and the American Express Company.

"The National Cash Register Company placed an order for ten trucks for immediate delivery.

"The men at the head of the Peerless company are among the most successful business men in the country today, and they are firm believers in the established demand for the high class article. They do not consider that there is any question regarding the future of high grade cars like the Peerless.

"These men will continue to carry on the wonderful development work that has been going on for years in the Peerless plants. The research for everything that is best in the construction of a motor car will continue."

For Ninety-Nine Years.

GROUND-BREAKING STUNT FOR NEW MOTOR HOME.

GROUND will be broken this week for the new home of the Stearns and Ohio Electric agencies on Figueroa street between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets. Smith Brothers expect to be into the building not later than August 15. Work will be rushed.

Clarence Smith has decided that in honor of the first ninety-nine-year lease closed by an automobile firm in California, he will hold a formal ground-breaking, he and Stanley Smith digging the first dirt while "Papa" E. B. Smith stands by and looks wise.

This is to be strictly an invitation affair and will be a select gathering of automobile cranks.

Ornaments on the exterior of the new building will be two life-size Stearns-Knights. These knights in full armor are the Stearns trademark and should make a striking appearance on the corners of the building.

Part of the new place will be devoted to electrics and it is the intention of Smith Brothers to make it the largest electric depot in the West.

On the Way.

JACKSON SIXES COMING STRONG.

BOTH TYPES HAVE UNIT POWER PLANT INSTALLED.

Three-point System of Support in Frames and Construction Throughout Makes Great Hit With the Lovers of Medium-priced Motor Cars—Agent Thompson Hustles.

Charles H. Thompson will receive the second shipment of six-cylinder Jacksons this week. There is also a shipment of the four-cylinder models en route.

Surplus power has always been a feature of Jackson cars. The motors in each model are of the long-stroke type—a little larger than necessary for average conditions—and with efficient reserve power to meet any touring emergency. The size of the motor in each model is proportioned to the weight of the car and the load it is designed to carry. The power is transmitted through a complete system of ball and roller bearings: loss through friction is reduced to a minimum, and the cars have a high factor of driving efficiency.

Both the four-cylinder and six-cylinder motors are the unit power plant type. Motor, clutch and transmission are incorporated in one housing, oil tight and dustproof. This construction preserves the alignment of the moving parts under all running conditions—strains are applied to the power plant as a whole, and do not tend to throw the bearings out of line. The motors are supported in the frames by the flexible three-point system—the chassis frame, under a severe road stress is free to twist slightly around the power plant without putting any strain on it. Transmissions are of the selective type—three speeds forward and reverse.

Is the Car You are Thinking of Buying Up to Date or a Year Behind the Times?

EITHER THE AUTOMOBILE WITH

Six Cylinder	Self-Starting Motors
Left Side Drive	Deep, Luxurious Upholstering
Center Control	Electric Lights
Clean Running Boards	No Projecting Hinges
No Projecting Lamps	Tire Inflator

IS A YEAR AHEAD OF THE TIMES, OR WITHOUT THESE APPOINTMENTS IT IS A YEAR BEHIND THE TIMES.

Would you make the mistake of buying a single or two-cylinder car? Of course not.

Would you make the mistake of buying a four-cylinder car today, when in the seven months, or since August, 1912, more than five times as many manufacturers have taken up the six-cylinder car?

Who would consider the purchase of an automobile today without the fore doors? Not that such an automobile is not serviceable, but because it is out of date and has not kept up with the times.

In 1914, when every manufacturer who has been able to dispose of his old stock, is advocating and building left-side drives, will not the right-side drive car be as unsalable and conspicuously out of date as is the car without fore doors today, except foredoors can be added, while a right-side drive cannot be changed to a left-side drive?

Who would ever think of abandoning the left-side drive, where the passengers can enter from the sidewalk, for a right-side drive where, in order to comply with traffic regulation requiring you to stop with the traffic on the right side of the street, the occupants of the front seat must dismount in the street or go out into the street to enter the car?

The flush side body with concealed hinges and clear running boards will characterize the motor car of the future; the car with projecting hinges, tool boxes, battery boxes and spare tires on the running board, with projecting lamps and horns, will be conspicuously out of date.

There is no question as to which of the characteristics will mark the car of the future. Be sure the car you are considering has these cleaner, later and more practical characteristics, and is not already a year or more behind the times.

On Electric Cars Pneumatic and Solid Tires Are Doomed

Four years ago every electric car was equipped with pneumatic or solid tires. Today over half of the electric cars carry neither of these types.

The great majority now carry Motz Cushion Tires.

It probably won't be long now until a pneumatic-equipped or solid-tire-equipped electric will be an unusual sight.

Pneumatic tires lost out because they proved too treacherous, too troublesome—and too costly.

Solid tires lost out because they failed utterly to protect the occupants or the delicate parts of the car from rough bumps and jolts.

Motz Cushion Tires won out because in four years they proved to be BOTH easy-riding and trouble-proof. And because they reduced tire upkeep to a small item.

Shock-Absorbing Tires

Motz Cushion Tires, which have ended puncture and blowout troubles, opened people's eyes to the fact that a tire to be shock-absorbing and easy-riding does not have to be filled with air, liquid or any other kind of a filler. Amazing resiliency can be obtained by the use of purely mechanical principles.

See the double, notched treads (A in picture,) which prevent skidding and distribute the weight to the sides.

The sides are undercut (see B), which allows free action of slantwise bridges (see C). These bridges are elastic. They give and yield like the air in a pneumatic tire. Note D in the picture, showing shock-absorbing qualities when tire runs over a stone.

Economy

No user of Motz Cushion Tires is burdened by tire-repair expense. Or by carrying extra, emergency tires. Or by having to buy new tires every few months.

These tires are specifically GUARANTEED for 10,000 miles, two years.

Would any pneumatic tire-maker dare guarantee his tires that long?

Did ever another tire offer such economy as this?

Adopted by Electric Makers

No matter what kind of an Electric you choose, the maker will equip it with Motz Cushion Tires if you so request. He will be glad to do it, knowing he's giving you a trouble-proof car and one that's well protected from the shocks of road contact.

Don't buy a fine electric and then spoil nine-tenths your pleasure by accepting any old tires. Look into this tire question. Send now for our NATIONAL PASTIME BOOMS IN AUSTRALIA.

While the stories of the delight that the French are taking in spasmodic ball games and of the civilizing influences exerted by the sport on the Philippines are interesting, down in New South Wales, in Australia, where they have the only real organized game, except Cuba, outside the United States and Canada, the 1912-13 season has come to a close, marking the fifteenth year of baseball in the Antipodes.

In the fifteenth annual report of the New South Wales Baseball Association, just at hand, the statement is made that a most successful season was enjoyed, with faster games, better attendance and a bigger balance on the right side of the ledger. The scope of "organized baseball" in Australia was enlarged during the year through formation of the Australian Baseball Council, which will have supervision not only over the leagues in New South Wales, but in Victoria and South Australia, which means that three States of the Australian Federation now have the game on a firm footing and it is noted that "baseball is now secure in its own enthusiastic following" among a population numbering some 3,000,000 Australians.

Three leagues played a regular schedule in New South Wales and then the best picked team from that State played a three-game series with the best that the State of Victoria could present, the result of the Interstate series being three straight wins for New South Wales.

TENNIS POPULAR IN HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

From the far-off islands of Hawaii comes a story of the hold which tennis has upon the population there and which illustrates what a wide hold the game is acquiring throughout the world. Cedric A. Major of Brooklyn left that city recently for even more distant parts and is now in Hawaii. According to his description of the situation there, sent to friends in this city, tennis is far and away the most popular sport.

Every large home of an American or English resident there is provided with a tennis court and most of them are very carefully constructed. The followers of the game are not confined to the Anglo-Saxon population. Native Hawaiians are enthusiastic over it and are said to be developing some fine players. They are splendid athletic material, as was demonstrated by the work of Duke Kahanamoku in swimming competitions last season.

Major writes that he thinks Hawaii will be able to put a team in the field in a few years which will compare favorably with the playing strength possessed by some of the contenders in the Davis cup matches this year. Major was better known in this city as a track performer than a tennis player. He ran for the High School and Cornell University.

Like most college athletes, he has found tennis a more practicable game since his graduation from Ithaca. He is steadily improving his court game and last year won the Lake George championship.

CINCINNATI BASE HIT HAS WON OUT.

Hereafter the fielder's choice known as a "Cincinnati base hit" because Jack Ryder of the city named has made a long fight to have it scored as a safe hit, will be scored as a safety in both major leagues and the minors are expected to follow suit, to make scoring uniform. Both Presidents Lynch and Johnson have given such instructions to their scorers, following a decision of the scoring committee of the Baseball Writers' Association favorable.

The disputed play has been so much discussed that it is pretty well known to all followers of the game, but this example will clear the minds of those in doubt:

With runners on first and second, the batsman hits to the pitcher or an infielder, who makes a perfect attempt to retire the runner going to second, or third, but the runner beats the ball and the batsman reaches first.

There will be no question as to whether the batter would have beaten the ball anyway, if a play had been made on him; if lands safe on a perfect play to another base, he gets a hit. Let pitchers mourn and base runners speed up, while averages fatten.

Motors for Balkans.

That the various Balkan States, since January 1, 1912, have purchased no less than 1400 motor trucks for use in the present war is the surprising disclosure made by a French periodical. Previous to January 1, the same States had bought from Germany alone 1126 of these modern war vehicles, so that the complete equipment of these States amounts to more than 2500 motor trucks in government service. Fully 2000 of these took part in the actual fighting, among the list being a number of armored trucks with field guns mounted, motor supply wagons and ammunition trucks, and others which replaced horses in the dragging of field artillery equipment. In addition to these German-made trucks the Balkan States purchased 500 trucks from France, Switzerland and Austria.

Real Problem.

FAST TRIO IN GREAT RACE.

Three Nationals Promised for Inter-city Battle.

Bert Dingley Asked to Drive One of the Racers.

May Be Induced to Remain In Pits as Manager.

Will Bert Dingley drive a National in the Panama-Pacific Los Angeles to San Francisco road race?

This question has not been put squarely up to the National man as yet and Dingley has not been forced to give his decision. He has been made a tentative offer and has neither accepted nor rejected the proposition.

Here is the problem. Dingley has a chance to drive an exact model of the National that won the 500-mile race at Indianapolis last year. A prominent man will purchase the car, enter it and pay Bert a snug sum to sit at the wheel of the car.

The recent announcement of Dingley that he has quit racing makes it awkward for the National sales-manager to change front. He would like to drive. He has given his word that he will not drive. Now it is up to Dingley to decide.

He will have several days, perhaps a week, in which to settle this matter. One car is on its way from the factory. Another roadster is here already. Either of these cars would suit the National man.

Barring all accidents Dingley would have a splendid chance for first place. He longs to meet Teddy Tetzlaff and Barney Oldfield. If he decides to enter he will strip the car and get out on the road at once. Dingley realizes the necessity for action and the need of careful practice.

NATIONAL TRIO.

Earle Y. Boothe, agent for the National and president of the National Motor Car Company, is at the factory in Indianapolis. He will remain in that city until after the 500-mile race. He is selecting the National car that is to be shipped to a private owner here. This racer will be entered no matter whether Bert decides to drive or remain in the pits.

Three National cars may be started. Here is the tempting offer tto Dingley to remain out of the contest. He has been asked to manage the race for the National team. There are those who figure that Dingley's services are so valuable in the pits that it would be folly for him to take the wheel even of one of his own cars.

With Dingley to manage the race the contest would have some of the features of the Santa Monica road battle when the National won first place in the heavy car event and the free-for-all. The question is up to Dingley and he must decide this week.

NEW LOZIER CHIEF CHOSEN AS LEADER.

Joseph M. Gilbert has become president and general manager of the Lozier Motor Company of Detroit, Mich., having resigned the general management of the United States Tire Company, to engage directly in the manufacture of the automobile. The announcement is one of great interest not only to the tire trade, but to every agent and owner of Lozier cars and the automobile trade in general. Gilbert was elected to succeed Harry M. Jewett of Detroit, who for some months has been the president of the company, making a considerable sacrifice of time and business interests to act in that capacity.

Harry A. Lozier was elected vice-president; Fred Glea, secretary and assistant treasurer, and N. R. Feltes treasurer. Jewett, who is a large coal operator in Detroit, will hereafter devote himself chiefly to the Paige Motor Car Company of Detroit, Mich., of which he is the head.

The coming of N. R. Feltes to the Lozier Company, in the capacity of treasurer, is another surprise. Feltes was for twenty years with Morgan & Wright of Detroit, the famous tire makers, and for ten years was treasurer of the concern. When the United States Tire Company was formed Feltes became its treasurer, retaining both offices until the present change to the Lozier Company. He is favorably known to bankers and financial houses not only in New York and Detroit, but in many other cities, and his connection with the Lozier Company will be of the utmost value to the company, as a financial asset in its relation with the bankers.

Paul Smith, who at one time was general sales manager of the Flanders Motor Company, and who became sales manager of the Lozier Company in February, continues in the latter capacity.

JONES AUTOLOG NEW FEATURE.

The Halliwell Company is showing the new Jones Autolog, which is proving a popular attachment for motor cars as it is an exact record of the maximum speed a car was making at any hour of the day. It also shows the speed at all times as an ordinary speedometer and the total mileage and miles per trip.

The truck recorder which performs the same functions is another popular instrument of the Jones line. Recent sales were made to the Pioneer Commercial Truck Company, the Pacific Sash and Door Company, the Maier Brewery Company and the Mathis Brewery Company.

The Halliwell Company has found it necessary to add two new salesmen to the force handling the Knight tire. This tire is now being used by such companies as the Pacific Light and Power Company, the Edison Electric Company, Fairbanks and Morse, Santa Monica Land and Water Company and the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company.

OLDFIELD'S MERCER HERE.

The Mercer racebout with the wire wheels which Barney Oldfield is to use for track racing arrived last week. It is a natty looking car and although it has a motor just under the 300 cubic inch displacement measurement it developed a speed of ninety-two miles an hour at the Mercer factory and in the hands of Oldfield will undoubtedly set some new records on California tracks. Oldfield is to drive a Mercer in the San Francisco road race and will leave soon for a trial trip over the course. There are now three Simplex cars and four Mercers entered in the long race.

Taking note of the new wire-wheeled Packard. Earle C. Anthony, the Packard agent, at the wheel of the 1914 model demonstrating to Ralph Hamlin, the Franklin agent, the fine points of the new wheel.

ONE HIT A DAY IS ALL THAT EASTERLY ASKS.

"If I can go to the plate once a day and make a hit when needed I am satisfied that I am earning my pay," says Ted Easterly. "Being a pinch hitter isn't the same as playing a regular position and taking your turn at bat more than once in a game. When a fellow sits on the bench say for five or six innings he hasn't any exact idea as to what the opposing pitcher is dishing up. A twirler may fool a batter early in the game, but the next time he comes up he may know what he is going to do, but the poor pinch hitter is placed at a big disadvantage.

"He is sent there when needed. The fans are placing their lone hope in his ability. There may be men on the bases with two outs, and what he is to do may turn the tide of the battle, so he is in the tightest possible hole. Some people say the batter has the advantage over the pitcher in a pinch, but no one can make me believe it. A pitcher has eight others to help him, but the pinch hitter is all there by his lonesome and has to depend upon his eye alone.

"Picking out the good and bad ones is considered an art, but, to be honest I have hit some almost impossible ones that have help win a few games. Generally it is a case of a pitcher going through on his nerve. The foxy fellow in the box figures out where to pitch them wide or high. Others times pitchers have been known to groove them, the most dangerous of all risks. This is where Ed Walsh is particularly strong. He shines in a pinch. Ed, when cornered, takes no chances. You will never see him grooving any ball. He knows what it means to put that pill in the slot. Instead he sends over a few of those spitters that break a little above or below the knee, and any one who hits them safe at this angle is lucky."

Ted Easterly has earned a warm spot in the hearts of White Sox followers for his ability to hit the ball when needed. Since he has been working for Comiskey, he has more than earned his keep. In a stretch of games last year he made seven consecutive hits. In the city series he also distinguished himself. This year Manager Callahan hopes to see Easterly have his best season. Last year Easterly's ability as a catcher was impaired because of a broken finger on his throwing hand.

MANY STARS ENTER AMERICAN OLYMPIC.

Including some of the greatest athletic associations in the country, upward of fifty clubs and college athletic organizations have already accepted the invitation and will send teams to compete in the American Olympic games, to be held in Grant Park, Chicago, from June 28 to July 6. One of the first to accept and request entry blanks, etc., was the Irish American Athletic Association of New York, the organization which has produced such men as Martin Sheridan, Matt McGrath, Mel Sheppard, Abel Kiviat and a score of other world-famed athletics.

Mayor Harrison and the City Council of Chicago, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Board of Education, the League of Women's Clubs, embracing a membership in Cook county of 40,000—in short, every civic and educational and business organization in Chicago, has indorsed the meet and is exerting every effort in its behalf.

The presence of the Swedish point winners at the Stockholm Olympic meet is already assured, through Chas. S. Peterson, president of the Swedish Clubs of Chicago, and members of the Board of Education.

Charles E. Bartley, chairman of the College Committee, with the assistance of the Yale and Harvard clubs of Chicago, promises the presence of the star athletes from Oxford and Cambridge universities, England, who are coming to this country for the international intercollegiate meet with Yale and Harvard.

Nicholas Salopoulos, Greek Consul in Chicago, is active in a movement among Chicago Greeks to not only raise a fund and offer a splendid trophy in the name of Greece, but also to furnish entries for about seven events.

Similarly Italian and German residents of Chicago are preparing to enter star athletics representing their respective countries, while the Norwegians are exerting every effort to run even with their Swedish compatriots.

ANOTHER SPEEDWAY.

Indianapolis is to have a rival at Saltair, Utah, if the plans of the Salt Lake Automobile Speedway Company go through. The company has been heralding the oval speedway, that it is to construct as being planned, to be the second best in the world, and cost, at least, $20,000. It is to be built on the same plan as the Indianapolis speedway, with a two and one-half-mile lap, and the only difference being in the use of macadam for the turns, instead of brick. The track will be sixty feet wide on the stretches, and thirty feet on the turns. Contract for the work has been placed, and work will be commenced in a short time. By next year the center of the track will be oiled and placed in condition for auto polo.

WIRE WHEELS HERE TO STAY

Novel Demonstration Has By Prominent Dealer

Ease of Operation and Extreme Simplicity Prove

Packard Made Even More Easy-Riding, Says Agent

We are just now in the midst of our most interesting automobile selling season, according to Earle C. Anthony, president of the Pacific Motor Company, and agent for the Packard. The startling change in the new wire-wheeled Packard, which is at all radical, has caused the Packard salesroom at the Packard home to been crowded every day of the past week. The wire wheels have won places in the estimation not only of the Packard owners and dealers, but of all motorists who have found time to examine the latest "Six" Packard 24-44.

This model shows off perfectly well with the new wire wheels. The easy riding qualities of the car, already been tested and proved, with the new wheels added now is given, the ensures is made more comfortable and the tire and wear of the tires is said to be practically cheapened in half.

After the most exhaustive demonstrations, when the car has been driven fast, whirled around corners, sent up steep hills and down the roughest of roads the wire wheel appear to have made good. They are easily removed. It is a question of only a few moments to fit a set in place of a wood with the tires mounted or with the casing blown.

The extra wheel is carried in such a way that it appears right on the in the way of the mechanism during the car. It is dropped into a pan in the running board and is low the level of the chassis.

Packard Motor Car Company, and Earle was prepared. The was removed. It was then fitted into place in so short a time that demonstration proved as easy even to air-cooled fans.

From the way in which the car was handled it is easy to see that the simple mechanism which enables the autoist in a position of safety ence even if the tire does blow out. The comfort that is added to the car more than makes up for any expense which may be incurred in carrying an extra wheel. It is also material when considering the equipment of the spare wheel.

WAGNER ACTED AS THE OFFICIAL HAT SMASHER.

It is a common sight, of course, to see a major league ball club leave town, going to or from a baseball boarding house. But Ty Cobb's recent ago when four different clubs left from Cleveland to Chicago on the same train.

The clubs were the Naps, Chicago, Pittsburgh Pirates, the Chicago Whales and the Chicago White Sox, all bound to the Windy City to play the next day.

"One doesn't often see a thing like that," says Tuck. "It was the result of plenty of traveling. Cleveland is down to the union depot at the same time, each with its special train. Each ular night train to Chicago, and which held a big passenger list.

"Back in the Players' League days tinued Tuck, "it was customary for cided to buy two special trains. Each cago was rushed. Also it was decided that Hank Wagner, of the Pirates, the official destroyer of hats, demned headgear.

"This decided, the two special trains emply moved from one to the other car, rendering each berth perfectly useless. Of course, the idea of wearing apparel, but it did not destroy each one to the extent that man had to wear some of the other's or disembarking, as the case may be, ones."

SCORING BASEBALL GAMES.

Second of a Series of Articles Intended to Clear Up Points on Which Many Fans Are in Doubt—This One Deals With Base Hits and Near Base Hits.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS,
(Official Scorer Los Angeles and Venice Clubs.)

In the scoring of hits and errors, as in the greatest difference of opinion, since this is one game in baseball that is almost entirely a question of judgment.

There are general rules laid down for the scoring of hits and errors, but as there are rules to act as guides to the umpires, but on almost every play it narrows down to a question of judgment on the part of the umpire.

The umpire holds true in scoring hits and frequently the scorer must use "close ones" to decide in a case that the umpire has close decision.

In order to do this with a reasonable degree of accuracy the scorer must be familiar with the speed of the players in the league in getting to the ball, the ability of infielders to get the ball away quickly, and with which the various players are able to play their position, to get a man at first base and many other individual points that enter into the calculations of the scorer, but which are absolutely essential to an interpretation of those errors that is fair to the batter and pitcher.

Take a baseball game in the suburbs of the point in question. There were two men on the opposing second baseman, one of them were juggled, but the runner on a base hit and was safe on error. This decision would agree with the respective speed of the two men as a basis.

Two players almost identical—Kane and Shaw. Shaw hit the ball to Kane, who juggled, but recovered with perfect fielding. Put Shaw with the same kind of a hitter, although fast for a man, would be beaten out by a foot race with Kane to first base. It was a hit. Kane would have been given the chance cleanly, as the play was recorded as an error.

Many of these drives are too hot to handle. The fielder, if he is a brave man, may succeed in blocking the drive, but cannot recover in time to get his man. Other drives are too slow to be handled in time to retire the runner, while still others pull the infielder off his balance and leave him in a position where it is impossible for him to make an accurate throw. In cases of this kind both man should be given the benefit of the doubt, the fielder exempted from an error and the batter credited with a hit.

Then allowance must be made for bad bounds, due to a rough playing surface caused by the players' spikes, or the amount of "English" that is on the drive. The best fielders may be made to look foolish by a sickly, harmless little grounder that suddenly takes an impish hop. These plays are frequently greeted with groans and expressions of disgust and yet the fielder in question was playing the ball as perfectly as it was possible for a man to do.

Again, a ball may be driven at an infielder with terrific force. It is one of these "ground-huggers," sticking close to the sod, and one of the hardest chances known to baseball. The infielder stoops, makes a scoop for the ball, and comes up with empty hands. The drive has taken a sudden hop and shot between the fielder's arms and legs and on into open space without having touched any part of his body or clothing. Some of these hits are as clean as though the ball had been a line drive over the fielder. It is almost impossible to anticipate the actions of a ground ball under these conditions, but the fielder seldom gets much credit if he makes the play. If the ball bounds, as he anticipates, he makes it look like an easy chance, while in reality it is probably fraught with more elements of uncertainty than any other variety of drive. If the shortstop goes up in the air and spears a liner with one hand, the crowd is quick to stamp it as a "sensational play," yet any infielder prefers a redhot line drive to a "ground-hugger." If the line drive gets away from him the crowd passes it by with the comment "too hot to handle," but there is no mercy shown the unfortunate who has just felt a hot one sizzle between his outspread legs.

The speed of some batters, their ability to beat out dinky infield drives, is another point that should be considered. The fact that the knowledge of this has a tendency to put the opposing infielders "in the air," by making them nervous, and causing them to over-run or fumble bunts and follow this with a wild throw, counts in favor of the batter rather than against the opposing fielders. Cobb owes many of his hits to his ability to demoralize the opposing infield.

Here, as in other situations, it narrows down to a matter of judgment or personal opinion, but a batter's ability to cause this result in the infield of the enemy is an element which must be considered.

[The third article of this series will appear next Sunday and will be a continuation of the subject of base hits.]

REASONS WHY DETROIT GET "TY" COBB'S DEMANDS

Ty has also been a tower of strength on defense. His grand fielding average since he has been with the Tigers is .950. He has made 1569 putouts and 160 assists.

Automobile and accessory dealers in Washington, D. C., are organizing an automobile section of the Retail Merchants' Association for mutual protection. By affiliating with the other merchants, the automobile and accessory dealers will be given the advantages of a credit system and bu-over .500 during each of the last four years, while in 1911 he slammed the ball for .431.

Ty has done some pilfering of bases also. His stolen base kernels, starting with 1906, number 28, 49, 59, 76, 65, 83 and 61, respectively. His two-base, three-base and home-run kernels have also been numerous. He handed the fans 4 doubles and 24 triples in 1911, these being his high-water marks, and 9 home runs in 1909.

TOTAL RECORD.

Summed up offensively Ty in 1030 games has been at bat 3912 times and scored 736 runs and cracked out 1435 hits, an average of more than 1.4 hit gies per game. Included in his hits are 230 doubles, 112 triples and 40 home runs. He has made 104 sacrifice hits and purloined 398 bases. His batting average is .367—think of that—and his slugging mark, .516—and think of that again!

Van's Story.

MANDOT'S CAMP INTERESTING.

Joe Refuses to Chatter on Personal Subjects.

His Wife Is the Champion Lightweight Cook.

Pop-Corn Suggested Remedy for Shinnyness.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

One of the most pleasant and interesting visits I have ever paid to a professional boxers camp was last Friday when I took a trip to Joe Mandot's training quarters at Peters's gymnasium at Venice.

I met four people there, each of whom was interesting and entertaining in the fighting game. First was Joe Mandot, that clever, modest and earnest boy who is trying hard to get back in line for the championship in the lightweight class.

Mandot is about the hardest fellow I ever met to get to talk about himself. If it were not for his energetic manager, Tommy Walsh, we would have little to say about Joe.

Joe is all attention to his work, conscientious about it all, and is leaving nothing undone to enter the ring this month in the best of condition. He also realizes that if he loses this fight it will be all off with him for a chance at the championship.

Friday he worked out in much better form than at any time I have seen him on the Coast. I do not hesitate to say that he is nearly 50 per cent faster than at any time he appeared here before.

He boxed two rounds with "Dude" Clark, a fast and clever middleweight, and two rounds with Hobo Doherty. In his bout with Clark he stood toe to toe and exchanged rights with him and held his own. I remarked to Tommy Walsh and Joe that he was taking a lot of chances in exchanging blows with such a dangerous boy as Clark, and all Mandot said was, "I like to get some of the rough stuff and it is doing me good."

Mandot never appeared as fast, clever, or hit as hard, as he did Friday. There is only one danger, that is for his manager and trainer not to allow him to go stale. He could enter the ring today and fight better than at any time he has ever shown here before.

Nick Lewis, who is training him, is one of the best trainers on the coast, also a boxer and a first-class masseur. Nick and Tommy Walsh are watching Joe night and day and there is little chance of his going stale.

Mandot did nothing yesterday, but will do a good, hard workout today and rest again tomorrow. He weighed just 132½ pounds Friday and will take no chances of getting too far below his natural weight. No matter who goes down to see him, he will work as his manager and trainer order.

The next person in the camp, who is principally the head of the show, is Mrs. Mandot. While she is leaving the training to Walsh and Lewis, she is always the main event at the training table.

Mrs. Mandot is a great cook from the old southern school and is manager-general of all that Joe, Walsh, Lewis, and Joe's trainers eat. If she wanted to, she could hold a job in any first-class hotel as a chef. But her only interest at the present time is her husband.

Tommy Walsh prides himself that he knows a good beef-steak from a bad one, also, that he is a good judge of vegetables and other things that are good for a fighter to eat. But when Mrs. Mandot takes the basket and goes to the market, they all take off their hats to her.

Tommy Walsh has been eating so much that he is taking to the road with Mandot every morning to keep his weight down. He said: "If I don't run, or eat less, I will surely bust."

Mrs. Mandot is also training. When she arrived here she complained that she was getting too thin and wanted to take on more weight. She thought she could do this by living in the sea air at Venice. She says her appetite has improved, yet she is not gaining weight.

I mentioned to her the fact that I have a sister that I used to "kid" about being so thin that she had to stand three times in the same place to make a shadow.

Then I suggested that she eat pop-corn every day. She took the advice and ate three bags of pop-corn every day for three months and gained eight pounds.

Joe Mandot is now making arrangements to furnish his wife with all the popcorn she can eat while he is at the beach, but says if she gets too fat he will get a divorce. Joe is very much prejudiced against fat women.

Mrs. Mandot says when she gets ten pounds more on herself she will be satisfied.

I surely encouraged her to try the experiment. Some of you skinny girls take notice.

Mrs. Mandot is surely a charming little southern lady and a big help to her great fighting husband, Joe.

Next is Tommy Walsh, Joe's manager. Tommy is a well-known referee, who acted as third man in the ring many times in old Naud Junction several years ago. He resigned, went East, and has been refereeing, managing and training fighters ever since. Tommy was a success from the start. He knows all the angles of the game and is a great booster.

Any time any of you fellows have the "blues," just take a run down to Venice and listen to Tommy tell of the fine points of Joe Mandot and a lot of others he has met. Tommy is always as busy as a bee, enthusiastic and a good entertainer when talking fight.

Nick Lewis is the "man behind the gun" and he is on to his job at all times. He is one of the best in the business and is also one of the ablest seconds in the country. He will be a great asset to Mandot when he starts with Anderson.

Mandot is particularly proud to have Hobo Doherty in his camp. Hobo made a great hit with Joe when he trained him in New Orleans and Joe is particularly anxious to have his friends in the South know that Hobo will be with him in this fight.

Mandot seems to be more anxious to win from Anderson than to win the championship.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

Oversize Means This

Ten per cent extra air capacity over hooked-base clincher tires.

It means the same as extra width, which costs you extra money. It means, on the average, 25 per cent more mileage.

No-Rim-Cut tires, with this 10 per cent oversize, cost no more than clinchers.

More Than 10%

The oversize of No-Rim-Cut tires is more than 10 per cent.

Actual comparison with six makes of clinchers shows the average oversize 16.7 per cent.

That means that you get in No-Rim-Cut tires about one-sixth more air capacity than you get in clinchers. And air is what carries the load.

You get this extra without extra cost. For No-Rim-Cut tires now cost the same as standard clincher tires.

Then Add This

You also get in this new type a tire that can't rim-cut. A clincher tire can and does.

Statistics show that 23 per cent of all clincher tires become rim-cut.

Those are the reasons why clincher tires must go. Men will not stand this rim-cut ruin when a new-type tire prevents it.

Men are bound to demand an oversize tire when they know what it adds to their tire mileage.

No-Rim-Cut tires now outsell all others. Their sales are doubling over and over.

When you know these tires, as legions do, you will never buy any others. Come let us show them to you.

Write for the Goodyear Tire Book—14th year edition. It tells all known ways to economize on tires.

Why An Underslung?

AN UNDERSLUNG automobile carries its frame below the axle. This type of construction presents certain advantages with which the intending buyer of a new car should become familiar.

Underslung construction is the safest construction known. The weight of the car is carried well within the wheels and nearer the ground. At the same time there is ample and even clearance. Nothing hangs below the frame. The vital parts of the car are protected. "Turning turtle" becomes impossible—skidding is reduced to the minimum.

All Regal Underslungs possess these advantages and many others. So well established is their type of construction that it deserves the careful consideration of every buyer. We ask you to see and ride in one of the Regal cars. Examine them at the local show room.

FAMOUS HASBEENS NO. 7

Was Star Performer at Methodist College in the Happy Days and Came Back as Graduate Coach and Near Mexican Athlete.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

QUITE some guy, this fellow Boyd Comstock. He is graduate coach at U.S.C., owner of an orange plantation, and a member of the City Council of Glendora. At one time he was quite some athlete; but that was before there were any Fred Kelleys or Fred Thompsons in the ring. He was almost a bullfighter, too, but he wasn't.

Comstock first broke into athletics in Chicago. While a member of the first year class of Northwest Division High School he won the Chicago playground championship in the pole vault at eight feet six inches, and received one fine gold medal which turned to copper two months later. This was in 1901. That summer his people came out to California and brought the kid pole vaulter along for luck.

The Comstock family located at The Palms and the prize son was sent to Santa Monica High School. He competed in the first Los Angeles county interscholastic meet, which was held on the Harvard School field, and won first place and the championship in the pole vault at nine feet three inches, over Crowley of Throop Polytechnic. It was a cold day. The Santa Monica rooters stood around him to break the wind and they almost fell at his feet when he won the event.

A little fray with the principal resulted in Comstock's making a quick getaway from Santa Monica High. He laid off for a season and worked on the family walnut ranch.

A young theological student named Ashcraft was preaching at The Palms and "Commie" was treasurer of the Methodist Sunday-school there. The cadet preacher told our hero about the great university with a prep. department, where naughty boys with high school athletic records were as welcome as the flowers in May. It listened well and "Commie" thought it over.

Several weeks later the pole vaulter decided to up and take a look at the Methodist university. He hitched the old gray mare to the ancient rig and drove out to Bovard field. There wasn't much to see. Charley Parsons, the sprinter; Charley Broderson, the big "Swede," and Harvey Holmes, the coach, were about all he could find.

The high fence had not been built around the field and all that stood for a real university was a shaky brick building with badly-worn steps. Still, the old place made a favorable impression on the lad, and after the walnut crop had been taken care of "Commie" showed up at U.S.C. and registered as a prep.

That spring he went out for the track team and was the one big scream as a pole vaulter. He was the live wire in this event, ever located at the local university. Never had a U.S.C. vaulter gone higher than 9 feet 6 inches, and Comstock cleared 10 feet in practice.

In the Occidental meet, which was the first one ever won by U.S.C., he beat Bruce Merrill at 10 feet 1 inch, and hoisted a new Southern California record for the event.

Pomona had one of her annual peeves lodged against the Methodist bunch that season, and Comstock did not get a crack at Roy Davis, the Claremont vaulter.

From the first "Commie" was noted for his fondness for clashy colors. He had his track suit decorated with a superfluity of passionate tints, and insisted on wearing one of those idiotic college caps on the hind end of his bean every time he competed. The crowd-head cap was done in the colors of a prep. school fraternity and the star vaulter looked like a stick of Christmas candy on the field.

As a vaulter his form was rotten; but he got over and won the points. As he would leave the ground there would be a flash of color. Legs and arms flopped around in the air and the athlete never lit on the same spot twice. He hurled himself over the bar with great force and never seemed to care how he landed when he came down. This was responsible for his first injury, a sprained ankle.

In the dual meet with St. Vincent's he lost to Wilholt. The Catholic boy came to the front and put the Southern California record at 11 feet. This mark held good until Richardson came to U.S.C. two years later. Comstock's best vault was 10 feet 6 inches.

The following year, 1908, the pole vaulter branched out a bit. He competed against Occidental in high jump, pole vault and shot put. He won the pole and shot events, took second in the high jump, while "Commie" made the All-Southern California team that year and went East to compete against California at Stanford. Breitkreutz was the other U.S.C. man on the squad.

At Stanford Comstock took second place in the pole. Lanagan, one of the world's record in the event at the time, took first place.

The southern boy did better at Berkeley. He tied for second place at 11 feet, against fifteen men. Comstock had entered everything on the Cleveley campus which looked like a pole vaulter. They started vaulting at 9 o'clock in the afternoon and kept at it until the contest was called on account of darkness. The man who finished first, second and third in the event against Stanford the year before were all in the field. Comstock and two of them and tied with a third horse coming out of the fight and taking first at 11ft. 6in.

The records made by Comstock this season were: pole vault, 11ft; high jump, 5ft. 8in.; shot put, 36ft. He scored a total of 75½ points for U.S.C. and Fred Kelley has scored a total of 77½ points this year.

Comstock played first base on the varsity nine in 1906 and drove in the only home run of the intercollegiate series. It was made off Pat Phillips, the St. Vincent's pitcher, who later went to the Angels.

It was at this time that the athletic young gentlemen about town took the bull-fighting profession. A Mexican stabber named Felix Robert, who was holding forth at Tia Juana, decided to breeze into Los Angeles in order to see the Methodist boy clear the bar at 11ft. He promptly stepped forth and offered to make Comstock the pioneer Mexican athlete of the world. All he had to do was to appear in his nerve thrilling act of fighting the bull on the high. It was a tempting offer, but "Commie's" numerous sweethearts discouraged him, he decided to remain at college and later try his luck at throwing the bull.

The bear full fighter was the star performer at U.S.C. until Chet Richardson came down from Stanford at Santa Paula and beat him out in every event. He was small and in 1907, but an old-time athlete from the East suggested that he try the hurdles.

For about three weeks he trained and in the first tryouts he fell at the second hurdle. When the interscholastic meet was run off, he bet Warren Bovard a box of candy he would beat out the varsity hurdlers, Carl Elliott and Walter Lennox. At the crack of the gun he tore off down the lane and went through every hurdle in 17 flat, winning the race.

The first meet of the season was with Los Angeles High School. Wilholt, the former St. Vincent star, had been enlisted at the High School and he sure was out to clean the Lincoln men. Them was the happy days, for it was perfectly all right to knock down hurdles. Comstock figured on one of the barriers and took the race in 16 flat, setting up a new Southern California record on the side.

He was so clever at knocking down hurdles, Occidental thought the only way to keep him from winning was to lock the sticks, and their star "Commie" came out with a padded guard lashed to his leg and started out to wreck every new-home in the lane. He did not get far, as the second fight put him on his head in the center of the track. Of course he was going to tick "Belmont" over the ing, and about seven other hurdles, and it might have been a good one if he had; but he tripped on the last and did little damage.

Bill Spurgeon beat him by a foot in the Pomona meet, at 10 feet 6 in the Stanford meet, Lanagan fell at the third barrier. Comstock had a full hurdle length to the seventh hurdle, and was passed at the tape by McFarland.

In the California meet at Berkeley all went well until Comstock hit the fourth fence. When he got untangled he was on the track with a painful hip. Holmes took him over and had him in the pole vault, but the judges said it was cruelty and kicked him out of the event.

This almost ended "Commie's" athletic career; but, when the All-Star meet was announced, he could not keep out of the running. He won the high hurdles at 16:1, took the pole sticks and won the pole at 11ft. 6in. He made sixty-eight points for the varsity in 1907.

That ended Comstock's career as a college athlete. He quit and went back to Chicago for a trip. He came back in time to enter the T.A.C. meet at Pasadena. The pole vault and he failed to cop the event for place.

The following fall he started for Yale to complete his college course, but fell in with the captain of the Harvard boat crew, on the trip, and ended up at "Fatsh" Harvard. He weighed 190 pounds now, and did not have a chance in the hurdles or the pole vault. He won the shot put in the annual mid-winter games. Played on the class Ia Crew team, won an open-boxing tournament, and flirted around on the side.

The next fall he was back as coach at Riverside High School. The next year he took up the duties at Citrus Union High. The third year he handled the Citrus boys and won every championship open to them in the country.

They took suburban, state, league championships, Pacific Coast and national championships. On the strength of the showing made by the High School boys, Comstock was elected to the City Council of Glendora.

This season, he came to U.S.C. and took up the duties of graduate coach. U.S.C. enjoyed the best indoor and outdoor track season in her history this year, and "Commie" proved that he was not a hasbeen as a coach, although he is a guy that ain't as a competing athlete.

PEERLESS NEW MODELS

Again First in Beauty and Safety

THROUGH the development of details these Peerless new models reach the highest point yet attained in Motor Car construction.

Absolute confidence in the Peerless is evidenced by the large booking of orders even before the first of the new models was ready for demonstration. We are accepting orders now for May 15th delivery.

The outward beauty of the Peerless New Models is an expression of their inward fitness—of years of research and critical appreciation maturing into the perfect car.

The inside quality of a piece of steel—as well as its size—determines its strength and your safety. Heat treatment, a vital science developed in the Peerless Plant to a point that exceeds the resources of the universities, is the controlling factor that fixes for good the durability of a gear, the strength of a shaft, the resiliency of a spring, the life of a bearing. These things are predetermined in every Peerless Motor Car.

Three Sizes

To meet the power ranges proper to a car of the Peerless type we offer three six-cylinder models: "38-Six," "48-Six" and "60-Six."

Long Stroke Motor

The cylinder dimensions of the "38-Six," "48-Six" and "60-Six" are respectively 4x8½, 4½x6 and 5x7 inches. The long stroke Peerless motor is known for its silent, vibrationless operation and its unusual power, flexibility and smooth action at low speeds.

Electric Starting and Easy Steering

The Peerless was the first high-quality motor car to adopt the electric starter with separate electric motor. Pressure on a pedal starts the engine. The steering column is irreversible. It is almost as easy to drive a Peerless car over rough roads as over smooth roads.

Peerless Bodies

Body lines are unequaled in beauty. No obtrusion of the mechanism even in the bonnet. Chair seats in the tonneau fold out of sight. Extra tires are carried in the rear.

Heat Treated Steels

Rigid selection and inspection of steels and specific modes of heat treatment insure the highest development of physical qualities required in each vital part. Wear-proof gears, with tough cores and glass-hard tooth surfaces are produced with scientific accuracy.

VELIE TRUCK'S GREAT RECORD

Two and a Half Days to Heart of Imperial.

Three-ton-Load Delivered and Renton Gets Check.

Fastest Time Ever Made Into Town of Brawley.

Two days and a half from Los Angeles to Brawley is the remarkable record of a Velie three-tonner on a unique test. F. A. Renton, the Velie agent, sold the truck to A. Bodine of Brawley with the implied condition that the check would be paid the moment the truck arrived. The course was laid out by Bodine. He offered Renton the hardest run ever handed to a local truck man. Commercial vehicles have made the run to Imperial in four days. They have covered the roads between this city and Imperial with difficulty. Renton was forced to deliver three tons of goods in three days. This meant a record.

Early in the morning Renton sent a wire Freeman to The Times Office with the load and the truck was sent out. Twelve hours and nine minutes after being checked out at First and Broadway the Velie rolled into San Diego, a record for a three-ton load.

VELIE TRUCK'S GREAT RECORD.

Two and a Half Days to Heart of Imperial.

Three-ton-Load Delivered and Renton Gets Check.

Fastest Time Ever Made Into Town of Brawley.

Two days and a half from Los Angeles to Brawley is the remarkable record of a Velie three-tonner on its initial test. P. A. Renton, the owner, sold the truck to A. Bodine of Brawley with the implied condition that the check would be paid the moment the truck arrived. The course was laid out by Bodine. He offered Renton the hardest run that he could find for a local truck man. Commercial vehicles have made the trip to Imperial in four days. They have covered the roads between this city and Imperial with difficulty. Some have been forced to deliver three tons of goods in three days. This is a record.

Early in the morning Renton sent a wire Freeman to The Times Office that the load and the truck was sent on. Twelve hours and nine minutes after being checked out at First and Broadway the Velie rolled into Brawley, a record for a three-ton truck, and a load from Los Angeles to Brawley in less than three days.

Velie truck loaded and ready for record run to Imperial Valley.

This is the three-tonner, with a capacity load, which was sent through the Devil's Canyon to Brawley after A. Bodine had offered to purchase the truck from P. A. Renton provided the Velie could deliver the load—Bodine owns the truck.

The car attracted so much attention that Renton told his plucky driver to keep the truck in town for the remainder of the afternoon. He did so, but early on the following morning the Velie was started from San Diego for its run through the Devil's Canyon to Brawley. Renton had taken a chance of losing the sale by the delay, but he says it was worth it to watch the people as they plied the driver with questions.

Out into Steele Canyon the Velie was driven early in the morning. The lateral of the ocean-to-ocean highway, that section built by the people of San Diego county, proved to be in good shape. The deep sand near El Centro, however, was the place where the severe test was to come. Bodine and a company of friends drove out to see the Velie "stuck" as he put the matter.

"Step on her hard when you come to that sand," was the command of Renton and Harvey heard and obeyed.

"We'll send her to her destination or leave her to rust in the dry bed of that stream," declared Renton.

That Velie truck tore its way through the deep sand. The Maier's Select was delivered as per schedule and the truck reached Brawley two and a half days after it had left The Times Office. A record to the heart of the Imperial Valley.

Possibilities of motor hauling were opened by the run of the Velie. Bodine wished to be known and was satisfied. He proved that he can secure stuff on a hurry order and cart it into Brawley in less than three days after it is loaded.

MAURICE GOES EAST.

American Tennis Champions to Enter Davis Cup Matches for National Team—Is in Form.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Maurice McLoughlin, the American tennis champion, will leave here for Boston tomorrow to pick out the rackets he will use in the race for the Davis trophy in the preliminary matches to be played June 6, 7, 8. McLoughlin, has twice been defeated by Australian players, but the players he will meet this year are not generally accounted so formidable, and he will have the advantage of playing on courts with which he is familiar.

Racers Burn Roads.

Barney Oldfield is in the race to win. The world's track champion who drove a mile in 46 2-5s. at Bakersfield, will drive a Mercer. Another reason why a Mercer has a fine chance to win. Oldfield will practice. He expects to study the road carefully. His car is fast. The touring car he is driving will do better than seventy miles an hour and with another twenty miles added to the racer's speed, Barney will be one of starters who has a fine chance for the $10,000 purse.

TEDDY AWAY.

Teddy Tetzlaff is at Indianapolis. He will drive an Isotta-Fraschini there in the 500-mile race. He will return at once as soon as the race is over and will get out on the road with his Fiat. It is possible that two more Fiats will be added to the lists before the present month is over. Attorney E. E. Hewlett has not decided as yet how many cars he will enter. A Fiat team would be a great card to draw to for this great race. It is a possibility.

Don Lee is one of the enthusiasts in this big race. With three Cadillacs Don has an excellent chance to take first money. He is a sport and a real racer. Don wants to win, not for the purse, but for the glory of winning the biggest road race ever carded. He is out with three cars and with a trio of fast Cadillacs as a bid for first place, it is more than likely that the Cadillacs will be well up in the money when the race is finished.

One prominent Democratic Senator declares that it will not be surprising if Japan should land troops in California inside of thirty days or six weeks, because of the alien land bill. It would require three years or more for us to drive the Japs from our soil, he also declared.

Fierce Battles.

KETCHUM WINS FROM STRACHAN.

Santa Monica Boy Captures Tennis Honors.

Peck Griffin Defeats State Champ Johnson.

Bundy and Dawson Lose by Lop-Sided Score.

BY R. A. WYNNE.

Perhaps the most brilliant finals of any tennis tourney held in Southern California in the last five years were the matches played yesterday on the courts of the Maryland at Pasadena when the championships of the first annual Spring Festival tennis tournament were fought out.

More than 500 of the society folk of Los Angeles and Pasadena filled the gallery and witnessed the fierce finishing matches which brought out fully as good tennis as will be seen on the courts at Newport when the famous all-comers is staged.

DOPE IS UPSET.

The feature of the matches was the upset of the "dope" in the semi-finals of the men's open singles for the Maryland Cup, in which young Marshall Ketchum, of the Santa Monica High School defeated John Strachan of San Francisco in two straight sensational sets. Ketchum made perhaps the greatest fight of his life against Strachan and won the hearts of the big gallery with his famous grin which followed every good shot he made. He defeated Strachan, who had been doped to win into the finals and play William Johnston, also of San Francisco, by the score of 8-6 7-5.

Again in the upper half of the brackets the dope in the semi-finals was upset. "Peck" Griffin of San Francisco defeated William Johnston, State champion, in straight sets and won the right to meet Ketchum in the finals.

This final match was a fiercely contested fight from start to finish. Ketchum fought hard and played the most brilliant tennis but lacked the steadiness and knowledge of inside tennis that Griffin possessed and lost the championship by a close margin.

SOME POOR TENNIS.

The finals of the double events resulted in poor tennis. Bundy and Dawson met Strachan and Griffin and lost the match. Bundy was in very poor form and showed lack of practice. Dawson was also off for the day it seemed and the San Francisco youngsters, who, by the way, hold the California State championship in men's doubles, ran the match out by the ridiculously one-sided score of 6-0 6-1.

Whatever this match lacked in brilliancy was made up in the next event, which was the finals of the all-comers' men's singles for the championship of the Ojai Valley. William Johnston and John Strachan were the contestants and from the very start it was seen that there was blood on the moon.

REAL WORK HERE.

The men started with Joe Daley, the famous professional tennis player, as umpire, and each man won his service handily up to five games all. Johnston, who was playing a trifle below par at this time, was able to squeeze the set out, 7-5. In the next set Strachan took a brace and tore through Johnston for the set to the tune of 6-2. In the third set the men, having taken a short rest, opened fast, but it was soon seen that Strachan was off a little and that Johnston had suddenly blossomed out into his very best championship form. Johnston played as brilliant tennis in this set as could be witnessed in the United States. He won this set 6-0, and took the Ojai championships.

Last night the tennis players remained over at the Maryland for a tennis dinner and dance. The affair was informal and practically the entire tennis set of Southern California was present. The presentation of the three handsome cups from the Maryland, Spaldings and Feagans & Co. were made.

The results of the day are:

Men's open singles—Johnston beat Warren by default; Griffin beat Barber, 8-6, 6-4; Griffin beat Johnston, 6-2, 6-4; Strachan beat R. Johnson, 6-1, 6-4; Ketchum beat McCorinick by default; Ketchum beat Strachan, 8-6, 7-5; Griffin beat Ketchum, 6-3, 6-2, winning the Maryland chalenge trophy.

Men's open doubles—Strachan and Griffin beat Bundy and Dawson, 6-0, 6-1.

Ladies' singles—Mrs. B. M. Stickrod beat Miss Elizabeth Sherk, 7-5, 6-3, winning the Feagans trophy.

KINGSLEY HIGH AMATEUR.

Salt Lake Gunner Divides Honors with Seattle Pro in Second Day of Venice shoot.

More interesting than the first day was the second day's shooting of the annual tournament of the Los Angeles Gun Club Mon the Venice grounds yesterday. There were 180 men shooting, 200 targets being the number of events, each of twenty birds.

High amateur for the day was Kingsley of Salt Lake, with a score of 189 down. He lost most of the 11 birds through bad angles. High professional was Reed of Seattle, who scored the same, 189 birds.

Today there will be the biggest events of the meet. There will be five 20-bird events, and the classic Los Angeles handicap at 100 birds, the winner guaranteed $250 and a suitably engraved watch.

Following are the scores: Ruhstaller, 184; Hoyt, 166; Bruner, 167; Haight, 164; Cadwell, 166; Hunter, 163; Groat, 164; Llewellyn, 157; Packard, 184; Melford, 106; Weisser, 179; Halbritter, 177; Toews, 174; Wetzell, 166; Walker, 165; Elker, 153; Ervast, 174; Julian, 147; Merrill, 176; Grier, 153; Trens, 175; McGowan, 65; Miller, 129; Mellus, 179; Fesler, 171; Anderson, 176; Owens, 173; Robinson, 73; C. Mileage Is What You Want In Tires —Without Sacrifices

When choosing your tires hold fast to the main issues—

Length of Service and Quality of Service.

Firestone Tires are made in all approved styles or types, like leading makes of automobiles themselves. Take your choice.

But don't consider type or style as a virtue in itself. It is no indication of service-giving value.

Trueness of design, materials used, methods of building, care in workmanship and inspection—these are the factors which determine mileage and quality of service.

Firestone

NON-SKID or Smooth Tread Tires In All Standard Types

Remember that the leading tire, in every style, for length and quality of service is a Firestone tire.

And in demanding Firestones, you are sure not only of Most Miles Per Dollar of tire cost, but a quality of service which means other economies as well as greatest comfort and confidence.

The buoyant, gripping Firestone rubber insures perfect traction, no slipping or "spinning" of wheels—gasoline saved.

Again—the buoyant tread and cushion absorbs the little vibrations. Less strain on car mechanism—fewer repairs.

This quality of service, added to greatest mileage, has kept Firestone Tires far above competition for nearly fourteen years—with never an "off season."

This explains the large proportion of Firestone users, particularly among men who have owned cars for many years.

Avoid the stages of experiment. Specify or purchase Firestone Tires Now.

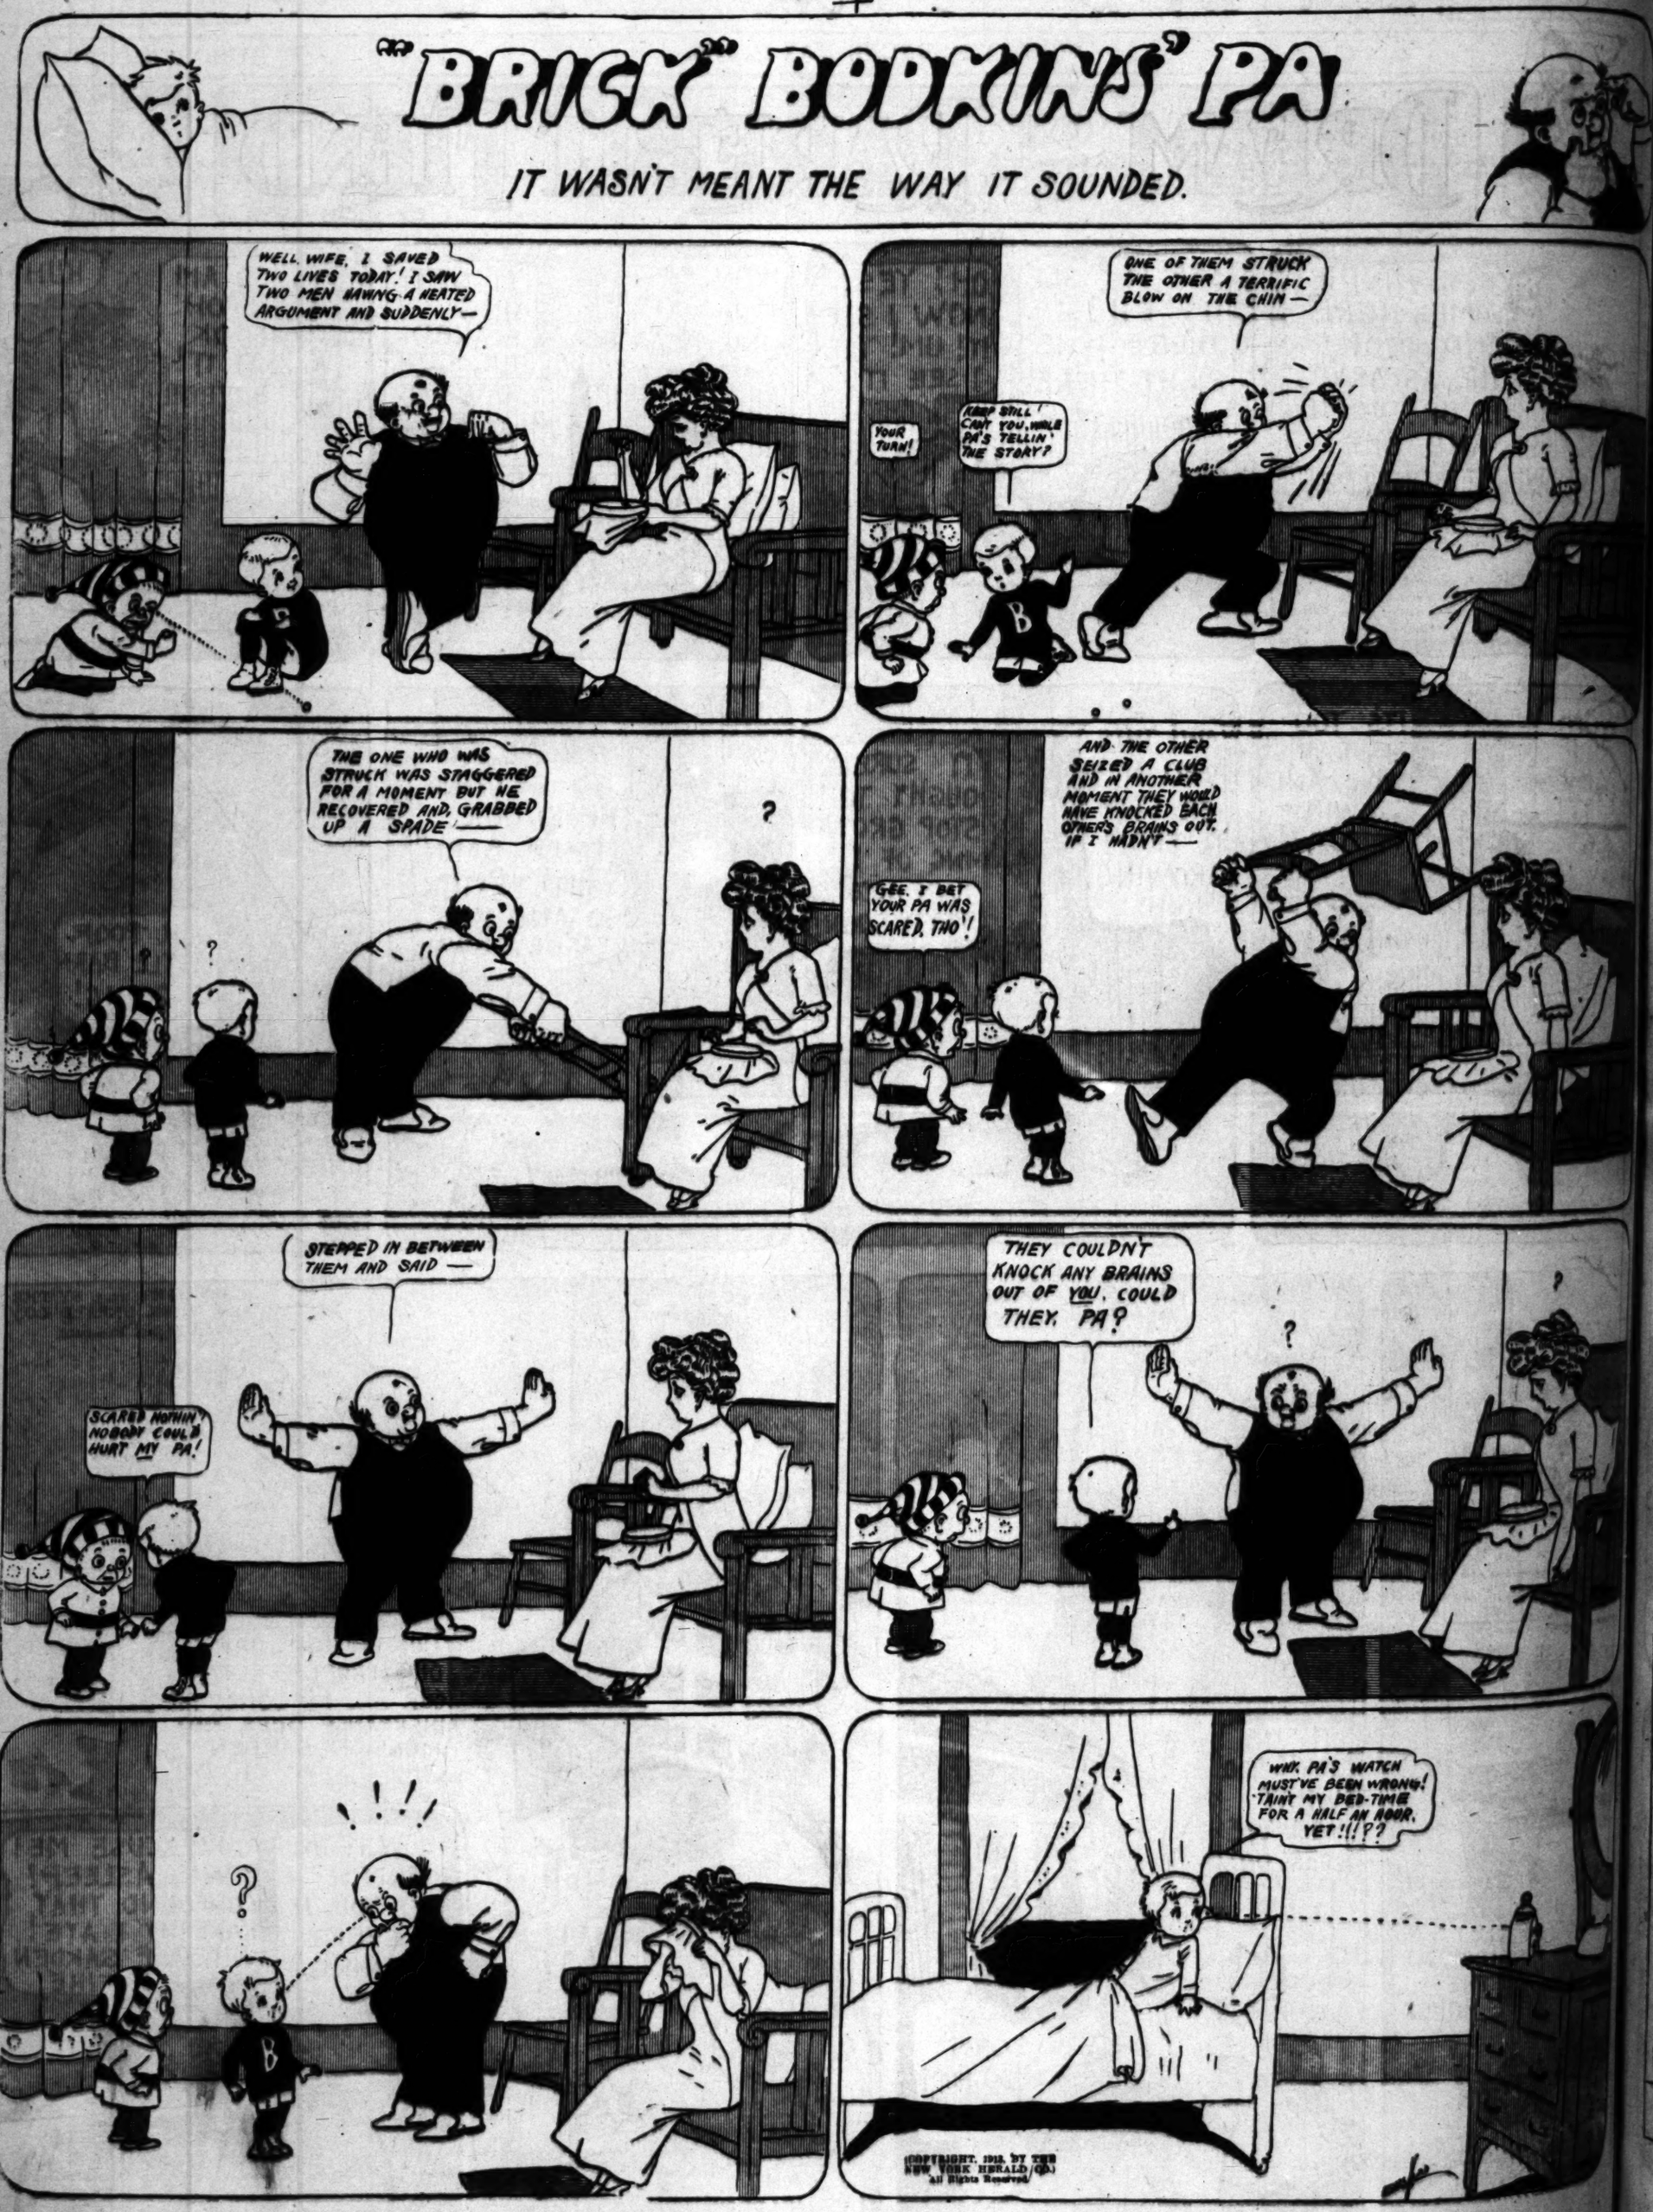
"BRICK" BODKIN'S PA

IT WASN'T MEANT THE WAY IT SOUNDED.



MR. TWEE DEEDLE.

1—One day Mr. Twee Deedle meets Dickie and Dolly playing with two stuffed ducks.

2—Mr. Twee Deedle tells the children he wishes them to go with him and see where the ducks came from.

3—He takes them to Mrs. Penelope Puddleduck's house and knocks at the door.

4—Mr. Twee Deedle asks Mrs. Puddleduck if she recognizes the little stuffed ducks. Mrs. Puddleduck cries and says they were two of a brood of ten cute little ducklets which she hatched.

5—Mr. Twee Deedle calls to two mice and two little gnomes who are passing and asks them to carry the little ducklets down to the meadow, where they can here two little graves among the flowers.

6—They put the little ducklets in a box and walk toward the meadow.

7—And before they reach the meadow they meet Doctor Giggle, with his bottle of magic medicine. When Mr. Twee Deedle tells him that men have taken thousands of ducklings and smothered them in a hot oven to sell for Easter Mr. Giggle puts some of the medicine on each of the duckies and they come to life.

8—The ducklets fly to their mother, and the children and all the little creatures who followed the procession are very happy. Dickie and Dolly say they will tell all their friends to refuse to accept little stuffed ducks and chicks as Easter presents.

DOLLY DIMPLE SEES MISTRESS MARY

"I'd like to see a person who can grow a garden—there!"
Says Dolly Dimple. "Mine won't grow with any sort of care."

"Just look at mine!" a voice replies, and Dolly, turning round,
Sees Mistress Mary, quite contrary, beside her on the ground.

And out of Dolly's storybook a wondrous garden springs.
"But those aren't flowers," Dolly says; "they're oyster shells and things!"

"They're silver bells and cockle shells and pretty maids, you know,"
Says Mistress Mary. "That's the way to have a garden grow."

But ah! a sudden shower comes. The maids begin to squeal.
"Quick, shut the book!" they say; "we'll all be drenched from head to heel!"

And Dolly laughs and says, "I wouldn't have, if I were you,
A flower bed that couldn't stand a drop or two of rain."

WHAT BRIDESMAIDS WILL WEAR and CARRY

Beaded Draped Chiffon and the Rose Parasol

The Silk Jacket on Lace with a Velvet Ribbon

Lace Trims Fine Mull

Of Chiffon and Blue Silk. The Muff Is New.

NEXT in importance to being a bride is the joy of being one of the wedding party, with a lovely frock that can be worn on other occasions, linking its modistic beauty to pleasurable memories. The bridesmaids are extremely important as a contributing factor in the general scheme of a wedding. Whether they march up the aisle of a church or form a group on a lawn or in the main hall of a home, they should make a colorful background for the white bride and by contrast add to her beauty. There is much favor accorded to the rainbow effect, each costume being in a different shade of the rainbow. Bridesmaids in groups of two are very effective. Of course, the hat should correspond with the gown. The variety in accessories is very pleasing. Flat baskets, bunches of flowers, high crooks, flower-trimmed parasols, muffs of fabric or flowers or scarfs of tulle or velvet are the latest innovations that are easily added and are undeniably effective.

But the dress is the thing on which so much depends. The maiden with the flat basket of flowers is wearing a frock of white chiffon which forms a single bodice and pleated underskirt. Silk bands over the shoulders give a touch of color, for the satin is repeated. This again is shown in the overskirt, which is knotted at the back, two straight ends falling down to the knees. A pointed band of lace trims the bodice, while intense pink cherry blossoms form a spray and cluster at the waist line. The hat is of white chiffon, pink morning-glories forming a wreath around the crown.

The muff is trimmed with valenciennes lace in the frock and may easily be copied. A bertha of deep lace trims the mull bodice, the sleeves of which are full, ending in ruffles to the elbow. The overskirt of mull is curved in front and edged with insertion and lace. Below this is shown a full skirt, with strips of lace which run down to the lower ruffle. Pink roses are carried, which match the flowers on the flat hat of brocade covered with mull.

In beautiful simplicity is the frock that has a muff of chiffon to complete the costume. Blue chiffon is crossed and draped over white satin. The sleeves are draped around a lace band and edged with pearls. At the waist line a cluster of forget me-nots and pink rosebuds gives the fashionable finish. Roses and forget-me-nots trim the draped muff. The hat is of pale-blue straw trimmed with the flowers used in the costume.

The lady with the parasol wears an exquisite frock of beaded chiffon, which is tied at each side, holding the pannier down in a straight line. A high waist line is shown. Bandings of silk rosebuds on pink baby ribbon outline the bib, the drapery and the waist line. The hat is of deep pink hemp. A simple band of ribbon and a buckle of silk and mousseline roses trim it. On the pink parasol pink roses are clustered, giving an important floral decoration to the costume.

The odd jacket dress is the last suggestion for bridesmaids. It could be of a different color for each one. This model comes from Poiret, that master of rich coloring. It is of deep ecru lace, the flounces applied in the upward curve so fashionable. White satin forms the underskirt, on the bottom of which is a broad band of yellow taffeta with clusters of gold-wrapped roses. The coatee is of canary-yellow taffeta. It has full sleeves and a decided fullness in the bodice, while the peplum is very short in front, curving down at the back. Ecru lace finishes the front and the sleeves. A black velvet streamer is caught at the jacket under roses. It slips over the wrist in a decorative line that no one but a French designer would have attempted. Gold and yellow flowers should be used on ecru straw for the hat.

Beauty in color, line and ornamentation combine to make effective costumes. Who can doubt it when this group stands ready for inspection?

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

THE DUTY OF THE WAGE EARNING CHILD.

A FEW weeks ago I printed on this page the letter of a young man who asked my opinion as to the justice of his family's expectation that he should contribute a large proportion of his wages toward their expenses. They had kept him at school past the legal requirement, and had made sacrifices to do this. He did not think, however, that their claim upon him was fair, and stated his case for the decision of others.

As you know, it is the invariable practice of the Corner to give both sides of a case a hearing. This is the custom I follow in printing the letters that have come in reply to the young man's presentation of his position. They vary in their view of the matter, and you will be interested, as I am, in learning what there is to be said for and against the theory that the children should contribute to the support of their parents.

The writer of the first letter takes a firm stand. He says:

"A few words to your young man who asks the Corner if he should be expected to contribute to the home fund after he is able to earn his own living.

"Being a young man myself, and the second child in a family of six children, three boys and three girls, I would like to ask the inquirer a few questions which will enable him to do a little thinking for himself.

"Is it any wonder that your parents don't own anything if they have raised a respectable family of five children and kept you in school until you were 19?

"Didn't they keep you looking about as well as the rest of the kids in your classes?

"Didn't your dad have several chances during your life to better his own financial condition if it had not been that he would rather keep the children in school?

"How many of the fellows in your crowd were permitted to stay in school as long as you did, and if you had been taken out of school the first time your parents needed your help in a financial way would you be competent to hold the position you speak of as paying a great deal more than the others are getting?

"Didn't it make you squirm a little to admit that your sisters were taking all their money home?

"Did a boy ever do anything for a father or mother that was not appreciated?

How One Boy Repaid.

"Suppose dad had taken your view of things and had 'looked out for number one' what kind of a fellow would you be?

"You want to save money for yourself and from the tone of your letter I would surmise that you are not far past 20. What do you figure on doing with your money? I'll venture the assertion that you either want to spend it on yourself or that you are paying attention to some young 'fluff-ruffles,' who has won your tender young heart and that you want to make her father believe you are able to take care of two.

"So long as all the children are helping I doubt if any of them expect you to take home all your money, but they have a right to expect your assistance in proportion to what you make.

"I'll give you a sketch of how I handled my own funds after leaving home to earn a living and it did not prove disastrous.

"Dad and mother sacrificed to keep us kids in school and give us all a high school education, and we all graduated.

"When I left home at the age of 18, I started out at $10 a month. Dad was making $800 a year, had to keep up appearances to hold his job, and still had to support the remaining seven of the family. He was $600 in debt for groceries and clothing which had gone through the stomachs and on the backs of six husky kids.

"For three months dad sent me $3 each pay day to make up my deficit. Next job paid me $25 and I sent home $5 of it. The next job paid $30 and dad received $7.50. The next was $50 and I sent home $20 of it. The next was $80 and dad got $30. Then I pulled down $160 and I managed nicely on $60 and saved part of it for myself.

"At the age of 25 I had helped the old folks out to the tune of $2,000 in cash, had $500 in the bank to get married on, and had an income of over $150 a month.

"Take my advice and give the folks at home at least half of what you make over and above what it costs you to live, until you are 25, if they need it that long, then think about a family of your own.

"The satisfaction of knowing that you have done your part will repay you a thousand fold for the few copecks which you have to give up toward the support of dad and mother. C. D."

Drop No. 1 for a Time.

This is a letter which rather restores belief in the possibility of filial devotion and loyalty. Here is another by one who looks at the matter from a similar viewpoint:

"By the young man's own admission he had been kept in school until 19 years old, and that in itself represents a great cost in actual money, not to mention years of toil and self denial endured by his parents, that he might obtain an education.

"If 'Young Man' will drop number one's interest and importance for the time being and cheerfully contribute practically all his earnings to the family purse, become unselfish—as he prescribes for the girls—and feel proud of the fact that he is able to help pay off the family debts, he will, in a measure, have repaid his parents for earlier hardship and earned a place among self-respecting citizens, whether his course will be appreciated by other members of his family or not. This has no bearing on his moral obligation. T. S."

A couple of other writers take the same line:

"Yes, 'Young Man,' if you would help at home, mother and father would appreciate your kindness. Parents always do, especially if they are in debt and don't own anything and if they kept you at school until 19 may certainly made some sacrifices. Now that you are in a position that they helped you gain you should feel grateful enough to aid them to pull out of debt. I don't think it is to your credit to have bills hanging over them that possibly were incurred to help keep you in school. To my mind children should help parents if they need it; if not, they should pay board. "M. H."

"Great sacrifices should be made to give children a good education and part of the education should be that they are to recompense their parents when through school. The case you gave of the small boy was pitiable, for his mother was illiterate and did not see the necessity of an education for her son. Children should be made to understand if their help is needed, and if so, it should be willingly conceded. They should have an allowance to spur them on and they should pay their board. L. M."

A Mother's View.

These are the most striking of the letters I have received taking the stand that children should do their share towards aiding their parents when the working life begins for the young people. Quite as vigorous on the other side is the letter I give next:

"Here is my answer to Young Man: The opinion of childless people does not count. I am the mother of two boys, who are here because of me. Believing that the soul has lived and will live on forever, I think that perhaps they were happier far in spheres ethereal, but I chose to bring them into this 'vale of tears,' consequently it is my duty to give them all in my power, to slave for them and to make their lives as pleasant and happy as possible.

"They owe me nothing, absolutely nothing. Not even the adopted child owes its parents anything. People, as a rule, do not adopt children because of largeness of heart for suffering humanity, but because their lives are lonely and they think that a child will brighten their homes.

"However, when my boys earn a competence they will have to pay board, not because they owe me for past plum puddings and apple dumplings, but to teach them the value of a five dollar bill—a branch of learning sadly needed by the modern youth. I have thought as I do on the subject for a long time and feel it afresh every time I hear a mother say to an erring child, 'That's the thanks I get for slaving for you!' Personally I love boys so much that I would lie and steal and commit threefold murder for them to save one hair on their heads, and if I knew today they would turn out ungrateful I would go on as I have before and work and pray and love them and slave for them and with my dying breath pray for their happiness, regardless of what they owed me and what they didn't pay! Mrs. L. N. P."

Teaching Her Boys to Be Selfish.

I am sorry for the woman who wrote that letter. She has something yet to learn about the best way to love her children. I do not say this because of her attitude towards the subject under discussion—the question as to whether or not a child should contribute to the support of his parents—but because the mother who makes a slave of herself to her sons and daughters is robbing them of a part of their development, which consists in self-sacrifice and self-denial.

The woman who says she would lie, or steal, or murder to save one hair on the heads of her boys cannot bring them to look at life in the right way, and is likely to send them out in the world with a false sense of their own importance, a lack of perception of morals or justice, and a great selfishness.

Another letter from which I have not space to quote at full length presents still another phase of the topic we are discussing. This time it is not from a parent, but from a sister.

"I am a working girl in a town [illegible] where each one must contribute to [illegible] the home. Last spring my younger brother graduated from the high school and determined to go away to college, as most of the other boys were planning to do in the fall. As it was principally my wages which had kept him at the high school, it fell to me, as a matter of course, to go right on and see him through college.

"I was anxious to give him the [illegible] yet I thought it was a good deal for [illegible] woman to continue to sacrifice a good [illegible] and also clothes and all the things [illegible] ing to youth when he had already had much better education than I could ever hope to have. Still I was expecting to go ahead and help him, when one day I mentioned my intention before a large group of girls. One of them said, 'Why, I [illegible] 'Don't do that. I would like to [illegible] one from doing as I did.'

"She then told me how, by economy and sacrifice, she had helped give her brother a liberal education, because she loved him and wanted him to have his chance, and by the time he was through college he was independent than those who had [illegible] unjustly treated and could never [illegible] get back any of the money they had put out.

"So I explained to my brother that if he expected to go to college he must have to plan some way to help himself, although I would help him through business college. He couldn't believe it at first and when he had to understand he was furious. He said I would spoil his life. Then when fall came and the [illegible] season opened he was just crazy to get wanted to get to college in time for the ball. But I couldn't see why he couldn't go to work as well as never and I left him out.

"He sulks all the time and says I have ruined his life and [illegible] with him. I wanted him to [illegible] through college, but he [illegible] said you can't do justice to your [illegible] and to athletics and if he couldn't go [illegible] he wouldn't go at all.

"So there is where we are. I [illegible] to feel guilty and selfish, but the girls in the office says she is worse of [illegible] before, as she has nothing for her [illegible] is growing older, and, worst of all, [illegible] disillusioned. E. L. K."

Is the matter settled to the satisfaction of the Cornerites? There is evidently a variety of opinion to give a fair choice of which is the right and who [illegible] follow.

For three months Dad sent me three dollars each pay day.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"I HAVE six children, four in school and the two youngest, aged 4 and 2, at home. Our home is considered a happy one and I'm often asked how I manage to have the children obey so perfectly and without question, and why they get along together without fussing, and why it is that I can have so much company and the children never give any trouble when they are told to wait at meal times, etc.

"I don't want you to think I am bringing up a horde of angels, for they are all healthy, normal children. But I want to ask you first if you think our training won't hold good when they are men and women and if there is a chance of their obedience being from fear.

"I must admit that my husband and I are old fashioned. We believe that if we spare the rod we spoil the child, and that a child left to itself will bring its parents to shame, and lots more in that line. I am trusting that if we train them up in the way they should go, when they are old they will not depart from it. If my husband and I differ about a point of discipline we never let the children know that we differ and they never appeal from one parent to the other. Will you tell me what you think the outcome will be?

"I think it is a great pity that as a rule children are so bad. They seem to do the controlling instead of the parents. Of course there are still exceptions, but I can't blame all the badness on the children, for they are largely what their parents make them. It seems a great pity for children to be allowed to grow up with such shocking disrespect for their elders and with bad manners generally. I believe that it is just as true that a child has a right to be well raised as to be well born, and we hear so much of the latter just now.

"My children and I are congenial. I give them good magazines and books and discuss all their little trials at school and outside with them. Nothing is too mysterious or too sacred for us to talk of together in reverence and I strive never to break a promise, whether it is for confectionery or for a punishment. I never whip one of them if I am angry or out of humor myself and there are many times when I would rather have it put on me than on the child. R. S. H."

I printed a good deal of your letter and I only wish I had space to put it all in. You ought to know, if you have followed the corner closely, that I hold firm ideas as to the necessity of teaching children absolute obedience and that I believe that when you train up a child in the way he should go, he is practically sure not to depart from it when he is older.

My theory is that children recognize and appreciate justice in a punishment and that if you are as strict in keeping your promise in benefits as you are in penalties they will have a respect and love for you that will last their lives through.

As I heard a mother say once, "I am strict in enforcing obedience with my children, I punish them severely when they deserve it, but all the time I just love them to death and they know it!" Mingle tenderness with your justice and they will believe in you.

Your account of the congeniality existing between your children and yourself is a pretty sure evidence that you are following a wise course with them. If more parents did the same there would be less trouble with unruly and disobedient youngsters.

Nice Things for Lunch Basket.

"I wish you would suggest some nice things to pack into a basket for lunch. It is for a basket lunch party, where the baskets are to be auctioned off.

"Mrs. X."

I have taken part in such basket lunches as these and know how attractive they can be made. At the church party where the first I shared took place each basket was packed for two, and they contained a variety of dainty dishes—chicken salad, lobster salad, salmon salad, tomato, and celery salad, jellied chicken or meat, tiny chicken pies, sandwiches, baked custards, jellies, blanc manges, cakes of all sorts, candies, and other delicacies which could be made in advance and did not have to be kept hot.

Under the cover of each basket was a knot of ribbon, and the mate to this was worn by the girl who packed the basket. The man who bought it sought her out, and the two ate their supper together. If any of our readers have further suggestions to make for such baskets I would be glad to get them.

Southern Stuffing.

"In reply to the request for cornmeal stuffing for roast turkey I send mine, which is considered fine by those who have used it. The secret of success lies in measuring the soda just to suit the acid in the milk. I never put sage in turkey dressing, for I think it spoils the flavor of the turkey.

"Crumble up fine equal quantities of light cornbread and light rich biscuit; add one cup chopped onion and one of chopped celery, black pepper, and salt to taste. Mix the dressing moist with the liquor in which were boiled the giblets—the neck, liver, gizzard, and surplus fat—making it into a soft dough. Stuff turkey with this and bake to a good brown; a quart of oysters may be added to the stuffing or a little butter, if this is needed.

"To make the cornbread for stuffing take one quart cornmeal, two cups buttermilk, one scant teaspoon soda, three eggs, half cup lard, one teaspoon baking powder, salt to taste. Bake in a loaf, like a cake, for about forty-five minutes.

"Biscuit for stuffing takes one quart flour, one cup buttermilk, one level teaspoon soda, lard the size of an egg, one teaspoon baking powder, salt at discretion.

Although I called a halt a while ago on recipes for cornmeal stuffing I am breaking my resolution in favor of this direction. It comes from Alabama and is therefore essentially southern; it makes no mention of parboiling the turkey, and in other respects differs from any other recipe which has appeared for this dressing. It ought to make uncommonly good eating, and I am glad to make room for it.

"Please tell me if there is any way to use sandwiches that are left in a lunch basket. My husband and children take their lunch every day, the children to school and my husband to work, and some days they leave almost all of their sandwiches uneaten. So far I have not been able to get them used up, except by feeding them to the chickens, and that is a waste. N. B. H."

Have you ever tried toasting them or frying them in a little hot butter and serving them as a sort of a side dish at supper or breakfast? Or you may take the filling from them and add it to a mince or hash, and toast or fry the bread to put under stews or minces. If you wrap the sandwiches in waxed paper they will not dry out so much and might be used even the day after they are made, unless the filling is too moist. Can any other housekeepers offer suggestions for disposing of these leftovers? I agree with the correspondent in thinking it waste of time and material to make sandwiches and then feed them to the poultry.

Rich and Wholesome Cookies.

"About twenty years ago a Jewish woman gave me a recipe for what she called 'confinement cookies,' which I have since then lost. I would like much to make some now, but cannot remember all of the ingredients. The cookies are rich and wholesome and are good for any one that is ill or convalescent. All I can remember about making them is that hard boiled eggs, grated, and a glass of good brandy [illegible] in the making, and [illegible] these are [illegible] cookies I write to you hoping some one may know what I mean and be able to enlighten me.

These cookies are entirely [illegible] me, and I shall await the answer to E. K.'s query with much interest and curiosity. The information she wants is pretty sure to come, for we have many Hebrews among our readers and some of them is likely to see this request and reply to it.

For the Guestroom

THE housewife who is interested in her home and desires to have it a homelike makes many articles to contribute beauty and comfort to her guestroom.

The bureau and dressing table should be well supplied with everything which the visitor may need. Do not provide the cheap pincushion, glovebox or sewing which cannot be freshly laundered after the departure of each guest, as silk or chiffon covers are lovely, but extremely impractical.

An attractive glove case can be made from a piece of white linen fourteen inches square.

Divide the side in three equal sections and fold the end down over to resemble the flap of an envelope. On this make a neat design and round the corners, scalloping the edge.

Whipstitch the two side sections together and hem the top side, using [illegible] stitching to hold it in place. Embroider the scallops and design with [illegible] mercerized cotton or silk of a color to match the predominating tone used in the room.

Print the word "gloves" on the top flap and pad the letters with white [illegible] cotton, with stitches running [illegible] length of the letters. Cover this [illegible] stitches at right angles with the [illegible] padding.

Beneath the scallops whipstitch a frill of narrow valenciennes lace, and this [illegible] the envelope of white linen to [illegible] gloves.

Two small circular pincushions are [illegible] and practical for the dressing [illegible]

For the fashion one of these, take two circular pieces of white linen, one four and [illegible] inches in diameter and the other six. Scallop the edges and finish with buttonhole stitches.

On the smaller circle stamp a simple [illegible] combining punched work and [illegible] embroidery. One pretty design has a [illegible] background done in punched [illegible] with Brazilian reeds embroidered [illegible] around the edge. A row of [illegible] punched work is then embroidered [illegible] and an inch and a half [illegible] from the scallops of the [illegible] and at your command [illegible] of the cornerites has a better method [illegible] this I would like to hear of it [illegible] for the benefit of us all. A BULGARIAN COLLAR designed by Betty Lynne

The Design

IN LINE with the emphasis which fashion has placed on Bulgarian styles in dress comes the same note in accessories, and here is a collar to be worked on heavy or sheer linen, scrim or net with bright colors. It is particularly good with a plain linen frock or with a white voile blouse. The bright tones are oriental in contrast and can be as varied as you wish. They can also be worked in one tone if you prefer to carry out a color scheme of a dress.

Let us begin with darning cotton to pad the conventional forms. Use long stitches and finish a section of the design before beginning to sew in the easy over-and-over stitch. Use a soft untwilled thread, which fills in quickly, and decide on your color scheme before starting.

The blues, greens and reds—all in bright tones—are favored for this design. If you wish blue to predominate, make the red in the small crescents and shield at the corners and in the small ovals at the back. Blue in one or two shades can then be used for the rest of the design. A touch of gold or yellow can be given by outlining both the blue and red forms or by sprinkling French knots over the surface.

The whole design is effective in solid work, but an outlining with black and a filling in with colors is a clever idea which has been used by many embroiderers with much satisfaction. Be sure to get a black thread that will wash and then, to make assurance doubly sure, try it in soap and water.

Some effective collars have a relief of filet or lace placed as a backing for the design. In the motifs at the sides, between fronts and back, this can be done easily, for there is a continuous double outline around a crescent shape. This inner crescent can be filet and the double line can be worked solid in wallachian stitch or regular over-and-over stitch, the center being cut away afterward. The shield and oval in the center of the back can also be filled in with lace if you like this relief.

A contrast of bright colors is the effect that most decidedly carries out the Bulgarian idea. Gray with bright blue and red is good; pinks and blues, yellows in different shades with brown and gray, or pale green with vivid greens and blues make stunning combinations.

The scallops should be in one tone after padding with darning cotton. Buttonhole-stitching a second time will prevent fraying, and this is especially suggested for a collar that will visit the laundry frequently.

I suggested white at the beginning of my talk. This design is just as effective on colored linen or voile if you are making a dress which needs a collar of the same material. The fact that cuffs are not here shown need not deter you from attempting to trace parts of the design on patterns cut out. Be sure to have most of the design on the upper part of the cuff. Put just a few scrolls on the lower section.

You can make the collar and cuffs adjustable by sewing on a band of lawn one-half inch wide when doubled and stitched. In this way you can remove the collar when washing the blouse.

This design done in bright colors on black, gray or ecru net is beautiful. It needs no washing and gives fashionable and artistic contrast to any color beneath.

I hope that you have success with this design. Remember that although it is for a collar, there are many ways of using it. A circular yoke can be transferred to a bodice, with a continuation down the front made by adding a motif below the center strip. Bands can be applied down the shoulder line over each sleeve and a belt can be decorated with a part of the design made to resemble a buckle. With one little design, you see how much can be done if you will twist and turn a pattern to suit your needs. Good luck to you.

Jacobean Embroidery

THE needleworkers of the present are favoring the methods used to produce the exquisite antique embroideries, so we have those who are striving to reproduce the old tapestries; others who are equally interested in Richelieu or mosaic embroideries; and the latest addition to the list of revivals in needlecraft is the Jacobean embroidery.

There is nothing more interesting to the needleworker than to thoroughly study the needlecraft of the past. Gain a knowledge of the styles prevailing at different periods and master, as far as possible, the methods adopted by the embroiderers of other days. This does not mean that you need to cramp any originality you happen to possess; fuller knowledge of ancient needlework tends to widen your variety of expression and gives a greater scope to originality.

The name Jacobean is applied to the wool embroidery done in the Tudor days and also to the crewel work of the eighteenth century.

These characteristics distinguish it: On a plain background is embroidered conventional flower, fruit or animal designs, introducing an almost endless variety of stitches in outlining and filling.

Many brilliant colors are combined, the blues, greens, reds and blacks predominating, while yellow, purple and dull rose are next in favor.

Portieres and covers are bordered with this embroidery, while squares of the artistic work are used to cover stools and settees of the Jacobean period. When selecting the material for the background, choose a hand-woven linen of a mellow cream or parchment tone. If this is not procurable, purchase machine-made linen of a coarse texture. Tapestry wools or crewels are the materials required for the embroidery, and they come in many lovely shades. Rich indigo, powder blue, russet, green, brown, yellow, red, old rose and pale orange are frequently combined with successful results.

Some designs can be worked with just blues or in a combination of blues and greens.

The outline stitches are the stem, crewel or featherstitch, and those used for filling in are chainstitch, long-and-short stitch, satin stitch, double-back stitch and knot stitch.

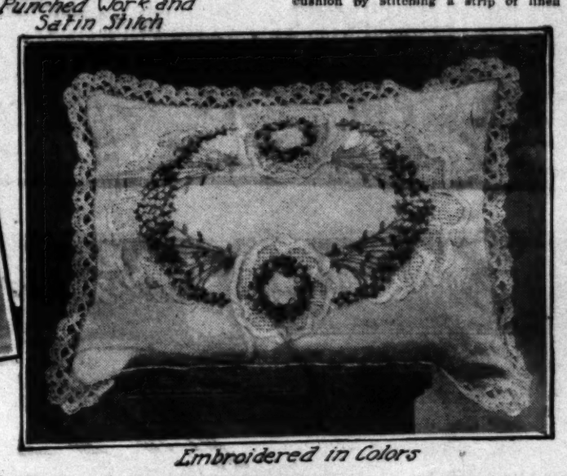
You will find the crewel embroidery unusually fascinating, so make a study of it and then embroider some examples of Jacobean stitchery.

THE SUMMER PILLOW

The Outline Stitch Used

Punched Work and Satin Stitch

Trimmed with Fringe



Embroidered in Colors

THE ambitious needlewoman always desires to have an artistic collection of washable covers for her pillows during the summer. The art needlework shops are displaying many new and attractive designs. The background used is either white or cream linen of a medium coarse weave, and most of the embroidery is done with colors of the paler tints.

One of the loveliest pillows displayed can easily be duplicated if you are familiar with punched work and the so-called satin stitch. The clusters and wreaths of tiny blossoms are done with tones of rose silk, shading from the palest pink to the deepest rose.

Do not pad the petals and run the stitches lengthwise. A large French knot is used to form the center of each flower. Use shades of green for the stems and foliage.

Punched work is used to form an effective background for the wreaths and clusters of flowers and the scroll-like frames are done in the long-and-short stitch with white silk thread.

After stitching the back and front of the cover together, border it with a narrow edging of cluny lace, whipstitching it to the linen.

Delft blue and white always is an effective combination, and a pretty pillow cover can be made on a background of cream linen by working the design with blue.

The pillow pictured here has a medallion center, formed of dots worked solidly with a deep shade of delft blue. Surrounding this are conventionally shaped flowers, and these should be embroidered with an outline stitch in tones of delft blue. Work the centers solid with a dark tone of blue. Framing the entire design is a row of dots, and these should be embroidered to match the center medallion. Finish the edge of the pillow with braid made of cream-colored twine. This can be purchased at the upholstery department of any store.

Particularly effective is the pillow embroidered to represent a cameo.

The head is embroidered with white silk in solid and outline stitch. Punched work is used for the background, against which the head appears in bold relief. Embroider the frame of flowers in tones of pink and the foliage in green. In each corner are motifs done with punched work and satin stitch. To the edge of the pillow whipstitch a border of cluny lace.

Against a background of deep cream linen is embroidered a conventional design with cream and black silk.

Use the plain satin stitch for the design and outline each motif with black silk.

An unusual touch is added to this cushion by stitching a strip of linen fringe across the lower bar of the center motif.

Here is a worthy quartet of summer pillows. Duplicate them for your home.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you start to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. The latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

THE SMARTEST FASHIONS of WELL DRESSED FOLK

THE MITE BAZAAR

THE summer months afford ample opportunity for giving bazaars on the church or home lawn for sweet charity's sake. Here is a suggestion for a "Mite Bazaar," where every woman contributes her mite, consisting of clothing, needlework or candy—nothing is too valueless, for each article finds a ready sale.

This collection of afternoon frocks is worthy of your attention, for all are excellent examples of the successful adaptation of wash materials.

The model of dull-blue linen is charming and emphasizes simplicity of line and trimming. Linen forms the lower portion of the bodice and the skirt, while the guimpe is fashioned of white swiss embroidered with blue. Deep cuffs of linen finish the full sleeves.

A smart little hat of blue straw trimmed with an ostrich quill completes this costume.

The lilac-colored gown is of batiste, with bands of ecru batiste embroidery adorning the bodice. A girdle of black satin defines the waist line.

The close-fitting turban worn with this frock is of violet straw and satin. A fantaisie of osprey trims the side.

The friend holding the frock of blue flowered chintz wears a lovely costume of tan-colored linen, with a bolero following the Russian blouse lines. The fronts separate to disclose a vest effect of sheer white linen, and the broad hemstitched collar is of the same material. A row of covered buttons extends from the waist to the hem of the plain skirt. A note of color is contributed to the toilette by the dainty hat of leghorn with a shirred crown and loops of pink silk. A wreath of tiny flowers encircles the crown.

The two gowns in the background are of rose and pale-blue linen, the former being trimmed with insertion of embroidery and the latter with lace.

Warm days are fast approaching, so supply your wardrobe with tub frocks to meet their demands.
